CAMPUS EMERGENCY PROCEDURES

In the event of an emergency situation on campus, the responding party should call the Law Enforcement and Safety Office for assistance, ext. 2176, 2177, or 2178. If there is no answer at these extensions, the campus telephone operator should be contacted. The operator will ask specific questions relating to the emergency. This information is based on a standard format that each operator has at the switchboard. The information will then be relayed to the Law Enforcement and Safety Department via radio or telephone.

The Law Enforcement and Safety Office is developing a training plan for all campus police officers and other interested employees of the college. The program will include basic first aid and CPR.

DEADLINE FOR "WHO'S WHO" APPROACHING

The Student Affairs Committee has mailed invitations to all students who are eligible for election to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. To be eligible for consideration, a student must: have a GPR of 3.0 or above; have completed 60 or more hours; be currently enrolled for 12 hours; have attended Coastal for a minimum of two semesters with a GPR of #.0; and be or have been involved in co-curricular and community activities. Students who believe they are eligible and who have not received an application may obtain applications in the Student Development Division office, Student Center room 206. The deadline for receipt of applications is noon, Friday, November 14.

ODK TO ELECT NEW MEMBERS

The Coastal Carolina College Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa will soon be electing new members from currently enrolled junior and senior students. Letters of invitation and applications have been mailed to all eligible students. Students must rank in the top 35% of their class and be involved in campus life in a manner demonstrating leadership and leadership potential. Students who believe they are eligible for election may obtain applications for membership in the Student Development Division office, Student Center 206-D. The deadline for receipt of applications in noon, Monday, October 27 in the Student Development Division office.

KING MACKEREL COOPERATE IN FUND RAISING EFFORT

Coastal student Tom Wiemken decided to raise funds for two student clubs by selling fish chowder during the lunch hour at the college. His problem was that fish prices were high and that the college fishing club had only one king mackerel in the freezer. The only day he could fish was a recent rainy, windy Saturday, but his luck turned out to be spectacular.

This Week is published by U.S.C. Coastal Carolina College, an equal opportunity employer subscribing to all Civil Rights legislation.

Fishing with a faculty member who volunteered his services as guide and bait-catcher, Weimken landed five kings with a total weight of just over 135 pounds. His largest fish was a 33-pounder. All the fish were taken within a hundred yards of the mouth of Murrells Inlet. Seems the rainy weather and east winds gave the mackerel an appetite for the live mullet Weimken was using for bait.

His "Nova Scotia Recipe" fish chowder will be served from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in front of the Student Center Monday, November 3, Wednesday, November 5, and Thursday, November 6.

COASTAL CAROLINA PEOPLE

- o Dr. Sandra Bowden, assistant professor of Education, has published an article entitled "Effects of Formal, Traditional Grammar Study on the Writing Ability of Secondary School Students" in the Journal of Educational Research.
- o Dr. Walter Stanaland, associate professor of mathematics and computer science, will attend an IEEE conference for the Electrical Insulation and Dielectric Phenomena Society in Wilmington, Delaware. Since he is a member of the International conference board, he will attend organizational meetings, act as chairman of the fluids section of the conference, and present a paper entitled "Electrode Effects from Kerr Effect Measurements."
- o Janice Schuster, assistant librarian, and Margaret Fain, reference librarian, attended the biennial Southeastern Library Association conference in Atlanta, Georgia October 15-19. The theme was "Libraries, Vital Information Lifelines" and each attended sessions relevant to her areas of responsibility.
- o Steve Nagle, assistant professor of English, presented "Why Business English is Not English for Specific Purposes" at Languages, Technology, and European Union sponsored by the EEC, European Parliament and other organizations October 16-19 in Mantova, Italy. His paper will appear in the proceedings.

- o Alan Parham, who worked last year as a janitor at Coastal and was also a student, is now teaching in Columbia, South America. He sends greetings to everyone at the college and says it feels "strange being on a teaching faculty after having been a janitor...I have this compulsion to pick up paper, clean desks, and I don't think I have ever complained to Emiliano, the school custodian." He is homesick and would like to hear from his friends at Coastal. Address: Kra49C#84-141, Barranquilla, Columbia, South America.

- o Dr. Betsy Puskar, dean of Social and Behavioral Sciences, and Mary Eaddy, assistant to the chancellor, delivered presentations during "Making Connections: Power, Politics, and Higher Education," a workshop sponsored by South Carolina Women in Higher Education October 19-21 in Charleston. Puskar's topic was "Women and Power" and Eaddy's presentation was "Practical Personal Politics."

- o Thomas Jones, director of Wheelwright Center for Performing Arts, Dr. John Durrell, dean of the School of Humanities, and Dr. Janis Chesson, assistant chancellor for administrative services, recently attended a meeting of the South Carolina Committee for the Humanities held in Columbia. The meeting was for individuals, organizations, and institutions representing the full range of the SC Committee for the Humanities constituents, who are being asked to participate in discussion with board members and staff and to make comments and recommendations regarding the current state plan. The information gathered will be used in drafting the next biennial proposals being submitted by the SC Committee to the National Endowment for the o Three recent prints by Zdzislaw Sikora, associate professor of art, were recently on exhibit in South Carolina. The shows were: South Carolina State Fair, Professional Division; 28th Annual Springs Exhibition, Art of the Carolinas, Springs Industries, Lancaster; and 36th Annual Exhibition, Guild of South Carolina Artists, Columbia College Galery, Columbia.

o Dr. Douglas Nelson, professor of Geology and Marine Science, served on the masters thesis committee of Jennifer Keane. Her research involved analysis and interpretation of sediments off-shore from the Santee River Delta. Dr. Nelson's previous studies of adjacent portions of the continental shelf and general knowledge of nearshore sediment moving processes enabled him to advise and monitor the progress of Keane's research conducted in the Columbia campus Geology Department.

o William Edmonds, producer/director for Media Services, and Dr. Richard Moore, dean of the School of Science, recently judged the Waccamaw Audubon Society's third annual nature photography contest. Twenty-eight entrants from throughout the US competed for awards in the amateur contest. Their color slides were judged on difficulty of subject matter, technical quality, composition, and visual impact.

o Mary Harper of the School of Nursing, and Pat Taylor, of the School of Education, recently attended a National Conference for the American Business Women's Association in Kansas City. Harper is president of the Waccamaw Charter Chapter and was a delegate, and Taylor is their 1986 "Woman of the Year." The ABWA is an educational association dedicated to bringing together business women of diverse backgrounds and to providing opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personnally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

o Linda Schwartz, assistant professor of English, Glenda Sweet, assistant professor of English, and Dr. Donald Millus, professor of English, attended the Carolinas Symposium on British Studies annual conference at Appalachian State University in Boone, NC, October 17-19. Some of the more interesting sessions included: "Victorian Poetry: An Age in Crisis," "New Views of Seventeenth Century Poets: Milton, Herbert, Jonson," and "Passionate Pilgrims: Americans Writing In and About Britain."

o Dr. Dennis Wiseman, dean of the School of Education, recently attended the 1986 Governor's Rural Development Leaders School held at White Oak Conference Center in White Oak. The school is a program of the Division of Rural Improvement and is designed to address rural problems and needs in South Carolina and to provide citizens an opportunity to develop skills to address issues in these areas.

Dear Faculty, Staff, and Students:

I want to let you know how much I appreciate the tremendous effort you made in helping the college put its best foot forward for ground breaking day. I know that many of you put in long, hard hours to make this special occasion a very successful and impressive event. We had more than 150 special guests on campus, and many of them made a point to tell me how impressed they were with Coastal Carolina College. It was a day that we can all be proud of, and I thank you for the extra effort and teamwork that went into making it all work.

Sincerely,

Ron Eaglin
Chancellor
