Volume 10, Number 2

Charles L. Watson

Coastal to name baseball stadium in memory of Charles L. Watson

Coastal's Board of Trustees has approved naming the university's baseball stadium in memory of the late Charles Lee Watson. Watson's family also has established a CINO (Coastal Is Number One) Club endowed student-athlete scholarship in his memory. The CINO Club is the university's athletic booster organization.

The baseball stadium, to be named the Charles L. Watson Stadium, will be dedicated prior to the Chanticleers' April 15 doubleheader with Winthrop University scheduled to begin at noon.

Watson, a native of Horry County, was a 1957 graduate of Conway High School. Following service in the U.S. Army, he attended Coastal Carolina College and later received a bachelor's degree in 1968 from the University of South Carolina. In 1972 he received a juris doctor degree from the USC Law School and received CPA designation in 1982. Watson practiced law in Conway from 1972 until his death in 1998. He also was a real estate developer.

Watson taught business law courses at Coastal and was a supporter of the CINO Club. He served on the Board of Visitors of the E. Craig Wall Sr. School of Business Administration.

He also was founder of the Conway High School Education Foundation and established the Watson Scholarship Fund at Conway High School.

Coastal to host Film in the Humanities Symposium

Coastal will host "Film in the Humanities Symposium" Feb. 17 to 20 in conjunction with the Celebration of Inquiry Conference, a unique academic conference created in 1999 by Coastal faculty, staff and students. During the three-day conference, scheduled for Feb. 16 to 18, regular classes will be redirected to more than 150 conference sessions led by faculty, students and staff.

The symposium, intended to explore and promote the various uses of film in the humanities, will bring a number of highly distinguished filmmakers and film scholars to the Coastal campus.

The following filmmakers and scholars will be participating:

- Orlando Bagwell is a filmmaker and executive producer of Africans in America: America's Journey through Slavery, an acclaimed six-hour PBS series first broadcast in 1998. He is founder and president

Stegall to perform recital at Coastal

Pianist Gary Miles Stegall, assistant professor of piano and music history at Coastal, will perform from the works of Scarlatti, Beethoven, Janacek and Chopin on Sunday, January 30 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium on the Coastal campus. The concert is free and open to the public.

Stegall has performed throughout the United States and Europe, having given solo recitals at such venues as St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London; the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.; the American Church in Paris; and the Font-Neuve Festival, Montauroux, France. During the 2001 season, Stegall will perform concerts at major European cities including London, Paris and Geneva.

As a chamber musician, he has appeared at the Piccolo Spoleto Festival, USA; as resident pianist for the South Carolina

Chamber Orchestra Soloists; and frequently as guest artist with the dePasquale String Quartet of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Stegall has appeared as piano soloist with such orchestras as the Los Angeles Solo Repertory Orchestra, the Washington (D.C.) Metropolitan Orchestra, the Charleston Symphony, and the South Carolina Philharmonic Orchestra.

As a Rotary International Scholar, Stegall completed music studies in Belgium and France. He is consulted regularly as an authority on the music of Belgian composer Joseph Jongen.

Stegall, who spends his summers as a member of the faculty of the Font-Neuve School of Music in Montauroux, France, earned a bachelor's degree from the North Carolina School of the Arts, a master's degree from the University of South Carolina, a doctoral degree from the

Gary Miles Stegall

University of Maryland, and the Diplome/1st prize with grand distinction from the l'Academie de musique de Boitsfort in Brussels, Belgium.

of ROJA Productions, a Boston-based independent film and television production company. He produced and directed Frederick Douglass: When the Lion Wrote History which aired on PBS, and co-produced the critically acclaimed feature-length documentary Malcolm X: Make It Plain for PBS's The American Experience. Bagwell is creator of the Civil Rights Video Wall, a permanent exhibit for the Simon Wiesenthal Center's Museum of Tolerance. As executive vice president for Blackside, Inc., he supervised the production of the PBS series The Great Depression, and produced two episodes of the celebrated PBS documentary "Eyes On The Prize."

- Catherine Benamou is a film scholar and producer who teaches culture, film and video studies at the University of Michigan. She has published articles and reviews in Afterimage, Cahiers du Cinema, Cineaste and Discourse. In 1993 she was associate producer and senior research executive on the documentary, It's All True: Based on an unfinished film by Orson Welles, released through Paramount.

- Alicia Borinski teaches comparative literature at Boston University. She is a literary and film scholar, fiction writer, and poet. Her recent novels include Dreams of the Abandoned Seducer and Mina Cruel. She has published extensively in Spanish and English in the United States, Latin America and Europe. She has held visiting professorships at Harvard University and Washington University in St. Louis.

- Pedro Cuperman teaches cinema and Latin American literature at Syracuse University. He co-authored the art books Tango (1991) with Nancy Graves, and Go East to Go West (1993) with Izhar Patkin. His recent book, Diario de Viaje, was released by Scholastic in 1996 and subsequently adopted by the School Board of the State of California.

- Regina Harrison is director of the comparative literature program at the University of Maryland. Her Signs, Songs, and Memory in the Andes: Translating Quechua Language and Culture received the first Katherine Singer Kovacs Book Prize from the Modern Language Association in 1991 and also was awarded prizes from the Latin American Studies Association and the New England Council of Latin American Studies. Harrison's current project is a video on ethno-tourism and the representation of indigenous people in Ecuador.

- William Richter is chair of the Department of Communication and Theatre at Lenoir-Rhyne College. He is a national committee member and chapter advisor for the Lenoir-Rhyne College Chapter of the International Television Association. The chapter is host of the Crystal Awards, a student video competition for North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

- Owen Shapiro is director of the film program at Syracuse University. He also is an award-winning independent experimental filmmaker. Among his films are Thomas Szasz and The Myth of Mental Illness and And Many Happy Returns, which won first prize at the Athens International Festival and The Jewish Video Festival.

Coastal to use World Wide Web for Continuing Education Program

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services has been awarded a grant by South Carolina Partnership for Distance Education for a project entitled "Web + Party Line." The project will use the World Wide Web and group audio teleconferencing to develop and deliver continuing education courses for nearly 8,000 human services professionals in South Carolina seeking re-licensure and/or recertification.

"Many human services workers, in South Carolina and around the country, work under serious budget constraints," said Peter Balsamo, project director and dean of extended learning and public services at Coastal. "Time off to attend needed re-certification or continuing education programs is more difficult to come by than in the past."

Coastal will offer four 12-hour courses on-line and through audio teleconferences. The non-credit courses have been designed for social workers, licensed professional counselors, certified addiction counselors and national certified counselors. Courses are scheduled to begin on

World Wide Web

Monday, April 10 and continue through Wednesday, May 31. Registration deadline for all courses is Friday, March 24.

Participants can access the course material from any location that is equipped with the World Wide Web browser. Coastal has access to the high quality telephone conferencing system provided through South Carolina ETV. Registered participants will dial a toll-free number and be connected through the ETV Bridge for live group audio conferences.

"This program will eliminate problems of access and availability and provide flexibility and convenience for quality continuing education programs aimed at helping professionals in South Carolina," Balsamo said. "The program will serve as a prototype for other professional groups that are mandated to pursue continuing education for certification/licensure."

Instructors for the courses are Joan Clark and Stacy Cretzmeyer. Clark is a clinical social worker and college level instructor. She is nationally certified as a master addictions counselor and a certified employee assistance professional. Cretzmeyer is a licensed professional counselor, a national certified counselor and an approved civil court mediator. She also is coordinator of the Women's Advocacy Center at Coastal's Counseling Services Center.

For more information, contact Trenna Page-Metts in the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2694.

Lunch and Learn program to focus on books by faculty/staff members

Coastal's Lunch and Learn program for spring 2000 will focus on books by Coastal's faculty and staff. Enjoy a catered lunch ($16 per person) and join in the lively discussions as faculty and staff members discuss their works and how they came to be. All programs will be held in the Coastal's Admissions Building 003, beginning at noon.

The first session, scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 26, will feature Charles Joyner, Burroughs Distinguished Professor of Southern History and Culture at Coastal. Joyner will talk about his book Shared Traditions: Southern History and Folk Culture, which examines how the South's history and traditions were shaped by European, African and Native American influences.

Other Lunch and Learn programs scheduled for spring 2000 include:

- Feb. 16: Stacy Cretzmeyer of Coastal's Office of Counseling Services, author of

Your Name Is Renee: Ruth Kapp Hartz's Story As a Child in Nazi-occupied France.

- March 1: Richard Collin, professor of politics, author of Contessa and The Man With Many Names.
- March 22: Billy Hills, associate professor of psychology, author of An Hour to Kill, Murder and Justice in a Small Southern Town.

For more information, or to register, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2665 or check the Web site: coastal.edu/learn.

Evening program meets educational needs of adults in the Grand Strand area

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services will conduct information sessions regarding two bachelor's degree programs which will be offered evenings in Myrtle Beach beginning fall 2000.

The degrees offered are: bachelor of science degree in business administration-management; and either a bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree in interdisciplinary studies.

The information sessions, scheduled for Feb. 3, Feb. 17 and March 2, will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Myrtle Beach Convention Center. The sessions will include general information about the programs and courses offered as well as guidelines for applying and enrolling. Application deadline for fall 2000 semester is March 17.

The new evening offering is based on the results of a feasibility study which Coastal conducted to determine the educational needs of adults in the Grand Strand area. Results of the recently completed study show that many working adults would like to finish their degree if evening classes are offered in Myrtle Beach.

A total of 2,000 surveys were distributed through 19 local companies. According to survey results, 88 percent indicate that a college degree is important for advancing within their job or career. A total of 57 percent have already earned 16 or more college credits, and 52 percent live along the Grand Strand.

"The survey validates the fact that individuals working along the Grand Strand are interested in pursuing higher education," said Trenna Page-Metts, director of programming for academic outreach. "The evening format will allow individuals with full-time day jobs to earn a degree. Students will be individually advised and assisted throughout this course of study."

Students with approximately 60 credit hours who enroll in the program can expect to complete their degree within three years. The evening program will primarily offer upper level courses. Lower level courses needed for completion could be taken through distance education programs or Horry-Georgetown Technical College.

For more information, contact Page Metts in the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2694.

Kids@Coastal program offers Saturday youth activities

Coastal Notes

Color Copies

In late December, Coastal leased a Pitney Bowes color copier. This machine is located in the Printing Services Department (CSER 101) and will be operated primarily by Jeanne Turner. Prices will be 80 cents per copy for campus departments and Coastal employees with a maximum of 50 pages; and $1 per copy for community members with a maximum of 50 pages. For more information, contact Printing Services at 349-2921.

W-2 Forms

In the past, Coastal has issued W-2 forms for the previous year with the Jan. 15 payroll checks. Beginning this year, W-2 forms will not be issued until
