Cultural Celebration wants you to "Discover Your World"

Coastal's sixth annual Cultural Celebration festival will be held Wednesday, April 16 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Spadoni Park. All events are free and open to the public. Ethnic foods and arts and crafts will be on sale throughout the day.

"This festival celebrates cultural diversity," said Suzanne Thompson, coordinator of Coastal's Foreign Language Center and co-chair of the event. "The more you know about different cultures, the more you realize that they're not so different. Instead of focusing on news reports about problems between various groups of peoples, this is a time to simply enjoy the food and music of many cultures." Also co-chairing the event are Tiffany Crawford, a sophomore marine science major from Pikesville, Md., and Treda Smith, a sophomore marine science major from Petersburg, Va.

The festival will feature entertainment from many international cultures. Scheduled performers include: the Ras Bonghi Band, a reggae band; Boris Bourdine, a Russian opera singer; Mariachi Juvenil Guadalajara, a Mexican mariachi band; Windwalkers, a group of Native American dancers; Mausami and Reena Shah, who will perform traditional dances of India; the Coastal Carolina University Gospel Choir; the Orisirisa African Folklore Dancers; Coastal's Baha'i Club, which will perform a set of step dances and Middle Eastern dances; and Coastal professor Marios Katsioloudes, who will sing a selection of Greek songs.

Ethnic foods will be provided by Broadway Bluz/Thai Cafe, Jerusalem Restaurant, Nakato Japanese Steak House and Yum Young's Barbecue. The Sons of Italy will sell Italian pastries, and Philoptochos, a Greek women's club, will sell Greek pastries and Greek coffees. Coastal's International Club also will sell food and candies.

Other vendors participating in the festival include Qué Importa (jewelry), Safari World (arts and crafts) and Coastal's Afro Am Club (Jamaican merchandise). Students from Coastal's Foreign Language Center will offer mini-foreign language lessons free of charge throughout the day.

In case of inclement weather, the event will be held in Coastal's Williams-Brice Gymnasium.

For more information, contact Pat Singleton-Young in Coastal's Office of Minority Student Services at extension 2304 or Suzanne Thompson in Coastal's Foreign Language Center weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at extension 2478. ♦

LeForce named women's basketball coach

Alan LeForce has been named the new head coach of the Lady Chanticleers' basketball program.

"Alan LeForce has a sterling background in coaching basketball," said Buddy Sasser, director of athletics. "Add to his great knowledge of the game the fact that he made many good friendships in the community while coaching in the area before and the results are all positive for Coastal Carolina University and our women's basketball program."

LeForce brings 39 years of coaching experience to Coastal Carolina and has won on every level. From 1990 to 1996, he served as the head men's basketball coach at East Tennessee State University. He led the Bucs to two Southern Conference regular season co-championships, two Southern Conference Tournament titles and two NCAA Tournament appearances. He was named the 1991 District Coach-of-the-Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

After resigning as the school's coach in January 1996, LeForce spent this past year as an Assistant Director of Athletics at ETSU. He also served as an assistant coach at nearby Tusculum College.

LeForce began his coaching career in 1958 at his alma mater, Williamsburg (Ky.) High School. He coached there from 1958 to 1961 and from 1963 to 1967, taking the 1961-1962 year off to serve as an assistant coach at Cumberland (Ky.) College, his college alma-mater.

From 1968 to 1971 he served as an assistant coach at Furman University before accepting the head coach position at the College of Charleston. In nine years with the Cougars, he posted five consecutive winning seasons. While at the College of Charleston, LeForce also served as the school's athletics director for seven years.

LeForce then accepted the head coaching and athletic director positions at Coastal Academy in Myrtle Beach. In five years, he led the boy's basketball team to two South Carolina Independent Schools State Championships and an impressive 125-15 record. In 1985, he moved to Mt. Pleasant, S.C., and coached the boy's program at East Cooper High School for one season before accepting the assistant's job at ETSU.

LeForce is married to the former Shirley Smith of Williamsburg, Ky. The LeForces have two children: Jeff and Michelle, and three grandchildren: Allie, Kathryn and Austin. ♦

Dating and violence will be subject of public forum

An interactive public forum, "Women and Men Talk: Dating and Violence — A Prevention and Intervention Presentation," is scheduled for Wednesday, April 9 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Wall Auditorium. Sponsored by the Coastal Carolina University Counseling Services Center in association with Grand Strand Community Against Rape (GSCAR) and Citizens Against Spouse Abuse (CASA), the event is free and open to the public.

An estimated 3 to 4 million American women are battered each year by their husbands or partners, according to the National Woman Abuse Prevention Project. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that one third of all female homicide victims are killed by their boyfriends or husbands. In 1993, South Carolina reported 13,869 cases of spouse or dating violence, and most relationship violence is never reported.

"Women and Men Talk: Dating and Violence" will focus on prevention strategies and provide current information on the dynamics of dating and violence. The program will include a question and answer session.

The panel for the forum includes:

- Yvonne Makl, executive director of GSCAR;
- Tammy Jordan, volunteer coordinator of GSCAR;
- Scott Rutherford, Horry County Police Department, Violent Crimes Division;
- John M. Hillard III, special prosecutor, 15th Judicial District;
- Leah Leuthauser, adult counselor at CASA;
- Tamara Willard, outreach advocate of CASA; and
- Matt Hayden, board member of CASA.

The panel also will include survivors of abuse and volunteers from abuse agencies.

For more information, contact Stacy Cretzmeyer of Coastal's Counseling Services Center weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at extension 2900. ♦

Nicaraguan development worker to speak at Coastal

Nicaraguan social worker Sarah Junkin Woodward will speak at Coastal on Monday, April 21 at 7 p.m. in the Admissions Building, room 003. The program is free and open to the public.

Woodward is a member of the Winston-Salem, N.C.-based Center for Development in Central America (CDCA), a nonprofit organization which has initiated a series of service programs in an inner city neighborhood in Managua, Nicaragua. She will present a slide show depicting CDCA's efforts to help improve sanitary conditions, health services and agricultural methods in one of Managua's poorest areas. Handicrafts made by the people of the region also will be available for purchase.

Since CDCA volunteers arrived in Managua three years ago, sanitary conditions have improved, health clinics and medical supplies have helped to decrease the mortality rate, pilot organic sesame crops have been successfully grown and harvested by cooperatives, and a wide variety of other projects have been started.

For more information, contact Jim Henderson in the Department of Politics and Geography, weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at extension 2626. ♦

Alcohol issue spawns debate at Coastal

A debate on the issue of allowing alcohol to be served in a designated area on the Coastal campus, consistent with the university's alcohol policy and state law, will be held Wednesday, April 9 from noon to 2 p.m. in front of Kimbel Library.

The forum is sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, a national leadership organization, and the National Honor Society. Edgar Dyer, professor of politics and counsel for the university, will moderate the debate.

Panel members include: Donald Brook, Coastal's director of safety; Ryan Brown, senior history major of Chesapeake, Va.; Richard Eddings, junior history major of Little River, S.C.; Vicki Gardner of Coastal's Counseling Services; Donnie Jones, senior political science major of Guntersville, Ala.; Ollie Marseglia, senior secondary education music major of Myrtle Beach; Bob Peterson, junior biology major of Rockford, Ill.; and Robert Shelton, senior political science major of Conway, S.C.

In case of inclement weather, the event will be held downstairs in the Student Center.

For more information, contact Kathy Watts in Coastal's Office of Student Affairs weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at extension 2302. ♦

Workshops on developing effective work teams offered

"Developing Winning Work Teams," a workshop for businesses and professional organizations, is being offered on Wednesday, April 30 from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. at the Myrtle Beach Area Chamber of Commerce, 1200 N. Oak St. in Myrtle Beach. The registration fee for the workshop, which is sponsored by Coastal Carolina University in association with the chamber, is $129 for Myrtle Beach Area Chamber members and $189 for non-members.

Recent surveys suggest that as many as 80 percent of American organizations — large corporations, learning institutions, hospitals and small businesses — have some kind of work teams in place. Many of these teams are highly successful in increasing quality, productivity and customer service. However, some teams fail because of a misunderstanding of the "team" concept and a lack of teamwork skills training. This workshop is designed to provide the understanding and skills necessary to develop successful work teams.

The workshop instructor is Maureen H. O'Brien, president of OB Management Consultants and the author of Who's Got the Ball? And Other Nagging Questions About Team Life. She has specialized in team development for the past 15 years and her clients include IBM, General Electric and Allied Signal.

Topics to be covered in the seminar include: characteristics of high performing teams, correcting team dysfunctions, how to resolve conflicts, team decision making, the confusion about empowerment, and how to create task/maintenance balance.

Enrollment for the workshop is limited to 25 participants. For registration information, contact Audrey Garland in the Division of Extended Learning and Public Service weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at extension 2666. ♦

Grant supplies films for Latin American Studies

Kimbel Library has received 28 new Latin American videos through a Mellon Foundation grant provided by Tulane University. For the 10th consecutive year, Tulane's Center for Latin American Studies has funded the purchase of materials for the Kimbel Library. The $500 award is part of the Louisiana university's outreach effort aimed at enhancing Latin American studies throughout the southeastern United States.

The videos are largely feature-length films produced in Latin America. Most are in Spanish or Portuguese with English subtitles.

Among this year's acquisitions are How Tasty Was My Little Frenchman (1978), based on the case of a French citizen captured by Brazil's Tupi Indians in the early 16th century, and the U.S.-produced The Burning Season (1994), which recounts the story of the martyred Brazilian ecological activist Chico Mendes, portrayed by Raul Julia in his last starring role. Nostramo (1996), a six-hour public television production based on the Joseph Conrad novel, stars Colin Firth and Albert Finney.

Five of the new videos are Argentine, four are Venezuelan, three are U.S. productions and two are Brazilian. Ecuadorian, Peruvian, Cuban, Haitian and Colombian films also are included among the recent acquisitions.

Coastal has a collection of 150 Latin American feature and documentary films acquired through the Tulane/Mellon grant.

For more information about films available in the Kimbel Library Media Center, contact Ann Wegner weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at extension 2409. ♦
