Coastal Carolina launches first Celebration of Inquiry Conference

Coastal Carolina University will replace its normal academic schedule for two days for a first-of-its-kind, university-wide academic conference, Celebration of Inquiry, scheduled for Feb. 17 to 19. More than 350 Coastal students, faculty and staff as well as community leaders and educators from South Carolina, Virginia, New York and California will offer 154 sessions on a wide range of topics. All conference sessions are free and open to the public.

The Celebration of Inquiry is slated to be an annual event at Coastal, addressing a new theme each year designed to embrace all academic disciplines, according to Joan Piroch, professor of psychology and conference co-chair. The theme for the first conference is "Conflict and Creativity in the Search for Knowledge."

The conference will begin Wednesday, Feb. 17 at 4:30 p.m. in Wall Auditorium with an opening address by Gerrita Postlewait, superintendent of Horry County Schools, on the topic "What We Are Learning About How We Learn." The opening address will be followed by a performance of Steve Martin’s play "Picasso at the Lapin Agile," about an imaginary conversation between Picasso and Einstein in Paris in 1904. On Feb. 18 and 19 all Coastal classes will be redirected to conference sessions.

Murray Horwitz, vice president for cultural programming at National Public Radio (NPR), will present a session Friday, Feb. 17 at 10:30 a.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium based on his recent interview with The Wall Street Journal about changes in the broadcasting industry.

Two sessions - "Comparison of South African Apartheid and American Slavery" and "A Teach-In on Archbishop Desmond Tutu's Role in South Africa" - support inquiry related to the keynote address by Archbishop Desmond Tutu on Thursday, Feb. 18 at 7 p.m.

The Coastal Carolina University Concert Choir, under the direction of Charles Evans, will offer a lecture performance on "Music and Emotion" Friday, Feb. 19 at 12:30 p.m. in the Wall Auditorium.

To preview the conference program, visit Coastal’s Web site at www.coastal.edu.

The Celebration of Inquiry Conference is supported by funding from the Coastal Educational Foundation, Inc., the Kimbel Distinguished Lecturer Series, the National Science Foundation through an Award for the Integration of Research and Education (AIRE), and the South Carolina Humanities Council.

For more information about the conference, contact Coastal's Office of Marketing Communications at extension 2015.

CCU President Ingle elected chairman of Ocean View Memorial Foundation board

Coastal President Ronald R. Ingle, president of Coastal Carolina University, has been elected chairman of the board of directors of the Ocean View Memorial Foundation.

The foundation was organized in 1978 as a nonprofit agency for the purpose of extending grants to qualified tax-exempt organizations and tuition scholarships to qualified individuals in the Myrtle Beach area based on merit and need.

Other officers elected to the board of directors for a one-year term are: Linda Nash Given, vice chairman; Harry G. Charles, secretary; and Ruell Hicks, treasurer.

Newly elected directors David Brittain and Dr. J. Carlisle Hewitt replace outgoing directors R. Rhett Sansbury, chairman, and Dr. Calhoun D. Cunningham, vice chairman.

CCU employee honored for quick action in recent chemical leak

Kerry Lord, an employee of Coastal’s Facilities Management Department, has received a formal resolution of commendation from the university for his action in repairing a chemical leak which occurred at Coastal’s swimming pool on the morning of January 22.

President Ingle presented Lord with the resolution, praising Lord’s “competent and professional response and actions in preventing a potentially disastrous incident.”

Lord discovered a leak in a muriatic acid line at the pool, reported it immediately to emergency authorities, then reentered the pool area equipped with an oxygen tank and turned off the malfunctioning pump. Lord’s action prevented “the occurrence of a serious incident,” according to Ingle.

1999 Founders’ Day convocation

Monday, March 1, 1999 • 5 p.m. • Wheelwright Auditorium

In recognition of William H. Alford • Donald A. Moore • Pauline K. Springs Students, faculty and staff are welcome to attend.

Coastal Carolina is the subject of a six page article in the February issue of Solo Golf Viajes, a leading golf magazine in Spain. The article highlights Coastal's cooperative golf management program, which is being offered in Spain through a collaboration with the Catalan Institute of Business Studies in Barcelona.
Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Matt Morrin was appointed educational programs coordinator of the 2000 National Convention Committee of the National Association for Campus Activities (NACA).
- Phil Schneider conducted an interactive workshop on Environmental Ethics for the Senior Scholars of Georgetown University. Using an overview of ethical theories applicable to environmental issues and aerial slides of the Winnyah Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve, the workshop addressed the controversial issue of proposed dredging of canals at oceanfront DeBordieu Colony north of Georgetown. He presented a follow-up workshop for the marine science faculty and staff at the USC Belle Baruch Marine Laboratory.
- Timothy Touchel presented a paper at the eighth annual Institute for the Study of Postsecondary Pedagogy. His paper, "The Humanization of a Standards-based Educational Culture," dealt with his research into how technology is affecting the classroom environment. International teachers and researchers attended the three day conference held at the State University of New York at New Paltz.

Coastal offers online courses over the Internet

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services is now taking reservations for online classes on a variety of topics including computer applications, the Internet, business management, communications and investing. The self-paced noncredit classes are ideal for those who need to upgrade their job skills but find it inconvenient or impossible to participate in a traditional classroom setting.

One of the primary advantages of online classes is flexibility, according to Peter Balsamo, dean of the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services. "With online courses you can 'attend class' anytime you want - before breakfast, during lunch, late at night, whenever it's convenient," said Balsamo. "Simply log into your computer when you are ready to read your lecture notes and complete your assignments. All you need is access to an Internet Web browser and Microsoft Windows."

Participants may contact instructors at any time through e-mail, and detailed answers to questions are usually available within 24 hours, according to Balsamo.

Courses are available on the following subjects:

- Internet courses: covers a variety of topics including Creating Web Pages, Creating Web Graphics, JavaScript, Internet Security Strategies, and Introduction to HTML.
- Computer Application Courses: covers topics including Introduction to PC Troubleshooting, Introduction to QuickBooks, WordPerfect, Microsoft Word and Microsoft Excel.
- Basic Supervision Certificate: a certificate program offering sessions on communication, motivation, conflict resolution, problem solving and interpersonal skills for managers.
- Certificate in Project Management Principles: a certificate program in project management includes sessions on planning, executing and controlling project management techniques.
- Business and Management Courses: numerous courses on a variety of topics including inventory management, financial planning, starting a business, communications and leadership.
- Health and Communications Courses: includes courses on topics such as creative writing, poetry, business communication and alternative medicines.

CCU delivers "Seven Habits" course via new online/telephone format

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services is offering a new personal development course based on Stephen R. Covey's bestselling book, The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People, which will be delivered through a combination of Internet and telephone technology Feb. 15 to March 19.

Chip Brown, adjunct professor of politics at Coastal and assistant principal of the Academy for the Arts, Science and Technology in Myrtle Beach, will lead the class. Participants can take the course at home through the Internet but will be required to have weekly telephone conferences with the instructor. Telephone sessions will be held Wednesdays at 4 p.m. from Feb. 17 to March 17.

"The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People" is designed to help participants lead more gratifying personal and professional lives through positive patterns of behavior and personal ethics.

The fee for the course is $129 which includes access to the Web site and five 45 minute toll free audio conference sessions.

For more information, contact Trenna Page Metts at extension 2694 or visit the Web site at www.coastal.edu/learn.

Greater Gospel Sing Out

Sunday, February 14, 14:40 p.m.
Wheelwright Auditorium

Featuring:
Coastal Carolina University Gospel Choir and other gospel choirs from throughout South Carolina

Admission: Free
Noted baritone to give performance, master class at Coastal

Stephen Rushing, a Louisiana-born operatic singer and actor, will perform a recital of classical and popular love songs Sunday, Feb. 14 at 3 p.m. in the Wall Auditorium. Rushing will offer a master class for voice students at Monday, Feb. 15 at 10 a.m., also in Wall Auditorium. The performance and the master class are free and open to the public.

Rushing's Valentine Day concert will feature selections by Purcell, Haydn, Brahms, Rossini, Ravel, Duparc and Cole Porter. He will be accompanied on piano by Philip Powell, assistant professor of music and chair of Coastal's Department of Music at Coastal.

Rushing is president of Baton Rouge. Rushing has performed with the Cleveland Opera, Ohio Light Opera, Tulsa Opera, New Orleans Opera and the Totales Theatre in Vienna, Austria. His previous roles include Schaunard in La Boheme, Guglielmo in Cosi fan Tutte, Peter in Hansel and Gretel and Deadeye Dick in HMS Pinafore.

Rushing earned a bachelor's degree from Louisiana State University and continued his musical training at Drake University and the University of Kansas. In 1991 he gained national recognition as the first-place winner in the Man's Solo Voice Division of the National Federation of Music Club's Young Artist Auditions. In 1992 he performed in recital at the United Nations.

In addition to his performing career, Rushing is an associate professor of voice at Southeastern Louisiana University.

Information sessions about bachelor's degree program for adults planned

Coastal Carolina University offers an information session outlining a unique degree program which enables adults to earn a Bachelor's of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies degree (BAIS). The program is designed especially for individuals who need a bachelor's degree in order to compete for better jobs, have a college background but wish to obtain a degree; need to arrange evening and Independent Distance Learning classes around work schedules; have long-range plans for attending graduate school; or are interested in enhancing communication skills.

An information session outlining the BAIS program requirements will be held on Feb. 11, April 22, June 24 and Aug. 5 in Wall 118 at 6:15 p.m.

The BAIS degree at Coastal is a structured but flexible program that allows individuals to design a degree incorporating prior education and work experiences while addressing career aspirations. Courses are available through a combination of day, evening and Independent Distance Learning classes in order to accommodate the diverse schedules and educational needs of adult learners.

To register for an information session, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2093; e-mail, linda@coastal.edu.

"America: History and Life" and "Historical Abstracts" now available

Kimbel Library has begun subscriptions to the premier history index databases, "America: History and Life" and "Historical Abstracts." Between them, the databases provide access to citations from articles, book reviews, book chapters, books and dissertations in all fields of history. "America: History and Life" covers American and Canadian history from pre-history to current times. Coverage begins in 1964 and the database contains more than 400,000 entries and provides citations to 2,000 journals. "Historical Abstracts" covers the rest of the world, with entries beginning in 1954.

These databases cover social, cultural, political, economic, religious, scientific and military history, along with international relations, providing valuable information for the disciplines of history, political science, sociology, English, science, art, and philosophy. Coverage is world-wide, so most searches should be limited to English language materials. The database is available from the library's periodical index page at http://www.coastal.edu/library/indexes.html#ABC-CLIO.

Kimbel Library is pleased to be able to offer American and Canadian history from pre-history to current times. For more information, call Tammy Ott at extension 2941.

A Note of Appreciation

To say a mere "thank you" seems so inadequate to express our feelings as we are blanketed with thoughts, cards, gifts...and especially prayers from our friends at Coastal. Each expression of kindness goes beyond the act itself and is stored in our hearts and minds forever. Your emotional support means so very much as Chris begins his second series of chemotherapy and as we anticipate (any day now) the birth of William Christopher Emery Peavy. Each time we look at the cards sent to Amy and Chris, especially the card from our friends in the Singleton Building, we not only see expressions of kindness, but also the faces of our friends.

May the kindness you have shown be returned to you tenfold.

Sincerely,

Nancy Burton
Amy and Chris Peavy

One-day seminar teaches strategies for successful fund raising

Learn how to plan and execute a profitable, goal-driven fund raising campaign. "Successful Fund Raising in 60 Days" will be presented throughout Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services Wednesday, Feb. 10 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Myrtle Beach Convention Center. The fee is $99, which includes lunch.

Participants will learn how to conduct three types of profitable fund raising projects - membership drives, special events, and sponsorship procurements - each of which can be completed from start to finish within 60 days. Based on actual case histories of fund raising events, this workshop will be led by Bill McKenzie, a veteran salesman and fund raiser. Participants will leave the class with knowledge about how to plan, staff, and conduct large and small campaigns.

For more information or to register, call extension 2665 or visit the Web site at www.coastal.edu/learn.

Short courses focus on career development

A series of workshops for people who want to advance or change their careers will be offered throughout Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services beginning Feb. 9.

Make the Right Choice for You, held on Tuesdays from Feb. 9 to March 9 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Society House, is designed to assist participants in making decisions regarding career goals. During this course, participants will identify personal interests, values, skills and abilities and will take the Myers Briggs Type Indicator and the Strong Interest Inventory personality tests. The fee for the course is $189, which includes online access to both personality tests.

"Make It Happen for You," held on Tuesdays from March 16 to April 13 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Society House, is a continuation of "Make the Right Choice for You." Participants will use a variety of techniques, including information interviewing, shadowing and mentoring, to find more rewarding jobs and careers. The fee for the course is $89.

Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services also offers "Individual Career Assessment and Development Services," one-on-one career counseling sessions with a trained and licensed professional counselor who will help participants develop practical career plans and strategies. The cost is $75 per session.

For more information about career workshops at Coastal, call extension 2665 or visit the Web site at www.coastal.edu/learn.

Nominations Sought for Distinguished Teacher-Scholar-Lecturer Award

Horry Telephone Cooperative, in cooperation with Coastal Carolina University, will sponsor the 1999 Horry Distinguished Teacher-Lecturer Award to recognize a faculty member who has distinguished himself or herself as a teacher, a scholar and a communicator. Nominations for the award must be submitted to the Office of the Provost by Monday, Feb. 22 at 5 p.m.

Nominees must be tenured members of the full-time faculty of Coastal Carolina University. Nominations may be submitted by faculty, students, staff, alumni or community members, as well as self-nominations. All nominees will be contacted and encouraged to submit for this prestigious recognition.

The recipient will receive a $1,000 stipend and a plaque of recognition. The recipient will also deliver an original lecture/presentation during October 1999 to faculty, staff, students and community guests. The lecture will be published and widely distributed by the university.

The recipient will be selected by a committee appointed by the Provost in consultation with the President, and composed of representatives from the faculty, staff, administration and community which will evaluate the nominees and recommend the selection of the lecturer to the Provost.

For more information, contact the Office of the Provost in SNGL 121 or call Chris Martin at extension 2086.
