Coastal will keep the Chanticleer as athletic mascot

And the survey says: "The Chanticleer should remain as Coastal's mascot."

A voluntary survey of students, alumni, faculty, staff and community members was conducted by the Traditions Committee. The survey results were a major determining factor in the committee's report recommending to President Ingle that the Chanticleer remain as Coastal's athletic mascot.

The Traditions Committee was formed by President Ingle to explore whether Coastal should keep the Chanticleer or establish a new mascot to reflect the university's new independent status. The committee is also studying such matters as the university's logo, official seal and alma mater.

According to Andy Hendrick, "President Ingle charged the Traditions Committee with seeking input from each of the university's constituency groups. Through a series of surveys and advertisements, recommendations for our mascot were gathered - and every group overwhelmingly supported the Chanticleer."

According to survey returns, other top contenders for the mascot were Hurricanes, Marlins, Sharks and Storm.

When Coastal Carolina named its athletic teams in the late 1950s, the Chanticleer was named as mascot. The Chanticleer, from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, is a crafty rooster who quotes from the classics and learns from his mistakes, according to Don Millus, who specializes in Chaucer and Shakespeare.

Family Fund and United Way campaigns begin on campus

A message from the president

The campus family at Coastal Carolina has traditionally been a generous and caring community. Within the next several days you will have two opportunities to demonstrate this spirit again. You will receive information packets and pledge cards from the Family Fund and the United Way.

The Family Fund operates as part of the Coastal Educational Foundation which has helped to raise millions of dollars for the improvement of our academic programs and physical facilities. In addition to funding programs and facilities, the Foundation funds activities and projects that benefit the faculty and staff individually. For example, the Foundation has committed to meeting a portion of the costs of our optional life insurance which was formerly paid through the USC System.

Campaigns

The Foundation also provides funding for faculty research and scholarship activities as well as funding for work-related tuition assistance for staff and faculty. Additionally, the Spring Arts Festival, an event enjoyed by the entire campus community, is partially underwritten by the Foundation.

Your contribution to the Family Fund not only helps in a tangible way; it has symbolic significance as well. In seeking outside support, it is extremely helpful to show that members of the Coastal Carolina campus family are committed and excited about the future of our institution.

The Horry County United Way organization is operated and controlled by local citizens who determine how and where the money is to be distributed. The annual campaign is one drive for many services. This method cuts administrative expenses and provides more money for those who need help. I hope that this year, as in the past, you will assist in this effort.

I hope each of you will join me in making a commitment so that we will do our fair share for these two worthy campaigns.

Singleton House sponsors Oktoberfest

Singleton House members will celebrate Oktoberfest for faculty and staff at the Singleton House on Tuesday, Oct. 26 beginning at 4:30 p.m. Food will be served at 5:30 p.m.

A door prize will be awarded for the most interesting or unusual stein brought to the event.

All faculty and staff are invited to join the Singleton House. Semester dues are $15, or $25 for the academic year and include numerous exciting events sponsored throughout the year.

To join send a check for membership dues to one of the following Singleton House committee members: Bob Burney, Claudia Cleary, John Eberwein, Bill King, Colleen Lohr, Kerry Lord, Richard Moore, Steve Nagle, Joan Piroch, or Jimmy Soles.

Coastal sponsors 20th annual fishing tournament

The world's oldest intercollegiate salt water fishing match and seminar will bring together teams from Memphis State, Francis Marion, Clemson and Coastal Carolina universities for a day of fishing and seminars for the 20th Annual Coastal Carolina Invitational in Murrells Inlet, S.C., on Friday, Oct. 29.

Teams from Canada and Japan have competed in the Coastal Carolina Invitational along with Ivy League representatives and numerous schools from the Southeast. The tournament is the successor to intercollegiate tuna matches formerly held in Nova Scotia.

According to fishing coach Don Millus, all of the teams will fish from the same headboat out of Captain Dick's Marina in Murrells Inlet. Millus said that while some student competitors bottom fish for black sea bass, grouper and triggerfish, others drift live bait for king mackerel and cobia. "One student angler even raised a sailfish before," Millus said. Last year 23 kings were caught just 16 miles offshore.

Overnight accommodations for competitors are provided by Springmaid Beach Resort. Prizes are donated by tackle manufacturers and the boat is chartered for the cost of fuel and crew only.

The Coastal Carolina Invitational has been cut back in recent years from three days to one. According to Francis Marion University professor Don Kelley, the winningest coach in the history of the Coastal Carolina Invitational, "getting up at 5 a.m. two days in a row isn't fun anymore."

According to Millus, of all intercollegiate sports competitions in the United States, this is the only one that allows men and women to compete on equal terms. Millus hopes to send an all-female team into this year's competition to end Coastal's six-year losing streak.

Charterboat captain Skip Opalko and veteran angler Richard Lee will be assistant coaches for Coastal. Richard Moore will serve as chief judge, as he has since 1974. Jim Godfrey, a fishing columnist, will also serve as judge.

The seminars and instruction for the competition traditionally take place on the boat during the day. This year's seminar will focus on live-bait fishing for salt water gamefish.

"It's been a poor year for king mackerel fishing inshore and offshore," Millus said, "but by the end of the month our luck could change. College fishing coaches, like college football coaches, are always hopeful. Besides, they never get fired for losing."

"Taming of the Shrew" to be performed at Wheelwright Auditorium

The North Carolina Shakespeare Festival's (NCSF) production of William Shakespeare's most popular romantic farce, The Taming of the Shrew, will be performed Friday, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. Tickets are $12, $5 for students.

Set in the early Italian Renaissance, the play portrays the rollicking courtship of the brash Kate and the bold Petruchio. The game-playing, witty arguing and "battling of the sexes" lead to their discovery of how to trust and love each other, rather than how to force the other to submit: it's their great adventure in love and marriage. A host of other characters complicate the plot with various disguises and sudden embarrassments.

The Taming of the Shrew is touring as a part of NCSF's "Outreach Tours" program, conceived in 1983. Past tours include productions of The Two Gentlemen of Verona, Macbeth, A Midsummer Night's Dream and The Comedy of Errors.

The Taming of the Shrew originated as part of NCSF's 1993 Main Stage Summer Season in the theater's hometown of High Point, N.C. The production is directed by Louis Rackoff and features a company of sixteen professional actors and six technicians.

For more information or to purchase tickets, call the Wheelwright Box Office at extension 2502.

Coastal Carolina People

Mirinda Chestnut and her husband, Twig, are the proud parents of a son born Sunday, Oct. 24. William Reed Chestnut weighed 9 pounds, 2 ounces and is 22 inches long. Mother and baby are both doing great.

Dennis Wiseman recently served as a panel discussant on the topic "Partnerships of Public Schools and Higher Education" at the fall meeting of the South Carolina Association of Teacher Educators and the South Carolina Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. Wiseman and Suzanne Cromier served as co-presenters of "The South Carolina Middle Level Project." The South Carolina Middle Level Project is Funded by the EIA Select Committee and housed at Coastal Carolina.

Campus Law Enforcement authorized to issue tickets for $1,000

The Law Enforcement and Safety Office will begin issuing a special kind of ticket soon, one which could win a lucky motorist $1,000.

It's called the "Thank You Ticket," and will be given to motorists who are observed wearing their safety belt. The campaign is sponsored by the South Carolina Automobile Dealers Association.

The tickets will be distributed at license and registration checkpoints to drivers and their passengers who are buckled up and free of other violations. Accident victims who are wearing their safety belts also are eligible.

When the special "Thank You Ticket" is issued, motorists may enter a drawing to win $1,000 by completing the postcard ticket and mailing it to the address provided.

For more information, contact the Law Enforcement and Safety Office at extension 2177. 📞

Changes in the P. R. Office

The name of Coastal's Public Relations Office has been changed to the Office of Public Information, effective Oct. 1.

The location of the Office of Public Information also has changed as of Monday, Oct. 25. The new office is in EMS 204 (directly above our "old" office.) All telephone extensions will remain the same.

Anne Monk has assumed the position of director of public information, as appointed by President Ingle and effective Oct. 1. 📞

A special thank you

The family of Benjamin L. Thompson acknowledge with grateful appreciation your kind expressions of sympathy.

Thank you to the Coastal family during this difficult time.

Sincerely, Herb Thompson 📞
