This Week's Announcements

Coastal Carolina University joins educational institutions across the nation in celebrating Constitution Day today. This holiday began in 1940 as I Am an American Day. A celebration of citizenship, this holiday commemorates the signing of the U.S. Constitution on September 17, 1787.

Individuals are encouraged to view the links below for information on the Constitution. Various departments will, throughout the year, provide programs which relate to issues addressed in the Constitution.

Darla Domke-Damonte urges faculty to participate in the strategic planning process that is under way on campus. Invited sessions are set up for the following faculty groups: tenured, tenure track (untentured), and part-time/adjunct. (Scheduled meetings for the focus groups and input sessions for all groups are available at: <http://www.coastal.edu/strategicplanning/events.html>. Random numbers have been assigned to all members of the respective faculty group, and two invited sessions have been set up for each group. In the week of Sept. 17, tenured faculty sessions will be held. Read about the process in the online newsletter, or go to the aforementioned site to view the meeting times and places.

Health Services is warning students and others in the Coastal community to take precautionary measures to warn off seasonal flu. Influenza - commonly shortened to "the flu" - is an extremely contagious viral disease that appears most frequently in winter and early spring. The infection spreads through the upper respiratory tract and sometimes invades the lungs. Classic symptoms are fever, chills, bodyaches, headache, and fatigue lasting 3 to 4 days, sometimes followed by a dry cough, sore throat and runny nose for about another week.

Five to 20 Americans will come down with the flu each year. The respiratory illness is caused by viruses that spread from person to person by sneezing or touching something with the flu virus on it (doorknobs, phones, etc.)

Tips to ward off the extremely contagious viral influence include: wash your hands often, use alcohol-based antibacterial hand sanitizer when soap is not available and get a flu shot.

Lamonica Yates in Human Resources said flu shots will be available for CCU faculty and staff but a date has not yet been determined. It usually occurs in late October or November, she said.
