USC School of Medicine Accepting Applications

COLUMBIA, S.C. - The University of South Carolina School of Medicine will begin accepting applications April 7 for admission to the January, 1976 class, the first class of the new school. All applications for this class must be submitted to the school no later than Sept. 1, 1975, according to Dr. William N. Adams Smith, Dean.

The initial class will be limited to 32 students, with acceptance based on a priority system. Because of partial funding of the school by the Veterans Administration, first priority for applicants will be given to South Carolina veterans who have medical military occupational specialties.

All applicants will be required to submit a USC School of Medicine application, letters of recommendation, transcripts, Medical College Admissions Test (MCAT) scores, and a personal statement. Those interested in applying must have a minimum of college credits in the following subject areas: chemistry, 16 semester hours (8 inorganic and 8 organic); biology; physics, 8; mathematics, 6 and English, 6.

Individual laboratory work is expected in the required biology, chemistry and physics courses. The mathematics requirement can be met with calculus and computer science courses.

Applicants who have a grade point average of less than 2.8 and MCAT scores of less than 500 in each category, should be aware that their applications are not likely to be competitive, Dr. Adams Smith added.

The MCAT is given twice a year with the next test date being May 3. Deadline to register for the test is April 7 and all applicants who have not yet taken the MCAT should register for the May 3 test in order for the test scores to be available for the selection of the January Class.

For further information on obtaining a USC School of Medicine application write Admissions Office, School of Medicine, USC, Columbia, S. C. 29208.

NURSING STUDENTS ATTEND CONVENTION

A large number of the nursing students attended the annual through the South Carolina Nurses Association Convention recently held in Columbia. Coastal had the largest number of students in attendance in relationship to school size.

The theme of the convention was "Which Way, Nursing?" Various educational programs were presented for the purpose of keeping the students abreast on developments in areas such as: Over-the-Counter Drugs, Burn and Trauma Units, Public Health Nursing, Intensive Care of the Newborn and Acupuncture. Many of the programs were presented by staff members of the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston.

Among the referendums discussed and voted upon during the business portion of the convention was the Equal Rights Amendment. After much discussion and debate, the convention voted against the amendment on the grounds that they did not fully understand all of its ramifications. They felt they could not support such an amendment without knowledge of its far reaching effects. The professional counterpart of the SSNA, the State Nurses Association, recently voted in favor of the amendment as did the National Student Nurses Association.

During the closing business meeting, the Who's Who awards were presented. These awards go to a member of the senior class of each school who has been voted by her underclassmen as the individual who most exemplifies their idea of a professional nurse. Ruth Lewis of Windy Hill, North Myrtle Beach received the award from Coastal.

Anthropology Society Eyes Ancient Art

Recently Coastal's Anthropology Society traveled to Washington to view the Chinese Art Exhibit and see some of Washington. The group included Dr. Reinhold Engelmayre, Karen Roberts, Peggy Young, Debbie Duke, Gene Causey, Tommy Page, Charlotte Lambert, Marie Biddy and Michael Gasque.

The first day after checking into a hotel on Capitol Hill, the group visited the Capitol Building. They were given a tour by an assistant of Congressman John Jenrette. After the tour of the Capitol Building the group with U. S. Senator from South Carolina Strom Thurmond went to the Vice-President's Senate Office. After having photographs taken the Senator spoke with the group awhile and gave them some information about the historical objects located in the Vice-President's office.

The second day of the Washington visit was spent at the Smithsonian Institute viewing the Chinese Exhibit.

All of the objects that were shown were discovered during the last 22 years. The collection of art dated from the age of the Paleolithic Man until the 14th century. Part of a skull said to belong to a man of the Paleolithic Age was displayed, along with several stone instruments. The skull is believed to give credibility to the existence of a man that was given the title of Lan-tien Man. The Lan-tien man, who roamed the banks of the Yellow River is said to antedate the Peking man by about 100,000 years.

Also displayed was the shrine of the Chinese Princess Tar Wan. The shrine of the Chinese Princess Tar Wan is made up of 2,156 jade pieces which are sewn together by means of thread made of gold. Other objects that were displayed included instruments for cooking and, holding wine, animals carried in wood, bronze art works, etc.

SGA Adopts Alcohol Action

Campus Union presented to the Student Government Association a change in the "Coastal Code of Conduct" which states:

Consumption of beer, wine and alcoholic beverages on Coastal Carolina's Campus is prohibited except as provided in the following sections:

1. Requisition for approval must be in a written format and presented a minimum of 4 weeks prior to the scheduled event.

2. Enforcement of unruly behavior will initially be handled by fellow students. If this is refused, other measures will be taken.

3. Litter barrels will be provided by the programming group and a clean-up detail disbursed immediately following the approved activity.

This proposal was approved by the Student Affairs Committee and the Higher Education Committee on an experimental basis. You more than adequately prove your maturity as college students at the Streamboat Springs Concert in the fall. Now's your official chance to have beer and wine on campus.

An approval was given for CINO DAY held on March 27 at 12:30.

Watermelon Weheads

Coastal Carolina in collaboration with the Montego Inn and Bermuda Dunes will present the 1st Intercollegiate Watermelon Dive during the weekend of April 11-13 at the Montego Inn in Myrtle Beach. Invitations have been mailed to 29 colleges and Tech's over the North and South Carolinas. A school is represented by a 4 man or woman team with each member having to dive to the bottom of the pool, retrieve a watermelon and place it on pool side. All four team members share in the watermelon, and are timed individually with times added to accumulate the team score.

Women’s Liberation Refuted

By Mark C. Pope

I am tired of hearing about how women are being suppressed, by males because women are not being suppressed but just being kept in their place. First of all women belong in the home taking care of children and if they don’t have any they should get some. It is not that women are being put down or used as sex objects it is just that women are designed that way. Their bodies are designed for having children.

During the entire history of women’s liberation the movement has been run by brassy females who don’t know when to keep their jaws shut. Women are not equal to men and never can be so why should they be treated as an equal? The biggest mistake the American men have made in the country’s history was to give women the right to vote because most women are not smart enough to decide whom to vote for. By the time they make up their minds, the elections are over. They need men to tell them what they should do. All these female pigs who are running around gabbing about being liberated should have a muzzle put on their mouths.

Strewing strands of gold
Among the pine needles
Which you watered slyly
Because you were hot.
But there were no gnats!
Feasting on

Your green-gold chipped eyes.

MISS COASTAL SUPPORTED

BY Michael Gasque, Editor

With all the money that is being given away at Coastal I cannot see any reason for not giving Miss Coastal an award. Some people say that it is an honor for the person to become Miss Coastal. But, I think it should be an equal honor for the school to have the person that becomes Miss Coastal to represent the school. Many people that hold positions in which they render some service to the college receive a cash award in some form or other. And, I feel that the lady who has her portrait in the hall of the Student Union Building should receive an award for the service that she renders the college.

Larry Biddle Awards

Candidates for this award are selected by student organizations that names submitted to the cheerleaders for final selection. This award is given for outstanding student participation throughout the year; it is given for the student who gives of his time and efforts more than what is required or asked of him in promoting a better Coastal Carolina.

The recipient of this award has his/her name engraved on the award plaque which is displayed in the student union building and receives $100.00 to help further educational opportunities.

Please give your club or organization’s selection to Janie Louie before April 4.
Charleen Floyd, a newcomer plays Antigone.

Antigone To Be Presented April 10 - 12th At Coastal

"You have never seen inhuman forces at work!" You will if you see Coastal Carolina's production of Jean Anouilh's Antigone. Although the play is based on an ancient classic, all aspects of Antigone are fresh and modern. The production promises some new and exciting approaches to staging, lighting, and costume. The set is designed to promote the involvement of the audience with the play. The actors will be costumed in a style that is reflective of the modern and elegant leisure class.

Jimm Cox, who is directing Antigone, has chosen a well-rounded group of actors for his cast. Antigone will be played by Charleen Floyd, a newcomer to the Coastal stage. Charleen is a Psychology major and is involved with many community organizations and activities. Creon, the King of Thebes, will be played by John Smithson, a graduate of North Carolina State University in Maryland with a degree in Speech, Radio, and T.V. John is a former announcer for WMWM-FM radio of North Myrtle Beach. John is also a sports announcer for the North Myrtle Beach Times.

Pat Mages will portray the difficult role of the Chorus. Patricia is also a newcomer to the Coastal stage, but is no novice in theater. She has studied acting at the Anthony Marino Studios in New York City. Marcy Featherston will play Iphigenia, Antigone's sister. Marcy is a Theater major and was last seen as Beatrice in The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds. Mark Land will appear as Haemon, Creon's son. Mark has been in several Coastal productions and was last seen in Cabaret. Mark, a Theater major and Psychology minor, brought his card as Eggbert the Easter Egg in the first grade.

Joyce Thomas will add a humerous touch as the Nurse. Joyce has a B.A. degree in English Education from the University of South Carolina. Pat Timms also adds a touch of humor in his role as the bumbling, fumbling palace guard. Pat is a General Studies major and was last seen as Pvt. in The Pajama Game. The other two guards will be played by David Johnson, a Theater major who was last seen in The Pajama Game, and Charles Black, a Biology major. Debbie Dodson, the Messenger, is a theater major. Debbie hip has done volunteer work for political candidates. In the role of Creon's Page is Mignon White. Mignon is remembered as the silent, but ever-present Nancy in The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds. She is also a Theater major. The silent queen, Eurydice, is played by Diane Tustall, who last played Fraulein Klost in Cabaret.

Antigone promises to be an interesting experience in theater. The production will be presented in the Coastal Carolina Theater on April 10 through April 12 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling 437-3161 or 466-8419. Ticket prices are $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students. For groups of twenty or more, special rates are available. Come share an evening of theater entertainment with Coastal Carolina Theater.

Coastal Carolina will also present and Miss Readon Drinks A Little on April 18-and 19 at 8:15 in the Coastal Carolina Little Theater. The play will be directed by Bruce Young, a junior theater major. Tickets are also presently on sale for this production and are available at the aforementioned box office numbers. Ticket prices are $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students.

HONESTY AT COASTAL

This morning at the student affairs office, I witnessed the strangest thing I have seen in my two years at Coastal. Some young Gentleman came in and asked if we had a Lost and Found at this campus. Miss Baker said we did and then this gentleman turned in the $2.00 he found laying on the ground. I sat there in utter amazement, knowing that if it had been me that found the money that I would have put it in my pocket, put a smile on my face, and considered it my lucky day. Now I ask you, what would you have done? After a quick survey of some of my friends at Coastal, I have the distinct honor of saying that out of 15 people 14 said they would keep it, and one said that she would share it with a friend, which I kind of doubt that she would. So this just goes to show that if you lose any money out at Coastal or any other school, you might as well write it off as a loss. In ending this brief article I would like to congratulate the young gentleman for doing something he would not have done, even though I knew it to be right.
SEARCH FOR NEW BASKETBALL COACH BEGINS

In the event that some of you haven't heard, Dan Selwa has resigned as head basketball coach and athletic director of Coastal for personal reasons. On the afternoon of March 24, 1975, Dr. Singleton announced that Mr. Hambrick had received the position of athletic director. Mr. Hambrick, a graduate of Morehead State, with twenty-two years of coaching experience (twenty-one of those years in the USC system) is now head of the department of Health, PE, and Recreation. His plans are to strengthen the intramural programs as he feels that this will help to build a competitive strength. Another plan is to change the schedule of the basketball team in a way in which it watches teams of equal strength and finance. This should improve our records as we will be playing teams who spend about the same amount of money on their program as we now spend on ours.

As for the replacement of the basketball coach, he will be announced around April 15. There are at least twenty-five candidates for this post. Of the twenty-five, some are outstanding high school coaches, eight to ten college coaches, an outstanding assistant of a major university, plus a stand-out junior college man. Each man will be screened by a committee headed by Dr. Singleton. Along with Dr. Singleton, there are Drs. Stanton and Lackey, the new head athletic director Mr. Hambrick, and Mr. Steve Nagle, chairperson of the athletic committee. They are hoping to find a man with his masters degree so he can teach as well as coach.

COASTAL FISH FINDER

With the approach of spring, the ocean comes alive with fish as well as the fresh water lakes. In most lakes large mouth bass bit best on beds and the angler with a little luck can catch a few. Usually they do not hit to eat but only to protect or clean their beds. A good way to hook one is to cast a chunk of junk loaded with a hook in it on their bed--wait till she moves it and then hook her quick before she drops it. Sometimes this can be done with a lure of some kind.

In the ocean those who venture offshore (15 to 20 miles) and fish the drop-off can expect to catch some good size spot-tail bass ranging upwards to 35 lbs. Also along the same drop-offs you will find small sea bass. At the Gulf Stream you can find some big blue, groupers and snappers. Those who might troll out there could catch a few big kings. Inshore prospects off piers are good for spots, croakers, black drum, and a few small blue. Most of the trout have moved off-shore and northward. There is a slim chance a big blue will hit a live bait. The middle of April will bring the first good catches off the piers. This also is the time the first kings move inshore.

The inlets are producing a good supply of flounder. Mixed along with the flounder are a few spot-tails. These fish are hitting mostly on live minnows. Black drum will take on blue crabs by the more knowledgeable anglers. The surf as a whole is still pretty dormant at this time of year.

As the water warms up in the next four to six weeks you can expect the fish to increase by a good 100%.

Rooster To Reside on Shirts

The Physical Education Majors (PEM CLUB) are in the process of silk-screening Chanticleer shirts which will soon go on sale. The shirts of various colors will be emblazoned by our own Chanticleer (a French rooster), perhaps with moustache, monocle, and beret to attest to his background and style. The brainstorm of yours truly and Mr. Jim Ravaula, should, by this printing, be in the mill with PEM Club members doing the silk-screening under the watchful eye of Mr. Ravaula.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS ARISE! Support the Chants and your PEM Club by getting your requests for shirts in to any member of the Club and be in style by backing the Chants on your shirt.

A special thanks to Tom Cooke, Walt Hambrick, and Robert Ehling for their time and help. And lastly, a very special thanks to Jim Ravaula for his help, his time, and above all for his fantastic looking designs for the screen.

Tennis and Golf Matches

The Chants golf team fired a relatively easy 324-338 victory over High Point College. The powerful Chant golf team has not lost in five matches. The defeat dropped High Point to 5-3 for the year.

Coastal Carolina took first place honors for Coastal with a 76 and was followed by Allen Bryce with a 78. Tony Ivey was low man with a 79 for High Point.

The Coastal men's tennis team netted two wins over Newberry 7-2 and UNC-Wilmington 4-3. These victories advanced Coastal to a 2-1 record. In both matches Coastal was forced to forfeit games because the number 6 man did not show.

BASKETBALL
Coastal vs. College of Charleston

Over 900 spectators watched the Chanticleers close out their basketball season with a 104-74 old-fashioned licking by the College of Charleston Cougars. Coastal ended its season with a 6-17 record. The College of Charleston Cougars boosted their record to 19-8 with one game remaining on their schedule.

The Cougars hit 52.3 per cent from the field, while the Chants shot a dismal 37.3 per cent. The Cougars also pulled down 47 rebounds, while Coastal pulled down only 36. The Chanticleers eliminated an early first half deficit and managed to tie the score at 28 all. Scoring remained relatively even throughout the rest of the period, but the Cougars managed to lead 43-42 at the half. However, the Cougars came out and dominated the last period.

Coastal's Howard White led all scorers with 28 points. Teammates Lonnie Chestnut and Pete Eckert followed with 15 and 13 points respectively. Cougars center Ken Gustafson led the Cougar scorers with 24 points. Theirs Baxter and Jolly each had 17 and Elliott added 12.

Despite Coastal's seemingly undrastic record, the season had it's rewards. In Coastal's second game of the season, the Chants downed the powerful Newberry Indians. Also lost Coastal's first match to College of Charleston by only six points.

Coastal vs. Presbyterian

Despite a blistering 39 point performance by Howard White, the Presbyterian Blue Hose overwhelmed the Chanticleers 129-106 in Coastal's next to last game.

The Chanticleers and Blue Hose battled for a near even first half. However, PC staked to a 64-48 margin at the half. PC came on roaring in the second half but then settled down for a basket routine. The PC lead and the time were against the Chants as they tried to work themselves out of their dilemma. George Hester paced the PC scorers with 26 points. PC also placed five players in double figures including Sewell with 15, Mills with 14, and Jones with 13.

Date Ellis followed Howard White's 39 points with 17 of his own. Eckert and Griffin added 12 points apiece.

BASEBALL
Coastal vs. Marois

The Coastal Carolina Chanticleer baseball team swept a doubleheader from Morris College 4-3 and then 12-2 here on Tuesday afternoon and evening March 4.

Glen Arthur was the spark to Coastal's win as he picked up four hits, one a homer. In the opener, Larry Monts drove in the winning run. Coastal won 4-3.

Coastal vs. Methodist College

In the Coastal Carolina Chanticleers season debut, the Methodist College Monarchs grabbed both ends of a twinbill 9-2 and 4-0 Saturday March 1 in Fayetteville.

Coastal's first win of the season was received its first loss in his first game as the Monarchs slammed in 14 hits. Methodist's Burnt picked up his first win against no losses. Lead-off hitter Robert Bryant of Methodist College collected four hits and Bobby Cobb gained three hits on three trips to the plate. The Monarchs are now 4-0 on the year.

Catcher Steve Lee of the Chanticleers proved to be Coastal's only punch of the day as he collected three hits.

In the second inning of the second game, the Monarchs drove in four runs and then held on to win behind the four-hit shutdown by Mitchell Davis.

Coastal vs. Pembroke

Coastal Carolina's Steve Pearson slammed a homer with the bases loaded which sparked a seven-run fourth inning and pushed Coastal past Pembroke State with an 18-11 victory here Saturday, March 8.

The win boosted Coastal's mark to 4-2 while Pembroke State dropped to 0-2.
