School of Business unveils Wall Fellows Program

When more than 20 leaders of major U.S. corporations were asked what attributes they look for in young people who are entering the workplace, their responses pointed to individuals with strong leadership skills who have the ability to sustain and discharge significant responsibility with a high level of competence.

In an innovative response to this demand for quality professionals, the School of Business has instituted a new two-year Wall Fellows Program for business majors. Inspired by the needs and concerns of the leaders of these major corporations, the program has been developed by the Wall Fellows Board of Advisers: Peter B. Barr, William J. Baxley Jr., Clay D. Brittain Jr., Fran B. Gilbert, John C. Griggs, E. Craig Wall Jr. and William Woodson.

The Wall Fellows Advisory Board has selected six Coastal business majors to participate in the privately funded program. They are:

- Daniel Aronson – junior marketing major from Myrtle Beach
- Brynjolfur J. Baldursson – junior finance and marketing major from Gardabaer, Iceland
- Tammy Bazin – junior accounting major from Westminster, Vt.
- Vicki Elders – junior accounting major from Conway
- Jamie Lucas-Scialdone – junior finance major from Surfside Beach; and
- Miguel Patiño – junior marketing major from Murrells Inlet.

The board also is responsible for raising private funds to support the program. According to Wall Fellows Program Director William Woodson, support of the program is derived completely from private sources which have been raised by the board. He estimates that the cost to sustain each student in the program is approximately $10,000 per year – at no cost to the student or the university.

At the center of the multi-faceted program is a three credit-hour undergraduate course per semester that covers numerous non-traditional areas including interpersonal skills, personal health and appearance, personal finance and planning, cultural skills, intellectual acuity, business and social etiquette, foreign language study, travel knowledge, business and personal ethics, and more.

Coastal students hold leadership positions in Legislature

When the fall session of the South Carolina Student Legislature convened in Columbia from Nov. 1 through 4, Coastal leaders were at the helm.

Several Coastal Student Government Association (SGA) leaders were elected to office in the legislature for the 1995-1996 year. They are:

- James Dukes Jr. – SCSL Governor, senior secondary education and political science major from Kingstree, Coastal SGA student body president (SCSL Lt. Governor 1994-1995, SCSL President Pro-Tempore 1993-1994);
- Ryan Brown – SCSL Lt. Governor, junior history and political science major from Chesapeake, Va., Coastal SGA vice president (SCSL President Pro-Tempore 1994-1995);
- Michael Hursey – SCSL Attorney General, junior political science major from Myrtle Beach, Coastal class president; and
- Trista Welsh – SCSL Supreme Court Chief Justice, senior political science major from Wilmington, Calif., Coastal SGA treasurer (SCSL Supreme Court Justice 1994-1995).

Founded in 1954, SCSL is designed to educate students about the functions of democratic government and promote student input into public policy-making in South Carolina by passing bills and resolutions; sometimes these bills find sponsors in the General Assembly and become law.

SCSL is composed of approximately 150 delegates from 11 South Carolina colleges and universities, and is funded by the South Carolina General Assembly.

According to Woodson, as students are immersed in this experience, they are exposed to a learning process that involves conceptualizing a situation, mentally reasoning through a situation, visualizing a response and articulating or executing a response.

The intent of the program is to professionally, socially and intellectually groom students in preparation for the highlight of the program: two two-month paid internships at the close of the junior and senior years.

The first internship is conducted at a major company in a metropolitan U.S. city such as New York, San Francisco or Dallas. The second internship is conducted at a major company in an international city such as Paris, Madrid or Milan. Students are sent in pairs to these cities where they work for separate companies from May through July.

Student internships are in fields other than the chosen majors of participants. According to Woodson, this is done to provide students with a broad knowledge of the business field.

"Our goal is to round out personal and social skills to complement academic training to make students fully competitive with business graduates from other schools," Woodson said. "There are no short cuts in the learning process," Woodson said.

According to Woodson, "The course is designed to supplement academic training that students are receiving in the business school with certain real world skills that are both necessary and important for them to succeed in business and the larger world of business in the 1990s."

Students are required to read from a multitude of sources. In addition to a subscription to the Sunday New York Times, students must regularly read magazines in the areas of business, general news, lifestyle, personal fitness, art and fashion.

Students use classic texts such as Jansen's The History of Art, Machlis' The Enjoyment of Music, Emily Post's Etiquette – A Guide to Modern Manners and Walter Hoving's Tiffany's Table Manners.

Students work out with a personal trainer on campus three mornings a week and have a foreign language coach assigned to them. ♦

The student legislature is a mock government modeled after South Carolina's government. House and Senate members, who are selected by the individual member schools, elect five executive officers: Governor, Lt. Governor, Speaker of the House, President Pro-Tempore of the Senate, and Speaker Pro-Tempore of the House. The student legislature also has a five-member mock Supreme Court which makes rulings on popular cases that are heard by the S.C. Supreme Court.

Several outstanding leaders once served as SCSL governors including Robert McNair from 1956 to 1957, Lee Atwater from 1973 to 1974, and Van Hipp from 1978 to 1979.

According to Richard Weldon, Coastal business law professor and SGA and SCSL faculty adviser, the Coastal delegation is composed of some very impressive leaders. "It's rare for an institution to have such heavy representation at this level," Weldon said. He said this is only the second time that a Coastal student has held the position of Governor, and the first time this post has been held by the Coastal student body president.

During the four-day session, students convened in the State House chambers where they met in joint sessions, discussed bills and resolutions and more. Elected officials such as Gov. David Beasley, Lt. Gov. Bob Peeler, and S.C. House of Representatives speaker Tim Rodgers addressed the group. ♦

Good Hair Day

Good Hair Day, a benefit for CARETEAM, will be held Monday, Nov. 6 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. Area hair stylists will cut and style hair throughout the day. Donations of $10 or more include a haircut and ticket to Coastal Carolina University Theater's production of the award-winning 1960s rock musical, Hair. All proceeds go to CARETEAM.

CARETEAM is an AIDS service organization that offers free support services to people with HIV and their caregivers. CARETEAM is a federally funded non-profit agency that provides services to all of northeastern South Carolina including Chesterfield, Darlington, Dillon, Florence, Georgetown, Horry, Marion and Williamsburg counties.

Area stylists include: Marla Goke, Kimmi Farmer and Kevin Klein of Cheveux; Brenda Bird, Gregory Blythe, De'Ann Ennis, Jill Davendonis, Laure Keatts, and Lee Kirt of Dunes Hair Design; Jeff Dunlap, Reni Jaquet and Michael Sypult of Michael & Co. Hair Salon; and Kim Ennis and Ramona Sagun of Ramona Hair Studio.

University Theater to perform Hair

Coastal Carolina University Theater will perform the Broadway musical Hair, with book and lyrics by Jerome Ragni and James Rado and music by Galt MacDermot, Friday, Nov. 10 and Saturday, Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 12 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. Tickets are $8, $5 for students.

The American tribal-love rock musical Hair endures as a unique medium for nostalgic travel to a mythic locale of harmony and understanding, sympathy and trust, brotherhood and love, and peace and psychedelia. The original rock musical, which opened on Broadway in 1967, is still the paramount showcase of the boundless energy and striving innocence of a time long gone.

According to director Charles Whetzel, "We're producing a tangible visual of a colorful and dayglow part of American history."

James Gross is set and lighting designer; Elizabeth Layton, a music and drama teacher at North Myrtle Beach High School, is musical director; and James Clarke, a dance instructor in Myrtle Beach, is choreography director.

The performance will feature a live on-stage band composed of Coastal faculty members Michael Gilbert, Steve Hameleman and Thomas Yoder.

Major cast members and their roles include:

- Chuck Banaszewski (Woof): a senior English major from Waterford, N.Y.;
- Ben Brewer (Claude): community member;
- Manuel Fernandez (Berger): a sophomore theater major from North Myrtle Beach;
- Michael Greene (Hud): a freshman from Conway;
- Penny Miller (Michelle): a freshman theater major from Surfside Beach;
- Annemarie O'Connell (Dionne): a freshman from Westfield, N.J.;
- Pippa Slover (Jeannie): community member;
- Breanne Terry (Crissy): a freshman theater major from Farmington Hills, Mich.; and
- Leslie Turner (Sheila): a freshman theater major from Terrace Park, Ohio.

For more information, call the Wheelwright Box Office weekdays from noon to 5 p.m. at extension 2502. u

Art professor wins award at juried show

Elizabeth Keller's work has been selected to appear in national and regional juried exhibitions.

• At The Whisper Of Wind #2 was chosen to appear in the Kennedy-Douglass Monarch 1995 National Ceramic Competition held in Florence, Ala.; Keller received first place and a $2,000 award for her sculpture. The exhibition highlighted broad ranges of functional and sculptural art clay works; it also included 88 works by ceramic artists from 32 states.

• Fuji-top Teapot, Oliphant Teapot and Wedge-Weave Vessel were chosen to appear in the Forty-Second Annual Pee Dee Regional Art Competition Exhibition held in Florence, S.C. The show highlights contemporary artworks in the Pee Dee Region. All pieces submitted for the competition are original works of art, completed in the past two years and not previously exhibited at the Florence Museum.

Other featured artists included: Treelee MacAnn's Lottie 1932; Paul Olsen's Epiphany; Barbara Smith, a freshman from Myrtle Beach, who received an honorable mention and $65 for her Cuban Exile; and alumna Nina McDuffie's Allegro.

Keller joined the faculty in 1994. She earned a master's degree in fine arts in ceramics from Clemson University in 1992; a bachelor's degree in art from Furman University in 1989 and a bachelor's degree in anthropology from the University of Massachusetts in 1973. She also attended Central Bible College in Springfield, Mo. from 1973 to 1975. ♦

Center assists with "Reclaiming Our Streets" project

Coastal's Center for Education and Community will serve as the information and communications hub for a county-wide project called "Reclaiming Our Streets." According to Danielle Eiler, who is coordinating the center's efforts, The Sun News requested support from the university for the ongoing project which is similar to a program initiated by the Charlotte Observer called "Taking Back Our Neighborhoods."

The clean-up of the Racepath community was the first project undertaking. Eiler hopes this will be an ongoing process in which the university can aid the community in ridding its streets of crime and drugs. Volunteer Barbara Bellamy said without Coastal the success of the effort would not have been possible. Joey McNutt, chair of the Horry County Council, said he and the council were grateful for the university's efforts and hoped this was the beginning of something long-term.

The second "Reclaiming Our Streets" project involves Conway beautification efforts. An informational meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. at Whittemore Park Middle School. For more information, contact Eiler at extension 2673 or call extension 2526. ♦

Nance selected to revise biography

Professor of History Brian Nance has been selected as one of the authors for the modern revised version of the Dictionary of National Biography.

Known to scholars as the DNB, the publication has long been regarded as the original great biographical reference work in the English-speaking world, according to Roy Talbert.

Originally published in 22 volumes in the late 19th century, Talbert said the new DNB is "a monumental effort eagerly awaited by scholars. It is a great honor for Coastal to have one of its professors selected to participate." The project is sponsored by Oxford University Press.

Nance will write the entry on Thomas Cademan, court physician to Queen Henrietta Maria of Great Britain and Ireland, physician to Francis Russell, fourth Earl of Bedford, and first master of the Company of Distillers of London, which was the only distilling company in London licensed by the king in the trade of distilling spirits and making vinegar for medicinal purposes.

According to Talbert, Nance is an expert in the history of medicine. Nance's forthcoming book, Diaries of Diseases, focuses on the medical practices in the court of King James I.

"For a century the DNB has been the standard first reference for the lives of British subjects and will probably be so for another century," Nance said.

Nance joined the Coastal faculty in 1991. He earned a Ph.D. in 1991 and a master's degree in 1986, both in history from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; and a bachelor's degree in history from New Mexico State University in 1984. ♦

Olsen wins national award

Paul Olsen has been named winner of the College Media Advisers Distinguished Four-Year Magazine Adviser Award for 1995.

The award, CMA's highest honor in its division, recognizes Olsen's work as adviser of Archarios, Coastal's undergraduate literary arts magazine. The magazine has won numerous awards, including the Best of Show Award at the 1993 Fall National College Media Convention.

In his nearly 30 years of teaching, Olsen said he has found that it is through failure that the lessons of life are learned. "The knowledge we learn from these mistakes is accumulated and kept with us in the form of wisdom," Olsen said.

Dianna Alsup, managing editor of Archarios, said Olsen's knowledge in the area of publishing and graphic design has been extremely helpful. "He not only advises, but he is active in helping us achieve our goals," she said.

Olsen was honored at the nation's largest assembly of collegiate journalists and their advisers – the 71st Annual Fall National College Media Convention, held Nov. 2 through 5, in Washington, D.C.

Olsen joined the Coastal faculty in 1989. He earned a master's degree in fine arts in 1975 and a bachelor's degree in 1973, both in graphic design from the University of Miami. ♦

Prospective students take a closer look at Coastal

Coastal will host the first of four Campus Visits for prospective students and guests on Saturday, Nov. 11. More than 500 prospective students are expected to take a close look at the university during planned programs for the 1995-1996 academic year.

Campus Visits provide opportunities for prospective students and their families to become familiar with Coastal's admissions process, academic programs, the campus, and financial aid and housing opportunities.

Additional Campus Visits will be held Dec. 9, Feb. 17 and April 13.

For more information, contact the Office of Admissions at extension 2026. ♦

November event planned

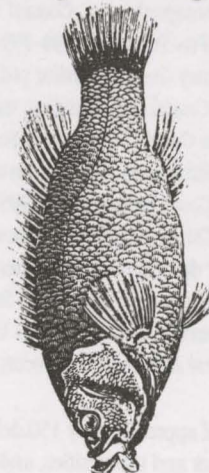

A "Thanksgiving Gathering," an event for Singleton House members, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 4:30 p.m. at the Singleton House. Food will be served at 5:30 p.m.

Coastal faculty and staff are eligible for membership and may join at any time during the fall or spring semesters. The fee is $20 per semester or $30 for the academic year.

The annual "Holiday/End of Semester" event is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 12 for Singleton House members.

Facilities Management names "Employee of the Year"

The Facilities Management Department announced during its annual Fall Fest celebration that custodian Thomas "Ronnie" Howard was chosen "Employee of the Year."

With 72 employees, Facilities Management consists of the departments of custodial, grounds, repairs and renovations, mechanical maintenance, facilities supply, transportation, design and engineering, and fire and safety.

This year's election was unique because it was the first time each employee was given the opportunity to vote for their choice of "Employee of the Year." According to Custodial Superintendent Tyrone Smith, "Mr. Ronnie was evidently the first person that came to mind for the majority of the Facilities Management staff, because he won by a landslide."

A native of Conway, Howard has been employed at Coastal for 16 years and is described by co-workers as someone who takes pride in his work and is always willing to go the extra mile to help others. "Mr. Ronnie is one of the most dedicated employees Coastal has and he always gives 110 percent in his work," Smith said.

Influence of English language topic of lecture

Raymond Hickey, chaired professor of English at the University of Essen (Germany), will speak on "The Influence of Irish English on Overseas Varieties," on Monday, Nov. 13 at 2:30 p.m. in KH 201. The program is free and open to the public.

Hickey's areas of expertise include Appalachian English, African-American English, Caribbean English and others in his presentation.

A brief linguistic and political history of the English language in Ireland provided by Hickey is available in the Office of International Programs and can be sent to campus offices by intercampus e-mail before the lecture.

For more information about the lecture or to have information provided by Hickey sent via e-mail, contact Steve Nagle at extension 2096.

Presentation on Australia and Australian teaching methods

Tim Touzel will conduct two multi-media presentations about his recent trip to Australia. The programs are free and open to the public.

• "Australia: Schools in a Frontier" will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 8 at noon in ADM 003. The lecture will include video and slides; a question and answer session will follow.

• "Culture and Myth of the Land 'Down Under'" will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 15 from 1 to 1:50 p.m. in the Wall Auditorium. The lecture will include slides and music; a question and answer session will follow.

For more information, contact Touzel at extension 2608.

Videoconference tape available in Kimbel Library

The interactive videoconference, "Accommodating Learning Disabled Students in Colleges and Universities," which was recently broadcast on campus is available on videotape in Kimbel Library's Media Collection and may be checked-out with a valid Coastal identification card.

The program evaluation forms from Coastal participants indicated an above average rating.

In answer to the question of identifying the most valuable part(s) of the program, some responses from Coastal participants were: understanding the concept of appropriate accommodations and confidentiality of records in relation to faculty, specific classroom suggestions, legalities discussion, and giving an overall awareness and how to deal with students with LD.

The videoconference was produced by Old Dominion University and was broadcast at Coastal to assist faculty in accommodating the growing number of learning disabled students on campus.

For more information about the program, contact Charmaine Tomczyk at extension 2403. For Media Collection information, call extension 2409.

Coastal Carolina People in the News

Items in the Coastal Carolina People section will appear in the "On Campus" issue following the presentation or event.

Arlene Adams recently published an article, "Process writing: A better answer to an old problem," in the October issue of Parent News. The article describes contemporary writing instruction as it occurs in schools, and explains to parents things they can do to help their children become better writers.

Alan Case was recently selected to publish the South Carolina Recreation and Parks Association's Job Service Bulletin. The bulletin is a monthly publication listing recreation, park, tourism and leisure services employment resources. Case and Archie Hardy presented an instructional workshop on playground safety at the South Carolina Recreation and Parks Association Conference held recently at Springmaid Beach Conference Center. Case and Jeffery Walsh from Lock Haven University presented a paper, "Playground Safety: It's Child's Play—Negative Societal and Parenting Influences Upon Playground Behavior," at Playground Safety—An International Conference held at Penn State Scanticon Conference Center Hotel.

Marios Katsioloudes has had four papers accepted for presentation at the South-West Academy of Management to be held in San Antonio, Texas. The first two papers are case studies: "Karadeniz Yachting and Tourism, Inc." a Turkish family owned and operated company in Istanbul, Turkey; and "Citizens Against Spouse Abuse (CASA)," a nonprofit agency in Horry County. The other two papers are co-authored with students. "The German Automobile Industry" is co-authored with Spyros Charalambous, a marketing major with a minor in global studies. "The World Trade Organization" is co-authored with Steinunn Thordardottir, a 1995 Coastal graduate in Interdisciplinary Studies.

Subhash Saxena recently participated in a meeting of the South Carolina College and University Science and Mathematics Educators (CUSME) held at Francis Marion University. Saxena also serves as an executive board member. The group also toured Francis Marion University's new Hugh Leatherman Science Building.

Tim Touzel recently presented lectures on his work in Australia. He presented "Mathematics Task Centers and Teaching 'Down Under'" at the Southeastern Regional Meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics held in Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 4 through 7. He also was invited to present "Excellence Through Educational Travel: An Australian Experience" at the Kappa Delta Pi Education Honor Society's fall initiation held Oct. 26 on campus.

Long range planning sessions set

The series of "Town Meetings" will continue through Thursday, Nov. 16 in an effort to receive broad-based input from Coastal's faculty and staff regarding the university's goals and the direction Coastal should take by the year 2004, which will mark the 50th anniversary of its founding.

The Long Range Planning Committee has sent full-time faculty and staff an information packet about the "Town Meetings." A suggested meeting attendance date is included in each packet; however, if the date listed is inconvenient, another date may be selected when returning the reservation form. The number corresponding to the meeting you are attending should be written on the reservation form and then returned to Brenda Cox in the Office of Fiscal Affairs.

The remaining meetings are scheduled as follows:

- Tuesday, Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. in ADM 003
- Friday, Nov. 10 at 9 a.m. in ADM 003
- Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 4 p.m. in ADM 003
- Thursday, Nov. 16 at 9 a.m. in ADM 003

For more information, contact Cox at extension 2043.

Indian-Pakistani Food Festival
