COLLEGE PUBLISHES ITS FIRST MAGAZINE

USC Coastal Carolina College has published its first tabloid magazine, Coastal Currents, which is geared to friends of the college. The quarterly magazine's first issue spotlights the college's efforts to improve retention, gives readers an Armchair Workshop on "How to Deal with Difficult People," and a personality profile of Dr. Richard Collin, a Coastal Carolina political science professor who was in U.S. military intelligence before becoming a part of the academic world. Also in this first issue is a message from the chancellor, a report on how two English professors are improving the writing of students, and how you can become a host parent for a foreign student. If you did not receive your magazine, or if you know someone who would like to be on our mailing list, contact the Office of Public Relations, 347-3161, 448-1481, or 546-0234 ext. 2016.

TRAINING SEMINARS

Training programs are held each month for state employees, through the Human Resource Management Division. Below is a list of seminars in Columbia for July:

Time Management for Executives, July 2.

Conducting Successful Meetings, July 12.

Supervisor Development Training Program, July 22-26.

Resolving Conflict by Controlling Anger, July 23.

Flow Charting for Financial Auditors, July 30-31.

To register, contact Coastal Carolina's Personnel Office or USC Training Office in Columbia at ext. 7-6578.
