Students organize AIDS Awareness event

Three Coastal Carolina University students, concerned about student perceptions regarding AIDS, have organized an HIV/AIDS Awareness Fair, which will take place Monday, Oct. 28 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Spadoni Park. In case of inclement weather, the event will be held in the Student Center.

As part of the HIV/AIDS Awareness Fair, Chad Lucas, director of CareTeam in Myrtle Beach, and Suzanne Dean, HIV Educator from the Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC), will participate in a panel discussion at 11:30 a.m. in the Faculty/Staff Dining Room in the Student Center. The open forum discussion will include several people who are affected by the virus.

"Even though many students have been exposed to some information, there are many myths and misconceptions about HIV and AIDS," said Shannon Namislo, a senior psychology and health major from Stockbridge, Mass., who spearheaded the event along with Kim Faulk, a senior English and health major from Conway, and Lisa LoBianco, a senior sociology and health major from Summers, Conn. "The three of us, because of our interest in the subject, wanted to give back to our fellow students and community the knowledge we have gained," said Faulk.

Agencies and groups scheduled to have booths at the event include: the AIDS Taskforce of Georgetown County; American Red Cross of Georgetown County; the Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC), providing condoms and AIDS testing; HIV/AIDS CareTeam; Horry County Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse; Sue Kuhlens Camp for Kids, a statewide activities program for HIV-positive children; Mercy Hospice of Horry County; and PFLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays). Coastal's Panhellenic and Inter-Fraternity councils will organize games and contests, and the organizers will provide literature about HIV/AIDS.

For more information about the HIV/AIDS Awareness Fair, contact Mary Prince at extension 2682. For information about the panel discussion, contact Vicki Gardner at extension 2340. ♦

Student groups to host benefit rock concert

Three Christian rock bands will perform in Wheelwright Auditorium on Tuesday, Oct. 29 at 8 p.m. as part of a two-month, 25-city national tour of colleges and universities which will attempt to collect 20,000 sweaters, sweatshirts or coats for persons in need. The bands appearing in the "20,000 Jackets Tour," sponsored by 5 Minute Walk Records of Concord, Calif., are Dime Store Prophets, Black Eyed Sceva and Dryve.

The concert, co-hosted by Coastal's chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) and the Baptist Student Union (BSU), in conjunction with Christ Community Church in Conway, is free of charge for those who donate a jacket, sweater or sweatshirt at the door; without a donation, the cost is $5.

"All clothing collected at the concert will be donated to charitable organizations in the area," said Erica Jenkins, instructor of biology at Coastal and FCA adviser. "All monies raised will be distributed by the campus FCA and BSU organizations for those in need."

5 Minute Walk Records is an independent music label which promotes Christian-oriented music to college and young adult age groups. Through previous philanthropic concerts organized by the label, 2,640 blankets were collected for homeless shelters and funds were raised to finance a trip to Disneyland for 72 HIV-positive children and their families.

For more information about the concert, contact Erica Jenkins at 349-2247. ♦

Shakespeare's Richard the Third to be staged at Coastal

The bloody career of Shakespeare's preeminent villain is chronicled in The Tragedy of King Richard the Third, which will be presented by the South Carolina Shakespeare Company as part of the 1996-1997 Wheelwright Series on Friday, Nov. 1 at 7:30p.m.

One of Shakespeare's most frequently staged plays, Richard the Third offers a hero whose evil nature, acid wit and aggressive energy have riveted audiences for four centuries. Shakespeare's dramatization casts the historical Richard of Gloucester as an unscrupulous schemer who murders his way to the British throne in the 15th century.

Richard is played by Greg Williams, who recently appeared in a production of the play presented by the Shakespeare Theatre (formerly the Folger) in Washington D.C. Other players include Tom Dalton as Buckingham, Scott Blanks as Hastings, Hunter Boyle as Clarence, Monica Wyche as Lady Anne and Caroline Weidner as Queen Elizabeth.

Cynthia Gilliam is directing the production.

The Columbia, S.C.-based company has brought in two acclaimed technical directors for this production. The set and costume design are by Ellis Pryce-Jones, chair of the Department of Fine Arts at the University of Nevada and a former student of renowned designer Ming Cho Lee. A graduate of the Yale School of Drama, Pryce-Jones additionally serves as on-call scenic artist for the MGM Grand Hotel's production of EFX.

Nationally known fight director Robert Walsh choreographed the elaborate fencing and battle scenes in the play. Artistic director of the Actors' Action Theatre in Boston, Walsh is on the faculty of Brandeis University and Boston University.

Tickets for the play are $10, $5 for students, and are available at the Wheelwright Box Office. For more information, call the Wheelwright Box Office weekdays between noon at 5 p.m. at extension 2502. ♦

It's not too late to donate

Donations to the Campus Annual Fund are progressing as the campaign continues. As of Wednesday, October 23, gifts and pledges totaling $23,393 have been received from 165 members of the faculty and staff. This year's goal is $27,000.

If you haven't made a donation or pledge, please consider doing so now... it's not too late and the university needs your support.

If you have already made a donation or pledge, the Campus Annual Fund Committee would like to express sincere appreciation. The annual goal can be reached when we work together as a team.

For more information, visit the Office of Institutional Advancement in SNGL 206 or call extension 2007. ♦

Increase issued for mileage allowance

The South Carolina Controller's Office has increased the per mile allowance for use of employees' personal vehicles for University-related business when a state-owned vehicle is not available. Effective immediately, all travel vouchers for reimbursement of personal mileage will be paid at the rate of 25.5 cents per mile.

The Office of Business Affairs will review all previously paid mileage reimbursements submitted since July 1, 1996, and will change the payments from the former rate of 24.5 cents per mile to the new rate. Reimbursements for the difference in mileage will be processed and disbursed accordingly.

For more information, contact Stella Cooper at extension 2041. ♦

COASTAL CAROLINA PEOPLE

- Arlene Adams presented a paper, "Steps Toward Whole Language: A Guide for Classroom Teachers," at the 1996 annual conference of the South Carolina Association for the Education of Young Children, held recently in Columbia, S.C. The paper described the steps that elementary teachers can use to move away from traditional literacy instruction, toward the use of whole language techniques. Teachers are encouraged to make a smooth, gradual transition across instructional paradigms, one that can be navigated confidently.
- Peter Balsamo has been selected to participate in Leadership Grand Strand XVII. Sponsored by the Myrtle Beach Area Chamber of Commerce, Leadership Grand Strand is a nine-month program designed for individuals with demonstrated leadership abilities who want to increase their knowledge of the Myrtle Beach area and to enhance their involvement in community activities.
- Karen Carpenter, Stan Dawgert, Brandon Flickner and Deborah Pittman-Page presented the topic of Service Learning at the Southeastern Regional Association of Teacher Educators 43rd Annual Conference held in Charleston, S.C., on Oct. 11. Flickner and Pittman-Page are both past AmeriCorps Service Learning Coordinators; Dawgert is the immediate past Service Learning Teacher of Horry County. Carpenter is the immediate past Service Learning Regional Coordinator for South Carolina AmeriCorps. The concept of service learning has been mandated into the public schools of South Carolina by the School-To-Work Transition Act of 1994. While mandated by law to at least begin by the seventh-grade, earlier involvement in service learning teaches students the value of helping others in the community while helping themselves to use their academic skills to solve problems. Service to the community or school, actually brainstorming problem solutions, implementing the interventions determined, and evaluating and reflecting on the outcome, are the essence of service learning. As an instructional technique, service learning has earned high praise from students
- Greg Cole presented a paper, "Women Poets of the Generation of 1927," at the 46th Annual Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference held recently at UNCW.
- Carolyn Cox and Joyce Parker were recently honored at Trinity Methodist Church in Conway in appreciation for their service as music directors at the church.
- Steve Hamelman presented "Somnambulism: A Fragment?" at the annual meeting of the Group for Early Modern Cultural Studies held in Pittsburgh, Penn., on Sept. 28. The paper focused on a short story by Charles Brockden Brown, an early American novelist.

- Marchita Phifer has been nominated by the American Biographical Institute, Inc., (ABI) for biographical recognition in the 14th edition of Outstanding Personalities of the South. The institute's media division made the recommendation after reviewing an article about Phifer in the Horry Independent. Persons selected for an ABI publication are citizens whose background, service, past achievements and goals are indicative of role model examples for future generations. Dating to 1968, Outstanding Personalities of the South is one of the oldest "Who's Who" volumes.
- Jim Rogers has been named to the steering committee of the National Parenting Instructors Association. The steering committee comprises a select group of parenting instructors, educators, program developers, researchers and program administrators. The purpose of the committee is to shape the direction of the national association, which provides the leaders of parent training organizations with quality networking, support and resources. Rogers directs H.O.M.E. (Health, Opportunity, Meaning and Empowerment through Education) in the Center, the new parent education and support program offered through Coastal's Center for Education and Community. Rogers also has led training workshops for Horry County Schools home/school coordinators, as well as parent classes for schools, churches and the Department of Social Services (DSS). He envisions workshops for businesses and corporations interested in developing family-friendly seminars. Other future plans for H.O.M.E. in the Center include private conferencing and special classes at sites through the community, as well as a resource library, a ParentLine and fax, and a newsletter.
- Jill Sessoms was a guest lecturer on for the Surfside Beach Library's "Let's Talk About It" series Sept. 25. Sessoms discussed Josephine Humphreys' novel, Rich in Love.
- Charles Wright's sculpture is one of 20 works featured as part of the Tri-State Sculptors Indoor and Outdoor Exhibits on the grounds of the University of South Carolina-Spartanburg campus. The exhibit will be open to the public through May 10, 1997. Two other Wright pieces also will be exhibited in the lobby of the Humanities and Performing Arts Center at USCS and in the main hall at Greenville Tech's Greer campus Oct. 25 through Oct. 27 as part of the annual conference of the Tri-State Sculptors Association, which joins artists from across the Carolinas and Virginia. ♦
