South Carolina Dignitaries Visit Coastal Carolina

On Veterans' Day 1965, the Coastal Carolina Campus was visited by several distinguished guests. Governor Robert E. McNaughton, Senator Donald S. Russell, Representative John L. McMillan, and State Representatives Lloyd C. Bell, Jr. and J. Robert Carter, Jr. were here to meet with the Horry County Education Commission and the Coastal Educational Foundation, Inc. This meeting was held to explore the various possibilities for obtaining funds to build the proposed student union building at Coastal. Mr. T.L. Benson, Jr., a trustee of the University of South Carolina, and Mr. E.M. Singleton, director of Coastal Carolina, represented the school administration at the discussion.

Before the formal meeting began in the Conference Room, the faculty and students gathered in the library to greet the visitors. Mr. Singleton introduced the dignitaries, who each made a few short remarks to the group assembled. The President of the Student Council, Mike Hyman, then presented copies of the Garnet and Black to Governor McNaughton, Senator Russell, and Mr. McMillan. Each of the visitors also received a copy of The History of the Coastal Carolina Campus.

In the short speeches made by the men, all stressed how delighted and impressed they were with the fine facilities at Coastal. They commended the Commission and the Foundation for the excellent job they have done, and are doing, in behalf of the Coastal Carolina Regional Campus.

Governor McNaughton pointed out that this was his first visit to the school, and said that he was "amazed at the beauty of both the interior and the exterior of the building". He said that he wished to cooperate in every way possible to help the Coastal Center in its growth so that it, as well as all South Carolina schools, can offer the quality of education demanded by the space age.

The mid-semester is now terminated. After gazing upon the abominable grades, the students wander off diffidently. Perhaps now some lymphatic minds will be regenerated and their owners will tackle the task of study. (Because the freshmen mid-semester grades will be sent home, they are to be pitied. The sophomores are beyond pity.)

The "pitter-patter" of little weejuns recently echoed through the corridors of our jovial school. The shapes of pointed heads and weirdly pressed nostrils appeared at the door of each classroom, prior to the sheepish entrance of the touring high school seniors. All jesting aside, the school wishes to thank these young men and women for considering Coastal Carolina as a possible tool for further education. On the whole, the present and past students of Coastal have been well satisfied with the school and with their progress, and it is trusted that the future students will find it equally as rewarding.

One cannot help but notice the benumbing new masthead with which the CHANTICLEER is now crowned; the credit for this alteration goes to "Dolly" Riley with many thanks from the newspaper staff.

The CHANTICLEER wishes to thank "ICK", embryonic author, for his contribution to our humble paper. Ick definitely displays cosmopolitanism as to form, style, and subject matter. All concerned sincerely hope that he will continue to extemporize such prolific "masterpieces" and submit them solely to the CHANTICLEER. For those solicitously awaiting a sample of Ick's work, it can be found under "Letters To The Editor" on page seven.

STUDENT COUNCIL
ELECTIONS HELD

Elections for four freshmen representatives, two sophomore representatives, and six cheerleaders were held here the second week of October.

Six students ran from the freshman class. Those elected were John Hardee, Ronnie Roach, Danny Rodgers, and Connie White. Out of the four who ran for the sophomore class, Ruth Ann Chestnut and Sandra Hursey, were elected.

Our new cheerleaders are Patsi Connor, Sandra Hursey, Barbara Jo Johnson, Susan MacMeeking, Susie Simonson, and Sis Williams.

Students voted by marking ballots and turning them in to the office. There should have been as many ballots turned in as there are students. We were disappointed because many students did not vote. These elections should not be ignored or looked upon lightly. The representatives are chosen to represent the student body—people like you. They are for your benefit. They attend council meetings as a voice for you. If you did not vote, you did yourself an injustice.

Chant’s Pertelote

For this edition of Chanticleer, the old bird has selected a freshman from Conway, Miss LINDA HENDRICK.

Versatility rivals beauty as the most outstanding characteristic of this femme fatale. An accomplished piano player, Linda enjoys a number of hobbies, one of which is horseback riding.

An avid spectator sports fan, Linda recently witnessed the “Ploughing of the Farmers” lately produced in the confines of Carolina Stadium and termed the performance “just great”.

In addition to her other activities, Linda is employed by Peoples National Bank in Conway.

Linda’s feminine charm and beauty are evident in the extent to which the neck of John Chanticleer has come to resemble a corkscrew. Every time Linda passes, the old boy’s head snaps in her direction faster than though it were affixed to a moving Mack truck.

Enter, Linda, into the company of Coastal’s lovlier of lovlies.
The Gamma Psi Chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma, National Collegiate Foreign Language Honor Society, has been formed at Coastal Carolina under the sponsorship of Mrs. Rosa Hopson. The charter members of this chapter are Donna Harrison, Sandra Hursey, Mike Hyman, Helen Snead, Nancy Jo Watson, Pat Riddle and Ruth Ann Chestnut. Associate members are Nicole Hill, John Stack, Jo Ellen Graham, Margaret Williams, Mickie Singleton, Louise Snead, and Judy Gornto.

The newly elected officers of the Gamma Psi Chapter are Ruth Ann Chestnut, president; Donna Harrison, vice-president; Pat Riddle, secretary; Nancy Jo Watson, treasurer; and Sandra Hursey, historian.

Alpha Mu Gamma is the National Foreign Language Honor Society of the United States and Puerto Rico. Its more than seventy-five chapters, in both state and private universities and in public and private colleges, offer membership to outstanding students who are enrolled in, or have completed the third or any higher semester of college study of any foreign language, modern or classical. Members are awarded a parchment certificate and a gold key in the form of a scroll with Greek letters across its face.

The aims of Alpha Mu Gamma are: to recognize achievement in the field of foreign language study; to encourage an interest in the study of foreign languages and civilizations; to stimulate a desire for linguistic attainment; and to foster sympathetic understanding of other peoples.

A candidate for full membership in a chapter normally should have received in the same language (1) at least two grades of "A" in un-repeated courses in an accredited university or college, (2) either a third grade of "A" or "B" in an un-repeated course in an accredited university or college; or two years of grade "A" in high school courses, and (3) an average of at least "C" in all courses exclusive of those used to satisfy the first two requirements. Chapters may increase these requirements but may not lower them.

Associate membership may be granted by the chapter to any student who has met part of the qualifications for membership and has expressed an interest in becoming a full member.

The biennial national conventions and the regional meetings in alternate years afford members an opportunity to form new friendships, to exchange ideas about the problems and activities of their respective chapters, and to consider national policies and other matters pertaining to the National Organization.

Alpha Mu Gamma conducts a national foreign language essay contest with several prizes and awards a number of Maria Goddard Scholarships of $100 each, as well as scholarships for summer study in Quebec at Laval University and in Mexico City.
Under the guidance of Mr. Singleton, the Student Council of Coastal Carolina holds weekly meetings during activity period on Mondays to discuss and transact business. In addition to these weekly meetings, the council members actively participate in all of Coastal’s functions and activities, and perform services for the students. Council members have participated in several recent events. At the Parent-Faculty Drop-In held on October 21, the members acted as host and hostesses. They were also on hand to greet Governor McNair, Senator Russell, Representative McMillan, and other dignitaries during their visit to Coastal Carolina. The members also performed various functions when seniors from nearby high schools visited the center.

Since Coastal has no cafeteria facilities, as a service to the students sandwiches are now being sold at the office window. This project has met with initial success.

As another service a suggestion box has been placed in the office window to give all students an opportunity to voice their opinions on matters pertaining to the school and its activities. Any student who has an idea to improve Coastal Carolina, or who wants to bring a specific problem to the attention of the council is urged to use the suggestion box. Because of one such suggestion, the Student Council realized that Coastal did not have a flag or flagpole. A flagpole has now been ordered, and a flag has been donated to the school.

The event sponsored by the Student Council which is closest to hand is the Miss Coastal Carolina Contest.

PARENT - FACULTY DROP-IN

The parents of Coastal Carolina students had an opportunity to meet the professors at the Parent-Faculty Drop-In held October 28 in the college library. Almost all of the professors attended and approximately 150 parents came. Student Council members were on hand to greet the parents, to introduce them to the professors in the receiving line, to serve refreshments, and to conduct tours of the school. Written invitations were sent to the parents of each student for the reception which lasted from 7:00–9:00 P.M.
Dear Doc,

i go to college and i is going on 25 yeres old and i ain't doin so good, i got f in ever thing this yere and i dont got no thing to live for like a job or nothin what can i do now

Dear Mr. X,

Great goodness, sir. In our great society, everyone has something to live for. If you can't find a job, find a hobby. For example, you might decide to take up politics. In some areas you might not be able to be an active candidate unless you get more education, but you can certainly look forward to voting in elections. Go down and register.

Dear Dr. M.,

One morning recently one of my professors rushed into my office and threw his coat on a wet oil painting I'd just finished for the art course I'm taking. This usually soft-spoken, kindly teacher then berated me with some well-chosen, but unprintable words. I felt that this was unfair since my painting was smudged by his carelessness. What should I do?     John Jones

Dear John,

You will, obviously, have to repair the damaged painting. Then I'd suggest you turn in not only the picture, but the painted coat as well. Frame the coat and call it "pop art". You may get extra credit for this in art to help make up for what you'll probably get in English.

Dear Dr. M.,

One day as I was out fishing, minding my own business, a huge white fish emerged from the ocean ridden by a funny old man with a wooden leg. None of my friends believe me. What do you suggest?     Ismael

Dear Ismael,

That's a whale of a tale. Send it to Readers Digest. If they feel your story's too unbelievable, try the "Saturday Evening Post.

Mrs. Parker, the GARNET AND BLACK sponsor, has announced the new members of the annual staff. The sophomore staff members are Sheila Alford, Ruth Ann Chestnut, and Tony Morgan, and the Editor-in-chief will be Mickie Singleton.

The first meeting of the center's staffs was held November 19 in Columbia. This meeting was designed to coordinate plans for the centers' edition of the GARNET AND BLACK.

Applications are now being accepted from freshmen students who are interested in working on the staff. Applicants should submit their names to Mrs. Parker or Mickie Singleton.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

I need to talk to someone and I ain't been able to catch Mr. Singleton in his office yet and Mr. Branham he just turns and stares out of the window when I walk in.

I can't seem to catch on to this college work. That Mr. Madox he give us a paper to write and like Mr. Singleton said I was gonna do two hours outside for every hour inside. I went to the library to find me a book to write on and after looking for an hour and a half, I finally ask the lady and she found me one in a hurry. After getting back from the car with my new ball poing (always keep it over the visor) I had only 15 minutes left but I got in a big hurry and wrote it out and got my last two hours in.

When I handed my paper over to Madox, he handed it back just as quick with a big red "F" on it with four lines under the "F" without a thank you mam. I wish I was in Miss Parker's class like Hayes. Hayes made an "F" too, but at least she was sweet. Told him to quit playing cards in the lounge and study more.

I don't know whether you ever heard a tobacco auxon-air or not, but I shore have since I live on a farm and we sells in Mullins. Well that Mr. Bransom has got them all beat. I jest quit taking history notes as I never got past the first deep breath. Sides that girl next to me bothers me a scribbin and a flippin pages. I ain't worried tho I'll just read my book if I can git it back from Hayes.

Well, I'll going to close now since I gotta run by the draft board for a minit. Something about a change of states whatever that is.

You ole buddy

Ick

P.S. I stopped that Mrs. Grimmer in the hall and asked her what that there Perkiote means in your paper—you know that picture of a pretty girl each time and if I understood her right, you got a pretty good thing going you ole rascal. We might even ask you out to our taffy pulling at the community center next week.
Miss Coastal Carolina
To Be Selected
Saturday Night

Following the opening game of the Chanticleers’ basketball season on Friday night, the students of Coastal will climax a big weekend with the crowning of Miss Coastal Carolina on Saturday night, December 4.

Amid the excitement and bright lights of the stage, Miss Pat Tilghman will relinquish her throne to some lovely co-ed who will reign as Miss Coastal for 1966.

This year’s pageant, under the direction of Mickie Singleton, will be held at Socastee High School. In an effort to make all of Horry County feel more a part of South Carolina, the Student Council decided to have more school functions in various communities around the county.

Bill Gasque will serve as the Master of Ceremonies. The entertainment during intermissions will be songs by Mrs. Parker and by a group of Socastee High School students directed by Mr. Sigman.

The contestants will appear in evening gowns and sports clothes, and in addition will be judged in talent competition. The finalists will be required to demonstrate their poise by answering a question.

The lovely ladies vying for the crown are Frances Thompkins, Jeri Reaves, Toni Diminich, Shelia Alford, Connie White, Suzie Simonson, Susan McMeekin, Patsi Conner, Ruth Chestnut, Linda McGovern, and Janice Sutherland.

Immediately following the contest, there will be a dance in the Socastee High School Cafeteria for the new queen and her subjects.

Admission to the contest will be one dollar. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Student Council or at the door.

COASTAL STUDENTS GO TO CAROLINA-HOMECOMING

I’m here to tell you of a recent trip that I made. This trip was planned for October 30; the destination was Columbia; the purpose was to see the Carolina-Maryland football game.

The first leg of our journey was eventful even though it was only a few miles. On the way the only sign that had been put on blew off. If you had seen that big Trailways coming down the road, you would have keeled over laughing. You see, there were two peculiar objects hanging from the window. These objects were later identified as Connie White and Rock Shook. Connie was holding one end of the sign and Rock the other.

Girl! you should have seen some of our students. Some of them acted normally, but a few others acted entirely different. Not saying that they did anything wrong, I mean you wouldn’t say it’s wrong to play bridge, drink orange drinks and cokes, and tell a few “nice” jokes. Well, we’ll drop that for a while.

We reached Columbia and Mr. Singleton got us tickets for section I of the stadium. It was fun although a certain young man in our group kept yelling for Maryland (that’s what I call treason).

Carolina lost, as most of you know; but the spirit of our group was HIGH. Returning to the bus for the trip home, we found that a few lasting friendships had been made. The private conversations on the return trip can’t be printed, so I guess I will end my story by saying——”THAT WAS THE DAY THAT WAS.”

Cheerleaders Chosen

Cheerleaders for the 1965–1966 basketball season at Coastal Carolina were chosen in a school election on October 13 and 14. Suzie Simonson will serve as head cheerleader with Patsi Conner, Susan McMeekin, Margaret Williams, Barbara Johnson, and Sandra Hursey backing her up in the cheers.

New uniforms have been ordered. This year the cheerleaders will wear white sweaters and blouses, garnet skirts, and white tennis shoes and socks.

Practice sessions have been long and hard, but as time for the first game approaches, they feel that they are pretty well organized. They all have plenty of school spirit and are ready to assume their responsibility of cheering the team on to victory.

In a commuter institution such as Coastal Carolina, it is hard to get students to attend the games and display school spirit. The cheerleaders are going to make a special effort to boost school spirit and thus improve attendance at the games.

SOUTH CAROLINA DIGNITARIES

Senator Russell, a graduate of University of South Carolina and former president of the school, received applause from the students when he wished for them “all A’s at the next semester grades”.

Promising his help and cooperation, Representative McMillan called the campus a “good example of free enterprise”. He compared the Coastal building with the new Rayburn Office Building in Washington, and said that there was need for an additional building at Coastal to take care of added students.

Mr. Bell and Mr. Carter both expressed pride that our representatives in Columbia, had had a small hand in legislation that made Coastal Carolina possible. Mr. Bell promised his cooperation in any efforts to expand the Coastal Regional Campus, and Mr. Carter enlarged on this by saying that he and Mr. Bell will “move the rest of Carolina down here” as soon as they can.
Coastal’s Chanticleer basketball squad opens the present season’s activities with an invasion of Maxton, North Carolina, on Friday night to take on the squad of Carolina Military Academy. Virtually nothing is known about the CMA team. About the Chanticleers, however, we do know a fact or two.

Returning from last year’s successful Chanticleer aggregation are Dorn Backman and Jimbo McLaurin. Around these two veterans the Chanticleers hope to build an offensive machine which will rival the feats of last season’s crew.

Much depends on Coastal’s “big men,” Rusty Bass and John Plunkett. If this pair can deliver the goods under the boards, many would be problems will never develop. Willing and able to shoo up the all-important height department is Sidney Dyson, freshman from Aynor.

Playing the “point” on Coastal’s defensive alignment and leading the fast break offense which the Chants hope to employ will fall the lot of Willie Hucks, past star at Aynor High. Giving Hucks a battle for a first team berth is Terry Bradley of Beach Myrtle.

The Chanticleers hope to be able to substitute freely with no appreciable loss. Ready to provide addition offensive punch from the wings are Coke Floyd and Jerry Sellers of Conway and Jerry Bellamy of Myrtle Beach. Few opponents will relish the assignment of venturing under the boards when Coastal’s Jack “Tarzan” McKinnon is on patrol.

The story of the ’66 Chants begins to unfold in Maxton. Coastal’s people have done and will do much to get the Chanticleers ready. It’s that time again.
