A note of thanks

The following message was received in the Office of Public Information for publication in On Campus.

My heartfelt thanks to all of you for your cooperation and support of the Fire and Safety Program during my tenure. The need for regulations is not always easy to understand; compliance sometimes requires monetary expenditures and necessitates time-consuming procedures and paperwork. The faculty and staff of this university have always put the "welfare of the student" first and cooperated fully with my efforts to implement the Fire and Safety Program for the university. I have enjoyed working with each and every one of you. I leave with mixed emotions but wish you the best in the years to come; the university will continue to grow; your commitment to the "student's welfare and safety" will support that growth.

Sincerely,
Jack Bryant

Are you looking for something to do this summer and do you like to play games?

Students in a creative drama class taught by Sandi Shackelford are looking for adults and teens, ages 14 and older, who would like to play structured and improvisational drama games with the group. Approximately 10 to 12 people are needed each day.

Classes are held Monday through Thursday until August 11, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. in the Little Theater on campus.

Participants may choose to attend only one or two classes, or every class until the semester ends. No fees or registration are required.

Shackelford says the class would like to encourage people to bring their friends and join the group for a lot of fun this summer.

For more information, contact Shackelford at extension 2443 or by calling 248-9203.

Faculty and staff invited guests at Carolina Opry

Coastal's faculty and staff have been invited as guests of Calvin Gilmore Productions for an evening at the Carolina Opry in Myrtle Beach. Faculty and staff members are entitled to one free voucher to attend a show on either Tuesday, August 2, Thursday, August 4 or Thursday, August 11. Vouchers for up to five additional guest tickets per employee may be requested and purchased for $7 each.

Vouchers will be issued by Chris Martin in the Office of the Provost in EMS 206, beginning Monday, July 25. The vouchers must be presented at the Carolina Opry box office from 7 to 7:30 p.m. for the 8 p.m. show on one of the dates listed above as selected by the employee presenting the voucher. Guest tickets must be paid for at the time the voucher is presented at the Carolina Opry box office.

For more information, contact Chris Martin at extension 2086 after July 25.

On Campus summer schedule

Coastal Carolina People

David Millard was recently elected to the board of the South Carolina Humanities Council, effective Nov. 1. The council, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities, is in its 21st year of funding public programs in the humanities throughout South Carolina. The Council awards approximately $250,000 annually in new federal monies for South Carolina. Millard will represent the Grand Strand and Lowcountry region.

Ed Cerny was a presenter at the Noel-Lentz National Retention Conference held in Washington, D.C., on July 16. His topic of discussion dealt with helping freshmen focus on their futures.

On Campus is a publication of the Office of Public Information for faculty and staff of Coastal Carolina University. Items to be included should be submitted by noon the Tuesday before publication.

Coastal Carolina University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity, state-supported institution.
Summer Theater Festival 1994 continues to entertain audiences

Summer Theater Festival 1994 productions continue to provide summer entertainment for audiences in Wheelwright Auditorium. The festival is a collaboration between the Theatre of the Republic and Coastal Carolina University Theater to raise money for the Main Street Theatre Building Fund and Coastal Carolina University theater scholarships.

All festival productions will be held in Coastal’s Wheelwright Auditorium. Tickets are $10, $7 students.

Upcoming events include the following productions.

• Not Now Darling

Coastal Carolina University Theater will perform Not Now, Darling, a comedy by Ray Cooney and John Chapman, on July 22 and 23 at 8 p.m., and July 24 at 3 p.m.

With six popular modern comedies to their credit, Cooney and Chapman are responsible for what one critic called a “billion dollars worth of laughs.” Their works are among the most produced of playwrights in American community theater. The duo specializes in fast-paced physical comedy and plot complications. Another critic said, “if you like the sit-com antics of Lucille Ball and Laverne and Shirley, you’ll love the comedies of Ray Cooney and John Chapman.”

Director Richard Jennings is a theater professor and head of the acting program at USC. His professional acting and directing credits include numerous films and plays. Jennings directed The Fantasticks and The Odd Couple at Coastal during previous summer theater programs.

Lee Shepherd of Coastal’s Department of Theater is set and lighting designer.

Cast members and their roles are as follows:
• David Russell – producer with Video South of Myrtle Beach (role: Arnold Crouch)
• Charles Whetzel – Coastal theater professor (role: Gilbert Bodley)
• Robin Edwards Russell – associate producer and actress with the South Carolina Shakespeare Company (role: Maude Bodley)
• Jason Daniel Vail – Coastal senior theater major (role: Harry McMichael)
• Kerry Nale – College of Charleston freshman (role: Miss Tipdale)
• Michael Matthews – employed by Litchfield Theaters (role: Mr. Frenchham)
• Kristin Olsen – May 1994 English graduate of Coastal (role: Mrs. Frenchham)
• Dargan Baldwin – Coastal junior theater major (role: Mr. Lawson)
• Nikki Deemer – Coastal junior theater major (role: Janie McMichael)
• Daria Knudtson – Professional actress and author (role: Miss Whittington)
• Nina McDuffie – artist and owner, Broadway Gallery (role: Sue Lawson)

• A Walk in the Woods

This drama by Lee Blessing will be performed Friday, July 29 and Saturday, July 30 at 8 p.m.

A Walk in the Woods was inspired by the true story of two superpower arms negotiators who took a walk in the woods together during a break at the 1982 Geneva Convention talks. In the casual meetings that playwright Blessing has imagined, the elderly Soviet diplomat is far more companionable and entertaining than his young American counterpart. The wily Russian knows his business and is cynically aware that the only possible result of the negotiations is a plan for additional talks. In contrast, the American is younger, stiffer and more impressionable; he is new to the business of negotiations and comes to the talks with a naive sense of hope.

A Time Magazine review referred to A Walk in the Woods as “a work of passion and power with the ring of political truth.”

The play, featuring Paul Bressoud, a professional actor from Columbia, as the Russian diplomat, and Steve Hart, a USC theater professor, as the American diplomat, was produced as the opening play for the USC Summer Repertory 1994.

A review by The State newspaper calls A Walk in the Woods “a very funny play about some very serious stuff.”

A Free Times review said, “it was nice to spend an evening walking in the woods with two such intelligent and articulate characters.”

• Noises Off

Tricycle Productions, Inc. will perform Noises Off, a comedy by Michael Frayn, as the final selection in the Summer Theater Festival 1994 series. The play runs Aug. 5, 6, 12 and 13 at 8 p.m., and Aug. 7 and 14 at 3 p.m.

Noises Off is a play within a play that allows the audience to witness the evolutionary process of a play beginning with dress rehearsal and progressing to opening night. The play traces the cast’s problems beginning with set difficulties and progressing to personal entanglements and jealousies that lead to chaos and hilarity as the actors become confused between make-believe and reality.

Noises Off is considered one of the most successful stage farces in the last 25 years. It opened in 1982 and broke box office records during its four and a half year run at London’s Savoy Theatre. The play also received the best comedy of the year award during a two-year Broadway run in the 1980s. It has been translated into 36 languages and was adapted to a film in 1992.

Mainstage magazine calls Noises Off “broad humor at its delectable best. It has nothing on its mind but to induce laughter, and it succeeds in provoking gales of that welcome sound.”

Director Cheri Ivey has performed in numerous productions and has served as a director with American Playwright's and Three by Two Productions, both in New York City. Noises Off marks her local directing debut.

Cast members and their roles are as follows:
• Walter Hunter – Conway Hospital doctor of internal medicine (role: Lloyd)
• Doris Hudson – retired high school teacher (role: Dotty)
• Joseph Lee – Horry-Georgetown Technical College theater professor and president of Horry Arts Council (role: Gary)
• Laura Holliday – Winthrop University drama student (role: Brooke)
• Sol Steinberg – local actor and director (role: Freddie)
• Ron Reichman – 60-year theater veteran (role: Selsdon)
• Sabra Bell – school library media specialist for Horry County Schools (role: Poppy)

For more festival information, call Charles Whetzel at extension 2416. For ticket information, call the Box Office at extension 2502.

Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging receives grant

Governor Carroll Campbell has awarded the Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging at Coastal $1,080,544 in state and federal funds for aging programs and services in three area counties for the 1994-1995 fiscal year.

“Our older population is one of South Carolina’s most valuable resources. Their perseverance and wisdom is a source of strength and guidance for us all,” Campbell said in making the announcement. “These funds will help our most vulnerable elderly live healthier lives and maintain independence as they age.”

The funds are earmarked for a variety of services including providing hot, nutritious meals at various sites statewide and for delivering meals to the homebound. Other services include transportation, in-home care, information and referral and outreach programs.

The Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging, located within Coastal’s Center for Education and Community, plans and coordinates aging services for Horry, Georgetown and Williamsburg counties. Funds are allocated to each county based on its percentage of citizens age 60 and older.

Administered by the Governor’s Office, Division on Aging, the grant represents a portion of $12.7 million in state and federal funds available to South Carolina for aging programs and services to approximately 541,000 citizens age 60 and older.

For more information, contact Barbara Blain, director of the Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging, at extension 2132.

Campus telephone directory updates past due

It is imperative that all departments return directory information verification forms for all faculty and staff immediately to ITS. The database generated from this information is used for all campus communications.

For more information, call Kay Alford at extension 2084.

The next issue of On Campus will be Monday, August 8; deadline to submit information is Tuesday, August 2.
