Dear Students,

I offer you a warm and enthusiastic welcome to the whole new world of Coastal Carolina University. Like all years at Coastal Carolina, this one is sure to be filled with challenges, opportunities and a few surprises. But I am confident we will meet the challenges, seize the opportunities and handle – and maybe even enjoy – the surprises. I am assured of our success because Coastal Carolina is a thoughtful community where people care about ideas and each other.

I hope that students, faculty and staff are all excited about teaching and learning, that we all are invested in each other’s success, and that we never lose sight of the needs of others. Each member of the Coastal Carolina community – students, professors, groundskeepers, coaches, administrative staff and technicians – has a stake in creating the student success that distinguishes a great university.

Sincerely,

Ronald R. Ingle

The Freshmen 15: Is it becoming the Freshman 20?

This is what one student looked like on Aug. 16, the first day of classes.

A student’s advice to avoiding those extra college pounds

Marty Keiser
Staff Writer

It seems as if the Freshman 15 is now a thing of the past and college has changed for men and women.

As the semester goes on, you will notice certain people who are also always eating these foods. While you might seem to be following the same experiences will surround you. There will be times when the college atmosphere will confuse you and even be a little scary, but you will over come it to discover the times when you will feel extreme joy and pride.

You will make lasting connections to others through experiences that you will remember for the rest of your life. If I could offer any advice to the class of 2010, it would be to take good care of one another. Be patient and kind, and help to foster each other’s growth.

Support excellence in academics and in involvement and you will be taking part in shaping a community that we can all be proud to be members of.

My favorite quote by Edwin Markham expresses a sentiment that I believe is of value in any chapter of life, but especially as you turn the page to begin your education at CCU; “There is a destiny that makes us brothers. None goes his way alone. All that we send into the lives of others comes back into our own.”

Congratulations to all of you. If I offer my best wishes to you as you begin your college career at a truly extraordinary university.

Sincerely,

Janet Shokal
SGA President

One semester and 20 pounds
later...

...this is what the same student looked like on Dec. 5, the last day of classes.

After

Enjoying the same great taste for zero calories. Also, cut back on the light weight trips to Wendy’s, McDonald’s and Burger King; believe me, you are not “eating healthy even late.”

Lastly, if you’re going to become a binge drinker on weekends, drink lite beer. Guys think they are gryl if they drink light beer, but girls think you’re just fat when they see that beer gut.

I have made several connections to gaining weight and focused on them in a very health-conscious sense, but it really does come down to one’s health. Even if the pounds are not sticking to your body right now, eating these foods is really taking a toll on your arteries and your heart. You might work out every day, but the effects of all the deep-fried food and 24-hour availability of fast food and Waffle House is going to make you a truly unhealthy adult.

I am not a dietician or nutritionist and I cannot help you by telling you exactly what to eat, but my message is to raise awareness of the prime suspects of the Freshman 20.

Marty Keiser is new to The Chanticleer staff. He will have a cartoon featured in each issue in the fall and will also be writing articles.
New programs designed for freshmen

The First Year Experience

Raytevia Evans
Staff Writer
Coastal Carolina University

beginning a new class in the 2006 fall semester called First Year Experience that will give freshmen a brief tour through college life. There will be 64 sections of the new course in the fall, and students will be enrolled in a core course.

The course will focus on developing creative and critical thinking, setting personal and academic goals, developing structured and consistent study habits and other information that will be valuable for freshmen students.

Dr. Nellene Rice, director of First Year Experience, and 55 other teachers from all walks of CCU campus life, will teach University 110, a core course that freshmen must pass with a C or better.

They will be using the textbook "Getting the Most Out of College" by Arthur W. Chickering and Nancy K. Schonberg.

The students will be referring to eight professional academic counselors throughout the semester for more assistance.

The course will consist of two weeks of creative/critical thinking and cohort development tied to the Big Read. The novel for the Big Read during the next fall semester is "The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-time" by Mark Haddon, which is a murder mystery told by an autistic version of Adrian Mole.

The Book

The book will be the novel from a difficult life for the main character, Christopher who, from Sherlock Holmes, is one of his favorite characters, to track down the killer. The book provides a realistic view of what it is like to be autistic. Even though Chris insists that it is not a funny story, the novel is filled with ironic humor and enjoyable mystery.

"The novel is for everybody," said Rice.

For more information on "The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Nighttime" and Mark Haddon, log on to www.markhaddon.com.

The Big Read novel for 2006

Raytevia Evans
Staff Writer
Coastal Carolina University

The novel is for students who find their neighbor dead dog and is blamed for the crime and decides to investigate the crime by taking a page from Sherlock Holmes, one of his favorite students who are either native speakers of German, Italian, Japanese and Latin.

FLIC is maintained by CCU students who are either native speakers in the language they tutor or have successfully completed the upper level courses, so they are qualified to hold a tutoring position.

FLIC offers many other helpful resources as well. Their facility contains a computer lab, an audio machine room, several study rooms and a small library with language dictionaries and magazines.

Making an appointment is highly recommended to ensure the student gets all the help he or she needs, but sessions are limited to one hour. Call and make your appointment today; the phone number is 349-2468. Hours of operation are Monday - Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., Friday 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and Sunday 4-7 p.m.

The Math Lab

Math is a tough subject for a lot of students to grasp, and if you are one of those students, the Math Lab is willing and ready to help you. It is located in Wall 120 and is staffed by highly qualified students to tutor in all levels and areas of math, even calculus.

The Math Lab does not require students to make appointments prior to coming in. The staff is prepared to sit down with students and work on either specific problems from a homework assignment or on understanding a formula or concept.

Other resources offered by the Math Lab include reference books and specific handouts on certain mathematical formulas and equations. Their Web site, www.coastal.edu/mathlab, provides a list of these handouts and links to viewing them. It also contains a list of private tutors of whom students can take advantage of and shows their areas of expertise and their hourly rates.

The Math Lab hours are the same as the Writing Center and FLIC hours, so feel free to stop by Wall 120 or visit their Web site for assistance.

The Computer Assisted Instruction Lab (CAI)

The CAI lab is located in the Prince Building in room 207 and is directly affiliated with the Student Academic Support Services Department. It has been in operation for two years and will be the editor-in-chief for 2000-2007.

What is the Chanticleer? The mascot mystery revealed

Many students at Coastal Carolina University do not know what a Chanticleer is, or where CCU's mascot came from. This rooster-looking bird is a mystery no more.

One year ago, a two-year branch of the University of South Carolina. After the colleges separated, CCU did not have any athletic teams, let alone a mascot. According to the CCU magazine, the first sports team (basketball) was formed in 1963. The decision to be called the 'Chanticleer' was decided by this first team. Among the other choices were the 'Shark' and the 'Seahawks.'

As the university grew, the powers that be took a poll to see if the students wanted to keep the Chanticleer as a mascot. A valid vehicle registration and student ID will be needed to obtain a parking decal.

Parking on campus

Rules all students must follow

Parking decals will also be available for sale at Waccamaw Hall and University Place August 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

- 2006-2007 parking decals will be available for sale at the Department of Public Safety (DPS) June 1.
- 2006-2007 parking decals will also be available for sale at Waccamaw Hall and University Place August 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
- The price of 2006-2007 parking decals is $25.
- A valid vehicle registration and student ID will be needed to obtain a parking decal.
- Vehicle registration forms are available at www.coastal.edu on the Department of Public Safety Web page. This form can be filled and printed out prior to visiting DPS or can be mailed in with a $25 check and a copy of the vehicle registration. Various parking violations will be fined as follows: Parking improperly, $35; Parking in loading or service zone, $35; Blocking (sidewalk) driveway, $35; Parking in reserved space, $35; Parking in no parking zone, $35; Parking at fire hydrant/fire zone, $30; Parking in grass or other non-designated area, $35; Parking along yellow painted curb, $35; Parking in Visitors space, $35; Vehicle has no valid parking permit, $35; Parking in or blocking disabled/handicapped space/curbcut, $250; Failure to obey posted traffic sign, $35; Failure to properly display parking decal, $35; Resident student/University Place/ TTP Students illegally parked, $35; Fraudulent use of parking permit, $100. After 72 hours, if the fee is not paid or appealed, ticket prices increase as follows: $35 - $50, $50 - $75, $75 - $100, $100 - $125, $125 - $250. Should a student fail to pay a ticket or fine, the student will not be permitted to register for classes or receive a transcript. Multiple tickets that go unpaid may result in a towed vehicle and disciplinary action. Students may appeal a ticket they have received if they do so within 72 hours of receiving the ticket. A written appeal must be addressed to the Traffic Appeals Committee, forms are available at the Department of Public Safety, Call Public Safety at (843) 349-2177 for additional information.

Advice for surviving the freshman year of college

I want to start this article by saying that my first year at Coastal Carolina University was a great experience. After all, it is a fun place to be: awesome night life, lots of people around the same age and the beach is just a stone's throw away. If you follow a few simple rules, I can guarantee that you'll have a good freshman year, too. I hope this advice will help some of you to avoid the mistakes that I made.

Rule #1: Be open-minded. I'm from Kansas, so needless to say, this was an entirely new atmosphere for me. Instead of limiting myself in what I chose to do, I expanded my horizons and decided to embrace what Myrtle Beach has to offer. Maybe it meant hanging out with a group of people I previously would have shunned, or maybe it meant eating something that seemed a little 'off.' Whatever it was, I tried to be open for it. Every person here has something unique to offer; it is up to you to find out what is, a word of warning: being open-minded doesn't mean doing things that you know to be dangerous. Please, for everyone's sake, use good judgment.

Rule #2: Let your roommate be your best friend. I have to say that I was lucky in my roommate assignment. We had a lot in common, spent a ton of time together and had a whole group of mutual friends. Of course we bickered and fought every once in a while, but overall we went out of our way to get along with each other. The point is that you shouldn't go into your room assignment expecting not to get along with your roommate. Spend time together, learn from each other, take interest in what they like to do and do what you can to not be annoying. When the person you live with is your biggest ally and friend, your first year will be much easier. Remember that you will probably get into one big fight, which is bound to happen when you live in close quarters.

Rule #3: Get involved. That doesn't mean join every club that CCU offers. It simply means that you should do things that pertain to your interests. If you like to write, join the newspaper staff or the Journalism Club. If you like to fish, join the Fishing Club. If you like volunteering or doing community service, join S.T.A.R. I decided not to go and talk myself out of it.

Some may not think that the Chanticleer makes a very remarkable mascot, but the amount of brown can compensate for true intelligence and wit.

The Mascot Mystery Revealed

The students decided to stay loyal to their Chanticleer, instead of starting a new one. After all, it is a fun place to be: awesome night life, lots of people around the same age and the beach is just a stone's throw away. If you do not get caught doing anything stupid, then you should have a nice, friendly relationship with your R.A.

Rule #4: Your Resident Assistant (R.A.) is not there to be your friend. Granted, there are a few R.A.'s that are very friendly, but they are there to watch out for you and making sure you are following the rules. So if you do not get caught doing anything stupid, then you should have a nice, friendly relationship with your R.A.

Rule #5: For goodness sake, have a little fun. I know that you grades are important, as are your job and other activities. But for crying out loud, go out on the weekend, even during the week if you have the time. If you don't procrastinate terribly, you'll have more than enough time to go out and forget your troubles. College shouldn't be all work and no play; it should be fun! There are things to do here, so go and do them. On the flip side, if all you do is party, well, I guess I won't have to worry about you next year.

Welcome freshmen, and good luck at Coastal!

Learn how to do your own laundry
A simple guide to washing clothes for students

M. G. Fisher  One change that Assistant Editor  many students find themselves facing as they leave home and come to college is that doing their own laundry. There are many different ways to do laundry, but generally, it goes a little something like this:

Washing:
Step 1: Separate your white clothes and darker color clothes.
Step 2: EMPTY YOUR POCK­ETS! (This step is often missed, and regretted
later.)
Step 3: If you so, choose to use a pre­ treating detergent, put it in its designated dish (accounting to the measurements on the back).
Step 4: Measure out your main wash detergent and put it in its designated place.
Step 5: Put in your change and start the cycle.

Drying:
Yes, I realize that giving a tutorial on drying clothes seems a little extreme, but there are a few things you need to know.
Step 1: Place your clothing and fabric softender sheets (A.K.A. “dryer sheets”) into a dryer. (Dryer sheets are optional.)
Step 2: Select your preferred cycle (Permanent Press, Air Fluff, Wrinkle Shield, etc.) Not all of these cycles will be a big fan of white clothing, or you have some expensive Abercrombie ruffle­sleeved white shirts then you should probably separate, but if you just have your average number of white shirts especially if you don’t really care for white, which I I don’t! (or you’re worried about a few pairs of socks or under clothing, don’t waste your time separating.

Don’t pre-wash: Pre-washing is like taking a bath to prepare yourself for a shower. If your clothes are dirty from regular wear, then putting them in a washing machine with detergent is going to get them clean. There is no such thing as “more clean” - they are either clean or they are not.
(If you have just come from a mud run or a rdeo, the pre-wash may be something you’ll want to consider.) Combine: To save money, you can dry your colored clothes and white clothes together. It might be a bigger load, but in the end, it will save you that crucial dollar or so it would cost to dry two separate loads.
I have no good time-saving tips for drying, but you are more than welcome to hang your clothes out the window while driving around, if that’s your thing.
Just be careful, because some cops in this state drive un-marked vehicles.
I only have one last tip. Unless you have a washing machine and dryer in your home, and you and your roommates are the only people who use it, I highly recommend washing all of your clothing in the hottest cycles available.
This might lead to the loss of some of your favorite pieces of clothing, but if you are using a community washer, there is a chance that someone who washes their clothes before you may have a crude disease. Sexually transmitted diseases, more specifically crabs, can survive in a washing machine for a significant amount of time after the source is removed. The only way to kill them is to wash your clothes in the hottest cycle.
So when it comes to laundry mats you must make a decision: your best party clothes or crabs? Choose wisely.

TIPS ON HOW TO HAVE FUN IN COLLEGE AND STAY SAFE

BY ASHLEY TALLOIS
Assistant Editor

As you delve from your parent’s embrace and strike off in the sunny, sunny, sunny in the south, the first thought that comes to your mind is: “When and where can I start cray-cray right away?” Wrong. Here’s a typical college freshman’s guide to ensuring your newfound freedom and independence you’ve just got. You’re probably wondering what people do to fill life.

Naturally, these students coming from cold, leaf-filled states will be seeking to get their feet in the sand and see the ocean. A lot of Coastal Carolina University students gather at Fair 14, located at 14th Ave. N, Students who prefer a quieter beach outing would benefit from treading further north along Ocean Blvd. Feeling is the only thing that needs to be paid if moving to the beach; however, there are certain things they need to be aware of.

After you’ve been at the beach all day, easily you’ll want to show off that new tan when at the evening. When the sun sets, urbanites will begin to gather, mixing and mingling to enjoy each other’s company. These can be a great opportunity to make new friends.

CAMPUS HOUSING: UNIVERSITY PLACE PLANS POLICY CHANGES

By G. Parker

There are several recent changes being proposed for the University Place (UP) housing complex for the fall 2006 semester.

Over the past year, tenants have been running high between CCU Public Safety and the maintenance of UP. According to Paul Deman, the Residence Life Coordinator, these new policies will give the students an opportunity to build a better relationship with the Public Safety Department. Some of the proposed changes include changes to the security that goes at the guard desk, violation times and regulations and the meter that students are charged to live in the community.

“Our goal is to have a community in which the students feel comfortable and can hang out with their friends and get to know the guard and the community,” says Deman.

Right now, violations with non-UP residents are limited to certain hours, and those who are visiting from other universities have to be registered filled out and approved at least five hours before they arrive. The proposed rule change for visitor inclusion includes making non-graduates specific, allowing people from other campuses to visit easily (all of their information will be documented before they are let into the community), and adjusting the time requirements to have a visitor.

All of these changes will benefit the student and the student’s lifestyle, which the current policy does not always allow for.

The new public safety director, Greg Winter, is expected to arrive at CCU around the second week of May. He is known to organize events with students.

“He loves to have an event on weekends and is here to help the students,” said Deman.

Another of the proposals is a change in the hours that the meters will be up.

The university is about changing the meter to live in UP will be on the board on the morning of May 4.

As of now, some of the proposals have been approved and finalized, but according to Deman, “Residence Life and Public Safety are going to have a great relationship this year.” We have been working together on the second downtown, and it has been extremely impressive. We are looking forward in this new partnership in which we can make UP a really great community. We want to be in place in which the students can live in a developing, thriving, the educational and social community.

For more information about the details contained in this article, contact Paul Deman at (843) 349-6465. Her office is located in the Waccamaw dome, room 122.

GETTING INVOLVED WITH SGA AND POLITICS ON CAMPUS

By David Waid

This week in The Chanticleer

Summer 2006

SGA President, Josh Hatfield, will be the SGA Vice President, Lauren Brier, will continue on as the SGA Secretary and Shoshana Curilla will be the new SGA Treasurer.

Other than the SGA, CCU campus offers a number of other politically-oriented clubs. These organizations range from a discussion and involvement forum on international relations to student development workshops. Examples of these organizations are the Globalist Club, College Republicans, Young Democrats and the Leadership Development Council.

The club offers focus on an opportunity for student dialogue and involvement; they also give an opportunity to be a part of the spectrum of speakers and activities.

These events include a number of pre-eminences during the Celebration of Inquiry, an annual student event that marks the annual culminating event for the CCU community.

In addition to hosting the Celebration of Inquiry, the student group also welcomes the chamber Singers of the Arts and the Ambassadors to Rwanda, Robert Paine for a discussion of global events. Moreover, the Editors of the ‘Globalist’,” Stephen Ellick, writes, give a speech on post-event on the effects of globalization upon America and the world that post-event.

Also, the Young Democrats plan to host a Democratic gubernatorial primary debate along with a gubernatorial debate between Governor Mark Sanford and his challenger.

With a vibrant student body backed by strong organizations, Coastal Carolina University is emerging as one of the political centers within the state.

Students are encouraged to get active in both SGA and student politics on campus by voting in all elections and attending SGA meetings, which are held every Monday at 3 p.m. in West 309 (North area and student elections).
