Coastal Carolina University to celebrate Founders' Day

William H. Alford, Donald A. Moore and Pauline K. Springs to be honored, S.C. Superintendent of Education Inez Tenenbaum to give address

Coastal Carolina University's 12th annual Founders' Day Convocation will be held Monday, March 1 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The ceremony is free and open to the public.

William H. "Billy" Alford, Donald A. Moore and the late Pauline K. Springs will be named honorary founders of the university. The 1999 recipients of the Founders' Medallion will join 52 other founders and honorary founders who played instrumental roles in the development of Coastal Carolina University and the promotion of higher education in the region.

Inez Tenenbaum, South Carolina superintendent of education, will deliver the convocation address.

William H. "Billy" Alford, a 1977 graduate of Coastal, has led a distinguished career in public service in addition to successful business pursuits in the Grand Strand area. Alford served as chair of the Horry County Higher Education Commission, playing an important role in the establishment of Coastal Carolina University as an independent institution in 1993 and in the creation of Coastal's four academic outreach centers. Alford also has served as chair of the S.C. Highway Commission and the Grand Strand Regional Medical Center Board of Trustees. Alford is co-founder of

A&I Fire and Water Restoration Company, which was begun in 1974 while he was a student at Coastal.

Donald A. Moore served on the Horry County Higher Education Commission from 1970 to 1994, including two terms as chairman in the mid 1970s, two terms as vice chairman and six terms as treasurer. A native of Detroit, Mich., Moore moved to South Carolina in 1949 after having served in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II and graduating from Albion College. Moore served as a teacher in the public schools of Myrtle Beach before entering the real estate business. He is a member of the North Myrtle Beach Real Estate Board and is a charter member of the North Myrtle Beach Rotary Club.

Pauline Kleber Springs established the first scholarships at Coastal Carolina University, the Kleber Scholarships, in the early 1960s. She was a member of the Coastal Educational Foundation, Inc. from 1964 to 1980, when she was named director emeritus of the foundation. A native of Pittsburgh, she was the widow of Albert A. Springs. She died in 1982. Coastal offers three Kleber scholarships: one for students who show outstanding ability in the arts; one for outstanding students earning a bachelor of science degree; and one for outstanding students earning a bachelor of arts degree. Approximately 45 Kleber scholarships are awarded annually. Scholarship awards are in the amount of either $500 or $1000.

Inez Tenenbaum, South Carolina's 15th State Superintendent of Education, has been an effective advocate for education throughout her career. A former schoolteacher and an attorney, she founded the South Carolina Center for Family Policy, a non-profit organization dedicated to reforming legal and social services systems for families and children in the Palmetto State. Tenenbaum earned a bachelor's degree in 1972 and a master's degree in 1974, both in education from the University of Georgia, and a law degree from the University of South Carolina in 1986. She has served as a member of the Allen University Board of Trustees and the University of South Carolina Education Foundation.

University Theater production sets Babes in Arms in Ocean Forest Hotel

Babes in Arms, the classic Rodgers & Hart musical which coined the now-famous phrase: "Hey, kids, let's put on a show!" will appear in Coastal's Wheelwright Auditorium Friday, Feb. 26 and Saturday, Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday, Feb. 28 at 3 p.m. Admission is $8; $5 for non-Coastal Carolina University students; Coastal students admitted free. For ticket information, call the Wheelwright Box Office at extension 2502.

The hit musical first appeared on Broadway in 1937 and introduced a number of enduringly popular songs including "My Funny Valentine," "The Lady is a Tramp" and "Johnny One Note." The story is about a group of teenagers who work at a summer stock theater and their challenges as they try to stage a musical review to keep their theater program from falling into the wrong hands. The show was adapted for a famous 1939 M-G-M movie with Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland and was revived on Broadway in 1959.

This Coastal Carolina University Theater production is giving the story a local, historic twist by setting the action in Myrtle Beach's famed Ocean Forest Hotel in the 1950s, according to director Ian Derrer. "With the help of local historians such as Marcus Smith, Tempe Oehler and Jack Thompson, we've been able to transfer this musical to the Ocean Forest Hotel of 40 years ago," said Derrer. "We're very happy with the way this localization has still remained very close to the ideas in the original script."

The Ocean Forest, demolished in 1974, hosted a series of touring plays featuring professional casts throughout the 1950s.

The Babes in Arms cast includes 16 Coastal students and one professor. David Bankston, assistant professor of music at Coastal, is the musical director for the production. Robin Stephens is the choreographer. Owen Collins designed the sets and Kelly Barry, a Coastal alumnus, designed the lighting.

Director Ian Derrer has served as production stage manager and assistant director for the Sante Fe Opera, Opera Pacific and the Baltimore Opera Company.

Do You Know?

Calling All Colors, a conference focusing on racial unity for third through eighth graders, will be held Saturday, March 6 in Wheelwright Auditorium. The conference was initiated in 1991 by Coastal's Center for Education and Community and has received national coverage on Good Morning America.

Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Fusun Akman recently presented "Homotopy Gerstenhabe-algebras," an algebraic structure prominent in mathematical physics, at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and North Carolina State University.

- Subhash Saxena has had an article, "Involution in Permutations," accepted for publication in the Pi Mu Epsilon Journal.

- The staff of the 1998 edition of Archarios, Coastal's literary art magazine, received an Addy Award in the "Best Student Design" category at the 1999 American Advertising Federation Addy competition held at the Crown Reef Conference Center in February: Trish Dyer, editor; Tracy Floyd, art director; Doug Crew, Jo Rice and Christina Kabelka, designers; Jennifer Karvetsky, assistant editor; and Paul Olsen, adviser.

Three former Chanticleers inducted into Hall of Fame

During halftime of Coastal Carolina's men's basketball game against UNC Asheville on Saturday, Feb. 13, three people were inducted into the Coastal Carolina University Athletic Hall of Fame. The inductees were Tony Dunkin, a member of the Chanticleers' men's basketball team from 1990 to 1993; Michelle Hall, a member of the Lady Chants' softball program from 1990 to 1993; and Randy "Red" Stokes, a pitcher for Coastal's baseball program from 1987 to 1990. Dunkin and Hall were elected into the CCU Athletic Hall of Fame in their first year of eligibility.

Dunkin remains the only player in NCAA Division I history to have been named a conference's Player of the Year four consecutive seasons. He was also a four-time Big South All-Conference and three-time Big South All-Tournament selection. Dunkin, also the 1990 Big South Conference Rookie of the Year, scored a Coastal Carolina record 2,151 career points. Adding to Dunkin's legendary career at Coastal Carolina is the fact that he led the Chanticleers to the 1991 and 1993 NCAA Tournaments. Since graduating from Coastal Carolina, Dunkin has played several seasons of professional basketball in Europe.

Hall established herself as one of the all-time greatest pitchers in NCAA Division I history during her career. The most dominant pitcher in Big South Conference and Coastal Carolina history, Hall ranks in the top-10 in the NCAA record books in five career categories including wins, games pitched, starts, complete games, and saves. She is just one of nine pitchers in NCAA Division I history to have recorded 100 or more victories. In four seasons, Hall recorded 104 wins (8th in NCAA history), 172 starts (5th in NCAA history), 140 complete games (5th in NCAA history), 140 games started (7th in NCAA history), and 11 saves (8th in NCAA history). Hall was a four-year member of the Big South All-Conference Team and a three-time member of the Big South All-Tournament Team. She was also the first Big South female to be named to the NCAA All-South Region Team - a feat she accomplished three times from 1991 to 1993.

Stokes still holds the Chanticleers' career records for victories (33), strikeouts (305), innings pitched (404.1) and games started (53). "Red," as he was known during his playing days with the Chants, struck out a Coastal record 103 batters in 1990, earning his Big South All-Conference honors at the end of the season. He was also a member of the 1988 Big South All-Tournament Team and posted a career 33-13 record on the mound with four saves.

Nominations Sought for Staff Excellence Awards

Nominations are now being accepted for the Staff Excellence Awards program. The Staff Excellence Awards program was established to recognize the exemplary achievement of non-teaching staff at the University. Two cash awards of $300 each will be given to the staff members who meet the criteria for the award and are recommended to the President by a selection committee. One award will be given to a Support Staff employee and another to a Professional Staff employee.

You may nominate an employee for each of the awards.

The criteria for the selection process along with a nomination form were recently distributed to all departments. If you did not receive a nomination packet or need additional information, please contact Patricia Brennan at extension 2134. All nomination forms should be sent to the Office of Human Resources and Equal Opportunity. The deadline for nominations is Friday, Feb. 26.

Honor Stoles to be implemented this May

Beginning with the May 1999 graduation ceremony, honor cords will be replaced by an honor stole to be worn at commencement.

After a year of discussion, a committee of students, faculty, and staff has announced the exciting new tradition of honor stoles. The idea and implementation of the stoles was a project of Omicron Delta Kappa.

The stole, which is white, is embroidered with Coastal's seal on one side and the Greek letters of the graduate's honor society(s) on the other.

The cost of the stole is $30, which will include the university seal and one honor society insignia. After graduation, the stoles are suitable for framing.

Those interested in purchasing a stole may contact Jackie Deda in the Office of Student Affairs at extension 2302.

CCU hosts small business seminar on Y2K

A seminar on what small businesses should know about the Y2K phenomenon will be held Friday, Feb. 26 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the Wall School of Business, room 308. Coastal Carolina University's Small Business Development Center and the Small Business Administration are co-sponsoring the seminar, which will offer information on how to plan for potential Year 2000 computer problems. To reserve a seat, contact Nancy Robinson at extension 2169 or 2170 by Friday, Feb. 19.

Coastal students joins Who's Who

The 1999 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges includes the names of 33 Coastal Carolina University students. Applications are submitted by students and reviewed by the Student Affairs Committee. Students are selected on their academic achievement, community service, leadership roles and potential for success by a campus nominating committee and the editors of the annual directory.

First published in 1934, the directory includes students from more than 1,900 institutions of higher education in the United States, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

All Coastal honorees will be recognized at the university's spring 1999 honors convocation.

They are:

- Lori Amason of Centralia, Ill.
- Marisa Baselice of Sewell, N.J.
- Diane M. Bauer of Conway, S.C.
- Maegan Anne Carsey of Mentor, Ohio
- Deborah Denise Christmas of Sumter, S.C.
- Jennifer C. Coffin of Annandale, Va.
- Megan A. Coker of Laurens, S.C.
- Kevin R. Cox of Conway, S.C.
- Peter Dubcak of Colonial Heights, Va.
- Rebecca Franke of Fort Wayne, Ind.
- George Fromm, Jr. of Orchard Park, N.Y.
- Benjamin M. Harris of Conway, S.C.
- Jaime Marie Hilliard of Walworth, N.Y.
- Brandi Dawn Jackson of Pawleys Island, S.C.
- Desiree Jordan of Loris, S.C.
- Sharica S. Kilgore of Piedmont, S.C.
- Stephen Kocot of Murrells Inlet, S.C.
- Wendy Elizabeth Kutz of Tiffin, Ohio
- Robert E. Litwhiler Jr. of Bloomsburg, Pa.
- Brooks Marzka of Erie, Pa.
- Homer Edwin McAbee III of Spartanburg, S.C.
- Amber L. McArthur of Aynor, S.C.
- Porter N. Medley III of Sumter, S.C.
- Brian Milan of Lorain, Ohio
- Tara Miller of Hixson, Tenn.
- Jo-Anne M. Reed of North Augusta, S.C.
- Brophy James Ringdahl of Lincoln, Neb.
- Estelle B. Shelton of Conway, S.C.
- Megan A. Thompson of Tulsa, Okla.
- Robin Turner of Timmonsville, S.C.
- Kelly Vowels of Louisville, Ky.
- Wendy L. Ware of Greenville, S.C.
- Heather West of North Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Tax forms available in Kimbel Library

Kimbel Library has a limited number of federal and South Carolina tax forms available in the brochure rack inside the front entrance.

Additional forms and instructions which may be copied also are on reserve at the circulation desk, so if a form you need is not on the brochure rack be sure to check the forms on reserve. Reminder: A Coastal ID is needed to request reserve materials.

Forms can also be downloaded from the Internet. Go to Kimbel Library's home page at www.coastal.edu/library and click on "Tax Forms and Information."

For more information, call Micheline Brown at extension 2490 or e-mail: mbrown@coastal.edu.

"I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my friends at Coastal for their personal attention to me for their prayers, flowers, phone calls and sympathy cards during the recent death of my brother. You helped make this time of sorrow more bearable for my family and for me. Thanks."

CCU marine science professors win grant to study shark, dolphin populations in Winyah Bay area

Daniel Abel and Robert Young of Coastal's Department of Marine Science have received a $10,000 grant from the Georgetown County Environmental Protection Agency to study shark and dolphin populations in Georgetown's Winyah Bay and surrounding waters.

Sharks and dolphins are classified as top, or "apex" predators, typically the least abundant animal species, according to Abel and Young, co-principal investigators of the study.

"The quantity of apex predators is an important component and an effective indicator of ecosystem health," said Abel. "In Winyah Bay, bottlenose dolphins, sharks and humans are the primary apex predators, and they are essentially in competition with one another for the living marine resources found in those waters."

By comparing resident and migratory dolphin and shark populations, both in Winyah Bay and in the comparatively pristine North Inlet, Abel and Young, with the help of Coastal senior marine science major Rob Fink and other students earning undergraduate credit, will establish baseline population data and will ultimately trace long-term habitation trends. "This study also will help us begin to assess the impact of humans on these predator populations," said Abel. "Our data will be of interest to other researchers studying these species in the United States and abroad."

Dolphins will be monitored using a video camera, according to Young. Dorsal fins will be photographed from a small boat equipped with a high resolution 8 mm video camera. "The dolphin is 'caught' on video and 'tagged' according to the individual natural markings and the distinctive outline shape of the fin," said Young. "With repeated weekly surveys of the area, a catalogue of fins is developed recording dates, location and behavior. Also, to establish habitat patterns, specific 'focus groups' of dolphins will be followed and studied."

Sharks, both juveniles and adults, will be captured on longlines, identified, tagged and released, according to Abel.

The Georgetown County Environmental Protection Society is a local, charitable organization whose purpose is to monitor, protect and enhance the wetlands, bays, creeks, estuaries and rivers of Georgetown County. "It is essential that we determine the impact humans have on our coastal resources so steps can be taken to maintain a reasonable balance between Mother Nature and the human presence," said Brooks McIntyre, GCEPS president.

Dan Abel, instructor of marine science, joined the Coastal faculty in 1994. He earned a Ph.D. in 1986 from the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in San Diego. Abel has published many scientific articles on sharks and tropical air-breathing fish, as well as a book, Environmental Issues: Measuring, Analyzing and Evaluating, published by Prentice Hall in 1999.

Rob Young, assistant professor of marine science, joined the Coastal faculty in 1992. He earned a bachelor's degree in biology in 1986 from the University of Virginia and a Ph.D. in biological oceanography from the University of Rhode Island in 1992. He is currently president of the South Carolina Marine Educators Association.

Coastal hosts student alumni conference

More than 700 students from 58 colleges and universities in the Southeastern United States will take part in the annual regional conference of Student Alumni Ambassadors/Student Foundation (SAA/SF) February 25 to 28 at the Crown Reef Conference Center in Myrtle Beach. Coastal Carolina University is hosting the conference with the College of Charleston, Columbia College, USC Aiken and UNC-Wilmington.

Conference participants are student alumni ambassadors and student foundations groups from SAA/SF District III states Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. "With more than 700 students registered, this is the largest conference in the history of the organization," said Mona Dukes, director of Alumni Affairs at Coastal Carolina University.

Student alumni ambassadors serve as liaisons between students and administration, according to Dukes. "They work behind the scenes at alumni events and related functions on and off campus," she said. "Their involvement gives them a deeper insight into the importance of alumni participation." The Coastal Carolina University Student Alumni Ambassadors was founded in 1996 and has 20 members.

Conference events will include an America Red Cross blood drive during registration, more than 45 student-led sessions and roundtable discussions, an address by U.S. Rep. Mark Sanford, and a motivational session led by Jerry King.

SAA/SF is a division of the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE), a national organization of colleges and universities based in Washington, D.C.

For more information, contact Mona Dukes at extension 2006.

Pianist to perform at Coastal

Pianist Sharyn Edwards will perform a concert featuring solo works by Haydn, Brahms and Debussy on Sunday, Feb. 21 at 3 p.m. in the Wall Auditorium at Coastal. The event is free and open to the public.

Edwards, piano instructor at Southeastern Community College in Whiteville, N.C., is a frequent performer throughout the Carolinas and the southeastern United States in solo and chamber music recitals. She has appeared as soloist with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, the Charlotte Repertory Orchestra, the Charleston Symphony Orchestra and the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra.

A native of Asheville, Edwards earned a doctorate of music degree in piano performance from the University of South Carolina and a master of music degree in piano performance from the University of Kentucky.

Edwards is scheduled to make her New York debut at Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall on April 25, 1999.

For more information, contact Philip Powell, chair of Coastal's Department of Music, at extension 2515.

Nelson named associate dean of CCU School of Natural and Applied Sciences

Douglas Nelson, professor of geology and marine science at Coastal, has been named associate dean of Coastal's School of Natural and Applied Sciences.

Nelson's duties in the newly created position include developing and administering programs which do not fall within existing academic departments of the school, according to Valgene Dunham, dean of the School of Natural and Applied Sciences.

"Science is the fastest growing academic area at Coastal, and we have the opportunity to generate new academic programs, including new degrees, minor degrees and cooperative programs with other universities, which will give our students a greater range of choices in their academic and career goals," said Nelson. "We are also committed to developing programs which will benefit the local region."

Nelson will continue to direct the beach profile study which surveys the position of sand dunes between Little River Inlet and Murrells Inlet, a project he has directed since 1986.

Nelson joined the Coastal faculty in 1973. He earned a Ph.D. in geology from the University of South Carolina in 1973 and a bachelor's degree in geology from the University of Minnesota in 1968.
