Tax forms available at Kimbel Library

A limited number of tax forms, such as federal forms 1040 and 1040A and South Carolina's Individual Income Tax Returns booklet (including forms SC1040, SC1040A and SC2040NR), are available in the brochure rack next to the computer lab on the first floor of Kimbel Library. Because all federal and state forms are also available online, the library no longer provides reproducible copies at the circulation desk. Links to the IRS and South Carolina Department of Revenue Web sites are available on Kimbel Library's home page. For more information, contact Ann Hamilton at extension 2409.

COI program brochure available

The Fifth Celebration of Inquiry Conference's 56-page program brochure is now available. Look for copies distributed around campus and see the 130+ sessions scheduled for Thursday and Friday, Feb. 16 and 17. (Remember that all regularly scheduled classes will be re-directed to the conference sessions.)

Tickets for the keynote address by Frans Johansson on Feb 15 are available at the Wheelwright Box Office. These tickets are free, but required for general admission.

Program offered for advisers of student organizations

The CETL is sponsoring an audioconference on Tuesday, Feb. 28 at 1 p.m., focusing on the issue of liability as it pertains to working with students and student organizations. The audio-conference will provide information on how to minimize risk while doing the things that are necessary for education and recreation here at CCU. The session will be held in UHAL 228. RSVP to Marjorie Metts by e-mail at marjorie@coastal.edu if you plan to attend.

What's on 'Coastal Today' this week?

'Coastal Today,' the broadcast program for Coastal Carolina University, features a "Chanticleer Holdings" show with guests Mike Pruitt (1984), Coach Gary Gilmore, Matt Miller (2005) and Joseph Koster (2005). Visit www.coastal.edu/media/coastaltoday.html for showtimes and channels.

Dancers sought for Dance Marathon

Student dancers are being sought for the Children's Miracle Network Dance Marathon on Saturday, March 25. No dancing skills are required – just obtain sponsors and receive T-shirts, food, prizes and fun at the 12-hour marathon. Tax-deductible donations are also accepted. For more information, contact Student Activities or Courtney Bates at cmbates@coastal.edu.

Applications open for media positions

Applications are now being accepted for stipend media positions on The Chanticleer, Archarios and Tempo. Students may obtain the forms in the Office of Student Activities & Leadership, Student Center 106. They are due Monday, Feb. 20 at 4:30 p.m. Interviews with the Media Committee will follow shortly thereafter.

Positions open for the 2006-2007 school year include: media publications business manager; Chanticleer editor, assistant editor, editor and art director; Tempo magazine editor, assistant editor and art director; Archarios editor and art director.

Applicants must be fulltime students with a minimum 2.5 GPA and applicable experience. For more information, call 349-2301.

TEAL Center training continues

Faculty and staff training sessions at the TEAL Center continue this week and next for Making the Most of Outlook, Effective PowerPoint for Faculty Presentation, Intermediate and Advanced Dreamweaver, Outlook Calendering, and Boost Your PC's Performance. To sign up for the following training sessions, or to arrange one-to-one training, e-mail teal@coastal.edu or call the TEAL Center at 349-2836. The entire schedule is available on the CCU Web site.

Career recruitment begins soon for seniors

On-campus career recruitment programs begin Feb. 20 and continue through April 28. Senior Recruitment Days will feature on-campus interviews in the Career Services Center for all academic majors from Feb. 20 to March 3. To participate, seniors must register in the Career Services Center via an update of their online student account in MonsterTRAK. Students should contact the Career Services Coordinator for their major to receive assistance if needed. Students with updated accounts are given access to the company and job information located online in the InterviewTRAK section of the MonsterTRAK system. Students may sign-up for interviews through Feb. 22.

Need help with your taxes?

Local students enjoy ballet

Some 2,134 children from 15 area elementary schools were treated to performances of "Kids for Kids," a ballet presented by the Columbia City Ballet based on the art of Jonathan Green. The performances were held Feb. 9 and 10 at Wheelwright Auditorium. Random remarks from the kids to CCU staff:

- "This must be a Castle. Do you live here?"
- "Boy, look at that big light! It must have cost a million dollars!"
- "Are the people on stage real? How did they learn to dance like that? Did you teach them?"
- "Boy, how can you afford this? Is this a hotel?"
- "Thank you for letting us come to your house. I really enjoyed the dancing and stuff."
