Coastal Carolina University's 11th annual Founders' Day Convocation will be held Monday, Feb. 3 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The ceremony is free and open to the public. The University's Founders' Medallion will be presented to 43 other founders and honorary founders who played instrumental roles in the development of Coastal Carolina University and the promotion of higher education in the region.

U.S. Congressman Mark Sanford (S.C. District 1) will deliver the convocation address. Anne Tllghman Boyce gave a large, undivided portion of Waites Island and Tllghman Point, one of the last undeveloped areas along the South Carolina coast, to Coastal Carolina University. The 1,049-acre tract, located between Cherry Grove Beach and Little River Inlet, is one of the largest gifts the university has received and is a major asset to the long-range plans of the Department of Marine Science and other academic departments of the university. The property includes pristine beach front, marshlands, wetlands and a barrier island.

In 1992, Anne Tllghman Boyce was honored with a substantial cash gift to the Coastal Education and Research Foundation, Inc., the private, non-profit component of Coastal Carolina University. The 1,049-acre tract, located between Cherry Grove Beach and Little River Inlet, is one of the largest gifts the university has received and is a major asset to the long-range plans of the Department of Marine Science and other academic departments of the university. The property includes pristine beach front, marshlands, wetlands and a barrier island.

Born in Columbia, S.C., in 1919, Anne Tllghman Boyce earned a bachelor's degree from Winthrop University and a master's degree in nursing from Yale University. During World War II, she served in the U.S. Public Health Service in Italy and North Africa. She later taught nursing courses at Coastal Carolina College, Florence-Darlington Tech and Francis Marion College. In the 1970s, she made her property near Little River available to Coastal faculty and students for research purposes. Before her death in 1988, Boyce began a dialogue with Coastal Carolina University administrators regarding her wish to preserve the land for education and research. Her goal was achieved after her death through the generosity of her children and other family members, especially Kitty Lou Tllghman.

Kitty Lou Thompson Tllghman was born in Wilmington, N.C., in 1920 and grew up in Marion S.C. She earned a bachelor's degree in English and education from the University of South Carolina in 1944 and married Homer Tllghman Jr. in 1942. Like her sister-in-law, Tllghman wanted to assure that a portion of Waites Island and Tllghman Point would remain undeveloped. The property includes pristine beach front, marshlands, wetlands and a barrier island.

Coastal Carolina University offers a unique program which enables adults to earn a Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies degree (BAIS). The program is designed especially for adults who need a bachelor's degree in order to compete for better jobs, have a college background but wish to obtain a degree; need to arrange classes around work schedules; have long-range plans of attending graduate school; have acquired college-level knowledge outside the classroom but have never been able to receive credit for it.

The BAIS degree is a structured but flexible program that allows individuals to design a degree incorporating prior educational and work experiences while addressing career aspirations. One option for the BAIS degree program is a collection of courses that focuses on developing skills in oral, written and interpersonal communication. Courses are available through the BAIS program, attend the diverse schedules and educational needs of adult learners.

To learn more about educational opportunities available through the BAIS program, attend one of four information sessions. Sessions will be held in the Admissions Building, room 003, at 6:15 p.m. on Feb. 20, March 13 and April 10. The application deadline for admission for the 1997 fall semester is May 1.

For more information, contact the Office of Student Activities for rules and entry forms. A hot chocolate party will follow on the Horseshoe in front of the Singleton Building.

Did you know?
On Friday, Jan. 31, Coastal will hold its first Homecoming Parade in downtown Conway. Prior to 1989, a parade was a regular Homecoming event, but it was held on campus.

Homecoming 1997
The University's Homecoming festivities will open with a first-ever Homecoming Parade, which will roll down Elms and Laurel streets in Conway on Friday, Jan. 31 at 5 p.m. The parade will begin at Conway Marina, travel up Elms Street to Fourth Avenue, then proceed down Laurel Street and return to the marina via Third Avenue. Student organizations and clubs, fraternities, sororities, sports teams and other Coastal groups will ride or march in the parade. Chantily, Coastal's mascot, will be the parade grand marshal.

"This is the first time Coastal has organized a parade as part of Homecoming," said Mona Dukes, director of alumni affairs. "Coastal students and alumni are really excited about it, and we urge the public to come out and enjoy it. We hope to make it an annual event.

For more information on Homecoming or Coastal alumni programs, contact Dukes at extension 6006.

S.T.A.R. sponsors Blood Drive on campus

S.T.A.R., Students Taking Active Responsibility, will sponsor an American Red Cross Blood Drive on Wednesday, Feb. 5 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Red Cross Bloodmobile which will be parked in front of the Student Center. Anyone going through the blood donation process will receive a free Red Cross sports bottle.

According to Anita Christian at the American Red Cross office, this area has been facing a severe blood shortage since the first week of January. "Low donations during the holidays combined with severe weather canceling drives in other parts of the country have depleted the nation's blood supply," she said. "Blood types O+ and B+ are still at less than a day's supply."

Anyone with questions about whether they are eligible to donate can call 236-3970 or 1-800-772-7000.

For information about Coastal's Blood Drive, contact the S.T.A.R. office at extension 2337 or the Office of Student Activities at extension 2301.
