SOVIET DEFECTOR SPEAKS AT KIMBEL SERIES

Former Soviet Ambassador Arkady Shevchenko delivered a speech at Coastal Carolina College last Tuesday as the fall speaker in the Kinbel Distinguished Lecture Series.

Shevchenko, 52, is the highest-ranking Soviet to ever defect to the United States. He now lectures at American University in Washington and is an advisor on Soviet affairs to the U.S. government.

Shevchenko, who was serving as under secretary general of the United Nations Security Council when he defected in 1978, called the increase in East-West confrontation in recent weeks dangerous, however.

"I would say that there is going away from talking peace and there is more and more confrontation," Shevchenko said. "This is very unfortunate - even dangerous because any miscalculations or any false steps by one of the superpowers could have disastrous consequences."

Despite the risks, Shevchenko said the action in Grenada was necessary and that he believes Reagan shows a better understanding of the Soviet leadership any other recent American president.

"I think that what happened in Grenada is an indication the Cubans, the Soviet proxy, are pursuing the policy of transforming this country and of, formally almost, assaulting the satellites and putting them in the Soviet bloc. There is more and more sign of that.

"I think that it's high time to show to the Soviet Union they should not intervene in this hemisphere," Shevchenko said. The former ambassador said he believed the captured Soviet ambassadors in Grenada were there to set up a KGB-style internal security system as well as to provide military and economic assistance to the pro-Moscow government.

In his speech, Shevchenko said the Soviet goal of global domination is one that has in no way been abandoned by the Soviet leadership but that the Soviets are now concentrating their efforts in thirdworld countries.

"The Soviet Union is pursueing its goal rather steadily...rather persistantly," Shevchenko said.

He 'said it is ridiculous to think of the Soviet leadership becoming more moderate because of the death of Leonid Brezhnev, noting that the average age of the top four leaders is 74 and that the entire leadership comes from the same generation of thinking.

Shevchenko spoke to a capacity crowd at Wheel-wright Auditorium and more than 300 people could not be admitted because of the lack of space.

ANNUAL HOLIDAY PARTY FOR FACULTY, STAFF, ADMINISTRATION

The annual holiday party for the faculty, staff, and administration of Coastal will take place on December 16, 1983, in the Student Activities Center. This date is also the last day of exams, so we have extra reason to get together and celebrate the holiday season. Arrangements for food and drinks need to be finalized, so please call Jim Branham (ext. 162) or Jane Hansen (ext. 113) by Friday, November 4, if you plan to join in the festivities.

This Week is a newsletter for the faculty, staff, and administration of USC-Coastal Carolina College, P.O. Box 1954, Conway, SC 29526.

FAMILY FUND CAMPAIGN UNVEILED

The college is over its half-way mark on the faculty and staff annual giving campaign and so far it has proved to be a success. We have received generous contributions in support of the University of South Carolina Educational Foundation, the Coastal Educational Foundation, and United Way. This year the campaign is seeking to reach a goal of 100% participation by faculty and staff members. At this point in our campaign, we are at 50% participation. The campaign is scheduled to end November 15, however, we will accept contributions past this date.

Dr. John Durrell is the Campaign Chairman and is managing the drive with the help of the College Relations Staff. Dr. Durrell urges all of those who have not yet participated in this year's campaign to please to so before the November 15 deadline. Chancellor Fred Hicks has endorsed the college goal of 100% participation. Please help us attain this goal.

CHOIR PERFORMS NOVEMBER 4-5-6

Following last year's successful production of The Mikado, the Coastal Carolina Concert Choir will present Little Mary Sunshine at Wheelwright Auditorium on November 4, 5, at 8:00 p.m. and on the 6th at 3:00 p.m. Tickets are $5 and can be purchased from choir members, and at Peoples Savings and Loan in Conway and Dockstreet Books at Myrtle Beach. Proceeds will go toward the choir's spring tour.

Little Mary Sunshine book, lyrics, and music by Rick Besoyan, is produced here in cooperation with Samuel French, Inc. The most successful off-Broadway show ever, it was billed as a musical about an old operetta, a musical spoof of old time favorites. With its deliberately corny songs and naive situations, it pokes fun at all cliches of the innocent musicals our grandparents enjoyed. "Don't miss this evening of lighthearted entertainment," says Carolyn Cox, director of the Coastal Choir.

Set in the Colorado Rockies and featuring the "stout-hearted forest rangers," everyone pulls together to see that Little Mary (Renee Kotsovos) does not lose the inn. Other characters are Captain Jim (Steve Ferguson) and Corporal Jester (Reeves Watson). Then there is Naughty Nancy (Kelley Gore) and the opera diva Mme. Ernestine von Liebedich (Barbara Krug). Gregg Goodson plays Uncle Oscar, while the indians - - Chief Brown Bear (Jimmy Sherman), Yellow Feather (Dan Draper) and Fleet Foot (Steve Purcell) stay busy on and off the warpath. The ladies from Eastchester Finishing School are portrayed by Sally Purcell, Kim Holt, Pam Muise, Donna Elliott, Meg Taylor, and Jan Floyd. The forest rangers are Tony Bellamy, Charlie Diggett, David Cureton, Dave Draper, Greg Turner, and Jim Jones. Theatre direction by Susan Shoman-Black with music direction by Carolyn Cox. Pam Plummer is stage manager, and choreography is by Kathy and Trudy Sauvageau.

In Memorial To Devlin Michael Warren And The Benefit Of All Premature Babies

Devlin Michael Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Warren, died not because of disease or old age but because of prematurity. Devlin was four months premature, born August 7, 1983, weighing only one pound six ounces. According to doctors at Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte, N.C. he he was not expected to live even one day, yet he survived for five weeks.

Baby Warren was under extensive care and he required approximately one unit of blood everyday, using a total of thirty-five units. What one must understand is that a premature baby does not have the capability of replenishing his own blood; therefore he must be constantly monitored in order to keep his oxygen level normal. The only accurate way to accomplish this is, every two or four hours a sample of blood is taken from the baby causing a temporary depletion until he receives an available unit.

Your donations of blood will be greatly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Warren and the American Red Cross. It will also aid in the future care of all premature babies and other individuals who are in need of supply.
