Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra To Perform At Coastal

The Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra, a thirteen member group that performs works from Bach and Vivaldi to Shostakovich and Barber, will perform at Coastal, Sunday, September 24 at 2:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

In its 1979 debut season, the orchestra gave seven performances at Carnegie Hall, appeared at Lincoln Center's Avery Fisher Hall, Philadelphia's Academy of Music, Princeton's McCarter Theater, and in Washington D.C. Each concert drew capacity audiences and consistently inspired rave reviews and standing ovations.

The success of the Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra has spanned three continents. A widely acclaimed South American tour in 1982 led to return trips in 1984 and 1986. The group's European debut took place in 1983, and in 1984 the orchestra returned to fill houses in Switzerland, Austria, Belgium, England, Italy, Germany, and Holland.

Maestro Lazar Gosman, a native of Russia, is the founder and music director of the Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra. A full-length documentary film, "Musical Passage," released in April 1984, tells the story of how Gosman came to America and founded the orchestra. The documentary provides insight into the experience of emigrants from the Soviet Union as the film follows the group on tour throughout America, culminating in its triumphant Carnegie Hall concert.

Gosman is professor of violin and chamber music at the State University of New York at Stonybrook, and music director of the St. Louis Kammerguild. He also is founder of the Leningrad Chamber Orchestra and led the group for seventeen years.

The Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra has been described by The Los Angeles Times as "...well equipped with silken sound and polished ensemble...spirited Mozartean delicacy and articulative precision."

The Toronto Star describes a recent performance by the orchestra as "...A special treat; there is a special poignancy in being able to hear such an ensemble." The New York Post stated in a performance review, "An almost unbelievably sweet, warm tone, rich sonority and rare ensemble, Mr. Gosman played with great richness and sensitivity and drew the same sweetness from every member of his group."

The orchestra recently made its first recording, performing works by Shostakovich and Tchaikovsky. The record was issued by the Musical Heritage Society.

Tickets for the concert are $15, or $8 for students with a Coastal I.D.

For more information, or to make reservations, contact the Wheelwright box office, ext. 2502.

Center For Marine And Wetland Studies Faculty Conduct Research

Coastal's Center for Marine and Wetland Studies has been awarded a $64,163 grant for a project entitled "Late Quaternary Evolution of the Inner Continental Shelf and Coastal Zone of South Carolina: Climatic and Relative Sea Level Changes," from the South Carolina Commission on Higher Education, through the Cutting Edge Research Grants to Senior Colleges for 1989-90.

The project incorporates sedimentologic, geophysical and paleotological studies of the coastal zone and the inner continental shelf of South Carolina. It also provides a foundation for studies of the geological history and development of the coastal zone, and climate and relative sea level changes within the zone.

Dr. Paul Gayes, director of the Center for Marine and Wetland Studies at Coastal, is a principal investigator of the project. Dr. Douglas Nelson, professor of marine science and geology at Coastal, and Dr. David Scott, associate professor for the Center of Marine Geology at Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia, Canada also are involved as researchers.

According to Gayes, Dr. Scott, who serves on the International Geologic Correlation Program - Project 274 with Gayes, is impressed with the research projects the Coastal marine science faculty are involved with, and recently visited the Coastal campus to participate in the sea level change research project.

Scott says the study of sea level change and beach erosion is an issue that scientists must study now, in order to learn how to deal with the problem in the future.

"In this area, especially, coastal erosion is a real problem," said Scott. "The sea level is rising rapidly and is going to get worse. By doing this research, we are trying to get a grip on what is happening on the coastline, so that we will be able to advise builders about some of the dangers of the rising sea level."

No conclusions can be determined from the research at this point, since it is in its first stages of gathering data, said Gayes.

The Center of Marine and Wetland Studies was formed to study and improve the understanding of the local marine environment and marine related issues facing the state and region. The center focuses on the assessment of coastal mineral resources, beach erosion and management, relative sea level change and environmental monitoring and management.

The "Relative Sea Level Change" project is one of many ongoing research projects Coastal faculty are conducting through the Center of Marine and Wetland Studies.

Third Quarter Program To Be Offered At Coastal

Third Quarter, an academic and cultural achievement program for senior citizens, will be held Monday, October 9 through Thursday, December 14. The program is open to individuals, 55 years of age or older.

The fall 1989 session includes the following courses: Joseph Campbell's "The Power of the Myth," (instructor, Virginia Cremen-Rudd); Study In "The Blues," (instructor, Raphael Morvant); Aging and the Brain - Part II, (instructor, Dr. William E. Hills); Terrorism in the Modern World, (instructor, Dr. Richard Collin); Life Span Development, (instructor, Dr. Wade Baird); Political Psychology, (instructor, Dr. Jack Riley); Conversational Spanish II, (instructor, Billie White-Price); and Contemporary American Nature Poetry, (instructor, Dr. Paul Rice).

Classes will meet weekly, (Monday through Thursday). Cost is $85, individual or $135 per couple. Students may register for one or all of the courses at the same cost.

Deadline for registration is Wednesday, October 4.

Coastal Professor Attends International Congress In Bulgaria

Dr. James J. Farsolas, associate professor of history, attended the VI Congress of the International Association of Southeast European Studies (AISEE), recently held in Sofia, Bulgaria.

Farsolas was a member of the delegation of the United States National Committee to the meeting. He presented a paper entitled "Theories and Interpretations: Greek and Romanian Historiography on the Revolutionary Movement of 1821 in the Romanian Principalities" in the section, "Modern Period: Political and Ideological Development." An extensive portion of the paper has been published in the proceedings of the Congress Resumes Des Communications Histoire, (volume 2, Sofia 1989, pp. 87-92).

More than eight hundred representatives from thirty countries (Europe, U.S., Canada, Middle East, Africa, and Australia), attended the Congress.

Papers were presented in the fields of arts, archaeology, history, ethnology, folklore, literature, linguistics, and law.

The official languages used at the Congress were English, French, Russian, German, and Bulgarian.

The Congresses of the International Association of Southeastern European Studies are held every five years and are supported by the UNESCO and various organizations of the host country. The next Congress will take place in Athens, Greece in the summer of 1994.

AAUP Meeting Scheduled

An open meeting of the American Association of University Professors will be held Tuesday, September 26, at 4 p.m. in KL-238.

For more information, contact Gerald Groves, ext. 2426.

Coastal Film Society To Present "Days Of Wine And Roses"

The Coastal Film Society will present "Days of Wine and Roses," Sunday, October 1, at 2:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

The 1962 film, directed by Blake Edwards, features performances by Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick as a young couple whose lives are consumed by alcohol.

The film is co-sponsored by the Office of Alcohol and Drug Prevention at Coastal. Students with a Coastal I.D. will be admitted free. General admission tickets are $2, and will be available at the door.

For more information, call the Wheelwright box office, ext. 2502.

Graduate And Continuing Education Sponsors ESP Parapsychology Classes

Graduate and Continuing Education will sponsor an ESP Parapsychology Course held each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10 p.m., beginning Tuesday, October 3 continuing through Thursday, October 26. Instructor for the course is Sammye Turnage.

ESP is another term for a person's ability to obtain information through expanded perceptual capacities, (some people refer to this as intuition, a hunch, or "feelings about.")

Class topics for discussion include clairvoyance, precognition, telepathy, out of body experiences, mystics, false prophets and charlatans. Memories, dreams, symbols and meditation also will be included.

This will be the only ESP Parapsychology course taught this year. Fee for the course is $48.

For more information or to register, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2672. Early registration is advised.

Coastal's 1989 Whole Language Conference To Be Held

The two-day conference, "Whole Language: Empowering Teachers and Learners," will be held at Coastal, Friday, September 22, and Saturday, September 23.

The conference focuses on the educational trend of teaching children and adults by using real examples of reading, writing, and storytelling, as opposed to the "Dick and Jane" method.

The conference will begin Friday, September 22 at 1 p.m., with concurrent sessions held through 7 p.m. On Saturday, September 23, concurrent sessions will be held 9 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Registration fee is $125 and includes non-credit registration, reception, Saturday luncheon, and materials. Deadline for registration is Thursday, September 21.

For more information, contact Graduate and Continuing Education, ext. 2672.

Career Information Fair To Be Held In October

The Career Planning and Placement Office at Coastal will sponsor a Career Information Fair on Wednesday, October 11, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Kimbel gymnasium located in the Williams-Brice building. The fair is free and open to all local college students and Coastal alumni.

More than twenty local businesses will participate in this year's fair, where students can obtain job and career information from employers.

Some of the businesses included are City of Florence; Omeita Industries; Office of the State Auditor; Prudential Insurance; South Carolina Department of Social Services; Greenville Hospital System; Peoples Security Insurance; K-mart Apparel; Modern Office Machines; F.N. Wolf; Century II, Inc.; U.S. Air Force; Ocean Resorts, Inc.; JC Penney; Kinney Shoes; William J. Holt; New South Company; WPDE-TV; Kingston Plantation Resort; and South Carolina National.

The Career Planning and Placement Office currently has openings for several additional businesses and encourage local companies to join the career information fair.

For more information about the Career Information Fair or to register your company, contact Mollie Starbuck, career placement counselor and coordinator of the Job Locator Service at Coastal, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The numbers are 347-3161, 448-1481 and 546-0234, ext. 2333.

Chanticleer Pep Band Being Formed

The Chanticleer Pep Band, a ten-member group of qualified musicians, is being formed to raise the spirit level of athletic and campus activities and to encourage student involvement. Members will be eligible for scholarships and will be given travel opportunities while demonstrating leadership qualities.

Students interested in becoming a member of the Chanticleer Pep Band, which will debut in December during basketball season, should contact Sha-Ron Jones, ext. 2037.

Audition dates will be announced; however, immediate registration is essential. Interested students should have their own instrument.

Referrals from the administration, faculty, staff and student body are welcomed.

For more information or to register, contact Sha-Ron Jones, ext. 2037.

Psi Chi Honor Society Chapter Formed At Coastal

A chapter of Psi Chi, the National Honor Society in Psychology, is being formed at Coastal and is open to undergraduates, graduate students and alumni who are majors or minors in the field of psychology. Membership will provide a concrete symbol of the student's excellence in academic work.

Eligibility requirements are as follows: a major or minor in psychology; an academic overall GPA of 3.0; and a "B" average or above in psychology courses.

Petitioning procedures will be completed by September 25, so students and alumni interested in being considered for membership should complete all necessary paperwork prior to that date. Alumni who are interested in being a member of the Psi Chi Chapter must join at this initial phase as there will be no opportunity to do so in the future.

For more information or to apply for membership, contact Susan Gray in the Psychology Department.

Student Affairs Welcomes New Personnel

The following professionals have joined the Student Affairs Division for the 1989-90 academic year:

Krista Dietrich, assistant director of residence life, received her bachelor's and master's degree from Purdue University and served as residence life area coordinator in the student affairs division at Ball State University.
