ARTS FESTIVAL THIS WEEK!

USC-Coastal Carolina College will host the second annual Spring Arts Festival Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Spring Arts Festival '80, which will present a variety of arts programs from around the state, will begin at 8 p.m., Wednesday, March 19, with a welcome by Coastal and USC-Columbia officials and a production of playwright Tennessee Williams' drama, "Twenty-seven Wagons Full of Cotton."

For the next two days, beginning Thursday, March 20th, the Coastal Carolina College campus, located between Myrtle Beach and Conway, will be the center of one of the largest gatherings of artists in the history of the Waccamaw and Grand Strand communities.

Among the events, displays and activities during the two-day festival will be folk dancing, film festivals, batik workshops, dramatic productions, chalk drawing workshops, pottery firing, literary readings, musical reviews, African music, jazz, spirituals, trumpet and voice recitals, choral productions, magic acts, an international coffee house, a wine and cheese party, food booths, art exhibits, continuing events, clowns, mimes and a six-mile run.

All of the events are free and the public is invited to attend the entire festival, which continues from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Artists from each USC campus and other artists and speakers will highlight the festival. Coastal's "horseshoe" drive will be closed for the festival.

COASTAL JOINS CAN-AM DAYS

Canadian visitors to the Grand Strand will have an opportunity to learn more about USC-Coastal Carolina College during Can-Am Days this year. Officials at Coastal have scheduled an open-house at the college 10 a.m. - 11 a.m., Tuesday - Thursday, March 18-20.

"We'll be flying the Canadian flag to welcome our Canadian visitors," says Coastal Administrator Mildred Allen, organizer of the Can-Am open-house. "We feel everyone should know what opportunities are offered at Coastal. We've had Canadian students enrolled here in the past and we want Canadian visitors to know we're happy to have them here."

Open house at Coastal will begin at 10 a.m. in the college Administration Building and will include tours of the campus and an audio-visual presentation in the college media center.

C.A.R. REGISTRATION UNDERWAY

Coastal Admissions Director Marsh Myers reminds faculty to urge students to register through the C.A.R. program before April 9th. Computer Assisted Registration for Fall 1980 began on March 14th and will continue until April 9th.

BOOKSTORE CANNOT FURNISH DESK TEXTS

It is not the responsibility of the bookstore to issue or furnish desk copies to faculty personnel. However, the bookstore will be happy to furnish all the necessary information and the proper forms in order to obtain desk examination and review copies of textbooks for faculty.

Under no circumstances will publishing companies send desk, examinations, or review copies of textbooks to this or any other bookstore. These complimentary copies are mailed directly to the person or persons who have made the request.

It is expected that any person on the faculty and/or staff who borrows a book from the bookstore will either return a book of equal value and condition or pay for the textbook within thirty days.

COASTAL TO HOST MODERN DANCERS

The internationally recognized Pauline Koner Dance Consort will bring its modern dance choreography to the coastal area next Monday in the final performance of USC Coastal Carolina College's 1980 cultural arts series.

The performance is scheduled 8 p.m. Monday March 17 in the new Conway High School Auditorium on U.S. Highway 501 west of Conway. Tickets will be $3 at the door.

World renowned as a choreographer, performer and teacher, the legendary Pauline Koner will direct the performance. Now in her 51st year of dance, Miss Koner is described by New York Times Music critic Clive Barnes as a "gifted pioneer of modern dance."

This will be the Pauline Koner Dance Consort's first performance in South Carolina.
