State employees receive bonus

Human Resources announces the following information concerning a bonus payment for state employees:

Each classified or unclassified employee hired into a permanent position on or before June 2, 1992, and who has been in continuous state service through Nov. 30, 1992, will receive a one-time lump sum bonus payment.

Full-time eligible employees who are on a twelve-month basis and earn less than $25,000 per year will receive $320, less applicable withholdings. Eligible employees hired on a twelve-month basis earning $25,000 or more per year will receive $160, less applicable withholdings.

Employees who are less than full-time or employed on less than a twelve-month basis, will have their salaries annualized to determine the amount they are eligible for and will receive a prorated share of that amount.

A separate check, or separate pay stub in the case of direct depositors, will be issued to each eligible employee and will be distributed with regular paychecks or pay stubs on Dec. 15.

No retirement contributions or other voluntary deductions will be taken from these checks. Only federal, state, and FICA taxes will be deducted.

For more information, contact Human Resources at extension 2035. ~

Coastal offers safari to East Africa

A 28-day safari to East Africa to explore the natural history of Kenya is available from May 8 through June 6, 1993.

The group will observe and study wildlife and vegetation from the coast and Great Rift Valley to Mount Kenya which is 17,000 feet above sea level.

Trip leaders are Rich Koesterer, who just returned from a two-year Fulbright Fellowship in Kenya, and Colleen Lohr.

The cost of the trip is $2,500 and includes all transportation to and from Myrtle Beach Jetport to Nairobi, all ground transportation in Kenya, park fees, porters, guides, lodge accommodations and meals. The fee is based upon double occupancy and is subject to unexpected airfare increases. To register for the trip, a $1,000 deposit must be received by Feb. 1, 1993; the remaining balance is due by March 15, 1993.

For participants who wish to earn college credit, The Natural History of East Africa (CBIO 670) will be offered for four credit hours. Students wishing to receive credit for CBIO 670 should budget an additional $384 for tuition.

For more information, call the Office of International Programs or the Biology Department. ~

Coastal magazine wins national award

Coastal's literary/art magazine has won a national award from the Associated College Press and the College Media Advisors. Archarios was named fourth place in the best of show category among more than 30 publications from colleges across the country at the ACP/CMA 1992 Media Convention held in Chicago Oct. 29 to Nov. 1.

In addition, Archarios faculty adviser Paul Olsen presented "Using Photography and Artwork in the Magazine" at the conference.

Archarios is published biannually and is produced by Coastal students. The magazine contains poetry, art and photography. Entries are submitted from students, faculty, and staff and are selected and judged utilizing a blind selection policy.

For the 1992-1993 academic year, Stephanie Biegner is editor-in-chief, Eric Rogers is assistant editor, John Switter is art director, and David Schulz and Shannon Goff are managing editors. ~

Eldercare Coalition seeks volunteers

The Grand Strand Eldercare Coalition seeks a volunteer to coordinate "Time to Care," a project that gives a break to family caregivers of the elderly.

The project coordinator would work part-time to recruit, interview, and train volunteers and match them with families in need of this service. Volunteers are asked to give four hours a week of their time. Their duties are to sit with an older person to allow the family caregiver to run errands, visit friends, or go to church, the beach or a park. Volunteers will be trained to be familiar with other support services in the community in order to assist the family.

"Today, as more and more families have two full-time wage earners, and as our elders live longer, the concerns of caregiving are becoming familiar to an increasing number of Horry County families," said Sandra Smith, R.N., coalition in-home services committee chair and director of Total Care, Inc. "Most frail elders, approximately 80 percent, are cared for in the home. The average caregiver is a 57-year-old female, usually a daughter. We want to be able to give this person a much-needed break once in a while," she said.

For example, one caregiver said, "I would love a half-hour walk by the ocean . . . just to listen to the quiet." A woman who cares for her mother-in-law said she had not been alone with her husband in three years. Another woman, who works

40 hours a week as a waitress, cares for her husband who is a stroke victim and her mother who has Alzheimer's disease.

The "Time to Care" project is spearheaded by representatives from agencies and businesses which already provide care for older persons and their families. All of these organizations realize that present funding has only scratched the surface of the need in the community. According to Sally Green, case manager with Community Long Term Care, "At-home care is much less expensive than nursing home care, and a choice that many older persons would prefer. However, family caregivers can feel very isolated and on their own. Often, with the gradual onset of dementia or frailty, family friends gradually stop calling or coming by to visit. The caregiver is left with the physical, emotional and financial responsibility all on his/her shoulders. We want to make our community one which reaches out to these individuals - to support them in the service they are performing."

The Grand Strand Eldercare Coalition, funded by the U.S. Administration on Aging's National Eldercare Campaign, serves to encourage communities to mobilize and respond to the needs of the rapidly growing elder population.

Individuals who are interested in volunteering to coordinate the project are encouraged to call Linda Lyerly. ~

Music professor gets HCAC award

Carolyn Cox has been named Outstanding Artist for 1992 by the Horry Cultural Arts Council (HCAC).

The annual award is given to those who have shown excellence in the promotion of the arts in the Horry County area. The HCAC board nominates candidates for the award and selects a recipient by secret ballot.

Cited among Cox's accomplishments are her numerous performances as a soloist, accompanist, in ensemble, and as director of programs varying from opera scenes to pops concerts and Christmas oratorios. Cox also has appeared in Theatre of the Republic and Coastal theater productions. Also noted is her work during the past two summers as artist-in-residence at the Gateway gifted and talented program in Summerville, S.C.

Cox joined the Coastal faculty in 1973; she is an associate professor of music and teaches music education and choral classes. Cox earned her master's degree in music from Converse College in 1970.

HCAC is an umbrella organization that provides assistance, support, resource information and funding to individuals and organizations involved with the cultural, performing and visual arts in Horry County. ~

Human Resources plans workshop

Troubleshooting EPMS Documents, a Human Resources workshop designed for supervisors, will be held Tuesday, Dec. 8 from 9 to 10 a.m. in SC 201.

Participants will review the most frequent omissions and errors on EPMS documents.

Coastal Concert Choir presents Christmas concert with alumni

The Coastal Carolina College Concert Choir will perform with alumni vocalists for a Christmas concert on Sunday, Dec. 13 at 5 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Conway. The choir will perform Giacomo Puccini's "Gloria." The concert is free and open to the public; donations will be accepted at the door.

The choir is directed by Carolyn Cox. In special observance of her 20th Christmas concert at the college, Cox invited interested choir alumni in the area to participate in the performance. Some alumni who will sing with the choir are Kimberly Holt (Class of 1988), Robin McCormick Myers (Class of 1990), O. Thomas Morgan (Class of 1979), Tina Branton (Class of 1992), Mike Floyd (Class of 1975), Kathy Clayton Metallo (Class of 1984), Ford E. Sanders (Class of 1983), Sally Purcell (Class of 1985), and Martha Kleine.

Emily Remington of the Charleston Symphony Orchestra Singers Guild has served as a resource person and coach for the choir in its preparation of "Gloria." Remington earned a bachelor's degree from Coker College, which recently awarded her with the Distinguished Alumnae Award. She has done post-graduate work at the American Conservatory in Chicago, the Peabody in Baltimore and the Julliard School in New York. An accomplished pianist and organist, Remington has accompanied Jessye Norman of the Metropolitan Opera in recital as well as artists in the National Theatre of Munich, Germany.

The group will be accompanied by organist E. Carter Breeze, an adjunct faculty member at Coastal and minister of music at the First United Methodist Church of Conway. Breeze will play the the church's Schantz Organ with almost 2,000 pipes.

In addition to "Gloria," other members of Coastal's music faculty will perform, including Karen Berry who will sing Christmas songs by Dello Joio accompanied by Jordan Alexander, and Ray Kilburn will perform from the works of Brahms.

For information, call Carolyn Cox. ~

On Campus is published biweekly on Monday by the Public Relations Office. Information to be included should be submitted by noon the Tuesday before publication.

Wheelwright Passport presents "An Audience with Fanny Kemble"

"An Audience With Fanny Kemble," a one-woman tribute to the 19th century actress and abolitionist, will be presented Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The performance is part of the 1992-1993 Wheelwright Passport series and is open to the public. Tickets are $10 and $7 for students.

The performance is a dramatization of an imaginary evening in the life of Fanny Kemble, a 19th century actress and abolitionist. Born into a British theater family, Kemble toured America in the 1830s - and took New York by storm. She met and married Philadelphian Pierce Butler, whose large southern land holdings introduced her to slavery. As mistress of his Georgia rice plantation, Kemble continually tried to improve living conditions for the 700 slaves who lived and worked there. Finding she was an abolitionist, Butler soon divorced her and took custody of their two small daughters. Kemble published four autobiographical works in the form of journals, poem, plays, criticisms and travel notes.

"An Audience With Fanny Kemble" is an account of the day-to-day rules, customs, taboos, and rituals on a slave plantation and provides a first-hand glimpse in the not-so distant past. The play takes place in Kemble's sitting room in New York City in 1850.

Sandi Shackelford plays Fanny Kemble in this touring production. Shackelford has performed with the Alley Theatre in Houston, the Riverside Shakespeare Company in New York and the Philadelphia Drama Guild. She has done work with the National Theatre of Great Britain and is a teaching artist at the Delaware Institute for the Arts in Education. She earned a master's degree in fine arts from Southern Methodist University in 1981 and joined the Coastal faculty in 1989.

"An Audience With Fanny Kemble" is funded, in part, by the Horry Cultural Arts Council, an umbrella organization that provides assistance, support resource information and funding to individuals and organizations involved with the cultural, performing and visual arts in Horry County.

The 1992-1993 Wheelwright Passport also will feature the Swing Era jazz of the The Brooks Tegler Quartet on Jan. 30; "Ain't Got Long to Stay Here," a gospel tribute to Martin Luther King Jr. on Feb. 14; "The Actor and The Assassin," based on Abraham Lincoln's assassination, on March 31; college theater productions of "The Homecoming" March 3 through 7 and the musical "1776" April 23 through 25; the second part of the Young Artist Showcase on April 1; and "Dear Liar," the theatrical portrayal of the relationship between Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw and British actress Stella Campbell on April 29. All events will be held in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Groups of 20 or more purchasing single tickets for Passport events are offered special savings. Tickets also are available in packages for the professional events, college theater, and international films. Tickets may be purchased by telephone and charged to MasterCard or VISA.

For more information on Wheelwright Passport events or ticket information, call the Wheelwright Box Office, open weekdays from noon to 5 p.m. ~

Coastal musicians to present Christmas concert in Litchfield

The Coastal Carolina Concert Choir and Coastal Carolina Jazz Ensemble will present a Christmas concert on Tuesday, Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. in Litchfield Beach's Tara Theater. The concert is open to the public.

The choir will perform Puccini's "Gloria." The choir is directed by Carolyn Cox. The group will be accompanied by E. Carter Breeze, an adjunct faculty member and minister of music at the First United Methodist Church of Conway.

The Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Jordan Alexander, will perform secular and non-secular holiday works.

Admission at the door is $2 and $1 for children.

For more information, call Carolyn Cox. ~

Joyner receives writing award

Charles Joyner has been awarded the 1992 Ethel Fortner Writer and Community Award for his contributions to the craft of writing.

The award is named for the late West Coast poet and was created in her honor by the St. Andrews Press of St. Andrews College in Laurinburg, N.C.

Sharing the 1992 award with Joyner are Japanese poet Yoko Mishima and North Carolina classicist and poet Ann Deagon. Previous winners include journalist Rolfe Neill and Pulitzer Prize winner Geneve Overholser.

In announcing Joyner's selection for the award, Ronald Bayes, chair of the Fortner Award Committee, cites the historian's career achievement in "vigorous and caring historical writing."

Joyner is perhaps best known for his Down by the Riverside, published by the University of Illinois Press. Down by the Riverside won the National University Press Award in 1987, given for the best book in the humanities published by a University Press. Before Freedom Came, a book co-authored by Joyner in 1991, was cited by the American Library Association for inclusion on its 1992 Notable Books List; the book is one of 13 works of nonfiction nationwide selected to the annual list. Joyner is author of two other books: Folk Song in South Carolina and Remember Me: Slave Life in Coastal Georgia.

Joyner joined the Coastal faculty in 1980. He earned a Ph.D. from USC Columbia in 1968 and a Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1977. ~

Student attends national seminar

Jennifer Flynn, a senior marketing major, recently attended the Yellow Pages Student Seminar, a national conference held in Las Vegas Nov. 7 to 11. Flynn was one of 16 college students and the only one from a South Carolina institution who was selected to attend the conference from a pool of 120 applicants from schools around the country.

The four-day conference was sponsored by Southwestern Bell and the Yellow Pages Publishers Association. In addition to the student participants, the conference attracted more than 1,000 professionals.

Flynn is vice president of Coastal's Advertising Club. She is originally from Clinton, Md. and lives in Myrtle Beach. ~
