COASTAL CAMPAIGNS FOR CHARITIES

Coastal Carolina College will again conduct a combined campaign to raise funds for the Horry County United Way (which includes more than a dozen charitable organizations), the USC Educational Foundation and the Coastal Educational Foundation. Coastal Development Director Bill Baxley is coordinating the campaign.

"As most of you know," Baxley says, "during the fall of each year we are asked to contribute to various charitable organizations. The people of the community who support this college are quite aware of the giving patterns of our faculty and staff. This year it has been decided to conduct a Combined Coastal Carolina Campaign during the month of October. More information about this campaign will follow and it is hoped that you will be liberal in your giving."

More information is available at extension 121.
