2000 Coastal Economic Conference to be held April 6

The 2000 Coastal Economic Conference will be held April 6 from 2 to 5 p.m. in Coastal's Wall Auditorium. The conference topic will be "The Past, Present and Future of Doing Business on the Grand Strand." The event is free and open to the public. Participants may pre-register by calling the Wall School of Business at 349-2071.

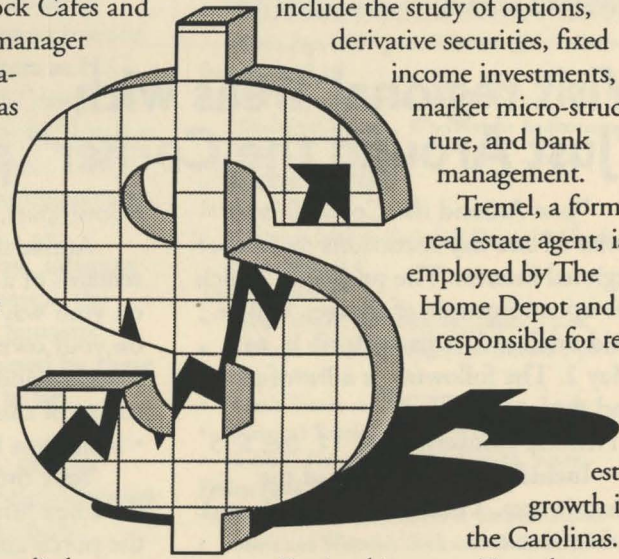

The four-member panel includes: Maxine Clark, chief executive for The Build-A-Bear Workshop of St. Louis; Brad Dean, chief financial officer, Myrtle Beach Area Chamber of Commerce; Thomas Secrest, director, Center for Economic and Community Development, Coastal Carolina University; and Chuck Tremel, real estate manager, The Home Depot, Atlanta.

Clark is considered one of the pioneers of America's retail industry. As president of Payless Shoe Source from 1992 to 1996 she developed the shoe retailer into the world's number-one seller of licensed children's footwear. Since 1996 she has focused her talents on launching Build-A-Bear Workshop, a teddy bear-themed store which allows children to create their own bears on an interactive assembly line.

Dean's background includes working with General Electric, where he worked his way to the position of controller for a $60 million manufacturing operation. He was also employed with Rank Organization as a senior financial analyst and worked closely with its Hard Rock Cafe division. In 1995 he assisted with the financial analysis of several potential markets for new Hard Rock Cafes and was later named general manager of the Myrtle Beach operation. He currently serves as chief financial officer of the Myrtle Beach Area Chamber of Commerce.

Secrest is an assistant professor of economics and director of the Center for Economic and Community Development at Coastal. The center is a bridge between Coastal and the community, providing faculty and students with opportunities to conduct applied research for local business and government agencies. Secrest's research interests include the study of options, derivative securities, fixed income investments, market micro-structure, and bank management. Tremel, a former real estate agent, is employed by The Home Depot and is responsible for real estate growth in the Carolinas. During his career, Tremel, a graduate of Indiana University, has sold both residential and commercial properties.

Coastal's Women's Cross Country Named Academic All-American Team

For the fourth consecutive year, Coastal's women's cross country team has been named an Academic All-American Team by the Women's Intercollegiate Cross Country Coaches Association. This year, the Lady Chanticleers made the list "With Distinction" as the student-athletes on the squad combined for a 3.54 grade point average.

Coastal's 3.54 grade point average ranked seventh nationally out of the 317 institutions which sponsor NCAA Division I women's cross country. The top-10 programs were: Belmont (3.78), Southwest Missouri State (3.77), Nebraska (3.68), Western Michigan (3.66), Northern Arizona (3.60), Xavier (Ohio) (3.57), Coastal Carolina (3.54), Duquesne (3.53), Butler (3.52) and Minnesota (3.52).

A program must have at least a 3.00 grade point average to be named an Academic All-American Team and must maintain at least a 3.25 GPA to receive the honor "With Distinction."

Visit regional areas with "Just Around the Corner" program

"Just Around the Corner," is a series of one-day excursions to areas of regional interest. The programs, which are open to people of all ages, will be held on Tuesdays from April 11 to May 2. The following is a list of places and dates:

- Historic Conway, April 11, fee: $35
Includes a guided tour of the historic area, a chicken bog lunch and a riverboat tour.
- Mullins Tobacco Museum/tobacco farm, April 18, fee: $35

Visit a working tobacco farm and explore the Mullins Tobacco Museum. Participants will also enjoy a farm-style meal.

- Southport, N.C., April 25, fee: $20
Amble through the archeological remains of a pre-Revolutionary village on your way to Southport. Enjoy lunch on your own and tour the maritime museum and explore the shops and streets of this quaint seaport.
- Hampton Plantation, May 2, fee: $20
Tour the 18th-century mansion, eat a box lunch under the oaks or on the porch and spend the afternoon at Sewee Environmental and Educational Center in Charleston County.

For more information, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2665.

Author David Zinman featured in "Lunch and Learn" program

Coastal's next Lunch and Learn program will feature author David Zinman, who will discuss a play he is writing based on his book, The Day Huey Long Was Shot. The program will be held Wednesday, April 12 in Coastal's Admissions Building 003, beginning at noon. Cost for the event is $16, which includes a catered lunch.

Zinman's play is a courtroom drama inspired by events surrounding the assassination of the infamous Louisiana politician Huey Long in 1935. A former staff writer for Newsday, Zinman is director of the Chautauqua Classic Film Series at the famous upstate New York cultural center. He is also author of 50 Classic Films.

For more information, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2665.

Internet-based courses available

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services is offering a series of Internet-based courses for professional counselors. Continuing education credits earned through these courses will apply toward licensure and re-certification. The course format combines the World Wide Web and audio teleconferencing. The registration fee for each course is $30.

The following courses will be offered:

- Narrative Approaches in Counseling Women and Girls – April 3 to 28; Required conference calls: Thursdays, April 6, 13 and 27 from 5 to 6 p.m.
- Barriers to Successful Treatment: Why Won't They Get Well? – May 1 to May 26; Required conference calls: Sundays, May 7, 14 and 21 from 5 to 6 p.m.
- Adlerian Approaches for Counseling Families – May 8 to June 2; Required conference calls: Thursdays, May 11, 18 and 25 from 5 to 6 p.m.

Course material may be accessed from any location equipped with a World Wide Web browser. Registered participants will be provided with a toll-free number for the one-hour telephone conference call which are scheduled once each week during each course. The unique course delivery format has been designed to provide flexible instruction for counselors who work full time.

Course instructors are Joan Clark and Stacy Cretzmeyer. Clark is a clinical social worker and college-level instructor. She is nationally certified as a master addictions counselor and a certified employee assistance counselor. Cretzmeyer is a licensed professional counselor, a national certified counselor and an approved civil court mediator. She is coordinator of the Women's Advocacy Center in Coastal's Counseling Services Center.

Coastal Carolina Theater Production stages Dario Fo farce Can't Pay? Won't Pay!

Grand Strand theatergoers have a rare opportunity to experience the unusual comic mind of Nobel Prize-winning Italian playwright Dario Fo thanks to the Coastal Carolina University Theater production of Can't Pay? Won't Pay!, scheduled for Friday, April 14 and Saturday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m.; and on Sunday, April 16 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $10; $5 for students under age 18. Coastal students, faculty and staff admitted free with Coastal I.D.

Fo's approach to theater is a unique combination of comedic improvisation and radical politics. Born in 1926 in rural Italy, Fo was fascinated as a child by the troupes of itinerant actors who roamed the countryside performing skits which lampooned the ruling classes – a centuries-old tradition of anti-authoritarian protest. Adapting this tradition to the modern stage, Fo's plays poke irreverent fun at the social and religious platitudes of the establishment.

Although Fo, who received the 1997

Nobel Prize for Literature, is immensely popular in Italy and Europe, his work is seldom produced in America. An unreconstructed Marxist, Fo relentlessly attacks the rich and powerful and extols the working class. As a result of his uncompromising stance, vividly communicated through his plays, Fo has been arrested, sued for slander and blasphemy, and threatened with murder by political enemies. In 1973, his wife, left-wing politician Franca Rame, was kidnapped and raped by neo-fascists.

Can't Pay? Won't Pay!, like all of Fo's plays, has an open-ended structure which invites performers to add topical material from their own place and time," says David Millard, director of the production. As a nod toward Fo's own method of inserting vaudeville and circus elements such as mimes, magic and juggling into his work, the Coastal production will offer karaoke before and after the show, according to Millard.

Schedule of Classes Available on Web

Coastal's Master Schedule of Classes is now available on the university's Web site and Intranet. The intranet version (was.coastal.edu/intracoastal) lists all information on courses as well as seats available and seats taken.

The Internet version can be accessed at www.coastal.edu/pages/subacadm.htm and has the same information except that the status is listed as OPEN or CLOSED.

Both sites use a realtime file exported from Datatel every three minutes. This information should be very useful to students and faculty for course planning and advising.

DUI mock checkpoint a success

Coastal's Department of Law Enforcement and Safety recently conducted a mock DUI checkpoint on campus with officers from Horry and Florence counties.

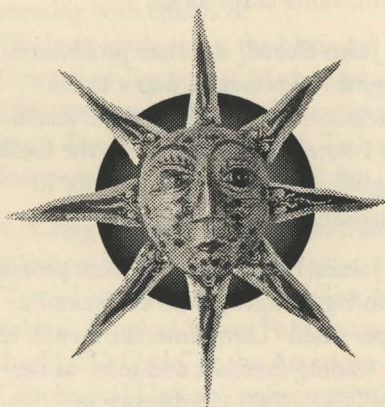

The purpose of the checkpoint was to demonstrate the latest technology for determining DUI and DWI.

Those who passed through the checkpoint were given information on the consequences of drinking and driving.

Coastal to host 10th annual Cultural Celebration festival

Coastal will host its 10th annual Cultural Celebration festival on Wednesday, April 12 from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Spadoni Park. The events are free and open to the public. Food and merchandise will be available for sale.

The festival will feature entertainment from many international cultures. Scheduled performers are: Coastal's Gospel Choir; Myrtle Beach Regional Pipe Band; Adande, an African dance troupe from Charleston, S.C.; Elements, a reggae band from Baton Rouge, La.; Zanolbia, who will perform Middle Eastern dances; the North Myrtle Beach High School Jazz Band; and Adalia Ellis' Baha'i Workshop, which will feature children singing and dancing about unity.

To kick-off the celebration, rising Latin singer Luis Damón and his 15-member salsa band will perform a concert on Tuesday, April 11 at 6:30 p.m. in Spadoni Park.

For more information, contact Pat Singleton-Young in Coastal's Office of Multicultural Student Services at 349-2304.

Noted Country Music historian to speak

Bill C. Malone, author of Country Music U.S.A. and America's leading historian of country music, will speak at Coastal on Monday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the E. Craig Wall School of Business 308. The event is free and open to the public.

The presentation, sponsored by the Waccamaw Center for Cultural and Historical Studies, is titled "Take This Job and Shove It: Country Music and Southern Workers."

"Malone is an eloquent writer and speaker," said Charles Joyner, director of the Waccamaw Center. "He is a fine singer and musician, too, who often seasons his presentations with performances of the songs he discusses. This time he says he is going to sing the entire lecture, not just the particular songs that illustrate his points."

Malone was born into an east Texas tenant farm family, whose members included a singer in the Pentecostal gospel tradition, a former square-dance caller, and several guitar players. An accomplished singer and guitarist himself, he has appeared on SCETV's "The American South Comes of Age." Malone, along with his mandolin-playing wife, Bobbie, led a country music band in New Orleans.

Among his other books on country music are Stars of the Grand Ole Opry, Southern Music/American Music, and Singing Cowboys and Musical Mountaineers.

Malone earned his Ph.D. in history at the University of Texas and taught for many years at Tulane University, where he is professor emeritus. This year he is a fellow of the Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University.

For more information, contact Coastal's Office of Marketing Communications at 349-2015.

Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of this newsletter. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Darla Domke-Damonte and Taylor Damonte presented their paper, "Understanding The Attributes Of Service Quality In Casual, Full Service Restaurant Settings: An Exploratory Factor Analysis," at the 2000 Southwest Academy of Management conference in San Antonio, March 15 to 18. Their coauthor for the paper is Cherylynn Becker of Washington State University's Switzerland program.

- Darla Domke-Damonte presented her paper, "Market Response to Implementation Speed of Voluntary, Corporate Portfolio Restructuring," at the 2000 Southwest Academy of Management conference in San Antonio, March 15 to 18. She also served as track chair for the International Issues/Research Methods track of the conference.

- Daniel Ennis recently chaired a session on the Eighteenth Century dramatist David Garrick at the Southeast American Society for Eighteenth Century Studies in Savannah, Ga.

- Scott Harris and Eric Wright presented abstracts from their respective research projects at the annual meeting of the Southeastern section of the Geological Society of America, held March 22 to 24 in Charleston, S.C. Harris' presentation was "Quaternary Evolution of the Lower Coastal Plain and Continental Shelf near Charleston, South Carolina: Stratigraphic Construction, Geomorphic Expression and Geochronology." Wright's presentation was on the topic: "Stratigraphy of Two Overlapping Carolina Bays, Horry County, South Carolina."

- Sylvia Snyder was one of four panelists for Generational Responsibility: The Future of Social Security & Medicare, sponsored by the Concord Coalition. The panel was presented March 15 at the Grand Stand Senior Center.

Dance/Music Marathon to be held April 8

Coastal will hold its first-ever Dance/Music Marathon on Saturday, April 8 from noon to midnight on campus in Kimbel Arena. The concert format marathon is a fund-raising event for the Children's Miracle Network benefiting McLeod Children's Hospital in Florence, S.C.

The event is open to the public and the admission is a minimum donation of $15. The event will include free food, live bands, DJs, contests and visits from children who were patients at McLeod.

Entertainment will include live music from the bands Universal, The DRAG, Candella, Four Way, and The McDowell Shortcut Band. DJs from Myrtle Beach's WWXM Mix 97.7 will also play a variety of music. Instructors will be on hand to teach dance techniques including salsa, shag and swing.

Participants will receive a marathon T-shirt.

Funds raised by the marathon will be used to benefit children who suffer from muscular dystrophy, birth defects, burns, abuse, cystic fibrosis, AIDS and cancer.

For more information, contact Coastal's Office of Student Activities at 349-2311.

Coastal Notes

Scholarship opportunities available for adult students

Incentive Scholarships are now available to Coastal's adult students through Coastal's Alpha Pi chapter of Alpha Sigma Lambda (ASL) national honor society.

Alpha Pi has established the scholarships for full or part-time students age 25 years or older who will be beginning or returning to college to earn a bachelor's degree. The non-renewable award is for up to $500 per semester. Application deadline for the fall 2000 semester award is July 1.

For more information, contact Linda Ford in Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2093.

Coastal to host Summer Job Fair

Coastal and Horry-Georgetown Technical College will hold their first-ever joint Summer Job Fair on Thursday, April 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Kimbel Arena on the Coastal campus.

Recruiters from more than 40 area companies will be in attendance to interview individuals for summer positions, full and part-time jobs and internships. The event is open to all Coastal and HGTC students and alumni.

Members of Coastal's Office of Career Services will be available for free resume critiquing.

For more information, contact Coastal's Office of Career Services at 349-2341.

Sci-Fi Literature course offered

A new course, "Back to the Future: Literary Fantasy or Literary Prophecy," offered through Coastal's Lifelong Learning Society will examine science fiction works by such writers as H.G. Wells, Aldous Huxley and George Orwell. The class will be held Tuesdays from April 11 to May 9 from 1:30 to 3 p.m. The cost of the five-session class is $35.

Led by Maria Bachman, assistant professor of English at Coastal, the class will discuss how the fantastic visions of the future imagined by these great writers have proved to be prophetic.

For more information, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at 349-2665.
