Students win regional newspaper advertising awards

Two Coastal students placed in the regional division of the American Academy of Advertising/International Newspaper Association contest.

Ava Thompson of Murrells Inlet received second place in the region and Amber Martin, also of Murrells Inlet, won third place in the region. Both students are enrolled in the Wall School of Business. The winning entries will be forwarded to the national competition to be held Jan. 19 to 23 in Washington, D.C.

Students enrolled in Ed Cerny's advertising class last fall had a choice of entering this competition or entering one sponsored by the Specialty Advertising Association, a Dallas-based trade organization of specialty advertising executives. Coastal students placed nationally as well as regionally in the latter competition. ~

Coastal student recipient of nursing award

Coastal student Kathleen Yahn is the recipient of the first annual Spirit of Nursing Award. Yahn is a senior and a Surfside Beach resident.

Selection for the Spirit of Nursing Award is based on community and professional involvement, leadership experience and academic excellence. The award is given by the Army Nurse Corps, in cooperation with the National Student Nurses' Association.

This Week is published every Monday by the Public Relations Office. Information to be included should be submitted by noon the Wednesday before publication.

Coastal Carolina College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity institution.

Take Note

The Emergency Closing Policy has been reprinted on page 4. Please clip and save.

Award

Yahn's name will be submitted for national competition where a student will be selected from more than 1,000 school recipients. The student selected for the national award will be honored April 18 at the National Student Nurses Association annual convention in San Antonio, Texas. ~

ΣΤΔ to sponsor lecture by Veronica Gerald

Burial Rites and Going Home Practices Among the Gullah-speaking People is the topic of a lecture to be presented by Veronica Gerald, Wednesday, Jan. 30, 4 p.m. in KL 233.

Sponsored By Sigma Tau Delta, the program is based on Gerald's research in black literature. It is free and open to the public. For more information, contact John Beard. ~

Videotapes added to Media Collection

The 1,100-plus videotape selection housed in Kimbel Library's Media Collection has grown significantly since the beginning of the school year. Recent additions indicate a "British invasion" of both a classic and contemporary videos. Titles include:

Austen's Sense and Sensibility
Bronte's Jane Eyre
Dickens' Great Expectations
A Queen is Crowned
The Best of Upstairs Downstairs
Churchill
Staying On (sequel to Jewel in the Crown)

For more information, contact Ann Wegner. ~

Film tour of Israel

Armchair travelers can enjoy a free film tour of Israel when This is Israel plays Tuesday, Feb. 5, 7:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

The program is sponsored by Conway National Bank as a public service. ~

Area Agency on Aging to give service award

The Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging is soliciting nominations for the 1991 Senior Service Award. The award, given by the South Carolina Commission on Aging, recognizes the contributions of groups, organizations or companies for outstanding service in the field of aging in the state.

Nominations will be accepted until Thursday, Feb. 28.

Certificates of Appreciation will be presented at the annual statewide Aging Network Training Conference to be held March 20 through 22 at the Radisson Resort in Myrtle Beach.

The Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging is an umbrella organization for the following: Horry County Council on Aging, Grand Strand Senior Center, Georgetown County Council on Aging and Santee Senior Services.

For more information and for nomination forms, contact the Waccamaw Area Agency on Aging on campus between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at extension 2130. ~

Coastal Carolina People

Congratulations to Danielle and Eric Eiler on the birth of their son, Corbin Reed, on Dec. 18.

Fred Hicks has written a biographical essay on the career of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring. The essay is part of the Salem Press 1990 edition of Great Lives from History: Twentieth Century. Kesselring was instrumental in establishing the German Air Force during World War II. He was an effective military commander for Hitler in his role as commander in chief of German armed forces in the southern region during the 1943-1944 Italian campaign. Hicks has research interests in German, French, British military history, and the American experience in Vietnam.

Paul T. Gayes has received a grant and has recently returned from a research cruise with the Department of Oceanography at Florida Institute of Technology. Gayes conducted a high resolution continuous seismic reflection survey of the Indian River Lagoon area near Melbourne, Florida. This project will outline the geologic framework of the lagoon system and identify surficial sediment thicknesses within the Intracostal Waterway and Indian River Estuary. The project is similar to ongoing work by the Center of Marine and Wetland Studies at Murrells Inlet. Coastal Marine Science senior Neal Gielstra participated and assisted Gayes on the research cruise.

Karen D. Carpenter's feature article, Oxygen Transportation in the Blood, has been accepted for publication in Critical Care Nurse, the foremost journal of clinical excellence in critical care nursing. Carpenter is on the board of directors for Grand Strand Chapter of the American Association of Critical Care Nursing. Her articles appear in numerous nursing journals. ~

Emergency Closing Information 1991

Faculty and staff are asked to clip and save this information for future reference. (It has been suggested that faculty keep this sheet in their roll books so they can remind students about the policy if threatening conditions are predicted.)

When inclement weather or other emergency conditions arise, the college may cancel classes. In this event, employees are expected to report to work. The college will remain open unless the governor closes state offices, which means the college will be closed for both students and employees. If employees are unable to report to work when classes have been canceled, they should contact their immediate supervisors to make arrangements for taking annual leave or compensatory time. Employees who do not report to work or who report late shall use accrued annual or compensatory leave to make up time lost, take leave without pay, or be allowed to make up time lost from work at a time to be scheduled by the university. The employee must be given the option of making up time lost from work if desired. Employees are not expected to risk dangerous traveling conditions to report for work. Announcements will be made as follows:

Classes canceled: Students do not report; employees do report unless they are experiencing problems, in which case they should contact their immediate supervisors. Please be mindful that the switchboard is likely to be overloaded at this time, so call only if necessary.

College Closed: The governor has closed all state offices; students and employees do not report

Note: Since Coastal Carolina College is a state agency, the college closings may not coincide with public school closings.
