MARCH 19, 1984

USC-COASTAL CAROLINA COLLEGE

VIOLINIST TO PERFORM

Sarah Johnson, violinist, will appear in concert at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, March 22, 1984, in the Wheelwright Auditorium, sponsored by Cultural Arts Series, USC-Coastal Carolina College.

A graduate of The Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, Sarah Johnson studied with Ilza Niemack, Ivan Galamian and Eric Morini. In 1981, Ms. Johnson was the first recipient of the South Carolina Arts Commission's Performing Artist Fellowship and in 1982 became a North Carolina Visiting Artist in that state's prestigious artist residency program. During the 1983-84 season, in addition to her role as Artistic Director of the critically acclaimed concert series, Sarah Johnson & Friends At The Dock Street Theatre, she will be South Carolina's first community funded artist-in-residence (at the Fine Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden.) This past June she was featured on the CBS Morning News in performance of the Menotti Violin Concerto during the Spoleto/USA '83 Festival in Charleston, SC. And she has just been selected to become part of the Affiliate Artist, Inc. organization in New York City.

"She was nothing short of dazzling," wrote a Columbia, SC, critic of a recent performance by Sarah Johnson. For more information about the concert, call 448-1481 or 347-3161, Ext. 206.

CONGRATULATIONS, CLAUDIA!

Claudia Cleary is Coastal's 1983-84 Distinguished Teacher. In Columbia on Friday, 13 April, Professor Cleary will compete with winners from USC - Spartanburg and USC-Aiken for the Amoco Distinguished Teaching Award (a prize of $1,000). Dr. Joseph Cicero, Coastal's faculty representative, and Kay Chance, Coastal's student representative, will accompany Ms. Cleary to Columbia.

COASTAL CAROLINA ALUMNI TO DISCUSS FUND RAISING

The next meeting of the Coastal Carolina Alumni Association will be Monday, March 19, at 7:00 p.m., in the conference room in the Singleton Administration Building. The executive board of directors will meet at 6:00 p.m. to conduct their regular business. At 7:00 p.m. the meeting will be open to all members of the Alumni Association to join the directors in listening to a special program on "The Functions of Board of Directors" and "Fund Raising by Board of Directors".

Coastal Alumni interested in joining the Alumni Association may pay $10 at the door.

STUDENT ELECTIONS SET

Campus Union Coordinator and Assistant Coordinator.

STUDENT COFFEE

Please be reminded that the Student Coffee with Dr. Hicks, held on Wednesday mornings from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., continue weekly.

FACULTY/STAFF ANNOUNCEMENTS AND ACTIVITIES

Paul C. Peterson, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences has been awarded a Summer Stipend from the National Endowment for the Humanities in the amount of $3,000.

Randell A. Wells made a presentation in Georgetown to a class of teachers taking a course in writing about literature, a pilot program for a statewide Writing in Humanities grant.

Dr. Joseph N. Pinson, Professor of Biology, presented a slide-illustrated talk on wildflowers of Horry County to the Camellia Garden Club in Conway on February 21.

Dr. Richard H. Moore, Dean, School of Science, recently attended the joint meeting of the South Carolina Fisheries Workers' Association and the South Carolina Chapter of the American Fisheries Society held in Charleston.

Several Coastal Biology majors have recently been accepted into graduate school, medical school, allied health programs, or foreign exchange programs. Congratulations are due to Stephanie Wunsh (B.S., December 1983), who will be starting graduate work in entomology at St. Louis University; Lynda Knight (B.S., December); and Stella Altman, Peter Crayne, Steve Fögner, and Davis Gerrald, who will be continuing their studies in the College of Allied Health Sciences, MUSC, Charleston. Amanda Hagins has been accepted into the USC/Kent Exchange Program and will be spending her senior year abroad in Kent, England.

Beth Haynes will present a paper at the Eastern Economics Association Annual convention in New York City March 15-17. She will also chair a session called "Human Capital."

Thomas E. Jones, Chairman of Speech and Theatre and School of Humanities, Coastal Carolina College, has just returned from the Southeastern Theatre Conference that was held in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Jones served as a panel chairman in Theatre History and presented a paper at the conference. His paper was about Constantin Stanislavsky and the Moscow Art Theatre.

Bruno Gujer presented the paper "Selectivity and Flexibility: Contemporary Education in Switzerland" at the Third Annual Conference of the Southern Association of Comparative and International Education, March 16, at Georgia State University, Atlanta.

LIBRARY OFFERS RESEARCH CLINICS

Kimbel Library is offering "research clinics" for students during the weeks of March 12-16 and March 19-26. Students may sign up for individual appointments to get help with their library research for term papers or other assignments which require library research.

During each 30-minute appointment, a reference librarian will show the student how to conduct research for his/her particular topic. The appointments will be geared to the needs of the individual student.

Interested students should stop by the library's reference office to sign up at least three days in advance.

Faculty members are encouraged to help publicize these clinics by making in-class announcements.

MATH CONTEST SPONSORED

The school of Mathematics & Computer Services at USC-Coastal Carolina College, in cooperation with the Horry Georgetown Mathematics Advancement Council, will be sponsoring their 6th annual mathematics contest for the local area high school students on March 29, 1984.

The contest will consist of two levels of proficiency. The first level will include questions from Algebra I, Geometry, and Algebra II, and the second level will include questions from Algebra, Geometry, Advanced Algebra, and Trigonometry.

Individual awards and team awards will be given to the highest three scorers in a respective level. Approximately two hundred participants are expected.

Participation by a student in a contest of this kind, and on a college campus such as ours, is an excellent way to foster interest and to recognize achievement in mathematics.
