A Message From The Chancellor

The academic year has started off on a very positive note. Our freshman class is the best, according to SAT scores, that we have ever had, with a total SAT average of 853. Many of you have indicated how pleased you are with the performance of your freshmen on their initial tests and they do seem to be better prepared than in years past.

Two areas that we are continually working on are the two "P's" - parking and portables. My congratulations to the faculty on their third "P" - patience, as we have tried to improve these two areas of concern. There have been many positive movements in trying to make the portables more palatable to all who use them. My congratulations to the maintenance staff for the work they are doing and continue to do to improve the situation.

I have been informed that all offices have walls, the new furniture has arrived and has been distributed, and telephones have been installed. I do know that by the time of this writing, the floor mats will be down and directories will be up. The flagstone that will help us stay out of the mud is on order and, hopefully, will be here in the next few days.

It has taken time, but the offices are becoming more livable. We have learned a lot about the classrooms. I am aware that the tracking in of dirt and some of the climate control and noise of the air conditioners has been difficult; however, many strides have been made to try to improve the situation.

It is my understanding that the lecterns are in and handicapped access has been accomplished; and, we did accommodate all handicap students this semester. We had to make some new handicap ramps which will allow us more flexibility in the use of the buildings and will provide access to the new student lounge. Trash cans are being placed around the area, and mats will be placed at doors for students to clean off their shoes before coming in. We had a special problem in the language labs, and I have instructed our staff to try to solve the sound problems there.

There will eventually be gravel on walkways and stepping stones which will help in inclement weather. There is no doubt about it, the classrooms aren't perfect, but there has been good cooperation and we have tried our best to make them as comfortable as possible.

The students did complain about not having any place to go, especially in the monsoon, or shall I say hurricane season. We have now designated a building that will be used as a student lounge. Probably, at the writing of this letter, the new signs will be up to help students know where this particular facility is and, also, to help them with other locations of buildings if they are unfamiliar with the area.

I have asked about the air conditioning and humidity build up. I have been told that what we really need to do is close the doors and windows after classes. This will help, especially with the humidity situation. It looks as if we are going to get a break in the weather and it won't be so hot. Also, we realize by midday the rooms are extremely dirty. At your suggestion, we have placed doormats and flagstones which should help; however, if you could ask your students to deposit their trash in the containers, that will help keep that area much cleaner. We now have janitors assigned to portables. I look for the general appearance to improve as the semester continues.

I know it has not been easy, and at times it has been frustrating; however, I am very pleased with the attitude that most of you have exhibited. These portables will be with us until the Wall Building is completed in 1991, if everything goes according to schedule. Each year we will do what we can to make them more comfortable; however, I must inform you that we have spent far more money than budgeted to meet this initial crunch, and it is highly unlikely that we will be able to do much more this year. Our best bet is to keep in mind those things that need to be done, and as we go into a new fiscal year, we will give some priority to making them more useful and less rustic.

Obviously, we are interested in any suggestions that could be made, and we will certainly keep them under consideration. If there is a monetary impact, we will try for the improvements as money becomes available.

Theater To Present "Little Shop of Horrors"

"Little Shop of Horrors," a musical comedy in which young lovers are threatened by a person-eating plant, is the first theater production of the season for Coastal Carolina Theater. The first performance is set for Friday, October 7 at 8 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium, with additional performances on Saturday, October 8 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, October 9 at 2:30 p.m.

"Little Shop of Horrors" originated as a film that was shot in just two days by Roger Corman when he was challenged by a studio employee to come up with a script and shoot a movie before the storefront setting that was used for a previous movie was torn down. The result was a delightful horror-comedy that was later remade in 1986, starring Rick Moranis as Seymour, Ellen Greene as Audrey, and Steve Martin as Orin Scrivello, D.D.S.

Playing the lead role in Coastal Carolina Theater's production of "Little Shop of Horrors" is David Pokopac as Seymour, a shy and awkward employee at a plant shop who is lovethirsty for Audrey, another plant shop employee, played by Kelley Swaim.

Audrey's boyfriend, a dentist who enjoys pulling teeth in a sadistic manner, is portrayed by Archie Buchan. Audrey II, the plant that has a yen for human blood is played by Marc Kaufmann, featuring Preston McKeever-Floyd as the voice for the people-eater. Cast as Mushnik, owner of the plant shop, is Marc Gura.

Other members of the cast include Chiffon, played by Rachel Smith; Crystal, played by Valerie Gore; and Ronnette played by Maryann England. Mrs. Luce and Snip are played by A. Maine Baker, D.M.D.

The director of the play is David Millard, assistant dean of humanities and fine arts. In charge of costumes for the production is Margaret Fain, assistant librarian reference/non-print media. Lighting and the design of the set is coordinated by Jeff Nichols, visiting professor of theater and speech. Philip Powell, instructor of music, is musical director, and choreographer for the play is Rebekah Browne Vereen, a student at Coastal.

"Little Shop of Horrors" book and lyrics are by Howard Ashman. Music is by Alan Menken. It is based on a film by Roger Corman with screenplay by Charles Griffith.

Tickets are $7 and may be purchased at the door or in advance through Wheelwright box office, ext. 2502.

Hinson Selected As Chairman For Board of Visitors

Keith Hinson, president of Waccamaw Land and Timber Company in Myrtle Beach, has been named as chairman of the Board of Visitors for the E. Craig Wall Sr. School of Business.

Hinson has been a member of the board since it was formed in the summer of 1984.

"Keith is a loyal supporter of the college and has been an active board member for several years," said Dale Molander, dean of the School of Business at Coastal. "As chairman of the Board of Visitors he will assist in coordinating meetings and will be involved with the selection of new board members."

The Board of Visitors is an organization that serves as an advisory group to the School of Business and strives to strengthen ties between the business community and the faculty.

Hinson will work with Molander on projects such as the Center for Economic Development, the new E. Craig Wall Sr. Building for the School of Business, outreach projects and speaker-luncheon meetings.

Hinson believes that his experience in the real estate and land investment business will serve as an asset in his new role as chairman.

"The School of Business at Coastal is vital to the community," said Hinson. "And it is a true honor to be selected as chairman for the Board of Visitors."

Student Health Referral Services Established

Student Health Referral Services, established to assist students with medical needs, is now located in the Student Center, room 206-I.

Kay A. Kierspe, R.N., will be available Monday through Friday, from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Services include blood pressure screening, health information, general first-aid, medical referrals, and educational and training programs for faculty, staff and students.

Faculty and staff are encouraged to visit the office for information in an effort to make students aware of services available.

For more information and assistance, contact Kay A. Kierspe, ext. 2329.

Physical Education Center Announces Opening of Human Performance Lab

The Physical Education Center has announced the opening of the Human Performance Lab in Williams Brice room 118. A brief orientation session is scheduled for Wednesday, October 5 at 2:30 p.m. in the lab. At this time the use of the four new Aerobicycles will be explained in detail.

The Aerobicycles are completely computerized and can be programmed to meet individual needs. A special feature of these bicycles is the Aerobicycle Fitness Test Protocol, a short (10 minute) exercise period which can predict your fitness level. This initial screening allows you to select a training program that will be within your personal safety limit.

Following the orientation session, students and faculty will be invited to sign up for scheduled exercise periods of your choice using this excellent training device. Before using the equipment, all participants must first be screened by the Human Performance Lab coordinator, Dr. Tom Cooke.

Those not in attendance at the initial orientation session can be screened at a later date by appointment.

For further information or to make an appointment, contact the Physical Education Department, ext 2808.

Art Exhibit By Laura Pharis Presented by Art Department

The Art Department of the School of Humanities and Fine Arts announces a showing of works by printmaker/sculptor Laura Pharis beginning Thursday, October 13 and will continue until November 9. A reception will be held on Friday, October 13 from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. at the Fine Arts Gallery. Pharis will give a lecture about her work that evening at Trinity Episcopal Church, 30th Avenue N. on Highway 17, in Myrtle Beach, at 8 p.m. for the Waccamaw Arts and Crafts Guild. These events are free and open to the public.

Pharis states that the core of her work is "the old idea of art as magic. I'm interested in layered imagery, in myth, ritual, obsession, sacrifice; art that is fetishistic or compulsive or spiritual." She works back and forth between sculptures that are often doll-like figures in a stage or alter-like setting, and prints that often combine media and techniques to make unique prints and variable editions. Etching is a favorite printmaking process. Most of the work in this show was completed in the past two years.

Pharis joined the faculty of Coastal this fall as assistant professor of art. Originally from Roanoke, Virginia, Pharis received her bachelor of fine arts degree from Virginia Commonwealth University. She studied at the Central School of Art and Design in London and earned a special advanced studies diploma in printmaking there. For five years she was manager of the Richmond Printmaking Workshop in Virginia and then attended the University of Wisconsin at Madison where she received her master of fine arts degree in August 1988. She has exhibited extensively.

The exhibit is on display daily at Coastal until November 9, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. For more information, contact Charles Wright, ext 2701.

o Dr. Karen D. Carpenter, assistant professor of nursing, and Dr. William E. Hills, assistant professor of psychology, attended a conference in Greenville featuring Dr. Jan Heinrich, director of the division of extramural programs at the National Center for Nursing Research (NCNR). Dr. Heinrich coordinates the activities of the research programs as well as the research training and career development portfolio and the NCNR Nursing Science Review Committee. Carpenter and Hills are writing an NCNR grant to study the relationships between a patient's psychological profile and his participation in completion of and continuance of Cardiac Rehabilitation.

o Dr. Paul T. Gayes, assistant professor of marine science and geology, recently presented a paper at the International Symposium on Theoretical and Applied Aspects of Coastal and Continental Shelf Evolution, Past and Future, held in Amsterdam, The Netherlands. His paper was entitled "Estuarine Paleoshorelines; sites of enhanced preservation of relative sea level histories and associated coastal response." Dr. Gayes presided as chairman of one of the technical sessions of the International Symposium.

While in Amsterdam, Dr. Gayes also participated in the Inaugural meeting of IGCP Project 274 "Quaternary Coastal Evolution; case studies, models and regional patterns." He will be serving as a member of the United States Working Group of IGCP Project 274 for the next four years contributing results of his research from Southern New England and new initiatives along the South Carolina coast.

o Dr. Robert Squatriglia, associate chancellor for student development, has been appointed to a three year term as Region III representative to the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators Small College Task Force. Region III encompasses 11 states in the southeastern portion of the United States. "Small College" is defined as colleges with enrollment of 5000 students or less. This task force will examine and consider evaluative criteria for student services and matters related to student life and development. There are six NASPA regions, encompassing all 50 states and Canada with more than 1500 member institutions.

Squatriglia is a member of the South Carolina Association of Community Leadership Organizations (S.C.A.C.L.O.) which serves as a resource for Community Leadership Programs throughout South Carolina and as a focal point for statewide Leadership Alumni networking. He is also a graduate of Leadership Grand Strand (1984), Leadership South Carolina (1986), and is past district governor of Rotary International District 777 (1987-88). He served as a member of the Board of Regents, LGS, 1984-1987.
