Commencement set for May 8

NSF Director Rita R. Colwell is speaker; William Davis and Kent Sharples to be honored

Coastal will recognize approximately 480 candidates for graduation during commencement exercises Saturday, May 8 at 9 a.m. at the campus Soccer Stadium. May and August candidates will be recognized. The public is welcome to attend.

The ceremony will be transmitted live over the Internet at: www.coastal.edu/graduation.

Rita R. Colwell, William Davis and Kent Sharples will receive honorary degrees.

Colwell, director of the National Science Foundation (NSF) and a distinguished scholar, will deliver the commencement address and receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Public Service.

Dr. Bill Davis is the founder of S.O.S. (Surviving Our System) Health Care, Inc., a non-profit agency which helps meet the medical needs of the uninsured. Since S.O.S. opened in 1989, Davis and a network of volunteers have arranged more than 18,000 health-care contracts a year, providing free visits to local physicians as well as discounted X-rays, prescription medicines and same day surgery.

A native of Elkin, N.C., Davis earned a bachelor's degree from Wake Forest University in 1961 and completed medical school at Wake Forest's Bowman Gray School of Medicine in 1965. He began his urology practice in Myrtle Beach in 1971 and was a partner in Associates in Urology until November 1989, when he retired to start S.O.S. Davis operated the agency from his home for its first three years.

Davis describes S.O.S.'s mission as "partnering with our community in providing hope for our neighbors in need of medical or related care." The agency sponsors a comprehensive program for children that provides basic necessities as well as individualized opportunities for advancement. Davis will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

Kent Sharples, as president of Horry-Georgetown Technical College for more than 18 years, has guided one of the fastest-growing technical colleges in the country. HGTC has more than 15,000 students, including 3,400 full-time registrants.

Sharples has been a leading force in the economic development of Horry County. He serves as interim director of the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education and has been instrumental in facilitating student transfers from HGTC to Coastal Carolina University.

He earned a bachelor's degree in 1965 and a master's degree in 1967, both from Bowling Green State University, and a Ph.D. in educational administration from Ohio University in 1973.

Sharples will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Public Service.

In case of inclement weather, the commencement ceremony will be held in Kimbel Gymnasium; a closed-circuit broadcast will be shown in the Wall Auditorium. For more information, contact the Office of Marketing Communications at extension 2015.

Coastal Carolina University will transmit the 1999 May commencement ceremony live over the Internet—a first for the university—offering the next best thing to being here for family and friends who can't attend the ceremony.

School of Humanities and Fine Arts Interim dean named; title changes announced

Edgar Dyer, professor of politics at Coastal, has been named interim dean of the School of Humanities and Fine Arts for the 1999-2000 academic year, or until a new dean is named, according to John Idoux, provost and vice president for Academic Affairs.

Dyer will officially begin his duties Aug. 16 after the retirement of John Durrell, who will step down Aug. 15 after 30 years at Coastal including 25 years as dean. Until then, Dyer will spend time with Durrell in order to become familiar with all aspects of the position.

"I'm looking forward to the opportunity and the challenge to serve Coastal in this capacity," said Dyer.

Dyer joined the Coastal faculty in 1976. He is a graduate of Guilford College and has a master's degree in public administration and a juris doctorate, both from the University of South Carolina. He was named Coastal's first Distinguished Teacher-Scholar Lecturer and also has received the Student Development Division Award and the Distinguished Teacher of the Year Award. Since Coastal became an independent institution in 1993, Dyer has served as the university's counsel.

Idoux also has announced two academic and administration title changes, effective immediately.

Glenda Sween, assistant dean of the School of Humanities and Fine Arts, has been named associate dean of the School of Humanities and Fine Arts.

Charmaine Tomczyk, assistant vice president for Academic Affairs, has been named associate provost and associate vice president for Academic Affairs.

The new titles more accurately reflect the responsibilities of the positions, according to Idoux.

Coastal Athletic Director Sasser announces retirement, Blank promoted to position

Coastal President Ronald R. Ingle has announced that Athletic Director George F. "Buddy" Sasser will retire June 30, 1999. Dave Blank, Coastal's associate director of athletics for development and administration, will be promoted to the position of athletic director, effective July 1.

Sasser's long athletic career has included six years as assistant athletic director, as well as seven years as commissioner of the Big South Conference.

"Coastal is very fortunate to have had Buddy Sasser as athletic director, and I am pleased to announce that Buddy will work as a part-time consultant to help plan the continued expansion of the athletic program," said Ingle. "Under Buddy's leadership, the performance of Coastal's student-athletes has improved on the playing field and in the classroom, where they have achieved grade point averages consistently at or near the top in our conference. We are confident that, under the proven leadership of Dave Blank, this positive commitment to excellence will continue."

A native of Conway, Sasser served as athletic director and head football coach at Conway High School from 1963 to 1970, leading the Tigers to a 66-17-5 record. He was assistant football coach and assistant athletic director at Appalachian State University from 1977 until 1977, and was athletic director and head football coach from 1977 until 1982 at Wofford College, where he was named 1982 Kodach Coach of the Year for the college division. He joined East Tennessee State in 1982 as head football coach and was named athletic director in 1985. Sasser was Coastal's director of athletics from 1986 until 1989, when he accepted the position of commissioner of the Big South Conference. He returned to Coastal as athletic director in 1996. Under Sasser's leadership, Coastal's sports programs and facilities have expanded. Women's indoor track and field was added as a new sport; more than $200,000 in improvements were made to Coastal's baseball stadium; permanent chairback seating was installed in Kimbel Arena; and many other physical improvements have been made throughout Coastal's sports facilities.

"Six of the best years of my athletic career were spent as director of athletics at Coastal," said Sasser. "I have enjoyed my association with all of the personnel at Coastal and it has been a real pleasure to work with President Ingle. I look forward to continuing to be involved with Coastal Carolina and the Big South Conference."

Dave Blank joined Coastal in October 1996 as assistant director of athletics for development and marketing and was named Coastal's associate director of athletics for development and administration in January 1999. A native of Frostburg, Md., he was recruited to Duke University on a basketball scholarship. A knee injury ended his playing career and he began coaching basketball. Beginning in 1980 Blank assisted for five years at the University of South Carolina. In 1985, he went to Wofford College as assistant director of athletics and assistant basketball coach. He became head basketball coach at Lock Haven University in Pennsylvania in 1988 and led the team to 119 wins in eight seasons. He was twice named Pennsylvania Athletic Conference Coach of the Year.

Students present research papers

Seven Coastal psychology majors recently presented research papers at the prestigious Carolinas Psychology Conference, a regional meeting of undergraduate students in psychology and related fields. The conference, held April 9 in Raleigh, N.C., was cosponsored by North Carolina State University and Meredith College.

Students were required to submit abstracts of research papers for consideration prior to the conference. The students and their project topics were:

- Robert Johnston III, "Comparisons of Spatial Preferences and Preference for Proximity to Structure in Lions (Panthera leo), Tigers (Panthera tigris), and Ligers (Panthera tigris x leo) in a Captive Environment"
- Marla Malinowski, "Alcohol Consumption As a Function of Fraternity and Sorority Participation and Gender"
- Danielle Politi, "The Relationship Between Alcohol and Anxiety"
- Ron Rousseau, "Student Evaluations as a Function of Perceived Experience of a Professor"
- James Spearman, "Approach to Problem Solving as a Function of Chess Skill"
- Caryllyn Varn, "Gambling Among Students at Coastal Carolina University"
- Leigh Ann Walsen, "Aggression Levels of Chess Players as a Function of ELO Rating"

ATTENTION!

Coastal Carolina University's administrative computer system (Datatel) will be unavailable from 5 p.m. on May 14 to May 23 in order to upgrade the system.

The upgraded system will be back in operation by Monday, May 24 at 8 a.m. Administrative Offices will not be able to perform normal business transactions until Monday, May 24. Therefore, it is important that you complete any business transactions (such as deposits, registration, fee payment, drop/add, etc.) before Friday, May 14 at 5 p.m.

Questions or concerns should be addressed to the appropriate office prior to May 14.

National leadership society inducts Coastal students, faculty

Eleven students, one faculty member and one staff member have been inducted into the Coastal Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa at a ceremony April 28.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honor society that recognizes achievement in scholarship, athletics, campus or community service, mass media, and the creative and performing arts.

The students are:
- Michael Duncan, senior marketing major from Myrtle Beach, S.C.;
Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

- Charles Joyner's essay, "Surprised: Honors William Faulkner and the Historians," has been published in Faulkner: Achievement and Endurance. The book is published in English by the Peking University Press, Beijing, China. Joyner's essay was among the few selected for inclusion in the volume, which is edited by Tao Jie of Peking University, one of the leading international Faulkner scholars. Other contributors are Xiao Minyuan of Sichuan Normal University, author of the book William Faulkner: Critical Study, and the great translator Li Winjun, who first introduced William Faulkner into China in the 1950s with the translation of The Sound and the Fury, As I Lay Dying and Go Down, Moses. Joyner originally presented the essay at the International Faulkner Symposium held in Beijing in November 1997. The symposium was co-sponsored by Peking University, Hong Kong Baptist University and the Hong Kong America Center at the Chinese University of Hong Kong.
- Peter Leourou's review of James Mason and the Walk-In Closet by June Akers Scece was published in Studies in Short Fiction, Vol. 33, number 3.
- Subhash Saxena and Rebecca Snyder co-presented "Phyiscal's philosophy takes a new life," at the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), held recently in San Francisco.
- Sylvia Snyder presented "Teaching Grant Writing as Part of a Course on Community" at the 62nd Annual Meeting of the Southern Sociological Society Conference held in Nashville, Tenn.

Students selected as Orientation Assistants

Fourteen Coastal students have been selected to serve as Orientation Assistants for 1999. They will help incoming freshmen and transfer students get acclimated to the university during six upcoming Orientation sessions scheduled for the summer. "Orientation assistants play an important role, providing guidance and assistance to new students and their parents at a crucial, transitional time in their lives," said Pat Singleton-Young, director of Orientation at Coastal. "The students who have been chosen are mature, responsible and knowledgeable about the campus and its services."

More than 2,000 students and parents attend Orientation sessions at Coastal each year. Orientation sessions for incoming freshmen will be held June 16; June 22 and 23; July 13 and 14; and Aug. 12 and 13. Orientation sessions for transfer students will be held June 24 and Aug. 11.

The new Orientation Assistants are:
- Latrice Bell, a junior English major from Mullins, S.C.;
- Maegan Carney, a senior biology major from Mentor, Ohio
- Sarah Burnette, a junior marine science major from Yorktown, Va.
- Jessica Day, a junior psychology major from Myrtle Beach, S.C.
- Jamie Seaman, a junior elementary education major from Myrtle Beach, S.C.; and
- Derek Ryan Trail, a junior history major from Marion, Va.

Nellie Jean Rice, assistant professor of English, and Jacqueline Deda, administrative assistant to the vice president for Student Affairs, also were inducted.

Students selected for Wall Fellows program

Four Coastal business students have been selected for the Wall Fellows program, an 18-month program designed to prepare top business students for high-level careers in major U.S. and international corporations and organizations.

Students chosen to begin the program in fall 1999 are:
- Marisa Basile, a junior management major from Sewell, N.J.
- Brooks Marka, a junior management major from Erie, Pa.
- Glenn D. McMurry, a junior finance major from Midland, Ga.
- Robin Turner, a junior management major from Timmonsville, S.C.

The Wall Fellows program was begun in 1995 in response to the need, expressed by the leaders of top U.S. corporations, for graduates with stronger leadership and interpersonal skills, according to William V. Woodson, director of the program.

The primary focus of the program is a three credit-hour per semester course which covers specific non-traditional areas including interpersonal skills, personal health and appearance, business and social etiquette and ethics, foreign languages, and cultural skills. The course prepares the students for the highlight of the program: a series of internships and international experiences during their senior year. Since the program was initiated, Wall Fellows have had internships at major companies in New York, Atlanta, London, Barcelona and Santiago, Chile, as well as other metropolitan cities.

Thank you for joining Coastal Carolina University's WalkAmerica team for the March of Dimes! CCU raised MORE THAN $3,000 in the fight against birth defects, and your help will make a difference in the lives of tomorrow's children!

A note of appreciation

Dear friends at Coastal Carolina:

You showed incredible support and kindness in the celebration of our friend and great teacher John B. Durrell, who passed away on April 19. John's wake. Bless you all for making his Celebration of Life all that he would have wanted it to be.

Your loving generosity of support and thoughtful gestures and cards have greatly eased our family through the crisis of John's passing. John's children and family were overwhelmed by the outpouring of love you expressed at John's wake. Bless you all for making his Celebration of Life all that he would have wanted it to be.

Your collective compassion and the support you gave us has given me the emotional support so necessary for processing my loss. When I see your animated faces and hear your happy laughter I know that John lives on in your collective conscience and you remember him for the many good times we've had together. Lord, that man was a good one.

Thank you for your friendship.

Sincerely,
Karen Carpenter and family
Coastal recognizes students, faculty at annual Honors Convocation

Richard F. Dame, professor of marine science, received the Distinguished Teacher-Scholar Lecturer Award. Sponsored by Horry Telephone Cooperative, this award was initiated in 1996 to recognize faculty members who distinguish themselves as teachers, scholars and communicators. During the fall, the recipient delivers a public lecture drawn from his or her area of expertise. Dame joined the Coastal faculty in 1971. Named South Carolina’s first Palmetto Professor in 1991, Dame is internationally recognized for his research on oysters and their effect on the coastal ecosystem. He served as program director in charge of ecosystem research at the National Science Foundation from 1992 to 1994, and as president of the Southeastern Estuarine Research Society from 1995 to 1998. Dame earned a bachelor’s degree in biology from the College of Charleston, a master’s degree in zoology and ecology from the University of South Carolina, and a Ph.D. in biology and marine studies from the University of North Carolina. He has published more than 75 papers in scientific journals.
