Seminar Series On Future Of Coastal For Faculty And Staff

The final program in a series for faculty and staff on the future of Coastal is scheduled for Monday, April 17 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Fine Arts Little Theater.

The guest speaker for this program is Dr. Steve Altman, president of Texas A&M.

The seminars are designed to help faculty and administrators understand the potential future role of Coastal. Guests will explain what they do and how the college has been involved in the past, and will talk about how they see Coastal in the future of this region. The informality of the program should lead to numerous interactive questions and answers. The goal is to help all of us understand what the community expects of us, and then to use this information to help formulate how we can be helpful in the future development of this region.

All faculty and staff are encouraged to attend. For more information, contact the Chancellor's office, ext. 2002.

Florida Astronomer To Present Seminar At Coastal

Terry D. Oswalt, astronomer, and associate professor of physics and space sciences at the Florida Institute of Technology in Melbourne, will present two seminars at USC Coastal Carolina College, on Tuesday, April 18. Both programs, funded by the Harlow Shapley Visiting Lectureships in Astronomy program, are free and open to the public.

The first seminar, "A Visit to the Stellar Graveyard," will be held at 1 p.m. in SCI-120, and will include a discussion of the life cycle of stars featuring an informal photographic tour of Kitt Peak National Observatory in Arizona and the Cerro Tololo Interamerican Observatory in Chile, where much of Oswalt's work on white dwarfs has been conducted, using some of the world's largest telescopes.

The second seminar, "Star Bright, Sky Brighter: The Problem of Light Pollution," will be held at 8 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. Oswalt will share a description of the nature of "light pollution," and its effect on astronomical research. He also will discuss cost-effective solutions to the problem that have been successfully adopted by cities such as Tucson, Arizona.

Oswalt received a B.A. degree in astronomy in 1974 from Indiana University and in 1981, completed his Ph.D. in astronomy from Ohio State University. He has taught physical science at Ohio State University and has conducted research at Indiana University.

He is affiliated with numerous associations in science, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Astronomical Society.

Co-Director Of Partnership For Service Learning To Visit Coastal

Professor Howard Berry, co-director of the Partnership for Service Learning, will be on campus Friday, April 21, to fully inform Coastal about the program and its benefits to our institution and to our students. Interested faculty, staff and students are invited to a presentation by Professor Berry in Kimbel Library, room 236, at 2:30 p.m.

The Partnership for Service Learning is a consortium made up of educational institutions for students who are involved in volunteer work in other countries. While doing this volunteer work the students are actually taking courses in the host country for academic credit which would be applied at their home institutions. Coastal is exploring the extent of our involvement with the Partnership for Service Learning.

For more information, contact Dr. Sara Saunders, ext. 2052.

"Painting With Ilona" Art Course Offered At Coastal

Ilona Royce-Smithkin, artist, teacher and host of her own television series, "Ilona's Palette," will instruct a course, "Painting with Ilona," at Coastal, Monday, April 24 through Friday, April 28, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Cherokee Motor Inn in Myrtle Beach. The course also will be taught again Monday, May 1 through Friday, May 5, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Georgetown Extension.

Royce-Smithkin has studied art at the Reinman Schule in Berlin; Academie Royale des Beaux Arts in Antwerp; the Art Students League in New York; and the Cape School of Art in Provincetown, Massachusetts.

Royce-Smithkin has traveled for the Arts Commission and her art work has been displayed in museums across the country and abroad. She is best known for her portraits of personalities such as Ayn Rand; Tennessee Williams; Eugene O'Neill; and the children of Senator Edward Kennedy.

Art critic Carl Van Vechten describes the artist's work as "Infinite delicacy...bursts of brilliance...Fragile phases of line...her brush is bewitched..."

In the course, Royce-Smithkin will instruct individuals on how to paint in the style of personal impressionism, focusing on technique and choice of color. The course is designed for beginning, intermediate or advanced painters.

Fee for the course is $85, plus materials and supplies.

For more information, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Advisement For Journalism Graduate Students Scheduled

Advisement for the journalism master's degree program offered at Coastal through the Regional Graduate Studies Program of USC, has been re-scheduled for Tuesday, April 18, from 3 to 5 p.m. Dr. Ron Farrar from the College of Journalism at USC Columbia, will be on the Coastal campus to discuss the program.

Dr. Gary C. Davis, vice president for development at Horry-Georgetown Technical College, will teach Journalism 702, "Communication Theory," a required course for the master's program, during the Summer I session at Coastal.

Students currently in the program and others in the community who are interested, should call the Graduate Office, ext. 2672, for an appointment.

Graduate Registration Scheduled At Coastal

USC Coastal Carolina College graduate students may schedule appointments for advisement Monday, April 17 through Thursday, April 20. Students also may register early for the fall semester, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the registrar's office during the week.

According to Helen Hood, Graduate and Continuing Education advisor at Coastal, there will be no early registration or advisement before the Summer I and Summer II sessions. Registration for the Summer I session that begins Monday, June 5, will be Thursday, June 1 and Friday, June 2, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Summer II registration will be Thursday, July 6 and Friday, July 7, from 3 to 4:30 p.m., with classes beginning Monday, July 10.

USC graduate courses are offered at Coastal in the areas of education, librarianship, English, math, psychology, history, government, art education, journalism, social work, public health administration, and several other disciplines. USC also offers courses at Coastal leading to the Professional MBA degree and the master of engineering degree.

Television instruction in some disciplines provides an alternative to traditional classroom instruction. TV instruction for these courses is offered on closed-circuit television, through ETV or on tapes.

For more information about registration or eligibility requirements, contact Helen Hood, ext. 2671, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Coastal Psychology Students Invited To Present Papers

Three Coastal psychology majors were invited to present their research papers at the prestigious Carolina's Psychology Conference, a regional meeting of undergraduate students in psychology, at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, North Carolina, April 7 and 8.

Andrea Berry of Myrtle Beach, presented a paper entitled, "Effects of Amount of Eye Contact on the Evaluation of Job Applicants;" Craig Kunins of Myrtle Beach, presented a paper entitled, "The Effects of Visual and Auditory Modes of Stimulus Presentation on Recall Memory;" and Carrie Wheeler of Conway, presented a paper entitled, "The Effects of Positive, Failure, and No Feedback, and Learned Helplessness, on Intrinsically and Extrinsically Motivated Children."

According to Dr. Joan Piroch, associate professor of psychology, students were required to submit abstracts of their papers for consideration prior to the conference, and all of the Coastal students who submitted papers were accepted.

Staff Development Funds Available

Staff development funds are currently available for staff personnel to attend seminars and workshops related to their work.

For more information, contact Clara Rogers, ext. 2099.

Rebels And Redcoats Tour Set For April

The traditions and events that make up the rich history of Horry and Georgetown counties will be recounted during the Rebels and Redcoats History Tour, sponsored by Graduate and Continuing Education, Friday, April 28, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The all-day tour will be conducted by Rod Gragg, author of Pirates, Planters and Patriots: Historical Tales of the South Carolina Grand Strand, and will visit historical sites in the Waccamaw-Grand Strand region. Among the sites visited will be Hampton Plantation, a plantation built circa 1730 which is listed on the National Historical Register for Architecture and was the home of the first governor of South Carolina; Hopsewee Plantation, home of Thomas Lynch, a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Battery White, a huge Confederate Fort overlooking Winyah Bay; Kingston Presbyterian Church on the banks of the Waccamaw River in Conway; the Horry County Museum; and Prince George Winyah Episcopal Church in Georgetown, which is said to have been a stable used for British horses during the Revolution.

The tour leaves Wheelwright Auditorium at 9:30 a.m. and returns at approximately 5 p.m. The $35 admission fee ($20 for children), covers transportation and admission to all sites. A dutch lunch will be available.

The tour will be offered again on Friday, May 26.

For reservations, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Golf Tournament Scheduled

The first annual Coastal Plantations Golf Tournament will be held June 17 at Wachesaw Plantation. This is a benefit to support a program of archaeology at Coastal to be headed by James L. Michie. Professor Michie has done outstanding work over the last several years in investigating the sites of colonial and ante bellum plantations along the Waccamaw River and has spoken several times at Brookgreen Gardens. An archaeology program at Coastal Carolina College will provide the basis for continued progress in exploring the physical history of our unique area.

The tournament will be open to both men and women with a shotgun start at 9 a.m. During the tournament, non-golfers can enjoy a tour, conducted by Professor Michie, of the several archaeological sites at Wachesaw. Immediately following golf, there will be a buffet and awards ceremony on the riverfront deck at Kimbel's.

Tax-free contributions to the Coastal Educational Foundation, Inc. will be $100 per player. Non-golfers can enjoy the buffet for an additional donation of $15.

Reservations can be made by calling Nadine Godwin, ext. 2014, or the Wachesaw Pro Shop, 357-1500 or 1-800-922-5834.

Coastal Carolina People

o Dr. Sally M. Horner, vice chancellor for administrative services and fiscal affairs, recently served on two separate visiting committees for reaffirmation of accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Horner visited Kentucky State University in Frankfort, Kentucky, March 20 through 24 and Brescia College in Owensboro, Kentucky, April 3 through 7. During both visits, Horner was responsible for administrative processes, finances, and physical plant.

o Ed Cerny, director of the MBA and internships programs, was elected third district governor of South Carolina for the American Advertising Federation. Cerny will be responsible for overseeing the activities of the seven clubs in South Carolina located in Greenville, Spartanburg, Columbia, Hilton Head, Charleston, Florence and Myrtle Beach.

o Dr. Lynne Smith, library director, served as a member of the State Department of Education NASDTEC evaluation team that visited Central Wesleyan College, April 3 - 5.

o Dr. Paul T. Gayes, assistant professor of marine science and geology, had a research paper published in the peer reviewed journal Northeastern Environmental Science. The article, entitled "Late Wisconsinan and Holocene Fluctuations in Sea Level Rise," was part of a collection of papers presented at an invited symposium on the effects of sea level rise on Long Island, New York, held at Hofstra University.

o Dr. Jack Riley, assistant professor of government and international studies, and Dr. Paul Peterson, associate professor of political science, participated in the recent annual meeting of the South Carolina Political Science Association in Florence, South Carolina. Riley served as chairman of the panel on political philosophy, and Peterson delivered a paper on Thomas Hobbes titled, "Hobbes's Two Audiences and Their Influence on the Political Teaching of Leviathan."

o Ed Dyer, associate professor of political science, and Dr. Jack Riley, assistant professor of government and international studies, co-authored an issue paper on state-funded primary elections for the South Carolina Policy Council's Education Foundation. The paper has been published and is currently being distributed by the foundation to all members of the General Assembly and to the Governor's Office in support of a legislative proposal on this topic.

o Maura Kenny, assistant professor of art, and her husband, Paul, had a 5 lb. 9 oz. baby girl, Emily Mary Kenny, born Thursday, April 13. Both mother and baby are doing fine.
