CCU avoids building ban, but SC public universities still want answers

Education Summit fails to give cause to skyrocketing tuition

CORRIE LACEY
EDITOR

Few questions were answered at the Higher Education Summit Tuesday, as South Carolina Gov. Mark Sanford and higher education leaders couldn't agree on the cause of skyrocketing tuition at state public universities.

The summit, held at Midlands Technical College in Columbia, did however, initiate important discussion. And Sanford called for a freeze on construction projects at universities to stop the rise in tuition — stating that the even buildings that use private funds for construction still require tuition money to operate.

Senator Hugh Leatherman asked that building bans be put on four-year public institutions with tuition increases higher than 7 percent from the 2009-10 school year to the 2010-11. Schools that raised tuition by more than 7 percent are subject to the ban unless tuition is dropped by spring semester. Coastal Carolina University is in the clear. The University increased its tuition by only 4.9 percent — the third lowest increase in the state behind Wofford University and Lander University. CCU will continue with its construction projects.

SEE BUILDING BAN, PAGE 5

CCU rallies against sexual assault with ‘Take Back the Night’ rally

TARA SMITH
ASSIST. EDITOR

The fourth annual "Take Back the Night" march, a rally against sexual violence will be held on Coastal Carolina University's campus on Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 7 p.m., in Spadoni Park and is sponsored by CARES Coalition and counseling services.

The event works to spread awareness to the CCU community about sexual assault and how to prevent it. The 35-year-old national tradition on many college campuses will be followed by a march from Spadoni Park through the Woods residence community to the field next to the track. At the end of the march, Coastal Spiritual Ambassadors will perform and a "speak out" to give individuals a chance to share their experiences. Local rape crisis centers will also participate in the event.

"The marching is a very powerful march," said Chris Donevant overseeing the event with brainstorming and counseling services.

"We're having different chants that we say and yell during the march and everyone shouting support." Before the "Take Back the Night" march, there will be a "Take Back the Day" event on the same day on Prince Lawn from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. There, the CCU community will make signs advocating the stop of sexual assault towards men, women and children, for the march that evening. A large wooden cut out of the campus will be followed by a march from Spadoni Park through the Woods residence community to the field next to the track. At the end of the march, Coastal Spiritual Ambassadors will perform and a "speak out" to give individuals a chance to share their experiences. Local rape crisis centers will also participate in the event.

"For men, this is their chance to stand up and say that they are not willing to accept violence against one of our audience, we ensure that building bans be put on four-year public institutions with tuition increases higher than 7 percent from the 2009-10 school year to the 2010-11. Schools that raised tuition by more than 7 percent are subject to the ban unless tuition is dropped by spring semester. Coastal Carolina University is in the clear. The University increased its tuition by only 4.9 percent — the third lowest increase in the state behind Wofford University and Lander University. CCU will continue with its construction projects.
Coastal offers Flu vaccine to students, faculty

BOBBY BALDWIN STAFF WRITER

Flu season is approaching and Coastal Carolina University's student health is taking steps to ensure that the CCU community stays healthy by offering the flu vaccine. The flu vaccine will be given by appointment and a third influenza clinic will be available to serve students, faculty and staff on a first come first serve basis.

Although student health services suggests that getting the vaccine is the best way to prevent catching the flu, there are other options that may help keep the CCU community healthy during this time of year.

According to Caesar Ross, director of student health services, it is beneficial to stay well rested, eat healthily and exercise. Ross also advises students to avoid touching their eyes, nose and mouths. Washing hands thoroughly and often using hand sanitizer can prevent sickness and the spreading of viruses. Student health services advises people to cough into a sleeve instead of the hand, and visit the center at the first symptoms of the flu.

"The common cold rarely comes with fever and headaches and never causes extreme exhaustion, all of which are very common when you have the flu," said Ross. "Also, with a cold, you may have slight pains and aches, but with the flu they may often be severe."

A stuffy nose, sneezing and a sore throat are usually present more often in a cold than in the flu. Coastal Carolina Health Services with symptoms and are diagnosed with the flu, or he or she will be given a card bag containing over-the-counter advice, symptoms and instructions. However, once sick, Rosseradvises students to rest, choose healthy food options and take antiviral medications such as Tamiflu. Student health services can also excuse students from class during recovery.

For more information, contact Student Health Services at 843-349-6543 or visit coastal.edu/health.

STAFF WRITER

ELIJAH BLACK

According to Pleasant, the Writing Center can assist with broad based writing and assist in giving students useful techniques that will produce stronger academic papers.

"Students should not be writing for an audience, but Duley left the house colleges: four-year colleges and universities national and local speakers on the sustainability forum. The event is free to the public, but requires tickets to lower tuition costs.

"The Writing Center does not do any work for the student, but it aids in writing improvement with each visit," Pleasant said. "We will assist students with grammar, editing and focusing on ways to improve their writing. We will not edit for them, but will look at the work and provide feedback."

Emergency visits to the Writing Center are a challenge for Writing Center student and faculty members. The easier the visit, the more help a student will receive.

"A student doesn't necessarily need a paper already written," Pleasant said. "We will assist students with brainstorming, editing and focusing on ways to improve their writing. We will not edit for them, but will look at the work and provide feedback."

The Writing Center has experimented with creative writing ideas, but Duley left the house colleges: four-year colleges and universities present regional choirs that are open to the public, but require tickets to lower tuition costs.

"Unfortunately, the Writing Center hasn't equipped itself with creative writing ideas," said Pleasant. "We may be able to get a few creative writing specialists, however the Writing Center focuses more on essays, reports, etc.

For more information on the Writing Center, visit http://www.coastal.edu/writingcenter or call 843-349-2973 to set up an appointment.

ARTIST OF THE WEEK: STEPHANIE JONES

Stephanie Jones is a junior graphic design major and photography student at Coastal Carolina University.

"All together these prints all provoke some element of fear or suspense, be it succubus or planned. In this case the concept was created from a recognizable subconscious subject matter of the photo. The only thing I didn't have in how they were all tied together through similar style elements that I did shoot for and the now available prints are the vocals that bring the security assurance."
FEATURES

Solo Circus performs at Coastal family weekend

JULIA GRANTZ STAFF WRITER

Michael Dubois, a self-taught performer, performed at Coastal Carolina University on Friday, Sept. 24 in Whitworth Auditorium. Dubois, who describes himself as "not your average circus performer," showed his juggling, magic, comedy and mind reading tricks to an audience of students and their families for the Family Weekend event.

Dubois, a New York native, has performed at over 300 colleges and universities and around the world for six and a half years. But before becoming a solo act, he had a duo act with his best friend. However after a few years, he saw no future for the twosome and they parted ways. But according to Dubois, he likes being a solo artist because "I can create tricks that are my own and unique to me," said Dubois. "I don't have to worry about anyone else having to learn what I think the audience might enjoy." He also said he appreciates being alone because he likes to create a variety of tricks because he knows that there are so many options out there to be discovered and performed.

Currently, Dubois practices his juggling, magic and local New York City clubs, but has not practiced juggling in five years. While in college, he practiced all skills for two hours a day, five days a week. All of his skills take a long time to perfect but some take longer than others. However, Dubois considers juggling second nature. "I want to continue to create new tricks because I want a variety in my show," said Dubois. "I don't want people to walk out saying I'm just doing juggling performances." As Dubois went on to refine his skills, he started practicing less each week and now practices three days a week before each show.

He is currently trying to perfect a juggling trick that he has been learning for two years but says it is not up to his standards to put on his show. Dubois is also working on other tricks that he would like to see incorporated in his demonstration such as a tower trick combined with a five pattern ball trick and a knife throwing trick. These and other dangerous objects such as knives and performing dangerous stunts, Dubois is confident in his ability to do them without injury and practice new and old tricks for each show. "There is not one trick that I have to practice more than a year. I am not in control of what the audience is going to see. It is a tricky business and I have too much on my mind to worry about anyone else having to learn what I think the audience might enjoy." He also said he appreciates being alone because he likes to create a variety of tricks because he knows that there are so many options out there to be discovered and performed.

"I came to the show because I was curious," said Lauren Gross, an education major. "The solo circus was much more entertaining. This type of entertainment gives the audience a new perspective. It was fresh, funny and relatable. Coming to the show, I didn't have much of any expectations just because I didn't know what to expect but after the show I thought it was truly entertaining and his jokes were actually funny." In the future, Dubois plans on having his own show in broadway. The show would be about 90 minutes long with a 15 minute intermission. Dubois could be a solo performer and Jimmy Buffett's songs and would say Dubois.

Dubois also said he wants his shows to have a deeper meaning through amusement acts by combining his talents and events in his life. He also creates a show for everyone, a show that is his own, without any filler. "I create acts that I spend months working on and I don't want someone to just come along and rip them off," said Dubois. "Each show and skit I create is one that I like and I don't want people to take away and leave it very hard to steal my ideas." Though he has performed on shows such as "The Tonight Show" and "The Late Late Show" and performed across seas, Dubois is happy to be able to continue his acts with high school and college students and other organizations until his big break comes around.

However, the more popular he has become, Dubois says he has more anxiety performing for his events because one small slip up during practice or a show could end his career.

Dubois has created an act especially for college students because of their changing entertainment needs.

"I enjoyed the performance, even though I had to leave before," Erica Norton "This time he added new tricks like when he rode the tricycle and took off-the-straight jacket at the same time. I never got to see that before." Dubois believes his show offers something for everyone and treats he knows what college students want to see. But he also thinks that shows need to be more than trick shows, therefore he incorporates magic, juggling and comedy. Dubois reminisces that comedy is very important in order to please a crowd and enjoy many of the students told him that they enjoyed his show as much because of his comedic acts.

"I came to the show because I was curious," said Lauren Gross, an education major. "The solo circus was much more entertaining. This type of entertainment gives the audience a new perspective. It was fresh, funny and relatable. Coming to the show, I didn't have much of any expectations just because I didn't know what to expect but after the show I thought it was truly entertaining and his jokes were actually funny." In the future, Dubois plans on having his own show in broadway. The show would be about 90 minutes long with a 15 minute intermission. Dubois could be a solo performer and Jimmy Buffett's songs and would say Dubois.

Dubois also said he wants his shows to have a deeper meaning through amusement acts by combining his talents and events in his life. He also creates a show for everyone, a show that is his own, without any filler. "I create acts that I spend months working on and I don't want someone to just come along and rip them off," said Dubois. "Each show and skit I create is one that I like and I don't want people to take away and leave it very hard to steal my ideas." Though he has performed on shows such as "The Tonight Show" and "The Late Late Show" and performed across seas, Dubois is happy to be able to continue his acts with high school and college students and other organizations until his big break comes around.

ALUMNI OF THE WEEK: DUSTIN JOHNSON

Three-time Coastal Carolina University men's golf Al-American and PGA star Dustin Johnson began play Friday, Oct. 11 in the 2010 Ryder Cup as a member of the United States team at the Celtic Manor Resort in Newport, Wales. Johnson has been an automatic qualifier for the team after finishing in the top five in the world in the standings based upon his PGA Tour performance during the 2009 season, a performance that has vaulted the Myrtle Beach resident into the gate of golfing greats.

Johnson posted Top 15 finishes in three Major Championships this summer including the PGA Championship where an unpopular rule interpretation on the last hole allowed Johnson a chance to win, but earned him national support from fans. He has two tournament titles on his credit during the season, the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro Am in February and the BMW Championship in early September and ranks 4th on the PGA Tour Money List.
Stop complaining and just get the job done

Nearl every day during the school week, I hear students complain about the amount of homework, the professors, that it is hard to show up on class on Friday because they have something else they’d rather be doing, or something similar. Okay, get it. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.

But friends of mine who recently graduated from college tell me they wish they could go back for one more semester because we undergrads have it so easy but don’t even know because there is so much material to get through because we are striving to make money because it makes the state millions of dollars in scholarships such as LIFE HOPE CCU. Just last year he cares to know that that student should be doing whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. After a month into the semester, school is already annoying. But it is necessary to complaining every single class! It is necessary to complaining about the length of class, how the professor teaches his or her class or the amount of homework given all the time. No, it’s not. There’s a reason each student is enrolled and that’s to get an education to have a decent future. Just think of how much you dislike classes, I remember there are others who don’t have an opportunity to go to college to pursue a higher education and that helps me get the job done. Most professors here do assign readings, projects and other assignments to prepare us for whatever is waiting for us once we graduate. Right now, we have to fall back on when things get rough, and in a way, I think most of us have become spoiled because of that net.
THE SCENE

OCT. 4
FACULTY BIENNIAL
9 a.m. TO 5 p.m.
REBECCA RANDALL BRYAN
ART GALLERY

OCT. 5
TAKE BACK THE DAY
11 a.m. TO 2 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 5
TAKE BACK THE NIGHT
7 p.m. TO 9 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 6
RED CROSS BLOOD DRIVE
9 a.m. TO 5:30 p.m.
WALL BUILDING
HORSESHOE

OCT. 7
ONE VOTE AT A TIME
11 a.m. TO 3 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 8
STOP-LOSS DUI SIMULATOR
9 a.m. TO 3:15 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 8
EMOTIONAL SPECTRUM
7:30 p.m. TO 9:30 p.m.
WHEELRIGHT
AUDITORIUM

WHO SAID IT?

"AMERICANS ARE GENEROUS
AND STRONG AND DECENT,
NOT BECAUSE WE BELIEVE
IN OURSELVES BUT BECAUSE
WE HOLD BELIEFS BEYOND OURSELVES."

THE SCENE

REBECCA RANDALL BRYAN
ART GALLERY

OCT. 5
TAKE BACK THE DAY
11 a.m. TO 2 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 5
TAKE BACK THE NIGHT
7 p.m. TO 9 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 6
RED CROSS BLOOD DRIVE
9 a.m. TO 5:30 p.m.
WALL BUILDING
HORSESHOE

OCT. 7
ONE VOTE AT A TIME
11 a.m. TO 3 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 8
STOP-LOSS DUI SIMULATOR
9 a.m. TO 3:15 p.m.
PRINCE LAWN

OCT. 8
EMOTIONAL SPECTRUM
7:30 p.m. TO 9:30 p.m.
WHEELRIGHT
AUDITORIUM

WHO SAID IT?

"AMERICANS ARE GENEROUS
AND STRONG AND DECENT,
NOT BECAUSE WE BELIEVE
IN OURSELVES BUT BECAUSE
WE HOLD BELIEFS BEYOND
OURSELVES."

STUDENT SHUFFLE:

BEAUTIFUL FLOWER – INDIA ARIE
ROLLEY DUDLEY, JUNIOR POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR
STIR IT UP – ROB MARLEY
JENNA OTSEN, SOPHOMORE PSYCHOLOGY MAJOR
ONE IN A LIFETIME – MONICA
KU’INDRA INGRAM, FRESHMAN BIOLOGY MAJOR
CATS ON MARS – YOHO KANNO
NORA REIL, FRESHMAN STUDENT ART MAJOR

THE DREAM – GILLY
GARY NIEGER, JUNIOR FINANCE AND MARKETING MAJOR
GIVE IT ALL – RISE AGAINST
BRICE OFF, FRESHMAN SPORTS MANAGEMENT MAJOR

STATUS QUO: WHAT’S ON OUR FACEBOOK?

BRIANNA RIVAS
I am feeling extremely social this evening, I just wanna talk to everyone! haha XD

DARE-LYON BAKER
It’s only five folks. And guess what I’m doing my Friday right? That’s right, working!!

ROBERT PACEK
My roommates are racist. One of em is black too.

KEITH WILBERT
My muscles hurt... My body is trying to tell me to stop being active!

MAEGAN SWEAT
I am dumb

Friend: The Chanticleer on Facebook and tag us in your status! You may see it published!
4. WHAT ARAB NATION HAS THE SHARED BY people from other states are addition, the new continue on the Kimbel Library lean. But we certainly wanted to tem, and the new the conversation raised questions on scholarships from the South Carolina Educa- tion Lottery — asking if it counted as state support for schools or a tuition break for students and par- ents. Others questioned whether increasing the number of out-of- state students at public institutions will bring in more money for the schools, or take away from them, essentially rebutting the children of South Carolina in favor of hiring higher-achieving students from other states.

CCU accepts more out-of-state students than any other university in the state. According to Garland, CCU will probably raise tuition by another 3% to 4% percent next year. Leaders say while Tuesday was a good start, it may be something before issues are resolved.

Two departments contributed to the article

Harrison named new director of Housing and ResLife CONTINUED FROM COVER to create systems, change things and draw orga- nizational charts and all kinds of fun, this a good opportunity to try new things.

Harrison most recently worked at southern Utah University, where he served as the assistant vice president for auxiliary enterprises, the executive director of University Housing and the director of Residence Life. Prior to that, he served in housing positions at the University of Arizona. He earned a master's degree in higher education administration from Old Dominion University and a bachelor's de- gree in history from Guilford College.

"This opportunity at CCU, not only because professional choices really have an impact in terms of what we do at housing and residence life here, but also the added bonus that it meant good dollars," said Harrison. "It was impossible to pass up and it was too good to be true. It was ser- endipitous and it happened so quickly to the point where I was on the phone with Dean [Helen] Hart and she said I'm the new director of residence life and I said I guess I'm moving."

The new director came to the Myrtle Beach area to be closer to family and friends in Virginia and says being at CCU "feels like being home." Har- rison, who interviewed for the position in June, said he's often been asked what changes he plans to make in housing.

"Right now for me, it's not yet having answers necessarily, mostly it's about asking the right ques- tions," said Harrison. "I'm still learning about the people who work for me, my colleagues in other departments, the people above me who I need to report and provide information. I found my office supplies and now I can start to function a bit. So that's where we are right now, trying to figure out the big issues and why the big issues are big issues."

Harrison also stated while changes will be made in residence life, current and future won't notice them.

"To the students, it will still feel like it [when they were receiving room assignments]," said Har- rison. "Those who may have had concerns and problems this fall, we hope they don't have those same problems and concerns next fall. We want to make sure we fulfill our primary goal which is to make them feel like students first and then academi- cally successful.

So far, Harrison has been working with his staff by getting to know his colleagues and discussing current issues and goals. Harrison currently resides in Wilmington, N.C., with his wife and twin sons. He also owns a home in Utah but also has a one-bedroom apartment in University Place to ease his transition into his new position.

Drummond, previous Director of Housing and Residence Life, is now responsible for advising of student clubs and development of a comprehen- sive leadership program for student and student organizations. During her five years in Residence Life, the University provided additional housing for more than 1,000 students, developed new living-learning communities, installed a security access system and implemented a free laundry service.

CCU 'takes back the night' CONTINUED FROM COVER

as victims, but we don't think of that same role in women. While males have choices to make in life and females have choices to make in life. Anyone can be a victim and anyone can be an assailant, and by having events like this we can encourage everyone to be safe and make responsible choices and not put themselves in a place where they're becoming an assailant. It's an important topic for both men and for women."

Though Harrison knows sexual assaults will occur, she thinks the event will decrease the number of sexual assaults and will bring awareness that a victim has a response to that type of violence by the CCU community.
Coastal Carolina University, communications intern, Liz McVey and Kylarhyne Wood didn’t know their internships at age of 17 by her mother,onym, called into the show saying she was speak privately with Dot-statlon owner, researched officer tening to the show for sev­ the how and was able to with the woman, Laster right,” said human trafficking.” which the victim told Last­ law enforcement of­ about human traf­ lic and claimed Lisbeth­ was being kidnapped which prompted the officers to -vement to prove she was -dow, a private detective -an in -vestigator near the woman’s -vestigator can make a difference. -overton, professor, a pretty full hou­ e, but it happens here, -and people need to know -fied to help poor con­ -Ayal, a sophisticated philo­­phy department, continued -tion by examining opposing views concerning our moral obligations to the global poor. -Overton to participate in Exchange program, travel to India

"This was just an amazing opportunity to be able to go outside the country and learn more about other cultures and possibly bring back to what we do here as letter writers and advocates," said Ayal. "India is such a different cul­ ture in how they resolve conflict and deal with things there. There’s so much to be learned about what we can possibly do to kind of a kind of a different frame to hold individuals accountable for their deci­ sions, but more than anything teaching responsibility before giving that piece.

One of Overton’s motives is “to be the change you want to see in the world,” by Indian political and spiritual leader, Ghandi. For the director, this upcoming opportunity will give him the opportunity to immerse in Ghandi’s country by living and learning from the local Rotarian members. During his time, he will be visiting universities and meet­ ing with people with positions equal in order to adapt and promote discipline.

Overton hopes to see the Taj Mahal while in India. But he also says that just because he’ll be in India doesn’t mean students shouldn’t get too excited to not see him because there will be others who can take on his role as a letter student or student conductor. However, the first gen­ eration, college-student Rotary member said his hopes trip will encourage students to leave their comfort zone and experience other cultures and learn their culture.
SPORTS

Volleyball blanks UNC Wilmington 3-0

KIRSTEN CORLEY STAFF WRITER

Senior outside hitter Chelsey Kimes made his- tory Sept. 25 with her 1,576th kill. And was hon- ored as all-time kill leader at Coastal Carolina University last Tuesday, when the Chanticleers faced the UNC-Wilmington Seahawks, 3-0. Coastal volleyball took on the Sea Hawks, improv- ing to 8-8 overall. The game started with Meghan Lefin, freshman middle hitter; Lauren Alesi, freshman setter; Erika Lightsey, junior outside hitter; Amanda Russo, senior right side; Megan Bickford, senior middle; Lindsey Gill, freshman libero, and Kimes. At the start of the first set Coastal got set to run to 5-1. Coastal led the set, forcing the UNC-Wilmington coach to call a time-out at 3-0.

With a service error following the time-out UNCW had the ball, but Coastal got the ball back and held a strong lead ending the first set at 25-17.

In the second set, Alesi started with an ace, giving Coastal the first point. But UNCW came back and took the lead at 5-4. A tie at 5-5 kept everyone on their toes. Coastal then got a run with 11-5.

The Chanticleers held the lead throughout the rest of the set - with Bickford dominating in blocks -- ending the set at 25-17.

The third set started with the opposing team serving. Coastal got blocked on the first hit then Kimes brought it back to a tie score of 1-1. UNCW came back running a short caus- ing a 2-2 tie. Kimes hit from the middle giving Coastal the point score 3-2. But the Sea- hawks came back and tied it again at 4-4. Lightsey then got a kill followed by senior setter Kelsie Mauck getting an ace. As rallies went on the score came back to a tie at 6-6 then the Sea Hawks took the lead at 9-6. Seahawks remained leading at 13-9 as the opposing blockers seemed to step up their game. Kimes then got Coastal the ball back, pushing it into the left corner in an open spot. Alesi Kimes got an ace, the score was later tied at 14-14.

The game was delayed because of a court side line call. But the ruling followed her call and because of an amazing fake, as she dove towards the bench hovering the ball in the air. The game was tied at 16-16 when Lightsey got another kill Coastal came back with another tie at 17-17. Their sophomore Si- erra Livesay got a kill followed by the Seahawks making a hitting error. The score was 20-17 when UNCW coach called another time-out.

SEE VOLLEYBALL, PAGE 10

CCU linebacker leads Big South in tackles

CODY SUMSKY STAFF WRITER

Coastal Carolina University linebacker Andre Jacobs is a key player to the Chanticleer de- fense. The redshirt sophomore leads the Big South Conference in tackles - averaging 10 tackles a game. As a sophomore in high school he played 105 tackles and in his junior year he recorded 160.5 tackles.

"In my senior year of high school, we had a senior led team," said Jacobs. "After losing our ju- nior year, he wanted to go out with a bang and play good foot- ball. We weren't sure how many of us were going to play football in college and we wanted to fun our senior year. I wasn't sure if I was going to play college football when I got out of high school." And according to Jacobs, he did end his high school football career with bang. In his senior year, he led the team with 170 tackles and recorded five forced fumbles.

"Our defense was designed for me to make the tackles," said Ja- cobs. "We played teams that ran the ball a lot and they would al- ways come to me and try to avoid the other defenders and I would make the tackle." He also led his team to the North Carolina Class II-A State Championship game for the first time in the school's history.

Though Jacobs' football season ended well his senior year, he was unsure about his future in the sport. His high school football coach is an alumna of Coastal Carolina University.

"My football coach told me where I was going before I even made my decision," said Jacobs. "He played baseball here and he wanted me to go to Coastal. He said I would be a great fit. After visiting the school and coaches, I agreed to play football for Coach Bennett." Jacobs "hanged" carried him all the way to CBU. The linebacker did not play his freshman year and redshirted. "The opportu- nity gave Jacobs the chance to play four years of football for the Chants. The next year, he got his chance to play in the first game of the season against Kent State.

"It was exciting," said Jacobs. "It felt like I was starting all over again and like I was back in the ninth grade again. The atmo- sphere of college football was just so much better. I was amazed standing there on the sidelines with the different atmosphere. When I got my number called to play it was just another moment of football for me. I just played like always play."

During the game Jacobs would record his first collegiate tackle against Kent State. He would have a total of two tackles on the day.

SEE CCU LINEBACKER, PAGE 10

SCOREBOARD

MEN'S SOCCER WOMEN'S SOCCER

Oct. 2 at Richmond Oct. 1 at Liberty

Oct. 16 vs. Presbyterian Oct. 3 vs. VMI

Oct. 23 vs. Stony Brook 7 p.m.

Soccer Homecoming Oct. 9 vs. Presbyterian 7 p.m.

Soccer Field

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Oct. 2 vs. High Point 6 p.m.

Soccer Field

Oct. 4 vs. Liberty 4 p.m.

Soccer Field

Oct. 8 at Virginia Military Institute 4 p.m.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Oct. 1 vs. Gardner-Webb 7 p.m.

Williams-Brice Gym

Oct. 2 vs. Presbyterian 7 p.m.

Williams-Brice Gym

MEN'S GOLF

Oct. 2 to Oct. 3

Daryl Keith Invitational

Tampa, Fla.

Oct. 15 to Oct. 17

Bank of Tennessee Ridges Invitational

Johnson City, Tenn.

MEN'S SOFTBALL

Oct. 8 to Oct. 10

Mercedes Benz Collegiate Championship

Knoxville, Tenn.

Oct. 20 to Oct. 26

Palmerton Intercollegiate

Kiaawah Island, S.C.

HOME FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Oct. 23 vs Stony Brook

(HOMECOMING) 7:30 P.M.

Oct. 13 vs Liberty Hall

(HALL OF FAME WEEKEND) 1 P.M.

Oct. 20 vs Charleston

(SENIOR DAY) 1 P.M.

FOOTBALL

Sept. 25

Delaware State 14, Coastal Carolina 34

STAFF WRITER

Julie Kelsei Mauck serves to UNC-Wilming- ton Seahawks at last Tuesday's matchup.

PHOTO BY DAVID RUCK
SPORTS

Coastal Chanticleers ready to 'hose' Presbyterian at Oct. 16 match-up in Brooks Stadium

NICK MAMARY
STAFF WRITER

With a losing season of 0-9 last year, the Presbyterian College Blue Hose nearly pulled off a last second win over Coastal Carolina University at Brooks Stadium last fall. However, CCU was able to prevent the upset with a defensive stop to come away with a 41-37 victory. PC will look for some payback when the teams meet on Saturday, Oct. 16 in Clinton.

This year, PC's record currently stands at 0-4. Numbers do not tell the entire story as their first two games were against the Clemson University Tigers and the University of Wake Forest Demon Deacons. Sophomore running back Lance Byrd stunned the nation last year with a fantastic first season, but through four games is only averaging 2.8 yards per carry, and has just one touchdown run. In the passing game, the largest threat is redshirt sophomore Brandon Miley. During 2009's game between the schools, he had a career day completing 20 of 32 passes for three touchdowns. When on offense, CCU needs to worry about Derek Brown, the current leading tackler on PC who shows the ability to make a difference, and highlights prove that he should be in the game plan. For PC, there is a trend that the home team will be trying to end. As of now, the Blue Hose have not won a game since 2008, which brings them to 18 consecutive defeats. This sense of urgency can make a team dangerous.

Kaon Cunningham a senior, rallies the crowd to cheer during last week's game against Delaware State in Brooks Stadium.

Student Chanticleer fans gather in the Chantourage section at last Saturday's game.

Photo by Brandon Corey

Take Back the Day
A day of empowerment against all acts of sexual violence

Tuesday, October 5
11 a.m. - 2 p.m.
Prince Lawn

Take Back the Night
CHANTS UNITE to Take Back the Night!

Tuesday, October 5
7 p.m. - 9 p.m.
The march against sexual assault will begin at Spadoni Park.

Sponsored by Counselling Services and the CARES Coalition.
Coastal Carolina linebacker averages 10 tackles per game
CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8
"It was a great feeling getting that first tackle," said Jacobs. "Kent State had a great running back and he was tough. I dipped under the guard and made the tackle on the sideline. My teammates were all cheering me on and I jumped up all excited and yelling. Getting that first tackle was a great experience for me."

Jacobs played in every game that season and recorded a tackle in every game except against Towson. In the final game of the year against Charleston Southern, Jacobs got his first college football start. "I was excited and yelling. Getting that first tackle was a great experience for me," said Jacobs. "We had injuries to the linebacker position and the Wednesday I started to take reps with the first team. I had to learn to play the weak side linebacker, which is the opposite side linebacker I have played all year long, and they come right to me and I make the tackle. We have a good defensive line and when they do their jobs right, the linebackers and defensive backs go to where they need to be."

"We need to finish strong," said Jacobs. "I want to help the seniors and get them a strong finish to their college football career. Even though we started off slow, we look at this as a test. It's a test of if we can hang in there. We need to keep on marching and play tough the rest of this year."

Jacobs has played the game all of his life and he does not plan to stop anytime soon. "With playing the college level, he looks to continue his dominance for the rest of the season."

Volleyball shuts out UNCW
CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8
The Seahawks came back with fire after the time out taking the lead and running with it 21-20. UNCW had a great running back and he ran tough. I need to finish strong," said Jacobs. "We are getting better every day and we are learning to play together as a team."

"When the fans roared with excitement as the Lady Chants walked back onto the court, Jacobs then got the ball and pushed it into an open spot taking the lead. 25-24 and Kimes got set again putting it down and winning Coastal the game.

OVER 1,000 QUALITY USED TIRES!

Why me?? I wish everything could slow down!
I'm not in control.
Why can't I just get away from here??
I'm SO tired of all this...
I can't take the pressure!!