Summer Job Fair coming up

The Career Services Center will host a job fair in Kimbel Arena on Thursday, April 6 from 5 to 8 p.m. Area employers will be recruiting students for full-time seasonal positions as well as parttime jobs. This event is co-sponsored by Horry County Schools and Horry Georgetown Technical College. All CCU students seeking summer employment are encouraged to attend. Students should dress to impress – no tank tops, tube tops, short shorts, athletic attire, etc. Most employers will have applications to complete onsite.

Call for proposals announced

The Spring 2006 call for proposals for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning Grants is now available at: <http://www.coastal.edu/cetl/sotl/SOTLCFPspring2006.pdf>

Proposals are sought for research projects on methods of student learning from both individual faculty ($3,500 max) and groups of faculty ($7,500 max).

There are a few significant differences in the application process this year:

- The submission process is completely online at <http://www.coastal.edu/cetl/sotl>. All that needs to be turned in as paper copies are the signature pages.

- Applications must be accompanied by a completed Institutional Review Board "Research Projects Containing Human Subjects" application. Almost all SOTL projects will qualify as exempt from this process, but the application must be filed to certify that.

- If you are budgeting yourself a stipend for this project, you must let us know which semester or summer session you wish to receive it. The initiation of that paperwork now comes from the CETL; we will send the form needed at the beginning of the semester.

Campus job openings

Applications are now being taken for the following positions on campus: assistant director of admissions, admissions recruiters, procurement specialist I in the Procurement Office, temporary administrative support in University Advancement, temporary dispatcher in Public Safety, temporary cashier in the Bursar's Office.
