I. Call to Order

Chairman Wyatt Henderson brought the meeting to order at 9:00 a.m. Robert Templeton offered an invocation.

Newly appointed trustee, Chuck Lewis, was recognized and welcomed.
Larry Lyles reminisced about his 20 years of service on the Board of Trustees. With the retirement of Duke Brown, only he and Oran Smith are left on the Board as the original trustees. Lyles’ son graduated from Coastal Carolina University. Through the years, the University has evolved both physically and administratively. He has enjoyed serving with the trustees who are no longer here. It has been a pleasure and honor to help and he has enjoyed every minute.

Keshav Jagannathan was recognized for his service as faculty senate chair. David DeCenzo expressed appreciation for Jagannathan and is looking forward to a working relationship with Steve Madden.

Dennis Wade, Coastal Educational Foundation President, reported that the change from the CommonFund to Brown Brothers Harriman Company is completed. A $1M gift has been received from the Bernard Osher Foundation for the Osher Life Long Learning programs at Coastal Carolina.

As of June 30, 2013: total assets $33.2 M; liabilities $.5M; fund balance - $32.7M. Of that $32.7M, $7M is unrestricted and $2.9M is unrestricted cash.

Investments in Brown Brothers Harriman totaled $25.4M with an allocation of 6.7% in equities, 58.8% in fixed income and 34.5% in cash. Over the next six to nine months BBH will be moving the endowment into equities in the most prudent manner to achieve our current targets of 65% equities and 35% fixed income. Our return on investments is 17.59% of this fiscal year through 5/31/2013. The 5-year average annual return is 5.89% and the 10-year average annual return is 7.69%.

The CEF audit will begin the end of July and is scheduled to take two weeks.

A letter was read from Nancy Jarrett, Executive Director of the Student Housing Foundation. Lynn Stevens has been re-elected as chair and Daniel MacDonald as Vice Chair. Gary Brown has resigned and Carlos Johnson has been elected to serve on the Foundation. The audit of both the SHF and related Coastal Housing Foundation LLC for the year ending June 30, 2013 begins the end of July with auditor Elliott Davis.

Mark Roach, Chanticleer Athletic Foundation Executive Director, reported for Janice Simmons, President. The year-end report for the CAF shows outright cash $587,333, total fundraising $1,995,906 and total cash received $1,897,550. Everyone was reminded about the Athletic Gala on August 16. Athletics and the CAF are working hard on season tickets.

Benjamin Richard, Student Government Association Vice President, reported that a retreat will be held for SGA senators in the fall where their duties and responsibilities will be reviewed, as well as getting better acquainted. A campus service day was also planned.

Roll call was taken.
II. Approval of Minutes

Bill Biggs moved to approve the May 10, 2013 minutes and Gene Spivey seconded. The motion carried.

III. President’s Report

Greg Thornburg gave an Admissions update by reviewing the new undergraduate student application highlights. The change from last year to this year for freshmen is: first time freshman – 28.1%; acceptances – 11.3%; and, deposits .8%. Transfer applications change from last year is: applications – 31.1%; acceptances $-3.8%; and, deposits -2.7%. There are 300 transfer students and parents on campus today.

David DeCenzo said that there is a new trend of slow deposits due to the economy and waiting until the last minute to do so.

The fall enrollment goal is 9,433 and we have reached 88.7% to date. However, we have an increase of 101% from the same time last year.

Freshman SAT scores have improved 13% from last year at this time.

DeCenzo made it clear that we do not reject any qualified South Carolina high school graduate. They are guaranteed a spot at Coastal Carolina University. There are different ways of looking at student population 65% in-state 35% out-of-state. On the other hand our population for students in the academic common market is 50/50. Veterans from anywhere are counted as in-state students.

Edward Jadallah, dean of the Spadoni College of Education, presented the trustees with a world globe paperweight representing that college prepares students for a global society.

Fact Sheet and Advertisements for Education Forum Series was distributed. Key initiatives are: Consortium for Educational Research and Evaluation (CERE); Educational Forum Series; Chanticleer Literacy Lab-tutoring opportunities; and Biddle Center for Teaching, Learning and Community

Three students proceeded to share their experience at Coastal Carolina University.

Kenneth Jackson is from South Carolina and a junior majoring in middle education. He summarized his educational experience as unconventional. He said, “I’m an African American male. I’m a weird kid and afraid of the dark. I chose teaching middle level education because I’ve had my best experience in the middle school years.” At this age children’s allegiances change from parents to peers. He feels that his job as an educator is to steer them on the right track to high school and life. He is part of the Call Me Mister teacher leadership programs which works to put minority men into the classroom. He feels that the college of education is a family and Jadallah knows him by name. That in itself is unconventional at a university. His aspirations are to graduate and teach in this area/state. He is ready for the challenge.
Lauren Suntanielle is from New Jersey and studying for a master’s in education literacy. In May, she graduated from another university. She has always known what her major would be. Until she was in the fourth grade, she couldn’t read because her dyslexia was undiagnosed. Her teachers weren’t supportive. On teacher even wrote on Suntanielle’s paper that she was stupid. After being diagnosed, she worked with a reading specialist. She wants to pass it forward and become a reading specialist to help children like her who feel hopeless. She is enjoying her hands-on experience. Suntanielle is a published author of a young adult trilogy. She is working as a graduate assistant on a magazine. Jadallah is also very familiar with her and she feels at home at CCU.

Alex Fegely is from Pennsylvania and working on a master’s degree in instructional technology. His undergraduate work was completed at Temple University. Faculty at CCU was a big factor in deciding where he would attend graduate school, especially Dr. J. R. Winslow. The program and classes offered are achieving his vision of what he sees himself becoming-- the best education teacher that he can be. As a graduate assistant for technology, he is working on distance learning programs. Fegley was hired as an adjunct instructor to teach some basic technology courses. Palmetto Academy for Learning Motorsports (PALM) is a tuition free, non-profit charter school designed to address the needs of very specific students who do not learn best in a traditional school setting. The focus is on learning traditional subjects while also developing motorsports skills. His experiences thus far have surpassed expectations.

Jadallah stated that these three students exemplify the potential of all students at CCU in the college of education.

Lyles ask how the education graduates are doing in finding jobs. Jadallah responded that job success is discipline related. The sciences and special education teachers are in demand. Another factor is whether or not you are willing to move away from area.

Mike Roberts, dean of the College of Science and VP for Research and Emerging Initiatives will make a presentation at the next Board meeting.

Spivey seconded.
