Coastal, state archaeology and anthropology group form partnership

A research partnership has been formed between Coastal and the South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology, USC Columbia.

The arrangement between Coastal and the USC institute means that projects jointly pursued by both groups will list Coastal as a senior researcher and principal investigator. Also available to Coastal are research funds, access to the institute office and research library in Columbia, field equipment and a vehicle for field study.

"Aside from the tangible benefits of the agreement, we're associated with a nationally recognized organization," said James Michie.

Comptroller General to visit Coastal

South Carolina Comptroller General Earle E. Morris Jr. will visit Coastal Wednesday, Nov. 7 to speak to government and business administration faculty and students.

Morris will speak to Richard Collin's Comparative Politics class (Government 316) from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. in KH 106. He also will meet with the business administration students and faculty from 3 to 4 p.m. in GCEC 005.

For more information, contact Chris Martin, ext. 2086. ∞

This Week is published every Monday by the Public Relations Office. Information to be included should be submitted by noon on the Wednesday before publication.

Archaeology

"Being allowed to use the South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology name with our letterhead, as well as for our excavations and laboratory work, lends credibility to our work here at Coastal," Michie said.

The agreement was formally approved in June and has been implemented this semester. ∞

Wheelwright series to feature Czech film

The Wheelwright Passport Series will present the Czechoslovakian film Loves of a Blonde Sunday, Nov. 4 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Loves of a Blonde is one of many great films director Milos Forman made before leaving his native Czechoslovakia.

This touching comedy centers around a young woman, Andula, who works in the local shoe factory and dreams of meeting the ideal man.

Tickets for Loves of a Blonde are $2, or $1 for students, and are available at Wheelwright Box Office. ∞

Moving Vietnam Wall coming to campus

Faculty, staff and students encouraged to participate in activities

The Moving Vietnam Wall, a photographic replica of the Vietnam Memorial Wall in Washington, will be on campus April 4 through 7. The Wall stretches 219 feet and will be open to the public at no charge. Graduate and Continuing Education is planning several seminars and memorials.

Members of the Coastal community who would like to participate in the programs or make presentations of their own are encouraged to volunteer. Some suggestions for programs include a seminar on the psychology of war, history of the Vietnam War, nurses in Vietnam, effects of war on those at home, returning vets, comparisons of the Mid-East Crisis and Vietnam, and any other appropriate topics. The staff also suggests that faculty could plan related programs in their spring classes or with family, friends, civic groups, or professional associations.

For more information, contact Debbie Purcell, ext. 2681. ∞

Wellness Committee to make plans

The wellness committee will meet Wednesday, Nov. 7 at 2:30 p.m. in the EMS Conference Room to plan upcoming activities.

Faculty and staff who are interested in joining a walker's group should contact Kay Alford, ext. 2084. She will put interested walkers in contact with others who like to "Walk for Wellness" during the same time frame.

Faculty and staff participating in the wellness activity program are reminded to submit their activity sheets to their area representative by Oct. 31.

For more information, contact Patti Loebs, ext. 2329, or Marshall Parker, ext. 2810. ∞

Mathematics seminar scheduled

The final session of mathematics seminars will be held Wednesday, Oct. 31 from 7 to 8 p.m. in SCI 120. Dr. Prashant Sansgiry will speak on the topic Growth Cavities in Underground Coal Gasification.

Sansgiry, a new faculty member this year, is an assistant professor of mathematics who comes from the University of Wyoming.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, contact the mathematics department. ∞

Seminars on faculty scholarship to be held

The Seminars on Faculty Scholarship series for faculty, staff, and students, continues Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 3 to 4 p.m. in SCI 120. The seminars are sponsored by the School of Natural and Applied Sciences. Topics include:

- Winter Depression: Diagnosis and Treatment by Tony Albinia
- Do Oysters Farm Their Garden? by Richard Dame
- Measurements of Bacterial Production Using Radioisotopes by Eric Koepfler
- Africa's Littlest Mammals: The Shrew by Laura McLellan

The final seminar in the series will be Thursday, Nov. 15. ∞

Family Fund extravaganza to be held Oct. 31

The Family Fund Endowment Committee will sponsor a free hot dog lunch Wednesday, Oct. 31, from noon to 2 p.m. at the P. E Center pool deck.

Faculty and staff are invited to attend. A drawing (from returned pledge cards) will be held for prizes. Now is the time to become involved in the Family Fund. For more information, contact Ernie Locklair, ext. 2008. ∞

Workshop for student leadership to be held

The annual Student Leadership Workshop, sponsored by student activities, is open to all interested students. The workshop is divided into two sessions. Part I will be held Thursday, Nov. 1, and part II will be Thursday, Nov. 8. Both sessions will be from 2:15 to 5:30 p.m. in SC 205. Refreshments will be provided. Faculty advisors are requested to announce the workshop to all club officers and members. ∞

International Studies sponsors conference on Black Africa

The Comprehensive Enrichment Program in International Studies will sponsor a Conference on Black Africa, Monday, Nov. 5 and Tuesday, Nov. 6 at Benedict College in Columbia. The first conference of the academic year is funded by a grant from the Center for International Education, United States Department of Education.

The two-day event entitled, "Sub-Saharan Africa Selected Topics Relating to the History, Politics, Economics, Sociology and Culture of the Continent," will include many native Africans as speakers. Topics are wide and varied. All sessions are open to faculty, staff, students, and interested community members.

The comprehensive enrichment program was developed to improve undergraduate education in international studies by planning and executing a series of curricular and extra-curricular activities for students and teachers. The overall aim is to increase international awareness of faculty and young men and women, providing mechanisms that will support long-term changes geared to the acquisition of international competence.

For more information, contact Geoff Parsons, Office of International Programs, ext. 2054. ∞

Patrick student named Ms. Coastal

Dia Tyner of Patrick, S.C., was named Ms. Coastal Carolina College in a pageant held Oct. 20 in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Snakes reported on campus

According to Campus Police, a number of snakes, including venomous copperheads, have been sighted on campus. The main areas of the sightings have been near the building site of the Wall Building and the wooded area between the Residence Halls and the Science Building. Students are urged to avoid walking in the wooded areas, especially in the evenings. The police also advise students to wear shoes at all times. Walkers anywhere on campus should be cautious, particularly while construction is in progress, because the snakes' habitat has been disturbed and they are looking for new homes.

Officers also warn anyone who does see a snake to leave it alone, stay out of its way, and notify Campus Police or the Residence Life Office. If someone is bitten by a poisonous snake, call 911 immediately. ∞
