Behavorial order · an associate director of athletics in speak for the college.

Vrooman, who has divided his career in professional baseball, has been Coastal Carolina's associate director of athletics in recent years. The associate director of athletics in charge of the athletic department, a position held by Vrooman, has been accepted by the NCAA Division I committee.

"Coach Richardson believes that for Coastal Carolina to continue being a competitive team in the NCAA the athletic director's position must be a full-time position, and I agree with him," said Eaglin. As those of you who know Richardson know, he is a man who has been in the business of athletics for many years and has a wealth of management experience. He has been instrumental in the development of Coastal Carolina's athletic program and has won numerous national titles in basketball and football.

When asked what he thought of Richardson's resignation, Eaglin said, "I think it's a good move for Coastal Carolina. Richardson has done a lot for the school and has been a great asset to the athletic department. But now it's time for a new chapter in the school's history."
Weight limits praised

The recent decision by engineers of the South Carolina Department of Highways and Public Transportation to stop trucks hauling 6,000 tons or more of sand from the already-balanced S.C. Highway 544 is, to say the least, an excellent, cerebral transform, and one which requires student support.

Students at USC Coastal using the S.C. 544 got to school have fewer worries concerning construction currently progressing on that stretch of road. Safety presides the chore about boulders and rocks that must now select an alternate route to get to their beach locations.

We do understand the highway department’s action concerning mammoth bush hauls landing at Myrtle Beach from Soc. Cal with S.C. Highway 544, and that the beach conservation programs are integral to the reteoring of our environment. But, safety must certainly come first when you talk of beach erosion vs. human lives on our roadways. Safety must come first. At times, blood is thicker than sand.

Safety was a key factor earlier this year when Chancellor Ronald English got to branch off with a traffic agency to keep road construction on S.C. Highway 544. It was then assumed the road (544) would be impassable due to construction for much of this winter. And it was expected the precautionary measure of each student attending USC Coastal no matter the obstacles.

报写者: the Santee community

We have two long-standing pairs of measuring shoes that belong to A.M.E. church and school here. The shoes have been passed down through the family of a gently deceased person. They are the shoes that are used to size and fit the sandbags and other materials for use in the church and school. They are worn by the children and young people of the church as they work on various projects.

There is a story behind these shoes. Some time ago, a group of people from a nearby community came to help with the church’s annual community clean-up. They brought their own shoes to wear and each wore a pair of shoes that fit them. The shoes were brought in to be used by the children and young people of the church as they work on various projects.

Letter:

Editor:
The Student and Community Teachers Organization meets teachers and students from the various colleges and universities. We are a group of educators who believe in the importance of higher education and the role it plays in society.

We would like to bring to your attention an issue that has been affecting our community for some time. The issue is related to the lack of adequate funding for education. Despite the importance of education, our community continues to face financial difficulties that make it difficult to provide the necessary resources for our students.

We are writing to express our concern about this issue and to urge you to take action to address it. We believe that education is a fundamental right that should be accessible to all students, regardless of their economic background.

We hope that you will take the time to read our letter and consider the issues we have raised. We are committed to working with you to ensure that our students receive the best possible education.

Sincerely,

[Name]

Strothers right man

The new director of the Georgetown Extension of USC Coastal Carolina College, as most of you know by now, is Stewart Strothers. Strothers has been associated with Coastal in Georgetown approaching 11 years. He has been a student-oriented faculty member from the outset.

We think, with no reservations, that Strothers is an excellent choice to head the Georgetown Extension. The college should grow tremendously based on the same set of demographics leading us to believe the entire area south of I-50 will see the button holes in a few years. The extension needs a leader who will not only be a good administrator but also a director who will be responsive to the needs of the students.

He has proven to be a man who will not only be responsive to the needs of the students but also be a good administrator. Strothers is a total community person, not just a member of a certain group. He has proven to be a man who will make sure that the students come first.

Good luck to Professor Strothers, and we will gladly keep you here with us as long as possible (he is still active in Coastal Campus teaching and serving as Director of Minority Student Affairs). And, by the way, we love that new car you’re bringing in.
I was trying to come up with a title. A hopeless task, I thought, until I wrote something useful. About three hours down, I found the title.

I second guess myself about everything. I don't really care if I forget. Heck, I almost forgot myself. I can't even remember the last time I looked forward to my birthday. After the first dozen or so, I started wondering what the whole deal was about, anyway, celebrating the wasting of another year of life.

Cheer up and celebrate

It is rather difficult to enjoy myself years later, much less what I did before. I know what I want, and that's why I'm wasting a year or so.

Baring is in the air, and evidence of that is the 1986 Winter- ball season is getting under way. After a weather-nipped 1985-86 indoor ball season, and even more disappoint- ing outdoor season because the agility and fitness that kept them from participating in the outdoor activities, the Lady Bears are eager to get the season underway. Coach Dave Kuij, former of the U.S. Olympic teams, has brought with him a new approach to coaching softball. Kuij is going into the season with the knowledge that the Lady Bears have been nothing of the past. Coastal has moved on to its 8th game schedule. The softball season gets underway on March 2 against Pfeiffer College and the Wofford Eagles. Other teams Coastal expects to tough are Francis Marion, Lesder, and Eastside.

This tournament will also help the Lady Bears build the host of Wofford and a much needed strength on the field. The Lady Bears are returning to the field of a few weeks ago. "The Lady Bears are playing a much more mature game," Kuij said. "I am proud that we are doing what we are doing and I am sure that other teams are going to see Coastal play. We are going to be playing a much more mature game."

Sports seminar slated soon

The Coastal Sports Medicine Seminar is scheduled for February 25-26, 1986, at the Quaility Rovels. The Seminar is intended to improve and build on the Quaility Rovels. The Seminar will be led by Dr. V. R. R. Athey, Jr., and Dr. W. C. Grady, Jr., and Dr. W. C. Grady, Jr.

The keynote speaker will be Joe Myrick, Tsegal, such as a role model, presenters, or speakers, a new, first time, and predicting athletic performance will be in- cluded. Registration will be held on January 28 from 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. at Coastal. The fee for the seminar is $25.00. Full seminar materials will be offered.

Dance was a big winner

Julie Prince
Campus Union Reporter

Ocean Dance Resort was the site of the 1986 Winterball Roundup, coming on March 1 at 8 pm and was open to both men and women. Campus Carolers College feel and students of all 800 find the dance going full steam for about four hours. Faculty and students were able to enjoy themselves with great sportsmanship as well as the program. The Ocean Dance Resort was a big hit that the students enjoyed the night they attended the event sponsored by the Campus Union.

Students dance to Hail's beat

By Curtis Tucker
Staff Writer

Dance is one of the oldest and most valuable of the arts. We are very lucky to have a professor of Coastal Carolina College with the vast knowledge and skills that Professor Ivy Hall has.

She has earned a B.S. Degree in Modern Dance from Clemson College and a M.F.A. Degree in Modern Dance from the University of Nebraska. She has also studied modern dance in Europe, where she is recognized as a leading figure in the field of dance.

Hail teaches dance with both subjective and objective techniques. Besides teaching ballet and modern dance at the Coastal Arts Festival in Myrtle Beach, and modern dance at Coastal, Ivy has also taught courses in dance at Coastal Carolina College and other institutions. She is recognized as a leading figure in the field of dance.

IMMEDIATE
FULL AND PART TIME EMPLOYMENT!

We are looking for friendly, verbal, motivated individuals who can provide leadership in a sales-oriented retail environment. We have 10 stores in the downtown tourist area of Myrtle Beach and employ approximately 40 young people during the season. The hours are ideal for college students; weekends in the Spring and Fall, full-time in the Summer.

We look forward to working with you, not just this year but throughout your College education. This continued employment would provide increased levels of responsibility and greater compensation. There is also the opportunity for post-college career employment with a growing regional company.

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD
Jog-a-thon scheduled

By Monica De Staff Writer

The Henry County Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, which also has a chapter at Coastal Carolina College, has planned a jog-a-thon on the beach Saturday, March 10. Proceeds from this jog-a-thon will be raised to fund various FCA activities in Henry County. Last year this event, which also involves most high schools in Henry County, raised money to allow over $10,000 for the FCA. This year, their goal is to top that.

Participants will begin from the Pavilion at 10:00 a.m. and start jogging north along the beach. Participants may turn joggers per minute, therefore, markers will be placed at the one, two, and three-mile points. The jog-a-thon is scheduled to end at approximately 11:00 a.m.

Afterwards, an awards ceremony and breakfast will be given at Coastal Awards. The climate will be open to any individuals and schools who raised the most funds and ran the most miles.

Participants and sponsors are still welcome, so if you would like to donate by sponsoring, contact Ed Curry at 843-296-2809. It is a great opportunity to help the FCA and to test your conditioning for the spring season.

Regular meetings of the Coastal Carolina Chapter are held every Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Kirkwood Gymnasium. Everyone is welcome to attend.

PR Office continues to function

Curtis Tucker Staff Writer

Coastal Carolina College has been operating without a Public Relations Department since the end of the fall semester of 1988. The College’s Director of Alumni Affairs, Dr. Delores Delos, is in charge of publicizing the College’s important activities. It has been a big job so far.

To just get the necessary press releases and other publicity material, as well as directing the Alumni Affairs, is very demanding. The former Director of Public Relations, Mary Edgal, was pleased to serve as the Press Secretary for Phil Lander’s campaign for the Governor of South Carolina.

Delos returned when the campaign in South Carolina was over and Mary took the leave of absence, her assistant, Meredith Crowe, received unexpectedly. Meredith, her husband and the job of being the Feature Editor for a Newspaper in Bakersfield, California, so the Crowes moved to California during Christmas of 1988. Cathy McFadden will be the new assistant at Coastal Carolina College beginning Monday, Feb. 29, 1988. She has been the Press Secretary of the Governor Martin County College in Youngwood, Pennsylvania. For the past ten years, Cathy said she wanted to move north to the state. Let’s give Cathy McFadden a warm welcome to Coastal Carolina.

Wilson play dealt with human strife

Sheryl Boyd

The 11th of July, directed by Thomas E. Jones with assistance from Trina Jones, was performed in the Christ Church, 207 Winns, by the Love Theatre. This production was written by Tom Jones and the play is about friendship. This is a Vietnam war play. The two of the soldiers are Kenney Trellis Jr., played very well by John Batson, and Kenney Trellis, played very well by Anthony Epps. The play is about human war, his mother, his friends and especially himself. He cannot face the world. He wants to hide his homosexuality and his absent legs, or at least hide behind them. When his family and “friends” (played by John Batson, Kenney and his sister, the husband and wife, the next door neighbor and a lot of other friends) make fun of each other and their new fledged hope and obsession comes to reveal murky secrets with regrets and unresolved events.

Even as these tragic circumstances are screamed at and howled about, the laugh, the raucousness to survive during war, war it’s a way to live. From a story about Remo Satanashe to the battlefield self-cannibalism by Jane’s betrothed daughter (Kenney’s rival), we are laughing even as we wonder whether Kenney will lose others and himself squarely without surrender.

As Kenney decides to be honest and translates this student’s message about human beings needing to see the best they can be, the play becomes more than a story of disillusionment, middle-aged hippies. It is the story of pain across the prevailing human type.
