ODK to hold forum about Coastal and its relationship to the USC system

ODK will sponsor a forum for students and faculty to discuss Coastal's relationship with the USC system Friday, Nov. 16, from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the Student Center overflow area.

Representatives from the faculty, Horry County Higher Education Commission, and Coastal Educational Foundation will participate. ∞

Coastal to host Israeli consulate general

Graduate and Continuing Education is hosting a public discussion featuring vice consulate general of Israel, David Akov. The discussion, relating to the explosive Middle East, will be held on Sunday, Nov. 18, at 3:30 p.m. in GCEC 003. The discussion is open to the public at no charge. Richard Collin will moderate.

A native of Israel, Akov was born in Tel Aviv in 1960 and grew up in Rechovot. Akov has lived in the United States with his family on two occasions while his parents were on sabbatical. In 1977, during the second of his family's sabbaticals, Akov was graduated from high school in Raleigh, N.C.

This Week is published every Monday by the Public Relations Office. Information to be included should be submitted by noon on the Wednesday before publication.

military service in 1981, Akov entered Hebrew University in Jerusalem and was graduated in 1985 with a bachelor's degree in Middle Eastern studies and political science.

In 1985, Akov joined the Israeli Foreign Ministry, where he worked in the Asian Division, the Information Department, and most recently, at the Iranian Desk of the Foreign Ministry's Research Department.

Akov received his master's degree in political science from Hebrew University in 1989. He was appointed to the Israeli Consulate in Atlanta, beginning his current post in July 1989.

Akov lives in Atlanta with his wife, Tamar.

Wall School to hold series of forums with community leaders

The Wall School of Business Administration and Computer Science will hold the first in a series of open forums called "The Wall School of Business and the Community" Wednesday, Nov. 14 at 3:30 p.m. in SC 205. The forum is free and open to the public.

The forum will feature a panel of community business leaders who will discuss the expectations they have for college students entering the work force with business backgrounds. The emphasis of the forum will be on the relationship between the Wall School of Business and the business community.

Included on the panel are: David Brittain of Sea Captain's House, George Brown of International Paper, Marguerite Carroll of Grand Strand Water and Sewer Authority, Jan Hart of Waccamaw Corporation, Daphne Hickman of CSI Group-Canal Industries, and Wayne Suggs of Conway National Bank.

The forum will be moderated by Marios Katsioloudes and George Magrath Jr., executive vice president of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association. Magrath is also the chairman of the Institutional Support Committee of the Board of Visitors of the Wall School of Business.

"The forum is an effort to allow the business and industrial communities to meet and exchange ideas with students about what the working environment is like," Magrath said. "We want to deal with areas such as culture shock, job jumping, and the expectations of businesses of graduating students. We're excited about the forum and hope that it will become a continuing program at Coastal," Magrath said.

William Baxley said the forum also serves as an opportunity for business students to communicate with area business leaders as well as a chance for students to discover what the business community expects from graduates from the Wall School of Business.

The forum is sponsored by Coastal's Management and Organization Club and the Board of Visitors of the Wall School of Business.

Great American Smokeout set for Nov. 15

The Great American Smokeout, to be held Thursday, Nov. 15, is the day set aside each year for smokers to put down their cigarettes for 24 hours. Smokers who are able to quit for a day are more inclined to decide to quit for life.

The wellness committee will sponsor a booth in the Student Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. where smokers can pick-up a free "survival kit" for being smoke-free for the day.

For more information, contact Patti Loeb, ext. 2329. ∞

Wellness Committee to host health and cholesterol screening

The wellness committee will host a health and cholesterol screening Tuesday, Nov. 27, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Student Center overflow area.

Services will include free blood pressure checks, nutritional counseling, flexibility testing, and body frame size analysis. Cholesterol screenings will be provided by Conway Hospital for a $5 fee.

For more information, contact Patti Loeb, ext. 2329. ∞

USC System research officers to visit Coastal

Community-Business Ethics Forum receives grant

Claudia Cleary and Jack Kendree have received a $27,385 grant for their project entitled "Community-Business Ethics Forum." The project is funded in part by $5,921 from the South Carolina Humanities Council, a state program of the National Endowment of the Humanities. The remaining funds are provided as matching from Coastal Carolina College and the local business community.

The goal of the project is to stimulate awareness and dialogue on ethical decision-making throughout the Horry County business community. A steering committee consisting of Cleary and Kendree, Jennings Duncan of Conway National Bank; Erick Ficken of Merrill Lynch; Cheryl Keel of AVX Corporation; Douglas

LeVay of Leonard, Call and Taylor and Associates, Ltd.; Arthur McCarter, Waccamaw Corporation; Rita Siegal, Dandelion, Ltd.; John Stewart of Nelson, Mullins, Riley and Scarborough law firm; Susan Deans, editor-in-chief, The Sun News, and Doug Wendell, director of the Grand Strand Water and Sewer Authority, have for the past six months been engaged in a series of discussions and case-studies of business ethic problems. Using the grant funds, the committee will provide speakers and program on business ethics to various civic and business groups in the Grand Stand area as well as organizing several lectures that will be open to the public. Interested groups should contact Cleary or Kendree for more information. ∞

Coastal Carolina People

Paul T. Gayes recently had field research data published in the textbook, Physical Geology, written by Nicholas Coch and Alan Ludman and published by Macmillian Publishing.
