Family Weekend offers opportunity for family campus visits

A weekend of activities are planned for the families and friends of Coastal students during the second annual Family Weekend to be held Friday, Oct. 1 and Saturday, Oct. 2.

Numerous events are scheduled to involve families in their student's university experiences and to allow participants an opportunity to learn more about Coastal Carolina University. Family Weekend activities are sponsored by the Office of Volunteer Groups.

President Ingle will bring participants up-to-date on the excitement at Coastal and discuss the university's future.

Participants also will have opportunities to attend receptions; enjoy a southern-style barbecue; talk with the deans and faculty members; tour the new Wall Building; enjoy a picnic in Spadoni Park; visit Brookgreen Gardens; and attend a volleyball tournament and soccer match.

Concurrent sessions will inform participants of academic support programs and services; financial aid programs; student issues and concerns; and mini-lectures, such as The Intrigue of the Past, presented by Jim Michie; and The Mysteries of the Ocean and the Delicate Balance of the Wetlands, presented by Paul Gayes.

Faculty and staff are invited to participate.

Faculty and staff are invited to join students and their families and friends at the following activities:

Friday, Oct. 1

- President's Reception - 4:30 to 6 p.m. Patio of the Graduate and Continuing Education Building. Reservations are requested by noon on Wednesday, Sept. 29 at extension 2007.

- Southern Barbecue - 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Pool Patio. Tickets are $4.50 per person; reservations are required. RSVP by noon on Wednesday, Sept. 29 at

Search committee named for provost position

A committee has been named by President Ingle to begin the process of selecting a provost for the university. Provost Paul Stanton will retire July 1, 1994.

Members of the committee who will assist President Ingle in the search are Lynne Smith - chair, Steve Nagle, Richard Collin, Jesse Brown, Sally Hare, Prashant Sangir, Joan Piroch, Jack Kendree, Gerald Boyles, Joe Mazurkiewicz, and Mollie Bethea-Floyd.

Gerald to speak during South Carolina Archaeology Week

Veronica Davis Gerald will present a slide-illustrated talk on the burial customs and practices of the Gullah people of Western Africa who have lived along the coastal regions of South Carolina and Georgia since the early 1700s Wednesday, Sept. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Little Theater. The one-hour presentation is free and open to the public.

The lecture is part of South Carolina Archaeology Week, (Sept. 25 to Oct. 7) which consists of more than 120 programs, exhibitions and demonstrations that have been scheduled around the state to bring South Carolina's past to life.

An assistant professor of English, Gerald is the author of numerous poems, professional essays and short stories. Her interest in her own family history has led to what will be her first book, There was a People: Ancestor and Spirit Worship among the Gullahs in the South Carolina Lowcountry.

Gerald joined the Coastal faculty in 1982 after spending the previous year as visiting professor of English. She received a master's degree from Atlanta University in 1975, and in 1986 entered Emory University in Atlanta as a Ph.D. candidate. While at Emory, she held several prestigious titles including Patricia Roberts Harris Fellow and Emory Fellow.

Professor publishes essay

An essay by Preston L. McKeever-Floyd is included in a recently published book entitled Religion in South Carolina.

The book, edited by Charles Lippy and published by the University of South Carolina Press, consists of 14 essays written by religious studies scholars. It has been called "the first comprehensive appraisal of the major denominations, topics, and issues that have defined the religious history of the Bible Belt state." It sketches an overview of religion in the region and then looks specifically at the traditions that have forged South Carolina's religious structure.

McKeever-Floyd's essay, entitled

Masks of the Sacred: Religious Pluralism in South Carolina, addresses that religious pluralism exists in South Carolina.

An assistant professor of philosophy and religion, McKeever-Floyd's essays have appeared in several publications. He has also produced numerous religious lectures and papers.

McKeever-Floyd joined the Coastal faculty in 1980. He received a master's degree from Duke University in 1979, conducted doctoral work at Emory University in Atlanta, and was a Fulbright Scholar to India in 1988.

Workshops offered based on best seller books by Covey; faculty/staff discount offered

The Office of Continuing Education will offer two workshops based on principles discussed in the best seller books by Stephen Covey, The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People and Principle-Centered Leadership.

"First Things First: Time and Life Management," a workshop which will review ways to implement "Seven Habits" into daily life through a focus on personal management, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 3 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in SC 205. A reduced fee of $125 is offered for faculty and staff.

"Seven Habits of Highly Effective People" workshop will be held Thursday, Oct. 21 and Friday, Oct. 22 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. This workshop will explore ways in which people can increase their performance capability in order to achieve personal and professional goals. The reduced fee of $225, which included lunch both days, Seven Habits workbooks and an executive organizer, is offered for faculty and staff.

For additional information or to register, contact Continuing Education at extension 2665.

The next issue of On Campus will be Monday, Oct. 11; deadline for information is Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Cookout planned for faculty and staff

Faculty and staff are invited to a Kick-off Cookout at the Singleton House (formerly the Faculty House) on Wednesday, Sept. 29. The event will begin at 4:30 p.m. and food will be served at 5:30 p.m. The Singleton House is located on the scenic shores of Lake Woodsbegone. Black tie and hard hats are optional.

The Singleton House committee has planned many exciting events for the 1993-1994 academic year.

Memberships for faculty and staff will be available at the kick-off event. Membership fees for the fall semester are $15 or $25 for the academic year.

Faculty and staff who would like to become Singleton House members but are unable to attend the Kick-off Cookout should contact Steve Nagle at extension 2096. 🍴

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! . . . Announcing A Summer Program for Faculty and Staff at Manchester College in England

Coastal faculty and staff are invited to spend 11 days at Manchester College in England during the summer of 1994. The group will leave for England on Wednesday, July 13 and return Saturday, July 23, 1994. Some activities will coincide with student excursions, and others will be for the faculty and staff group alone.

Early registration is advised as space is limited to approximately 20 participants. Priority will be given to faculty and staff; however, spouses and significant others will be welcomed on a space available basis.

Double-occupancy accommodations will be at Manchester College at Oxford for the first seven nights and at Wellington Hall in London for the final three nights. Breakfast and dinner will be provided while at Manchester College and breakfast only will be provided while in London. During the Oxford stay, day trips will be organized to visit Stonehenge; Winchester, Stratford, to see a Shakespeare play; Blenheim Palace, where Winston Churchill was born; and Windsor Castle. In London, the group will visit museums; Covent Gardens; Harrod's Department Store; St. Paul's Cathedral; Buckingham Palace and view the Changing of the Guard; the Tower of London; and the Houses of Parliament. London's subway system is safe and efficient and gives participants access to the city. In London the group will sample one of the West End theater offerings which boast plays as performed on Broadway in New York City, such as Cats, Phantom of the Opera, Les Miserables, and Miss Saigon.

Cost of the 11-day trip is $1,850 which includes round-trip airfare; double occupancy room and board in Oxford and London (single occupancy is an additional $175); day excursions listed above and admission to corresponding sites; the play performances in Stratford and London; and airport transfers. Expenses not included in the trip are lunches in Oxford; lunches and dinners in London; subway and travel in London (a three-day subway pass can be purchased for approximately $7); and the cost of admission to the various points of interest in London, other than St. Paul's Cathedral and Buckingham Palace. Museums and palaces in London charge from $7 to $10 for admission. Participants should be able to average between $15 and $20 per day spending money (depending on the exchange rates in effect.) - that is, if too much time isn't spent in local pubs.

A $200 deposit is required by Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1993; however, individuals who pay their deposit by Monday, Nov. 1 will receive a $100 discount on the total cost of the trip. Deposits are non-refundable.

For more information or to reserve your space for the trip, contact Geoff Parsons at extension 2054. 🍴

Coastal Carolina People

Roy Talbert has been appointed to the Non-Government Records Task Force of the South Carolina Historical Records Advisory Board. As the central advisory body for historical records planning in general and specifically for all projects in South Carolina funded by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, the Advisory Board is developing a new state plan for historical records programs. Talbert's Task Force will focus on a wide variety of repositories across the state that contain private records and manuscripts.

Tim Touzel had an article, entitled "Portfolio Analysis: Windows of Competence," published by the Educational Resources Information Clearinghouse for Teach Education at The Ohio State University. The publication was based on Touzel's portfolio assessment research with his classes in mathematics teaching and instructional theory. This research was originally presented at the annual convention of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education held earlier this year.

Vicki Gardner recently attended the 24th Annual Community Health Institute in New Orleans, La., participating as a board member of the Britton's Neck Health Care Association.

Chris Marsh, with Dr. Reginal Daves, recently presented Photographing Shorebirds and Waders at Brookgreen Gardens. The slide lecture not only provided tips on photographing these interesting birds, but also provided a wealth of information on their natural history. 🍴

Staff Retirement Incentive Opportunity program

Faculty and staff who have elected to take advantage of the Staff Retirement Incentive Opportunity pursuant to the 1993-1994 State Appropriations Act and those interested in more information are invited to participate in a workshop on Wednesday, Oct. 6 from 3 to 4:15 p.m. in the EMS Conference Room.

A review of eligibility factors, procedures and benefits will be presented and the appropriate paperwork will be available.

For more information, contact Barbara Jackson at extension 2134.

On Campus is published biweekly on Monday by the Office of Public Information. Items to be included should be submitted by noon the Tuesday before publication.

Coastal Carolina University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity, state-supported institution.

In case of emergency . . .

The Office of Information Technology Services (formerly Computer Services and Communications) is placing emergency information stickers on all campus telephones.

In case of emergency, callers from campus extension telephones should dial "9" to get an outside line before dialing "911." The caller should then call extension 2177 to allow Campus Law Enforcement and Safety personnel to assist emergency personnel in locating the person needing emergency treatment. Pay telephones on campus and telephones in dorm rooms are not campus extension telephones; therefore, the caller should dial "911" without dialing a "9" for an outside line.

The following guidelines are provided by the Coastal's Office of Health Information and Medical Referral and the Office of Law Enforcement and Safety.

• Coastal Carolina University does not provide emergency medical services on campus. All medical emergencies are handled by the Emergency Medical Service (EMS) by calling "911." Examples of emergency situations handled by EMS are life-threatening conditions such as cardiac or respiratory emergencies, the presence of severe bleeding, medical conditions or acute illnesses such as severe asthma attacks, repetitive seizures, diabetic emergencies, stroke, poisoning, and trauma-related accidents resulting in possible fractures or multiple injuring.

• When EMS units are called to campus the Office of Law Enforcement and Safety should always be contacted to direct emergency personnel to the emergency location and to assist with traffic and/or crowd control.

• For minor medical concerns on campus, such as skinned elbows, nosebleeds, or a broken toe or finger, the campus Law Enforcement personnel will provide information and assistance from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Law Enforcement will contact the Health Information and Medical Referral office to obtain assistance from the campus nurse and/or assist with transportation to Conway Hospital as needed.

• For medical emergencies after 5 p.m. and on weekends, do not hesitate to dial "911" if required.

For more information about medical emergencies, contact Patti Loebs, R.N., in the Office of Health Information and Medical Referral at extension 2329 or the Office of Law Enforcement and Safety at extension 2177.
