"Women's Reality" Conference

"Women's Reality" is the theme of this year's annual women's conference to be held at Coastal May 7 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Concurrent sessions on important topics affecting today's woman will run throughout the day.

The conference on women is designed to benefit any woman or man interested in learning more about living and working with women, according to Sally Hare, conference coordinator and assistant chancellor for Academic Affairs and education professor.

This year the conference will specifically include issues that appeal to women in higher education, the black woman, and the undergraduate.

Professionals throughout the state will be present to offer their knowledge on subjects such as women and medical issues, dealing with sexual harassment, distrust, racism, competition, and legal issues affecting women in South Carolina.

The keynote address will be given by Dr. Anne Wilson Schaefer of Boulder, Colorado.

Schaefer is the author of the books: Women's Reality, Co-Dependence, When Society Becomes An Addict, and The Addictive Organization.

An internationally known psychotherapist, lecturer, and writer, Schaefer did her doctoral work in clinical psychology at Washington University in St. Louis.

Schaefer is also the co-founder of the Women's Institute of Alternative Psychotherapy and conducts her own private practice in Colorado. A great deal of her time is spent training professionals in process therapy and conducting intensive workshops throughout the world.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Books and crafts will be available for purchase throughout the day and Schaefer will be available to autograph her books.

The registration fee is $65 and includes lunch.

To register for the conference or for more information, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Chancellor's Interns Applications Being Accepted

Applications for Chancellor's interns for the 1988-89 academic year will be accepted until May 6. Interns will be selected within the next 30 days.

Interested students, sophomore and above, with a cumulative average of "B" or above, in any major, should apply. Each intern receives a scholarship applicable towards his/her tuition.

Faculty and staff are urged to nominate candidates.

Applications may be obtained from Nila Hutchinson in the Chancellor's office.

Book Store To Close For Inventory

The campus bookstore will be closed June 23 until July 5 for inventory.

"Eastwind Quintet" To Perform At Wheelwright Auditorium

The Eastwind Quintet, resident faculty wind quintet at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, will perform Thursday, May 12, at 8 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The concert is free and open to the public.

Formed in 1973, the ensemble has performed extensively throughout the southeastern United States. The Eastwind Quintet recently participated as performing adjudicators in a new repertoire competition in Georgia, and are now making preparations for a premier performance at the International Double Reed Society Conference in Victoria, British Columbia scheduled for August, 1988.

Current members of the group are Deborah Egekvis, flute, Daryl Coad, clarinet, James Prodan, oboe, Jack Masarie, horn, and Marc Apfelstadt, bassoon.

During the group's visit to South Carolina they will be performing for students in the music programs of Horry County Schools.

Art Students To Hold Exhibits

The exhibition, "Works on Paper," featuring the artistic drawings of two Coastal art students will be held April 27 through May 14 in the Fine Arts Building. The exhibition is free and open to the public.

Don Purcell, who recently graduated from Coastal, and Ellen Wheeler, junior art major, have created the two-person exhibit from their drawings focusing on the human figure.

The two artists' works combine together in such a way that they are alike and different at the same time serving as contrasts of each others' work.

Over 30 pieces of art will be on display at the exhibition, along with biographical information on the artists and descriptions of the works. Drawings will also be available to those who wish to purchase a specific piece.

For more information, contact Zdzislaw Sikora, ext. 2703.

Rebels and Redcoats Tour Scheduled

Graduate and Continuing Education is offering the Rebels and Redcoats Tour on Friday, May 13, from 9:15 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. The tour group will leave from Wheelwright Auditorium.

This all-day tour, guided by local author Rod Gragg, will visit historic sites of Horry and Georgetown counties.

The admission fee is $30 for adults (10% discount for senior citizens) and $20 for children under 18, which covers transportation and admission to all sites as well as a continental breakfast of doughnuts and juice. A dutch lunch will be available at the Belle Isle Yacht Club.

For information and to register, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2676.

Lost And Found

Campus Police has the following items in "Lost and Found:"

Several articles of jewelry, two watches, eyeglasses, sunglasses, umbrellas, man's knife and wallet, a bag of laundry, and an assortment of keys.

Anyone wishing to claim items must do so by May 15 by contacting Claudia Heinle, ext. 2177, or the campus police.

Graduate Seminar In Journalism Offered This Summer

Mal Deans, former newspaper editor in such major cities as Philadelphia, Richmond, Los Angeles and Denver, will teach a graduate seminar in journalism at Coastal this summer.

Deans, who moved to Myrtle Beach last year, was a tenured professor of journalism at the University of Colorado in Boulder. Prior to that, he was readers' representative, or ombudsman, and a Sunday columnist for the Rocky Mountain News in Denver. He has been assistant managing editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, and served as a reporter and editor in Richmond, San Diego and Los Angeles. He is a graduate of Washington and Lee University in Virginia.

The graduate seminar Deans will lead is "Editorial Interpretation, Policy and Management." The course is another in a series of graduate seminars conducted by the College of Journalism and Mass Communications at the University of South Carolina, and offered at Coastal. A seminar in communications law, taught by Dr. Erik Collins of the USC faculty, is being taught at Coastal this spring.

"Mal Deans is a fine professional, and he will bring a strong media background into the classroom with him," said Dean Joseph Shoquist of the College of Journalism and Mass Communication. "We are delighted that he is in the area and that we can involve him in the excellent graduate program we are building at Coastal."

For enrollment information, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2671.

"Young People's College" Scheduled

Young People's College, an enrichment program for children ages 4 through 13, will be held from July 11 through August 11 at Coastal.

Children: A Celebration of the Arts is a summer program designed to challenge the student, with concepts and activities which are not usually found in the traditional school program. Students will be able to explore academic, fine art and physical recreation programs in ways that will allow use of creative skills, and in the process see the inter-relationships of different subject areas.

Enrollment is open to all students who demonstrate average to above average ability in the traditional classroom setting, and are motivated to exploring new areas of interest not usually open to them during the school year. Enrollment will be limited to 20 students per program, and will be taken on a first come first served basis. Early registration is advised.

Classes will meet Monday through Thursday, July 11 through August 11. Classes will meet for 90 minute blocks of time, with time allotted for lunch. Students may bring their lunch or eat in the campus cafeteria. Classes for the 4 to 6 year old children, held off-campus will meet from 9 a.m. until 11:45 a.m. on Monday through Thursday.

For information about scholarships for the Young People's College, call the Horry Cultural Arts Council, Inc. in Myrtle Beach at 497-2525. The telephone number outside of Myrtle Beach is 1-800-868-ARTS (2787).

For additional information or to register, contact the Office of Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Garland Honored For "Children At Risk" Program

Audrey Garland, continuing education director on campus, received a creative programming award from a national association on Sunday, April 17 for her work on a "Children at Risk" program held at Coastal November 21 and 22, 1987. The award of achievement was presented to Garland at the 1988 National University Continuing Education Association (NUCEA), National Conference held in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The NUCEA program, in its seventy-third year, honors members' outstanding contributions to the NUCEA and the field, as well as recognizing members' achievements in innovative programming, marketing and promotion, community development and services, research and publications, and many other areas. National, regional, and divisional awards are given to members.

Garland said that the "Children at Risk" program that she coordinated involved a conference for people, such as parents and social workers. "At risk" children could include children who have problems reading, physical and emotional problems, family abuse problems, children with suicidal tendencies, and children who are stereotyped and may not be accepted, explained Garland.

The conference covered such topics as children of divorce, social-emotional problems with children who are "at risk," a session on latch-key children, and counseling needs for families with handicapped children.

Garland first joined Coastal as a graduate assistant in the Media/Learning Resources Center in 1978. In 1980, Garland served as a graduate assistant in Continuing Education and Graduate Studies and since 1981, she served as assistant director, coordinator, and presently, director of Continuing Education.

The "Children at Risk" program has also won recognition as a program of excellence in the regional category in region III. Garland received this honor at a ceremony during the week of April 24 in Jackson, Mississippi.

Coastal Carolina People

o Dr. Ballou Skinner, professor of physics, is one of seven professors awarded a second-year NASA Research Fellowship to Kennedy Space Center. Dr. Skinner's research will evaluate bonding problems of the thermal protection system tiles of the Space Shuttle Orbiter and will test triboelectric properties of thin plastic film materials.

o Dr. Paul Peterson, associate professor of government and international studies, presented a lecture titled "Anti-Federalist Thought in Contemporary American Politics" at George Mason University on April 21. The lecture was part of the university's annual lecture series on the legacy of George Mason. All lectures in the series are taped for broadcast on cable television in Northern Virginia. This year's lecture series focused on the tradition of Anti-Federalist thought and will be published as a book.

o Dr. Marshall Parker, assistant dean of education and health professions, has been named to the southeast advisory committee of the National Wellness Association. One function of the advisory committee is to assist in planning the Southeast Regional Conference on Wellness for this fall. Dr. Parker is presently assisting in the selection of speakers for this conference.

o Dr. Randall Wells, assistant professor of English and speech, announced the presentation by Ms. Lorna Ausband, of Ausband and Norton, Inc., to his business English class on the challenges she encountered when starting a business (advertising-promotions-newsletters, typesetting).

o Ed Cerny, director of the MBA and internship programs, made a presentation to the American Association of Yellow Pages Publishers in Atlanta on April 28. His topic was "Academic Formats and the Yellow Pages."
