Professorship in honor of William Baxley established at Coastal

Coastal alumnus Larry Douglas Coats Jr., executive vice president of Oak Value Capital Management, Inc., of Durham, N.C., and his wife Suzanne Byrd Coats have made a gift to Coastal's E. Craig Wall School of Business Administration to fund the William J. Baxley Jr. Applied Business Professorship. Their gift will be matched by other private funds to create a permanently endowed professorship.

The purpose of the professorship is to attract and retain top business administration faculty to Coastal. The holder of the professorship will be selected according to teaching ability, character, academic achievement, and ability to relate "real world" experiences to the classroom.

The professorship is named in honor of William J. Baxley Jr., dean emeritus of the Wall School of Business. Baxley joined the Coastal faculty in 1972 and served the university in many capacities, including associate chancellor of advancement and dean of the Wall School of Business, until his retirement in 1992.

A native of Dillon, S.C., Baxley graduated from West Point in 1950 and earned an MBA from the University of Alabama in 1972. During his 22-year career in the U.S. Army, he served as infantry battalion commander in Korea and as a colonel in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. During his tour of duty in Vietnam, Baxley was awarded the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star Medal and other medals.

Larry D. Coats Jr. is a native of Loris, S.C., and a graduate of Green Sea Floyds High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Coastal in 1981 and an MBA from the University of South Carolina in 1983. He is a co-recipient of the National Association of Small Business Investment Companies' Annual Venture Capital Research Award. Before joining Oak Value Capital Management, Inc., he was associated with Arthur Anderson & Co. and Legg Mason Wood Walker of Raleigh, N.C.

Suzanne Byrd Coats is a native of Raleigh, N.C. She earned a bachelor's degree in accounting from N.C. State University in 1984. She is an active volunteer in several charity and service organizations in the Apex, N.C., area, where they live.

CCU to co-host sculptors conference

The Tri-State Sculptors Educational Association, an organization of sculptors from South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia, will hold its 1999 Fall Conference Nov. 12 to 14 at Coastal Carolina University and Brookgreen Gardens.

The conference, on the theme "Traditions in Transition," will include a two-part sculpture exhibit as well as a full day of educational sessions Nov. 13 on such topics as sculpture preservation, health issues relating to sculpting, and an examination of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial in Washington, D.C.

An outdoor sculpture exhibit will be presented on the grounds of Coastal beginning Oct. 2. An indoor exhibit at the Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach will run from Oct. 2 to Nov. 13. The outdoor exhibit at Coastal will be on display through May 2000. Both exhibits will be part of Vivace '99 & Vivace Too.

Henry Halem, professor of art at Kent State University, will be the keynote speaker at the conference. Halem has been involved in glass art since 1968 and was an assistant to pioneer glass artist Harvey Littleton.

The Tri-State Sculptors Educational Association was formed in 1978 to promote public awareness and appreciation of sculpture in the region. Membership is open to anyone interested in sculpture regardless of style, medium or location.

The public may attend any of the conference events. A registration fee will be required for certain events, as well as an entry fee for Brookgreen Gardens. To tour the outdoor display at Coastal or to arrange a special visit to the exhibit at the Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, contact Charles Wright, chairman of Coastal's Department of Art, at extension 2701.

Lifelong Learning Society names advisory board

Coastal's Lifelong Learning Society has elected three new members to its advisory board: Rocky Cartisano of Conway, Patricia Horsford of Conway and Harry Rickenbacker of Little River. They will serve three-year terms.

The advisory board was established in 1998 to help develop curricula for the Lifelong Learning Society, a learning-in-retirement program administered by Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services.

Other members of the advisory board are Gloria Benzali, Don Cohler and Nancy Seeds, all of Conway, Johann McCrackin and Gary Staley of Myrtle Beach; and Glen O'Connell of Pawleys Island.

Coastal's Lifelong Learning Society has more than 700 members and offers more than 40 courses each semester on subjects ranging from computers and new technology to art, literature, local history, finance and physical fitness. Fall semester courses are scheduled to begin Sept. 13. For more information, call extension 2665 or visit the Web site at www.coastal.edu/learn.

Continuing students receive scholarships

Rebecca S. Howard of Surfside Beach and Susan A. Merkel of Myrtle Beach are the first recipients of Coastal Carolina University's Alpha Sigma Lambda scholarships, designed to assist adult students beginning or returning to college to earn a bachelor's degree. The award, for up to $500 per semester, was established in March 1999 by Coastal's Alpha Pi chapter of Alpha Sigma Lambda, a national honor society for students age 25 and older.

Howard is earning a degree in elementary education. Merkel is earning a degree in interdisciplinary studies.

For more information, contact Linda Ford in Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2093.

At Coastal Carolina University's annual summer picnic games, the Academic Center team took the first place trophy; the Office of Student Affairs team placed second in the competition; and the Office of Admissions team won the Spirit Award.
Coastal Carolina People

Faculty and staff are encouraged to submit Information to be included in the "Coastal Carolina People" section of On Campus. Information will be published following the presentation or activity.

Don Brook has been elected president of the International and Newberry County Law Enforcement Executives Association. The organization's membership includes all chiefs of police, directors of public safety, sheriffs and representatives of the FBI, SCDPI, Cooper Police, and South Carolina Highway patrol within the two counties, as well as the solicitor.

Students complete College Connection Program at Coastal Eighteen rising high school seniors from Georgetown, Horry and Williamsburg counties have completed Coastal's College Connection, a six-week summer academic design to provide students who might not otherwise consider higher education the opportunity to participate in college preparatory activities.

According to Jessie Brown, associate professor of education at Coastal and director of College Connection, the goal of the program is not only to educate the students but also to expose them to the cultural and professional benefits of higher education.

Students were chosen based on recommendations by high school guidance counselors, community leaders and previous participants. Students from the following high schools participated: Aynor, C. E. Murray, Conway, Hemingway, Kingstree and Myrtle Beach.

"The focus of this year's program was on personal as well as academic growth," said Brown. "Participants were encouraged to cultivate their innate strengths and abilities to help them accomplish their goals in life. At the conclusion of the program, the participants presented a multimedia production and a newsletter which they created to illustrate what they learned in College Connection."

The College Connection program is funded through a $94,409 grant from the Waccamaw Workforce Investment Board on behalf of the U.S. Department of Labor.

For more information about the 1999 College Connection Program, contact Jessie Brown at extension 2619.

Coastal's "Surfin' For Seniors" introduces Internet to senior adults

"Surfin' for Seniors," a unique one-on-one class designed for senior adults who have never used the Internet or the World Wide Web but who would like to learn, is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 27 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in Coastal's computer lab, located on the second floor of the Prince Building. The fee for the course is $10.

Following a brief overview of the Internet, each participant will be paired with a student instructor for a surfing session which will explain how to use the World Wide Web to send e-mail to family and friends, get discount airline tickets, tour the world's greatest museums, access medical information and much more. This session will help attendees decide whether they want to invest in a computer or how to use the one they have.

For more information, contact Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2665.

Bi-Lo philanthropy program to benefit Coastal

Bi-Lo Boosters, a new philanthropy program initiated by the grocery chain, will benefit Coastal Carolina University scholarship programs.

Each time participating Bi-Lo shoppers use their Bonus Card, their purchase amount is automatically attributed to the organization they have selected. At the end of each quarter, Bi-Lo will make a donation to the organization based on a percentage of the purchase total.

Shoppers at all area Bi-Lo stores may now register Coastal as their organization of choice by calling 1-877-4BOOSTER, by visiting the Web site at www.bi-lo.com, Coastal's registration number is 2832.

"This is a perfect, painless way to contribute to Coastal's scholarship funds and help some worthy students to earn their degree," said Lanny Breznicki, price integrity coordinator at the Conway Bi-Lo and coordinator of the Boosters program. Breznicki, who is a continuing education student earning a bachelor's degree in accounting at Coastal, signed up more than 100 participants for Coastal in one day on Saturday, Aug. 7. "The more people who sign up, the greater the potential to raise substantial funds for Coastal scholarship programs," he said.

Coastal faculty, staff and students interested in signing up may call Breznicki at 397-4131 or 248-3134.

Powell presents concert of Beethoven sonatas

Philip Powell, assistant professor of music at Coastal Carolina University and chair of Coastal's Department of Music, will perform three of Ludwig van Beethoven's best-known piano sonatas, the "Pathétique," "Moonlight" and "Appassionata," at a concert scheduled for Sunday, August 29 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Philip Powell, assistant professor of music at Coastal Carolina University and chair of Coastal's Department of Music, will perform three of Ludwig van Beethoven's best-known piano sonatas, the "Pathétique," "Moonlight" and "Appassionata," at a concert scheduled for Sunday, August 29 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Powell claims a special kinship with Beethoven through a direct line of teacher-pupil relationships beginning with Beethoven and continuing through more than two centuries to Michel Block, who was Powell's piano instructor at Indiana University.

Powell joined the Coastal faculty in 1988. He earned a bachelor's degree in music from the University of Oklahoma and a D.M. degree from Indiana University.

CCU Lifelong Learning Society offers Washington D.C tours

Coastal Carolina University, through a collaboration with the Close Up Foundation, plans to host a week-long, education-oriented trip to Washington D.C. Nov. 6 to 12, 1999.

The tour will feature talks on current issues with policy experts, behind-the-scenes visits to Congressional offices and tours of the White House, the Smithsonian Institution museums, the National Cathedral, the major memorials and monuments, as well as an excursion to Williamsburg. The programs are organized in cooperation with AARP and are designed for adults only.

The cost of the trip is $1,029 per person, which includes double occupancy rooms in conveniently located hotels, all meals except for one lunch, a privately chartered motorcoach, and professionally trained program instructors. If 10 or more people register, discounted airline or Amtrak tickets may be provided, as well as a pre-departure seminar led by a member of the Coastal faculty.

For more information, contact Kathy Doyle, program coordinator of Coastal's Lifelong Learning Society, at extension 2544 or extension 2665.
The Language Immersion Institute (LII), a language education program designed to help adult learners acquire proficiency in the language of their choice in the shortest possible time, will offer two weekend sessions in Myrtle Beach, S.C., on Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Litchfield Beach & Golf Resort, located on the southern tip of South Carolina's Grand Strand near Pawleys Island, offers a full range of amenities including three signature golf courses, tennis and racquetball courts and on-site dining and entertainment facilities. For more information, contact Jennifer Shinaberger in Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2737 or by e-mail at jshinabe@coastal.edu. To register, contact LII at (914) 257-3500 or by e-mail at lii@newpaltz.edu. For hotel reservations, contact Litchfield at (800) 845-1897.

"Learning Opportunities" Course Schedules Available

"Learning Opportunities," featuring the Fall 1999 semester schedule of continuing education courses offered through Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services, is now available.

A wide variety of programs, both noncredit and credit, are being offered to help meet the growing educational needs and interests of people who live and work in the Grand Strand region. Courses designed both for professional development and personal enrichment are available, as well as a wide range of computer applications courses, foreign language courses and travel opportunities. "Learning Opportunities" also includes the complete course schedule for Coastal's Lifelong Learning Society, a learning-in-retirement program with more than 700 members.

Most of the courses are offered at Coastal's Conway campus although some classes will be held at other locations in Myrtle Beach, North Myrtle Beach, the South Strand and at Coastal's Georgetown campus. Some courses are offered online via the Internet.

For more information on Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services at extension 2665.

Lakeside Learning

Several Coastal Law Enforcement Officers and a group of summer science campers met by accident at the lake near the Wall Building recently and decided to try some impromptu cross-training. Both groups were there for research: the kids to take water samples for scientific experiments, and the officers to test a new rescue device called the ResQ Disk. The camper above is aiming the frisbee-like disk, which acts as a buoy with a line attached to it, into the lake toward an imaginary swimmer.
