Coastal vs. Clemson in PGM matchup

Coastal and Clemson University, two of the 11 schools in the United States with accredited Professional Golf Management (PGM) programs, will go head-to-head in the 2001 Director's Cup, a new competition to help showcase their unique programs.

The friendly intrastate matchup will be held Dec. 1 and Dec. 2 at two of Myrtle Beach's top golf courses, the Rees Jones-designed Arcadian Shores and the traditional Robert Trent Jones-designed Dunes Golf and Beach Club. Each university will field an eight-person team to compete in a 54-hole Ryder Cup format. Participants must be full-time students enrolled in their school's PGM program. Varsity golf members are not eligible to participate. Captaining the 2001 teams will be PGA members Dan Drane of Clemson and David Hackney of Coastal.

Coastal initiated its PGM program in fall 1997 in response to the Grand Strand's bustling golf industry, which has more than 100 courses situated within 40 miles of the university. Coastal is also the only institution that has an international component to its PGM program. More than 20 students from the Autonomous University in Barcelona, Spain, are enrolled in the program. The PGM programs are endorsed by the Professional Golfers' Association of America (PGA).

In Coastal's PGM program, students must complete the requirements of a bachelor of science degree in marketing from the E. Craig Wall Sr. College of Business Administration and serve 16 months of internships at area golf courses. Students must also complete the PGA of America's Playing Ability Test (PAT) prior to their third year. One of the requirements for admission to the program is having outstanding playing ability with proof of a handicap of eight or less. Students must also complete the Golf Professional Training Program (GPTP), a three-level independent course on various aspects of the golf business. Those who complete the classwork, internships and GPTP are on course to obtain their PGA Class A certification, which is the critical credential for entering a career in the U.S. golf industry.

Internships at local golf courses under the direction of PGA Class A professionals play an essential role in the students' development.

Santa's Workshop set for Dec. 4-5

Area children are invited to visit Santa at his "workshop," a life-size gingerbread house located on the Coastal campus, Tuesday, Dec. 4 and Wednesday, Dec. 5 from 2 to 6 p.m. The event, sponsored by Coastal's Office of Residence Life, is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Located in front of Maple Hall on Chanticleer Drive East, the gingerbread house was created by Coastal's Residence Life maintenance team.

For more information, contact Rhonda Park Uber at 347-2406.

Nickname survey results

More than 1,700 votes were cast during Coastal's online survey regarding whether or not to change the university's athletic nickname, the Chanticleers. The results of the two-week survey will be used as an assessment tool for the university.

The survey question was: Should Coastal Carolina change its athletic nickname?

The results of the survey follow:

	YES	NO	Total
Students	373	367	740
Alumni	102	195	297
Faculty/Staff	50	105	155
Friends	266	290	556
Total	791	957	1,748

Teacher Education Festival Nov. 27

Coastal's College of Education will hold its 13th Teacher Education Festival on Tuesday, Nov. 27 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. During the event seniors in the early childhood, elementary education, secondary education and health promotion programs will present projects and displays from their methods courses. The festival will be held on campus in the Physical Education Center gymnasium and in the former Admissions Building located on Atheneum Circle. The event is free and open to the public.

"A Musical Holiday Celebration" to be held Nov. 29

Coastal's Concert Choir, Symphonic Band and Jazz Ensemble will present "A Musical Holiday Celebration" concert on Thursday, Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The event, which is free and open to the public, is part of Coastal's 2001-2002 Cultural Arts Series.

The festival, set up in a trade show format, is designed to assist senior education majors in assimilating information from their methods courses before they begin practice teaching during the 2002 spring semester. The event also gives underclassmen an opportunity to better understand what will be expected of them during their senior years.

For more information, contact Jessie Brown at 349-2619 or Arlene Adams at 349-2662 in Coastal's College of Education.

The groups will perform a variety of jazz and pop standards, madrigals, as well as several holiday selections. A sing-along featuring holiday favorites will conclude the event.

For more information, call 349-2502.

Men's Soccer claims Big South crown; receives NCAA Tournament bid

For the first time since 1995 and the third time in Coastal men's soccer history, the Chanticleers will be making a trip to the NCAA Tournament. Coastal earned the trip with a 3-1 victory over Liberty University during the Big South Conference championship game, earning the league's automatic bid to the NCAA tournament. Coastal was scheduled to play Seton Hall in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament on Friday, Nov. 23 at the University of Virginia.

Sophomore forward Joseph Ngwenya tallied his second game-winning goal of the tournament in the 31st minute against Liberty. Ngwenya has posted six goals and one assist in Coastal's last six outings.

"It is great that we have come together at the point in the season where you really need to," said Shaun Docking, Coastal's head coach. "It has been six years since this program has made it past the first round of the Big South Tournament, so it is a relief to get that behind us."

For Coastal (10-7-3), Ngwenya, senior defender Tyler Hughes, freshman defender Charlie Roberts, and junior midfielder Tobin Whitmarsh earned Big South All-Tournament honors. Hughes, a four-time Big South All-Conference selection, was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player after anchoring a defense which allowed just two goals in three matches.

Coastal has a perfect 6-0 record all-time in Big South Conference men's soccer championship games.

Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of this newsletter. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Donald Brook has been appointed to two state-wide committees. Dalton Floyd, chair of the Higher Education Commission, appointed Brook to the commission's Committee of Campus Safety. The committee advises the commission on items pertaining to campus crime and safety for the state's public institutions.

Brook has also been appointed to the South Carolina Criminal Justice Academy's Low Country Regional Training Steering Committee. The committee provides a forum to conduct comprehensive needs assessments to identify training needs and promote quality assurance.

- Richard Dame, Susan Libes and Keith Walters presented talks, posters and served as session chairs at the Estuarine Research Federation meeting in St. Petersburg, Fla. A number of Coastal alumni who are pursuing graduate degrees or working in the area of coastal and estuarine science also participated.

Dame has also been invited to participate in a research working group hosted by the Marine Biological Laboratory of Woods Hole.
