Trustees approve new campus construction projects

During its quarterly meeting Oct. 2, the Coastal Carolina University Board of Trustees gave the administration approval to seek the sale of revenue bonds to fund construction of a new residence hall, an expansion of the dining facility adjacent to Residence Hall M, a laundry facility, and a welcome center. All of the projects are revenue-producing, and these revenues will be used to meet the debt service on the bonds.

The new residence hall will consist of approximately 390 beds with a mixture of 20 percent double occupancy rooms with shared bath and 80 percent four-person suites. Each floor of the facility will contain common and study areas. The residence hall will be constructed to the east of Residence Hall M. University officials estimate that the residence hall facility will be ready for Fall 2000 occupancy.

The additional seating capacity in the primary food service facility will be designed to seat approximately 400 individuals with adequate additional serving areas. The laundry facility will contain areas for a game room and a small grill as well as coin-operated laundry facilities. The laundry facility will be constructed on Chanticleer Drive adjacent to the residence halls.

The welcome center will house an expanded University Bookstore, the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services, and space for visitor information. The welcome center is to be constructed on Chanticleer Drive East across from Wheelwright Auditorium.

The facilities will be constructed according to architectural and quality standards already established by the University. The construction projects were included as part of the University's Campus Master Plan, and were originally approved in the 1996-1997 Annual Permanent Improvement Plan. In other Board business, Joyce Parker, associate professor of English and senior faculty member, has been named Emeritus Professor, and will be recognized during the December Commencement ceremony.

Hispanic Celebration set for Oct. 14

Coastal Carolina University will host the annual Hispanic Celebration on Wednesday, Oct. 14 from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Spadoni Park on the Coastal campus. The event is free and open to the public.

The purpose of the event is to create awareness about Hispanic cultures among college students, faculty, staff and the community. The Hispanic Celebration will feature food and music from the countries of Central, Latin and South America. Maps, posters and other information will be displayed. In case of inclement weather, the event will be rescheduled.

Extended learning to host teleconference

"-reaching Your Financial Goals: Tips from America's Experts," a national satellite teleconference presented by TIAA-CREF will be broadcast Wednesday, Oct. 28 from 1:45 to 3:30 p.m. at the Society House on campus. The 90-minute teleconference will be broadcast live via satellite. Experts in the fields of investing and personal finance will outline basic strategies which can help individuals make sound financial decisions. Members of the panel include:

- Elizabeth Vargas, moderator; anchor and correspondent for ABC News
- Jane Bryant Quinn, personal finance columnist and author of Making the Most of Your Money
- Peter L. Bernstein, economist and author of Against the Gods: The Remarkable Story of Risk
- Martin Leibowitz, TIAA-CREF vice chairman and chief investment officer
- Elissa Bue, president-elect of the Institute of Certified Financial Planners
- Kay McFarlin, TIAA-CREF assistant vice president

The registration fee for Coastal faculty and staff and Lifelong Learning Society members is $10.

New member appointed to Coastal's Board of Trustees

Robert Lee Rabon has been elected by the South Carolina General Assembly to serve as a member of Coastal's Board of Trustees. A lifelong resident of Horry County, Rabon is owner of Rabon's Insurance and Realty and Rabon's Mobile Homes. He has served on the Horry County Higher Education Commission for 12 years, including terms as chair and vice chair of the commission. Rabon has served on many other boards and committees in the region, including Horry County Council, the Carolina Bays Task Force and the advisory board of United Carolina Bank.

Rabon is a Coastal Carolina University alumnus. Coastal's Board of Trustees has 17 members. Fifteen are elected by the General Assembly (two from each Congressional District and three from the state at large), one is appointed by the Governor, and one ex-officio member is the Governor's designee.

Family Weekend Oct. 16-18

Coastal will host the annual Family Weekend from Friday, Oct. 16 to Sunday, Oct. 18. Faculty and staff are encouraged to attend.

Participating family members will have the opportunity to meet university administrators, faculty and staff at a Faculty Coffee, play in a golf tournament, and attend a sea turtle and bird watching expedition on Waites Island. Other events scheduled during the weekend include a picnic at Brookgreen Gardens, Jamfest featuring live musical entertainment, and an art exhibit.

"By participating in family weekend, parents and other members of our students' families have an opportunity to visit with students, catch a glimpse of student life, and to develop closer ties with the university," said Sue Colvard, Coastal's director of volunteer programs.

For more information, contact Colvard at extension 2022.

Faculty and Staff are encouraged to submit Information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Olcay Akman and Prashant Sangiriy presented a lecture at the annual meeting of the Southeastern Chapter of the Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences held in Myrtle Beach, Oct. 1. Akman and Sangiriy presented "Modeling Purchase Incidence Using Mixture Inverse Gaussian Interpurchase Times."

- Edna Bellamy was keynote speaker at the Young Woman's Auxiliary session of the Kingston Lake Baptist Woman's Convention held in Green Sea, S.C., in September. Her speech was "Empowering our Churches and Communities for the 21st Century Through Education."

- Paul Rice recently completed the one-month intensive Summer Institute at the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts (MESDA) in Winston Salem, N.C. The institute carries six semester hours of graduate credit in art history and interprets the decorative arts in the South from 1607-1830. Rice completed a research project tracing the influence of metaphysical poetry and the English emblem tradition on American printmaking in the 18th century.

- Jill Sessions served on a panel with four English department chairs held recently at the University of South Carolina in Columbia. The event was sponsored by USC's graduate school and was established to provide students with information concerning what departments look for when seeking new instructors.

- Steve Sheel and Gene Collins were co-presenters at the meeting of the Southeast Chapter of the Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences held in Myrtle Beach during October. They presented "The Effect of Field-Independent/Field-Dependent Cognitive Style on the Acquisition of Computer Applications Presented in Self-Faced and Traditional Lecture-Based Courses."

Coastal Productions Board staff attends NACA meeting

Members of the Coastal Productions Board attended the 1998 National Association of Campus Activities (NACA) Southeast Regional Conference in Winston-Salem, N.C., from Sept. 24 to 27. The annual conference brings together campus programming boards, vendors and entertainment arts and offers educational seminars on administration, marketing, publicity and other aspects of campus programming, according to Porter Medley, coordinator of the Coastal Production Board. "We are working on bringing four or five of the acts we saw at the NACA meeting to campus next spring, including a comedian, a band and a hypnotist" said Matt Morrin, director of Student Activities. Morrin and 15 student representatives from Coastal Productions Board attended the meeting.

Art Exhibit to feature three painters

"Momentary Abstractions," an art exhibit featuring works by Angiola Churchill, Mindy Gluck and Tom Ogbum, will be on display at Coastal Carolina University's Gallery on the Horseshoe in the Admissions Building from Oct. 16 to Nov. 6. An opening reception for the exhibit will be held Friday, Oct. 16 from 1 to 4 p.m. The exhibit and the reception are free and open to the public.

Angiola Churchill, who had an exhibit at Coastal in 1986, is an internationally recognized artist known for her large-scale abstract paintings. She maintains studios in New England. She earned a master of arts degree from New York University in 1991 and served as an assistant to painter Lee Krasner. Churchill also is co-founder and co-director of the International Center for Advanced Studies in Art. Mindy Gluck is a New York-based artist whose complex, multilayered oil and acrylic paintings have been featured in many solo and group exhibitions in New England. She earned a master of arts degree from New York University in 1991 and served as an assistant to painter Lee Krasner.

Tom Ogbum of Bethune, S.C., paints in acrylic and mixed media on wood panels which he constructs himself. His work, inspired by history, dreams and family folklore, has been exhibited in the Carolinas and in the Western United States. He also has worked as a woodcarver, illustrator, museum director and advertising executive. He earned a bachelor's degree in art studio from the University of South Carolina in 1978. The exhibit is being held in conjunction with the 1998 Vivace Celebration of the Arts. For more information, contact Cheryl Green, gallery coordinator at Coastal, at extension 2750.

Midnight Mania kicks off basketball practice season

Practice season for the Chanticleers men's and women's basketball teams will officially get underway with Midnight Mania, scrimmage games, a dunk contest and other activities will be featured at 11:45 p.m. on Oct. 16 in the newly renovated Kimbel Arena. NCAA rules stipulate that basketball practice begins on the first Saturday following Oct. 15, according to Wayne White, Coastal's sports information director. Midnight Mania is a great way for the teams and the fans to get an early start heading into basketball season," said White. "It's also a good opportunity for fans to experience the new chair-back seating and other renovations which have been made in Kimbel Arena."

Sonic Drive-In will provide samples of their new Kickin' Chicken sandwich, named for Coastal's student cheering group the Kickin' Chicken Fanatics. Midnight Mania is free and open to the public. For more information call Wayne White at extension 2822.

R.A.D. defense course receives award

The Coastal Carolina University Police Department has been present in the region. A "Law Enforcement All Star" award for its Rape Aggression Defense (R.A.D.) course by the Myrtle Beach Hospitality Association. The award was presented as part of the Hospitality Association's "Blue Ribbon Week," which recognizes law enforcement officials in Horry and Georgetown counties. R.A.D. is an eight-week course which offers training in risk reduction strategies and physical defense techniques for women. The course is offered each semester at Coastal and is taught by Les Haga and Tom Mezzapelle of Coastal's Office of Law Enforcement and Safety. Law enforcement agencies in Horry and Georgetown counties were eligible to compete in Blue Ribbon Week in two categories: departments with 25 or less officers represented the second category. Coastal won the top honor for the 25 and under category. For more information on Coastal's R.A.D. course, contact the Office of Law Enforcement and Safety at extension 2177.

Writing workshops focus on fiction

Novelist and editor Michael Garrett will lead three workshops at Coastal on Oct. 17 and 18 designed to help fiction writers develop their craft and sell their work.

Garrett will lead a discussion on what it takes to be a successful novelist in "Writing a Novel that Sells" on Saturday, Oct. 17 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fee is $69. A session for writers who are just getting started, "Fiction Writing for Beginners," will be held Saturday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. The fee is $39.

An all-day session on Sunday, Oct. 18, "Creating a Novel from Scratch," features a step-by-step plan to guide writers in the process of writing fiction. Participants will develop a novel outline, create a cast of characters, choose a point of view, write an opening scene, and formulate a marketing plan. The seminar is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the fee is $69.

Participants may attend all three workshops for $160. All workshops will be held in Coastal's Admissions Building 005.

Garrett has worked as a writer and editor for more than 20 years. He has published a novel, Keepers, and his stories and articles have appeared in the United States, Europe and Japan. He is co-editor of Pocket Books' Hot Blood anthology, published by Doubleday. He also writes screenplays.

For more information or to register, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2665 or visit the Web site at: www.coastal.edu/extlearn.

Coastal's Georgetown Campus Advisory Committee awards scholarships

Five Coastal students have been awarded scholarship funds by Coastal's Georgetown Campus Advisory Committee.

Shirley Armstrong, a junior early childhood education major of Georgetown, was awarded $200; Sonja Barrineau, a junior interdisciplinary studies major of Andrews, was awarded $405; Trudy Bazemore, a junior interdisciplinary studies major of Georgetown, was awarded $405; Mary Dennison, an education major of Georgetown, was awarded $405; and Angeline Lambert, a senior interdisciplinary studies major of Georgetown, was awarded $405.

To be eligible for scholarship funds, the students must be residents of Georgetown County and enrolled at Coastal's Georgetown campus.

The committee also awarded $1,339 in scholarship funds to nine Georgetown County School District employees participating in Coastal's R.A.D. (Ready Assistants Paraprofessionals in Local Education) program for course work not covered under the APPLE guidelines. TheAPPLE program, initiated earlier this year, gives employees of the Georgetown County School District who are interested in becoming teachers the opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree in education with a certificate in teaching. The program, which was designed by Coastal Carolina University and approved by the Georgetown County School Board, is offered through a cooperative arrangement with Horry-Georgetown Technical College.

For more information, contact Sarah Magann, director of Coastal's Georgetown campus, at 546-7523.
