Memo from the Chancellor

To: Cost center directors, faculty, and staff

Most of you are now aware through the news media that the state has mandated major budget cuts for the current fiscal year. In addition to the reductions which were made at the beginning of the funding year by CHE and the Budget and Control Board, the most recent cut of $178,515 amounts to a total of $563,141 in budget reductions which Coastal has suffered for the 1990-1991 fiscal year. Because of the prudent management which each of you has exercised with your own funds, and because of our overall campus strategic planning and foresight for such a contingency, it appears that we will be able to

Three new founders inducted

Conway residents Dr. Edward L. Proctor and Evelyn Snider and the late T. Luke Benson were honored during the fifth annual Founders Day Convocation Monday, Feb. 25 at 4 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Edward Proctor was born July 3, 1925 in Conway. He graduated from Clemson University and the Medical University of South Carolina and practiced as a general surgeon in implement these budget reductions with no personnel reductions, and with no further spending cuts beyond the 10 percent reduction already requested of you for non-salary budget items.

The implementation of this reduction may appear to be easily achieved, but it has actually been possible because we have all chosen to impose upon ourselves a year of extreme fiscal stringency in anticipation of such a crisis. Although the outlook for equipment purchases is indeed gloomy, we ask that you continue to compile your prioritized lists of equipment requests and submit these requests in the same time frame requested earlier. We are attempting to identify a small amount of non-"A" funds to be used for some of the most crucial equipment needs.

We appreciate greatly your past and continued cooperation in budget management. This has allowed Coastal to deal with the latest crisis much more effectively than many of its peer institutions. ~

Coastal Theater to present murder mystery

The Mousetrap, a murder mystery by Agatha Christie, will be presented by Coastal Carolina Theater Friday, March 1 at 8 p.m.; Saturday, March 2 at 8 p.m.; and Sunday, March 3 at 3 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium.

Directed by Ken Parks, The Mousetrap is the longest running production in the history of theater. Produced for the first time in London in 1952, the play is set in an era when "comfortable homes, technology and the daily routine formed a kind of insulation from the evil afoot in the world," Parks said.

Admission is $7 and student tickets are $4. Tickets are available from the Wheelwright Box Office Monday through Friday, from noon to 5 p.m. ~

Conway from 1952 until his retirement in 1989. Proctor also is a retired colonel from the South Carolina National Guard. He has been a long-time friend of Coastal, having served as a director of the Coastal Educational Foundation for more than 20 years.

Evelyn Snider was born Aug. 23, 1907, also in Conway. A graduate of Burroughs High School, she earned a bachelor's degree in English and history at Coker College and a master's degree in English at UNC-Chapel Hill. She taught at Campbell Junior College until 1941 when she returned to Horry County to teach world history, American history, English, and Bible at Conway High School. Snider retired from teaching in 1972. She received Coastal Carolina College's Lifetime Achievement Award in Education in 1990.

"Luke" Benson was born Sept. 17, 1917 in Hartsville. A graduate of the University of South Carolina and the Banking School of the South at Louisiana State University, Benson became affiliated with Conway National Bank in 1945. He was elected chairman of the board in 1985 after serving as president since 1965. He was a member of the University of South Carolina Board of Trustees from 1963 to 1984, and a member of the Coastal Educational Foundation from 1973 to 1985. Benson died Oct. 19, 1985.

Earle E. Morris Jr., South Carolina Comptroller General, gave the Convocation address. ~

Open Book Series continues

Sally Z. Hare will present "Some Leaders are Born Women" Thursday, Feb. 28 at 7 p.m., as part of the Waccamaw Regional Studies Center five-part "Open Book Series." The programs will be held in GCEC-003 and are free and open to the public.

Gerald Groves, professor of English, opened the series Tuesday, Feb. 19 with "Teaching: A Lower Job in Higher Education?"

The series features Coastal faculty and administrators who will share their careers and lives in higher education — their best and worst moments, their rewarding experiences, and what made them devote their lives to higher education.

Hare was the first woman to receive full professor rank at Coastal. She also has held the position of associate vice chancellor for academic affairs at Coastal. As a public school teacher, Hare taught in Columbia, S.C. In 1989, she received the Outstanding Continuing Educator in South Carolina award from the State Association for Higher Continuing Education.

As one of 49 Americans to be selected for the Kellogg National Fellowship Program, Hare received a three-year $35,000 grant from the Kellogg Foundation to fund her self-designed plan of study. The Kellogg program began in 1980 to help the nation expand its pool of capable leaders.

In 1983, Hare organized the annual South Carolina Conference of Women, an ongoing event that drew more than 600 participants in 1989.

The lecture series continues on Monday, March 11 with Roy Talbert Jr. presenting "From Bible Belt to Academe: A Personal Journey;" on Thursday, March 21 Sally M. Horner will present "From Tobacco Farm, to Chemistry Lab, to Executive Office;" and on Tuesday, April 16, "Sex, Lies and Political Science" will be presented by Richard O. Collin.

For more information on the Open Book Series, contact the Public Relations Office. ~

Correction

The Open Book Series flyer attached to last week's This Week incorrectly identified the title of Richard Collin's latest book. The correct title is Winter of Fire: The Abduction of General Dozier and the Fall of the Red Brigades.

Center for Marine and Wetland Studies presents Hugo lecture

The effects of Hurricane Hugo is the topic of a free seminar to be presented Friday, March 1 at 12:30 p.m. in SCI-106.

Dr. Thomas Tisue of the Clemson University Department of Chemistry will discuss his study The Effects of Hurricane Hugo on Sediment Quality and Distribution in Charleston Harbor.

Salute to Broadway, a musical extravaganza, will be presented Wednesday, March 6 at 1:30 p.m. in Wheelwright Auditorium. The program, which includes musical presentations by faculty and staff from Coastal, Horry-Georgetown Tech, and talented community members, is free and open to the public.

Performing during the afternoon program are Philip Massey, Preston McKeever-Floyd, Judy Chance, Joseph Lee, Orin Anderson, Janet Mayers, Joe Garrell, and others. Members of Coastal's music faculty will present an excerpt from Music Man. Performing are William Prante, E. Carter Breeze, Philip Powell, William Hamilton, Carolyn Cox, Pat Alexander, Karen Berry, and Janet Inman. William Prante is the accompanist. ~

Coastal names Alumnus of the Year

Michael Krug has been named Alumnus of the Year by the Coastal Carolina College Alumni Association.

Krug, a 1979 Coastal graduate with a major in political science, is the third recipient of the honor. The association recognizes alumni who distinguish themselves as leaders in their professional, civic, community and alumni activities.

Since 1983, Krug has served as alumni association director, vice president of programs, president, and chairman of the board. He also was instrumental in chartering chapters of the Coastal Carolina College Alumni Association in Georgetown and Atlanta.

Active in area American Cancer Society activities, Krug was named Horry County Volunteer of the Year in 1986-1987, served as chairman of education fund raising in 1986-1987 and president in 1987-1988.

He received the Alumnus of the Year award during Homecoming activities held Jan. 25 and 26.

Krug is employed with Edson Real Estate of Myrtle Beach. ~

Grand Opening scheduled for game room

The grand opening for the new game room, located in the Student Center (in the former bookstore area,) is scheduled for Tuesday, March 5 at noon. All students, faculty, and staff are invited to attend and join the group for drinks, snacks, fun and games. The winner of the "Name the Gameroom" contest also will be announced.

A discjockey from WYAV-WAVE 104 Radio will be at Coastal early Tuesday during their morning program, to spin their prize wheel.

The new gameroom will have pool tables, a ping-pong table, a CD jukebox, foosball, and video games. Table games, such as chess, checkers and other games, will be available for check-out. An information bulletin board will be available for students to post messages such as books and items for sale, transportation needs, etc. Lounging areas also will be provided. A trophy case will be displayed in the gameroom.

The gameroom will be open Mondays through Fridays from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 6 p.m. A monitor will be at the gameroom entrance information desk allowing only students, faculty, and staff with a valid Coastal I.D. to use the facilities. One guest will be permitted to accompany anyone with a valid I.D. card using the gameroom.

For more information, contact Kim Grant or Student Affairs, ext. 2304 or ext. 2302. ~

Jim Michie conducted an Archaeology Seminar for adults at Brookgreen Gardens Feb. 1. A slide presentation based on Michie's work at Richmond Hill Plantation was followed by a trip to Laurel Hill Plantation where a rice mill chimney, Civil War Gun emplacement, and a live oak avenue was seen and interpreted. Michie also conducted a public seminar at Bellefield Nature Center, entitled The Excavations of Richmond Hill Plantation, Feb. 6. The presentation discussed the artifacts and remains of plantation buildings that were uncovered and what they tell us about the lives of the people who lived there.

John Farrelly, Tom Cooke, and 10 students, who are physical education and recreation majors, attended the Southern District Conference for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance, held in Norfolk, Va., Feb. 14 to 17. The Coastal students won $100 for being one of 10 colleges with 10 or more students in attendance.

Subhash C. Saxena was one of 11 mathematics department chairs of colleges and universities in the state who met in the Governor's office, Feb. 8. with Fred Sheheen of the S.C. Higher Education Commission and Fred Carter, an assistant to the Governor. The group discussed mathematics education in state and expressed its concern.

Dennis Wiseman has been appointed to the ninety-member Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation team to review the Horry County School District March 5 — 8. He will chair the team's committee that reviews Myrtle Beach Middle School and North Myrtle Beach Middle School. ~
