Coastal to participate in expanded MBA cooperative

Winthrop University has expanded its existing Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree program to include a Health Services Management (HSM) emphasis. Coastal Carolina University, which has offered the Winthrop MBA degree through a distance learning cooperative program since 1994, will offer the new MBA-HSM degree through distance learning beginning January 1998.

The new degree was developed in response to requests from professionals in the Pee Dee and Grand Strand areas to provide graduate-level education in business disciplines for health services managers. The need for the degree is prompted by fundamental changes in the structure of U.S. health care delivery systems in the last 15 years which have led to an unprecedented increase in the number of managed health care firms, particularly in South Carolina.

The registration fee for each course is $59; $49 sionals in the state is expected to increase 28 percent by the year 2001, according to a report by the S.C. Employment Security Commission. The MBA-HSM degree is designed to train business managers with the skills and knowledge to integrate general business principles in the operation of health service organizations.

The MBA-HSM degree will require the completion of the same core courses required of all MBA students plus a health services management emphasis of five courses. The core courses will be offered at Coastal Carolina University via distance learning technology. The health services management courses, also offered via distance learning, will be provided by the Department of Health Administration, College of Health Professionals of the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC).

Business students develop strategic analysis plan

Students in Marios Katsioloudes' business policy class took advantage of a unique opportunity to get involved in real-world civic planning during the 1997 fall semester. Acting on a request from David Sandora, director of the Georgetown County Economic Development Commission (GCEDC), the class produced a 45-page analysis of the organization which will be used in the preparation of an official strategic plan which GCEDC has undertaken.

Working in teams, the 15-member class began on the project in September, conducting extensive interviews with citizens of Georgetown County and with members of the GCEDC board of directors. Based on interviews and research, the teams compiled a SWOT (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats) report analyzing the economic infrastructure of Georgetown County. The students also made a detailed study of budgets and organization charts. Their final report suggests a number of new marketing strategies, including joint ventures with other area agencies.

On Dec. 2, the students presented the report to Sandora, who subsequently presented it to the GCEDC board of directors at an annual planning retreat. "The report was well received by the commission," said Sandora, "and we plan to incorporate some of the findings into our strategic plan. This research was done with the skill and professionalism not found in some professional consulting firms and it provides us with a great deal of objective information that we can build on."

The following students, all seniors, took part in the project:

- Leslie Adams, marketing major from Longs, S.C.;
- Jill Cimineri, marketing major from Surfside Beach, S.C.;
- Megan Dombrowski, accounting major from Myrtle Beach, S.C.;
- Scott Friday, accounting major from Surfside Beach, S.C.;
- Denise Gullledge, marketing major from Effingham, S.C.;
- Tonya Hamby, management major from Hickory, N.C.;
- Christopher Hine, marketing major from Rio Rancho, N.M.;
- Melanie Hogan, management major from Warwick, N.Y.;
- Gerrard Jones, management major from Cornwell, England;
- Tim Piver, management major from Conway, S.C.;
- Lisa Rachels, accounting major from Englishtown, N.J.;
- Neal Robinson, marketing major from Natwick, England;
- Roger Rupert, accounting major from Center Moriches, N.Y.;
- Jenny Tolson, management major from Stafford, Va.; and
- Chris Turner, marketing major from Walterboro, S.C. ♦

Martin Luther King, Jr. Day to be celebrated

Martin Luther King Jr. Day will be observed at Coastal on Monday, Jan. 19 with two events designed to pay tribute to the late civil rights leader.

The public is invited to help form a "peace circle" at 1:30 p.m. in Spadoni Park. Following the peace circle, a tribute service will be held in Wheelwright Auditorium. Debbie Dewitt, a teacher at Carolina Forest Elementary School, will be the guest speaker. Entertainment will be provided by local youth groups, including the Coastal Carolina University Gospel Choir, Conway High School Gospel Choir, Georgetown High School Concert Choir, North Myrtle Beach Middle School Choir and the Justine Roberts Dance Group.

Both events are free and open to the public. For more information, contact Pat Singleton-Young at extension 2304. ♦

COASTAL CAROLINA PEOPLE

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

Peter Balsamo moderated a panel of presenters from four institutions and also gave a presentation on "Distance Education Technology: Lessons Learned," at the 59th annual meeting of the Association for Continuing Higher (ACHE) Education held at Penn State University in October. Balsamo has served as chair of the ACHE Applications of New Technologies for the past two years. He also is chair of the local arrangements committee for the ACHE meeting to be held in Myrtle Beach in the year 2000. Balsamo co-presented, with Ellen Nagy, at the University of South Carolina conference "Computers on Campus: Integrating Institutional Resources," which was held in Myrtle Beach in November. Their topic, "Opportunities and Challenges in the Use and Application of the Information Technologies by Older Adults/Retirees," was based on a research project funded by Hall Development concerning a survey of computer usage by residents of Myrtle Trace Retirement Community.

Cyber Days offers classes for all levels

Cyber Days computer applications workshops offer basic and advanced training for adults interested in learning more about computers. Individual one-day courses will be held at Coastal between Jan. 31 and April 4, 1998. Sponsored by the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services, each Cyber Days workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Horry County Schools Technology Training Center located in Kearns Hall 209.

Workshops are taught by Horry County Schools personnel. The registration fee for each workshop is $89, and each workshop is limited to 12 participants, who will work on individual multimedia Pentium computer workstations operating Windows 95.

For more information or to register, contact the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at extension 2665 or inquire by e-mail at: metst@coastal.edu

Art exhibit "Symbolic Echoes" opens January 20

An exhibit of art titled "Symbolic Echoes" by Carolynne Miller, part-time instructor of art, will be on display at Coastal's art gallery in the Admissions Building from Tuesday, Jan. 20 to Saturday, Feb. 14. The opening reception for the exhibit will be held Tuesday, Jan. 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. Miller also will give a lecture on the exhibit prior to the opening reception at 12:30 p.m. in the Wall Building Auditorium. The exhibit, lecture and reception are free and open to the public. The gallery is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Miller will talk to art students at Conway High School on Feb. 3 on the subject "Killing Rage: An Artistic Response." She will display and discuss a series of works she created in response to the shooting death of her nephew in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miller earned a bachelor's degree from Morgan State University and a master of fine arts degree from Vermont College in Montpelier. Her work has been shown in many national exhibitions and museums including the State Museum of Pennsylvania, St. John's University, Alexandria Museum of Art in Louisiana, Hoyt Institute of Art in New Castle, Pa., and the Florence Museum of Art.

For more information about the exhibit, contact Cheryl Green, Coastal's gallery coordinator, at extension 2750. ♦

Annual raffle and social

The annual School of Education and Graduate Studies' Social and Raffle will be held Friday, Jan. 30 at the Dunes Golf and Beach Club in Myrtle Beach. Tickets are a $100 donation, which will admit two people and include heavy hors d'oeuvres and an open bar. A $2,500 grand prize, as well as additional prizes, will be awarded during the event.

Proceeds from the annual fundraiser, which is sponsored by the school's Board of Visitors, are used to benefit the School of Education and Graduate Studies. The Social and Raffle has allowed the board to be able to donate computers to the school's technology classroom, establish the annual Distinguished Senior Award, support the printing and distribution of the Pathways to the Future newsletter, establish the Distinguished Mentor Award and the Distinguished Teacher/Scholar Award, and initiate the annual Teaching Enhancement Grant Program.

For more information or to purchase a ticket, call the Office of the Dean in the School of Education and Graduate Studies at extension 2600. ♦
