KNOW THE NEW CODE

ZACH DERITIS

After recent consideration and discussion regarding students having to pay nominal fees for being in possession of alcohol paraphernalia, which in some cases have included shot glasses being used for decorative purposes which were purchased at the University bookstore, the Office of Student Conduct will be reviewing the current policies regarding the possession of alcohol paraphernalia.

Following the recent mandatory searches of on-campus housing conducted by Resident Assistants, many students have been charged for breaking Coastal's campus policies regarding alcohol paraphernalia and many feel that they were wrongfully charged.

The Code of Student Conduct states, "The University prohibits possession of any items that provide for the common distribution of alcoholic beverages and/or alcohol paraphernalia on property owned, occupied, leased by the University or in University facilities."

This has left many students scratching their heads because the code does not specifically clarify what counts as 'alcohol paraphernalia.'

"The Code of Student Conduct will be changing its response to decorative paraphernalia," said Travis Overton, Director of Student Conduct & Off-Campus Student Services. "We want to continue not promoting the misuse of alcohol on campus."

"None of the campus policies are technically changing or being rewritten, but specifications on what is to be noted as 'alcohol paraphernalia' will be added to the Code of Student Conduct to avoid further confusion in semester to come."

Overton notes that there will still be discrepancies but there are ramifications the Office of Student Conduct can take to clear any misunderstandings of alcohol or alcoholic products on or off campus.

The new revision will include the use of alcoholic containers or containers usually associated with alcohol.

The use of solo cups has also been labeled as, 'possession of alcohol paraphernalia,' but only to an extent. Students with stacks of unused solo cups in their dorms will not be subject to a write-up or having to pay a fine for an alcohol education class, but if there is clear and present evidence that a solo cup was recently used for consuming alcohol, then that student must comply to the school's administration penalties.

Other alcohol related policies regarding bring in the presence of alcohol or consuming alcohol are also not subsequent to change.

There are those who have posed the argument that by fining students they are not in fact drinking and or drink while in the presence of those using alcohol could drum students from responsible activity such as volunteering to be a designated driver.

"We want to address that this behavior is still in violation of the code," said Overton. "We want to educate students on the appropriate actions to take when they are near a violation."

The Office of Student Conduct believes that students should take responsibility for their actions and be responsible when in these situations. This includes either leaving the area where there are those in violation of the code or alerting the proper authorities when the code of conduct is being violated.

"If you’re in 23 in a student with a friend who starts staining and he’s caught by the police, you could be charged as an accessory if you don’t report it," said Overton.

Overton states that those who will require a sober driver to bring them home, they have already reached a level of "worse and worse," of alcohol and those volunteer sober drivers are still in violation of the Code of Student Conduct.

"I hear a student come into my office and say, ‘I can’t have fun unless I’m drinking.’ We want them to drink and create other experiences," said Overton. "If we were to lessen our policies and someone was sexually assaulted after getting drunk, how do we then go to their parents and explain what happened because we were not strict enough with our policies?"

CONVOCATION CENTER FINALLY OPENS

LEAH BARCELONA

After months of construction the new convocation center and gym are prepar ing to open their doors to the campus.

The gym will be filled with state of the art equipment, such as treadmill and elliptical’s which will be remembered the name and passcode. The machines will record how many miles you run through the semester, they will also ask you "how you are feeling" and questions about your health.

The machines are also made to replicate paths and marathons such as, The Boston Marathon and Central Park in New York City.

"The new gym is something that I couldn’t be more proud of," said Jody Davis, the director of Campus Recreation.

"We have watched the building transform into a Coastal landmark."

Davis hopes that the gym could also be used as a hang out for students, as well as a fitness center.

"We will have Wi-Fi throughout the whole building, with couches in the lobby so students can do their school work and enjoy a meal," Davis said.

The facility will have a flood stand equip with smoothies, wraps and protein.

The staff would like to have the stand only serve healthy options for student.

The facility will also be home to Coastal’s new bookstore, which will be two stories and have a view of the basket ball court. There will also be a two-story climbing wall and an indoor track.

"I’m so happy I go to see the new gym after working for Campus Rec for all of these years," said Becky Hughes, a senior Marine Science major. "It looks amazing and is going to offer so many options for students."

Instead of using your CINO card to swipe into the gym, there will be a palm reader so students don’t have to worry about remembering their cards. According to the company it should only take twenty minutes to register each student’s palm.

For students that enjoy fitness classes, there will be three fitness class rooms. One will be specially for spinning and will hold an estimate of 35 bikes. The other fitness class room will be used for classes, but PALS classes will still be held in the Williams Rec building.

"Students that the gym will stay open are still being worked out," Davis said. "I’m very excited for the students to see the building in the fall, I don’t believe they will be disappointed."

Caring for Mother Earth merits attention. The President of Coastal Carolina University, Dr. Thomas Leonardi, recently held a press conference to announce a new initiative to reduce the university’s carbon footprint. The initiative, called the “Chanticleer Green,” will focus on reducing energy consumption, promoting sustainability, and increasing awareness of environmental issues.

Coastal Carolina University's Move to Sustainability

New Chancellor Promises to Prioritize Sustainability

Coastal Carolina University’s new chancellor, Dr. Thomas Leonardi, has made sustainability a top priority for the institution. In his inaugural address, Dr. Leonardi emphasized the importance of environmental stewardship and pledged to lead Coastal in reducing its carbon footprint.

The “Chanticleer Green” Initiative

The “Chanticleer Green” initiative will focus on reducing energy consumption, promoting sustainability, and increasing awareness of environmental issues. It will include measures such as improving energy efficiency, increasing recycling and composting, and promoting sustainable practices across the campus.

“Sustainability is not just about reducing our environmental impact,” said Dr. Leonardi. “It is about creating a culture of stewardship and responsibility.”

Coastal Carolina University is committed to becoming a leader in sustainability and is dedicated to making a positive impact on the environment. The university will continue to work with students, faculty, and staff to achieve its sustainability goals.

Environmentally conscious individuals are encouraged to join Coastal Carolina University in its efforts to reduce its carbon footprint and promote sustainability. Together, we can make a difference and create a more sustainable future.

The Coastal Fit Challenge is a test of students, faculties and staff physical fitness and how far they are willing to push themselves to be considered the winners.

The challenge consists of a medicine ball toss, sand bag carry, rowing, tire flip and a mile run. Teams are made up of one male and one female.

"The row machine is the toughest to me because it feels like it takes forever," said Anthony Kapasakis, a senior Exercise and Sports Science major. "Camille [my partner] pretty much motivated me through the whole thing."

Although partners are not allowed to physically help one another complete an event, they are allowed to cheer on their teammate and show support.

"By Coastal Fit, the line up consists of March 20/21, April 11/12, and April 21."

Kapasakis, a senior Exercise and Sports Science major, feels very good about the course. "I can’t wait to compete, I’ve been doing the a couple of weeks now and I feel re -..." said Tim McDonald, a junior Exercise Science student.

"Camille and I are both very athletic," said McDonald. "I don’t think there will be any hard parts for us, we are going to do phenomenal."

The weight’s vary for women and male participants. The medicine ball toss will be 12 pounds for a 5 foot high bar 30 times for male participants. Female participants will toss a 6 pound ball over a 10 foot high bar 50 times. The sandbags will weigh 60 pounds for male and 30 pounds for females. For the tire flip, males will be required to flip 325 pounds while females will flip 135 pounds.

All participants will receive a t-shirt upon completion and the top finishers will be given awards. Waiver, ice and first aid supplies will be provided in case of emergency.

"My partners, Melissa DeVito and L are both very athletic," said McDonald. "I don’t think there will be any hard parts for us, we are going to do phenomenal."

CINO CARD WELCOME HERE
KRISTA GIERLACH

Several restaurants and fast-food locations; in addition, many locations take CINO cash for students who prefer to eat off-campus. In addition to dining halls, students also have the option to eat at a variety of locations on and off campus. The menu provides a wide variety of Italian options, including options for those who prefer vegetarian or vegan options. In addition, some of the restaurants also offer options for students who prefer gluten-free or dairy-free options.

MAINTAINING A HEALTHY LIFESTYLE
LEAH BARCELONA

Adjusting to college life is hard for all kinds of reasons, for most students who travel far from home and are not used to doing things for themselves, maintaining a healthy lifestyle on a college budget is one major problem college students face.

The term “freshman fifteen” is used to describe weight gain that can occur during the first semester of a student’s first year. If students were involved in a sports team in high school, they may have been more active during the week and may have maintained a healthy lifestyle. For students who were involved in a sports team in high school, the chances of them continuing through college are slim. That is why it is important to stay active in college.

“I used to dance in high school and when I got to Coastal I was dying without it, so after my first semester I got certified in Zumba to fulfill my major.”

To maximize the gym and the fitness classes they provide can add variety to a schedule. Asking yourself “What do you need to work on?”, students can use punch cards, which are available for many different types of classes. Students can also use punch cards at Coastal’s campus that take CINO cash for students who prefer to eat off-campus. In addition, some of the restaurants also offer options for students who prefer gluten-free or dairy-free options.

“Cooking for yourself definitely helps to eat on a budget,” Dubinsky said. “Eating out can get to be expensive and most of the time the food is made quickly and isn’t exactly healthy even if you are choosing what restaurants consider as the healthiest choices.”

There are many places to eat surrounding Coastal’s campus that take CINO cash such as Tropical Smoothie, Groucho’s, Sweet Frog and Eggs Up.

“Tropical Smoothie is my favorite place to go for lunch or dinner,” said Melissa Devito, a junior Health Promotion major. “They offer a lot of healthy options and use a punch card, so after you buy no more than ten smoothies or sandwiches you get a free smoothie.”

To incorporate healthy eating and fitness in a daily schedule can prevent the “freshman fifteen” and keep you healthy during the semester. Utilizing the gym and the fitness classes they provide can add variety to a schedule. This food central provides several different options all within walking distance of one another. First, is Mo’s, a Mexican restaurant that menu includes a wide variety of burritos, tacos, quesadillas, and much more. Freshman Ben's Technical Design/Grounding major Rachael White states, “Mo’s is fantastic! I love their burritos.” For an Italian cuisine, Rotelli's is famous for their pizzas, pastas, seafood, steaks, and desserts. The menu provides a wide variety of Italian options that are affordable and immensely enjoyed by college students. “Rotelli's is by far my favorite,” said Dramatic Arts major Hannah Johnson. “It's a nice place to have lunch, and the Tuesday pizza special is perfect for a broke college student.” University Commons is also home to Jade Hibachi, which offers oriental options including hand rolled sushi, hibachi chicken, steak, shrimp and vegetables. Also, Jade Hibachi is famous for their fried and white rice.

Tropical Smoothie Cafe is a student favorite. Students go there to sip on refreshing smoothies and one of their healthy, but tasty sandwiches. Tropical Smoothie is home to over 20 smoothie options including “Low Fat,” which customers can get multiple flavored smoothies made with non-fat yogurt, “Supercharged” which are made with antioxidant rich fruits such as pomegranates and acai berries, and “Indulgent” smoothies which include chocolate, peanut butter and coffee smoothies.

In addition, Tropical Smoothie Cafe offers smoothie “favors” which are made with an assortment of fruits and vegetables. By continuously going to a fitness class and eating healthy, students can use punch cards, which are available for many different types of classes. Calling all writers, photographers and design- ers! The Chanticleer is always looking for new staff members who have a passion for Journalism. Although our meeting days and times are still up in the air for the Fall 2012 semester we will be posting flyers around campus by the time school starts in August. If you are a Communication major and think that you could be interested in writing for a newspaper you should definitely come to one of our meetings. It’s a great way to see how everything works and it makes you decide whether you can see yourself doing it for a full time job in the future.

As a writer and photographer for the paper, you would get your assignment on Monday night and then it is due back to us by Wednesday night. It’s a great way to feel the pressure of a quick deadline and seeing how it is done in the real world. SERING all the work we put in for a weekly newspaper makes me appreciate that we don’t put out one out daily. It’s amazing how companies can put out a newspaper everyday on time so there is no reason why we can’t put out weekly.

Working on a school newspaper is a great thing to put on a resume. It shows that you work consistently on an assignment and that you are dedicated to a deadline. Starting off as a writer you can also give yourself a chance to be a Section Editor or Editor in the future, which are paid positions. Even as a freshman you have to keep internships in mind because they stack up on you, and the last thing you want is a weak resume to hand to future employers.

Feel free to contact Josh or myself for more information on the newspaper. Also like us on “Facebook” and follow us on “Twitter”. Social media is the way of the future and is the best way to find out what we are talking about in our issues.

BEHIND THE SCENES

LEAH BARCELONA

After a long year of school work and writing I couldn’t be happier that summer is around the corner. I’m also proud to announce that I will be the Assistant Editor for next year’s Chanticleer. Shane and Chad have set the bar extremely high this year, and I’m looking forward to the challenge of filling their shoes.

Considering this issue of the newspaper will run through the summer, I would love to direct my last editorial of the Spring semester toward the incoming Freshman. First off: Welcome to Coastal Carolina! Coming to college has been the best experience of my life, I’ve made the best friends, built an amazing relationship and finally figured out what I want to do for the rest of my life.

Next year will be my last year at Coastal and looking back I have noticed one thing that I wish I would have known sooner; and that is to get involved. As a Freshman I lived in University Place, which was great because I had my own bedroom and bathroom but it didn’t give me a chance to meet a lot of people. I feel as though I didn’t start building my relationships until my sophomore year.

During the summer after my freshman year I realized that everything I was involved in during high school had gone to waste because I wasn’t involved in anything on campus. Growing up I danced for 15 years and quitting after high school really affected me. So during that summer I became a Zumba Fitness Instructor and began teaching that fall.

Coastal didn’t offer Zumba classes until that year, and it just so happens that the two other girls that were teaching with me became my best friends at college. That is where my college experience began, because I took my talent and turned it into an on-campus job and met the greatest people because of it. You have to think outside the box because in a school with 9,000 students it’s hard to have things handed to you.

Going to club recruitment day in the fall is a great way to get involved and meet new people, but make sure you follow through with the clubs. Go to the meetings and try to do as much as you can with the groups. My biggest regret is not doing it at college in great experience.

I changed my major about three times before I worked on Communication and Journalism. The biggest advice I can give you on that is to follow your heart. My whole freshman year I let my family and “the easy way out” influence my decision on a major, it wasn’t till the end of my sophomore year that I realized my heart wasn’t in it, and that is completely normal. The average college student changes their major about five to seven times in their academic career. So follow your heart and do your research because that is the only way you can be sure that you’re on the right path.

In my opinion the most important part of freshman year is to have fun! For most students it’s their first time away from home and although it can be lonely, it also can be the best year of your life. As the years go on the school week gets harder and your work load becomes heavier so enjoy the time you have as freshman, it goes by quick!

SPRING FORWARD TO FOOTBALL SEASON

When students return to campus in the Fall much focus will be placed on Coastal football, the 2012 football season will mark Joe Moglia's first year as Head Coach and serves as a fresh start for the Chanticleer football program.

"I don't imagine anything more rewarding than helping 18-22-year-olds become men through football," said Moglia after being hired in January.

Current and incoming students will see new schemes on both sides of the ball. The newly implemented defense is described as an up-tempo, high-speed offense, while the new defense is referred to as the "Coastal wave" and will feature a multiple attack, camouflage defense.

From day one, Moglia's expectation "is to always be competitive in the conference and to become competitive nationally."

For the 2012 season, Coastal will return five of their All-Big South performers including LB Andre Jacobs, WR Matt Hazel, OT Jimmy Chestwood, DE Chris Thomas and PK Nicole Mastrostato.

Coastal's non-conference sched­ule will begin Sept. 1 versus North Carolina A&T, CCU will play five other non-conference games before their first conference game on Oct. 13 against Stony Brook.

The Chant's Family Weekend game will be held Sept. 15 against Eastern Kentucky. The homecom­ing game will be played on Oct. 27 versus Liberty.

Coastal's opponents include four teams who played in the 2011 post season and five teams ranked in the final top 30 poll.

Students around campus anxious­ly wait to see how the football teams' five games under Moglia will play out. One thing is sure for sure, Moglia couldn't be happier to lead the Chanticleer football team this season.

"It is an honor and privilege to represent this university," said Moglia in January. "My job is to put a team on the field that students and faculty are proud of."

WE HAVE A LONG WAY TO GO

TJ SUNDBERG

Major League Baseball just started and teams played 20 games at most. So why are fans going crazy? Being a fan of social media, and being from the northeast, I see a lot of Red Sox and Mets fans salivating at their respective teams record like of the moment who don't take a step back and look at the big picture. They're 100% right, too. Fans are looking way too far into their seasons, and the Red Sox are in first place at the All-Star Break, only to fall to the bottom of the barrel by the time the league leaders started changing colors and NFL teams were bunging pads on Sun­days. The Red Sox started 0-9 last season and their fans were booing them there were still 133 games left in the season. This season they sweep the Rays and their fans are giving them the trophy already. All I'm saying is it's a long long long season baseball fans, so stop being prisoners of the moment. Don't be the person who let's the Rays win the World Series. We're an eight of the way there and we have a long way to go. So sit back, relax, and enjoy your teams success because it might not last too much longer.

TAKE A STEP BACK, AND TAKE THE SEASON month by month before you start judging out rings and planning ticket parades down your team's city streets. We're an eight of the way there and we have a long way to go. So sit back, relax, and enjoy your teams success because it might not last too much longer.
