Hispanic Celebration set for Oct. 13

Coastal will host its annual Hispanic Celebration Wednesday, Oct. 13 from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Spadoni Park on the Coastal campus. The event is free and open to the public. Food and merchandise will be for sale.

The event will offer food and music from the countries of Central, Latin and South America. Posters, maps and other information will be displayed.

Scheduled performers include: Las Quemaritas, a Coastal student dance group; Chris Switala, a Coastal student who will sing a selection of Spanish songs; and Mariachi Juvenil Guadalajara, a professional mariachi band. The event will conclude with "Teatro de las Estrellas" (Theater of the Stars), four short skits written by Coastal Spanish instructors and performed by Coastal students, faculty and staff. Teatro de las Estrellas is scheduled for 1:45 p.m. in Wall Auditorium.

Hispanic Celebration is sponsored by Coastal's Leadership Challenge, a leadership development program for minority students. For more information about the festival, contact Pat Singleton-Young at extension 2304 or 2188.

Target donation funds All-American Boys Chorus performance at Coastal

Coastal has received a $3,000 grant from Target of Myrtle Beach to help fund the upcoming performance by the All-American Boys Chorus at Wheelwright Auditorium. The performance is scheduled for Sunday, April 30, 2000, at 3 p.m. Admission is $15; $10 for students under 18.

The grant is part of Target's community grant initiative, a philanthropy program developed by the retail chain to benefit the arts in communities served by Target stores.

"Target is committed to sponsoring arts programs that are family-oriented and affordable," said Sue Barnes, guest services executive of Target of Myrtle Beach. "The All-American Boys Chorus is a world-class group and we are pleased to have a part in bringing them to the newly renovated Wheelwright Auditorium."

Founded in 1970, the All-American Boys Chorus has won worldwide acclaim for its musical excellence. For the Wheelwright event, the group, featuring 36 singers ranging from nine to 15 years old, will present "A Salute to America and Her Music," a selection of songs including patriotic standards, Broadway tunes and hits from the Big Band era.

In addition to the public performance on April 30, the chorus also will give two performances for students from Horry County Schools.

For more information about this and other cultural events at Coastal, contact the Wheelwright Box Office at extension 2015.

Oberst to portray Lewis Grizzard at Wheelwright

Actor Bill Oberst will present the premiere performance of "An Evening with Lewis Grizzard," a one-man show about the celebrated humorist and newspaper columnist, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Wheelwright Auditorium. Tickets for the event are $10 for general admission and $20 for reserved seats.

The Wheelwright performance, the first presentation of the full two-act version of the show, recreates Grizzard's trademark stand-up comedy routine from the 1980s, says Oberst. The second act of the show focuses on Grizzard the writer, offering excerpts from his columns and books and his musings on life and death. Grizzard died in 1994 at the age of 47.

Oberst developed the production with the cooperation of Grizzard's estate and the author's widow, Dedra Grizzard. The show will tour the Southeast beginning in 2000. Oberst also has created one-man portrayals of Mark Twain, Jesus of Nazareth, Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy and Pontius Pilate.

"An Evening with Lewis Grizzard" is sponsored by Coastal and Temple Emanu-El as part of the Vivace Arts Festival. For ticket information, call the Wheelwright Box Office at extension 2502 or the Horry Cultural Arts Council at 248-7200.

Personal finance teleconference set

"Financial Strategies for a New Century: Tips from America's Experts," a 90-minute teleconference sponsored by TIAA-CREF, will be broadcast via satellite Friday Oct. 22 at 12:45 p.m. at the Society House on the Coastal campus. The fee to attend is $12.

The teleconference will offer insights, strategies and practical suggestions for building financial security in the years ahead. Particular attention will be given to the rapid rate of change in the way money is invested in an age of advancing technology.

The conference will be useful to anyone planning for retirement, saving for a child's college education, managing credit, or buying a new home.

Panelists for the teleconference will include: Martin Leibowitz, vice chairman and chief investment officer of TIAA-CREF; William F. Sharpe, 1990 Nobel Laureate in economics, of Stanford University; and Teresa Tritch of Money magazine.

Call extension 2665 for more information.

Campus Annual Fund gets underway

Details of an exciting new twist for this year's Campus Annual Fund, "Campus Give and Take Challenge," will be unveiled when you receive your pledge card.

The Annual Fund supports programs that touch every aspect of the university. Your donation to the Annual Fund helps ensure that Coastal students receive the best education possible. Donations encourage students in their academic endeavors through scholarships. They provide additional equipment, supplies and faculty and staff development funds. Moreover, a high percentage of giving by Coastal employees serves as leverage when we ask corporations, foundations and other off-campus institutions and individuals for major gifts.

Help ensure that Coastal maintains and enhances its status as a premier undergraduate institution. Your gift does make a difference and will have a positive impact on Coastal for years to come. Return your completed pledge card or gift to the Office of University Advancement, 206 Singleton Building. If you do not receive a pledge card or need a new one, please call extension 2737. Thank you in advance for supporting the Coastal Carolina University Annual Fund.

Berry, Snider honored by Waccamaw Center

C. Burgin Berry of North Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Evelyn Snider of Conway, S.C., have been presented the Waccamaw Award by Coastal's Waccamaw Center for Cultural and Historical Studies. Berry and Snider received the award Sept. 25 at the Catherine Lewis Festival at Coastal.

"This award is presented to individuals who have made distinguished contributions to the study and preservation of Southern history and culture, and no two people are more deserving than Burgin Berry and Evelyn Snider," said Charles Joyner, Burroughs Distinguished

Professor of Southern History and Culture at Coastal and director of the center.

Berry was the first president of the Horry County Historical Society. He has written numerous articles about area history for area newspapers and historical journals.

Snider, a longtime educator, has helped to preserve area history through her articles, lectures and her unique illustrated maps. She taught at Conway High School and was named an honorary founder of Coastal Carolina University in 1991.

Do You Know?

Workshop answers question: "Should I Buy a Computer?"

"Should I Buy a Computer?" is a two-session workshop presented by Coastal's Division of Extended Learning and Public Services to assist people who want to learn more about personal computers. The course will be offered Wednesday, Oct. 13 and 20 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at Coastal's Society House. The fee to register is $15. The course will be offered again on Nov. 10 and 17.

Find out what it costs to buy a computer and printer; how to select the best one for your needs; what's the difference between software and hardware, e-mail and the Internet. The classes will be led by Ted Ackley, a retired human resource manager with more than 12 years of corporate computer training experience.

For more information, call extension 2665 or visit the Web site at www.coastal.edu/learn.

College fishing match was hurricane victim

by Don Millus

Ten years ago this fall Hurricane Hugo wiped out Coastal Carolina College's annual intercollegiate fishing match and seminar. Hugo sent teams from Western Ontario, Yale, Francis Marion and UNC-Wilmington running for home on the first full day of the 16th Annual Coastal Carolina Invitational. Participants were looking forward to two days of fishing in the Gulf Stream, but waves were already 20-feet high out there as a killer hurricane headed for South Carolina.

Students and coaches breakfasted that day in the restaurant at the head of Springmaid Pier. It was the last meal anyone would have there, at least before it was re-built after a pounding by the winds and waves of the edge of Hugo that night. The end of the pier was completely destroyed, as it would be again by a nor'easter a few years later.

Of course, if Hurricane Hugo had come ashore at Myrtle Beach, Murrells Inlet or even Georgetown, Springmaid Pier would have been totally destroyed, along with much of the Grand Strand. But Hugo hit at McClellanville and only snapped its skirts at the Grand Strand, destroying some beach houses, but not creating the devastation further south toward Charleston.

This year the Coastal Carolina Invitational begins its second quarter century as the oldest collegiate fishing match and seminar just after another hurricane has given the Grand Strand a near miss. Whether the waters flooding the Atlantic from North Carolina via the Waccmaw River and Winyah Bay will affect the 26th Annual Invitation remains to be seen. Student anglers will be fishing for king mackerel and black seabass wherever clean water can be found offshore of Murrells Inlet.

In past years Capt. Jack Orr has had to run up to 32 miles off the beach to find the kings, but in some years the kings have been in as close as 15 miles. The sponsor of the annual event is Coastal Carolina University. Fishing will be on the "New Captain Bill" out of Captain Dick's Marina in Murrells Inlet. The awards banquet, traditionally grilled freshly-caught king mackerel steaks, will be held at the Creekhous Restaurant in Murrells Inlet.

Conway National Bank is the local contributor of tackle and prizes. National contributors include Ande Line, Buck Knives, Gerber Legendary Blades, O. Mustad and Son, Outdoor Technologies, Inc. (Berkley Line), Penn Fishing Tackle, Plano Tackle Boxes, Remington Arms Company (Stren Line), Shakespeare Fishing Tackle, South Bend Sporting Goods, and Wright and McGill (Eagle Claw Hooks).

Participating schools for 1999 will include Clemson, Coastal Carolina, Francis Marion, and the University of South Carolina. Coastal Professor Richard Moore will be judging the competition. Professor Donald Millus will be organizing and directing the Invitational for the 26th time. Instructors will include Mitch Godwin, Dr. Joey Sanders, and Skip Opalko. Patricia Millus will provide the catered lunch, traditionally hero sandwiches.

Learn PC repair and troubleshooting

A new online course offered through the Division of Extended Learning and Public Services enables you to save on PC repairs by learning to fix it yourself. Learn to take a look under the hood of a typical PC and identify its parts and components. Discover dozens of preventative measures you can take to protect your valuable electronics and irreplaceable data. Learn what to do when disaster strikes, how to deal with power problems, BIOS and CMOS RAM glitches, drive and file problems, and boot failure. Also, learn all about configuring and using memory and preventing Windows General Protection Faults.

The course will be offered Wednesdays and Fridays beginning Oct. 13, Nov. 10 and Dec. 8. Call extension 2665 for more information.
