Never leave home without your gun

Last week a man in Maine went outside without a shirt to yell at a tree removal company that had woken him up from sleeping. He then went back inside and back to sleep, but the workers, who thought they saw a gun in his waistband called the police.

About 10 minutes later the man, Michael Smith woke up to a surprise when he opened his door to find a state trooper backed up by a SWAT team with assault rifles staring him in the face.

It turned out Smith did have a gun. It was a tattoo of a pistol on his stomach, which he designed to look like he was carrying a weapon.

Too hot for the Judgement Free Zone

A Planet Fitness gym in Northern California decided to stand behind its dress code policy last week after a woman was told she needed to change her shirt or leave because her toned body was too intimidating to other members.

The woman, Tiffany Austin, was recovering from a car accident when she made her first trip to the new Planet Fitness. About halfway through her workout she was approached by a manager and told there were complaints about her attire.

She agreed to wear one of the t-shirts provided by the gym, but while she was waiting for the shirt another manager spotted her and objected to her clothes. Austin said she felt harassed and cancelled her membership in favor of a different gym.

The mysterious case of the missing jet

The search for missing Malaysia Airlines flight MH370 is heading into its third week after crews fail to turn up any positive evidence on the location of the lost airplane. An international team of search crews are searching for the 239 people who vanished along with the plane, which was flying from Kuala Lampur, Malaysia to Beijing, China.

Coastal Humanists brings together alliance of non-religious students

What do Bruce Willis, Kiera Knightly, Lewis Black, Ricky Gervais, and Neil deGrasse Tyson have in common? They are skeptics. They are agnostics, atheists, naturalists, freethinkers, and humanists. They dare to ask questions about reality and are not afraid of uncomfortable answers.

In fact, these kinds of people are fascinated with what they find out about the universe. Wouldn’t you feel important if someone were to tell you that what you are made out of is what makes up those timeless night stars?

One of Coastal Carolina’s newest organizations wants to remind you of your significance as part of the natural world. Coastal Humanists promotes secularism, skepticism, and humanism: three important ideologies that positively influenced the founding of the United States of America, itself.

Like ancient philosophers, our founding fathers, and activists of the 21st century, Coastal Humanists promotes the bettering of life through secular means. This means that we as humanists strive to achieve peace, progress, and excellence by believing in human beings and not the supernatural.

Secular organizations like this one are popping up fast all over the Southeast. The closest of these organizations stand strong at the University of South Carolina and the College of Charleston. This new uprising in irreligious thought in recent years is only getting stronger as larger organizations like the Secular Student Alliance and the American Humanist Association supply hopefuuls with a different kind of faith.

Coastal Humanists was founded in the fall of 2013 and has attracted a multitude of students and faculty members. It has already created positive relationships with numerous organizations and will be co-hosting an event on Tuesday, March 25th entitled “Of Saints and/Sex: gender, religion, and sexuality” with the campus’ Women’s and Gender Studies Program.

This upcoming event in the Johnson Auditorium in the Wall Building will be a friendly discussion on how religion – or lack thereof – affects expression of gender and sexuality.

Humanists are willing to go the extra mile for other people. Humanists promote the use of rational thinking and reason to answer life’s greatest questions. Humanists have faith in humanity and as Kurt Vonnegut once said, “Being a Humanist means trying to behave decently without expectation of rewards or punishments after you are dead.”

You are not insignificant in the universe. You are the universe. Celebrate the natural world for what it is. If you’d like to know more about this organization, look us up on Coastal Connections or visit our website at: CoastalHumanists.weebly.com.

New art exhibit opens on campus

By: Samantha Riley
Features Editor

Maura Kenny's “Out of the Hobcaw” is an exhibition of watercolor and mixed media paintings that are on display in the Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery now through April 4th 2014 in the Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts building. The opening reception was held this past Thursday March 20th 2014.

Kenny, a professor of visual arts at CCU has been teaching drawing and painting courses for almost 25 years.

After graduating from Southern Connecticut University with her degree in art education, Kenny found herself at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro pursuing her MFA in painting and drawing.

Much of Kenny’s artwork has been put on display in regional, national and international shows. All of Kenny’s inspiration from “Out of the Hobcaw,” came from a place called “Hobcaw Barony” located just north of Georgetown on the South Carolina Coast.

Hobcaw Barony is a 17,500-acre wildlife refuge and former rice plantation. It is home to beautiful coastal landscape, wildlife such as bucks and alligators, and different groups of people, all of which were a big influence on Kenny’s artwork and can be seen in the exhibit.

The patch of land that Hobcaw is situated on is bordered by Winyah Bay, the marshes of North Inlet and the Atlantic Ocean. The name “Hobcaw” derived from Native Americans means, “land between the waters.”

In 1718 the land was divided into 14 different plantations, one of which was purchased by the Wall Street millionaire Bernard Baruch. Eventually Baruch’s daughter, Belle, came to own the land and after her death a foundation was created in her name for the “purposes of teaching and/or research in forestry, marine biology, and the care and propagation of wildlife, flora and fauna in connection with colleges and/or universities in the state of South Carolina.”

With over 70 cultural sites on the plantation that includes slave cabins, homes, and cemeteries, Hobcaw is a unique experience. Kenny describes Hobcaw Barony as “a southern version of ‘Narnia.’”

Kenny’s artwork focuses on the beauty of the landscape, as well as conserving and preserving its natural beauty. Stop by the gallery to experience her paintings including alligators and indigenous birds and more in beautiful watercolor and mixed media paintings.

The beautiful artwork and local setting leaves everyone enjoying the new light Kenny is able to shine upon the hidden gem known as Hobcaw.

The Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery is located in room 129 on the first floor of the Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts building. The operating hours are 9:00am to 5:00pm on Monday through Friday.

This exhibit is open to the public and free of charge.

The voice of CCU athletics becomes the face

By: Samantha Bergold
Staff Writer

After the retirement of Yurachek, it was a tough spot to find out who could follow in his footsteps and keep up the progress in CCU athletics, but Matt Hogue is stepping up to the plate.

He went to Clover High School, where he played basketball and golf. In his senior year, he was awarded as top defensive player for his basketball team. He graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1993.

In his first four years in the industry, he worked for the WVOC and WLXC radio stations in Columbia. He also hosted the USC Tailgate Show and did the play-by-play for the 1993 NCAA Soccer Championship. Before he ended up at Coastal Carolina, he wrote for High School Sports Report.

He was in the broadcast industry for twenty-three years. He has appeared on Fox Sports Net, SportSouth and ESPN. He's done play-by-plays for USC's Gamecock Radio Network and Minor League Baseball.

He isn't just the "Voice of the Chanticleers" but the voice of Big South Conference's basketball.

He started at Coastal in 1997 as the Assistant Sports Information Director. Two years later he was promoted as the University's Associate Vice President of Marketing. In 2004, he was moved up to Associate Athletic Director. He currently lives in Conway. He and his wife Laura have two daughters, Rachel and Carolina.

That's not all he does. For years, he has been the "Voice of the Chanticleers" from his play-by-plays in baseball, basketball and football. The Chanticleer Sports News is produced, managed and coordinated by him.

On March 12, President DeCenzo stated that "The 'Voice of the Chanticleers' will now become the 'face of CCU athletics'.” Hogue will be the new Interim Director of Athletics.

"I am honored and excited to accept this appointment, Coastal Carolina University has been the heart and soul of my career for many years,” said Hogue. "I look forward to this new opportunity to guide one of the nation's premier athletic departments.”

DeCenzo explained how Hogue was the right choice when he stated that, "Matt’s years of service and distinctive accomplishments at our University make him the logical choice. He has distinguished himself as the consummate athletics professional and is highly regarded in the field. He has worked to secure sponsorships, supervised sports programs, taken the lead on NCAA championship hosting, and he began his tenure in media relations.”

Instead of DeCenzo focusing on finding a new Director of Athletics, he decided to put his efforts into uniting the University and the athletics department.

With Hogue's passion and experience, he will lead CCU Athletics to higher accomplishments.

For the first time since 1993, the Coastal Carolina Chanticleers won the Big South Tournament and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

On Friday night at PNC Arena in Raleigh, N.C., the 16th seeded Chanticleers took on the top seeded Virginia Cavaliers. In the days leading up to the match up, Pablo S. Torre, a nationally renowned sports columnist and common participant on ESPN’s “Around the Horn”, predicted that the Chanticleers would beat Virginia. Torre was the first sportswriter with air time to predict this.

In the first half, it looked like Torre was going to be right and that the Chants were going to make history as the first 16 seed to ever knock off a number one seed. The Chanticleers came out in the first half focused and firing on all cylinders, as they poured 35 points on the nation’s top defense to take a 35-30 lead over Virginia at half time.

In the second half, Virginia opened up with a 9-3 run and grabbed the lead thanks to their quick three-point shooting and their ability to expose the weaknesses in the Chanticleers’ defense. Virginia came out on top with a final score of 70-59, but not without a scare from Coastal.

Badou Diagne led the Chanticleers with 14 points and Warren Gillis followed with 13. Josh Cameron finished with 5 assists and 11 Chanticleer’s saw playing time.

Both teams had completely different scoring strategies. The Chanticleers tended to eat up the shot clock, using every second possible to set up and complete plays while Virginia was able to knock off quick shots and fall back on defense. Unfortunately for Coastal, the Cavaliers offense was too fast paced for the Chanticleers to keep up with for the entire game.

At a post game press conference, senior El Hadji Ndigueuene stated, “These guys (Coastal) are going to surprise some people next year.” Ndigueuene left the conference with a smile on his face knowing his team had already made history with their efforts on defense as Coastal left the Cavaliers with a total of 0 offensive rebounds.

The Chanticleers did have one victory over Virginia on Friday night as Cavalier fans started pouring out of the building. Throughout the entirety of the game, the Coastal fan section had “Cliff Dwellers” standing and cheering even when it was clear that the game wouldn’t be theirs. The Chanticleers also did not have fans leaving the arena as the game was winding down, unlike their opponent’s fans. Coastal had a victory in integrity.

The future is looking very bright for the Chanticleers. Ndigueuene is the only player who started consistently this season that will be graduating this May. The team is very young and already strong. The Chants have plenty of time to practice and improve, and a lot to look forward to.
Coastal baseball falls to UNCW and Winthrop

By: Sierra Doherty
Staff Writer

The Chants suffered a pair of losses at home to UNCW and Winthrop last week. Coastal took on UNCW last Wednesday and hosted Winthrop on Friday.

UNCW started off Wednesday’s game with one run in the third inning. Coastal quickly responded and tied the game at the bottom of the third when John McNulty was batted home by Tyler Chadwick.

UNCW regained the lead in the top of the fourth after they piled up three more runs, but Coastal was able to catch up and get within one in the sixth inning with two runs of their own. Colin Hering accounted for the Chants’ second run of the day when he was batted in by Riley Norton. Michael Paez got run number three for Coastal when he scored on a wild pitch. UNCW increased their lead with three more runs in the ninth inning to make the final score 7-3.

Things got off to a slow start during Friday’s game when neither team scored in the first few innings. After six innings, the score was tied at 1-1. Coastal got on the board after Connor Owings was batted in by Zach Remillard’s double.

Winthrop came back in the ninth inning and scored one more run to ultimately put the Chants away 2-1.

The Chants return to their winning ways with victories over Gardner Webb

By: Kyle Jordan
Sports Editor

The Chanticleers rebounded from a three game skid on Saturday with a pair of shutout wins over their Big South Conference rivals, Gardner Webb.

The Chanticleers’ batters were on fire each game as Coastal racked up 15 total runs and recorded six homeruns. Morgan Noad and Kory Hayden both had a pair of homers, while Kiana Quolas and Jessie Winans accounted for the other two. Hayden currently has 12 total homeruns this season and 42 for her career. She is only three shy of breaking the school record.

The Chants made quick work of the Bulldogs in the first game as they exploded for nine runs in five innings.

Amanda Daneker crossed home plate on a Gardner Webb error for the Chanticleers’ second run and Winans drew a bases loaded walk to put the Chants up 5-0. Quolas’ solo homerun in the bottom of the second inning put the Chants up by six and Hayden’s three-run homerun in the bottom of the third inning gave the Chants a 9-0 victory. Quolas was the winning pitcher and finished the game with two strikeouts and two hits allowed.

Four of the Chants’ runs came in the bottom of the second inning with only one out to give.

Noad’s single put a man on base for the Chanticleers’ and Winans’ two-run homerun to left centerfield put Coastal on the board. Bri Chiusano’s two-run single capped the Chants’ second inning scoring spree and put Coastal up 4-0.

Hayden and Noad sealed the deal with back to back homeruns in the third inning. CCU pitcher Ashley Bagwell was credited with the win.

Coastal will hit the road on Tuesday and Wednesday for a three game series at Campbell University. Game one will be on Tuesday at 4pm and Game two will be at 6pm. Game three will be played on Wednesday at 4pm.
Coastal Women’s LAX falls to 2-7 overall after loss to Virginia Tech

By: Kyle Jordan
Sports Editor

The Women’s Lacrosse team traveled to Blacksburg, Va., this past Saturday for a non-conference showdown with Virginia Tech from the ACC.

The Hokies never allowed Coastal to get into the game and racked up 12 goals in the first half on their way to an 18-9 shellacking of the Chanticleers.

The loss to Virginia Tech puts the Chants’ losing streak at five in a row and marks the second consecutive year that Coastal has lost to the Hokies. Coastal hosted Virginia Tech in Conway during the 2013 season and suffered an 18-8 defeat.

The Chanticleers’ leading scorer, Sara Nolan, netted three of Coastal’s nine goals to put her season total at 21. Rachel Waldron, Keri White, and Alicia Geiter were each able to find the net twice for Coastal’s final six goals and Austin Brown finished with a team-high two forced turnovers.

It was only three minutes into the game when Virginia Tech recorded the first goal of the contest, but Nolan evened the score at 1-1 when she found the net unassisted on the Chants’ following possession.

After Nolan’s tying goal, it was all Virginia Tech for the remainder of the game.

The Hokies ate up 17 minutes of the first half and went on a 9-0 tear that lasted until there was 7:33 left to play in the half. Another goal by Nolan followed by two more goals by White and Geiter cut the Hokies’ lead to six. Virginia Tech would find the net two more times and Coastal added one more first half goal to make the score 12-5 at half time. The Hokies piled on six more goals in the second half and held the Chants to only four second half goals.

Coastal will return to action this Saturday March 29th for their first conference match up against Campbell University. The game will be played at Brooks Stadium at 1pm.

Women’s Tennis team increases their winning streak to five

By: Kyle Jordan
Sports Editor

The Women’s Tennis team improved to 13-2 overall last week and upped their winning streak to five matches in a row with a pair of home wins over Hofstra and East Carolina.

The Chanticleers hosted Hofstra on Wednesday and shut out the Pride 4-0.

Coastal went on to win all six of the singles matches and took an early 1-0 lead after sophomore Libby Scott, defeated Sarah Bowen of Hofstra 6-4 and 6-1. Senior, Amanda Malatek, kept the momentum going for the Chanticleers with back-to-back shutouts of Bianca Derrick.

The results of the doubles matches were not posted due to time constraints.

The Chanticleers got their fifth consecutive win on Friday in a 6-1 home victory over East Carolina University.

Malatek and Marie Babayan got the ball rolling for Coastal in the doubles matches and defeated the ECU duo of Melis Tanik and Betsy Zurawel 8-4. Scott and Dominique De Wit sealed the deal in doubles play for Coastal with their 8-6 win over Michelle Castro and Emily Gorenveeld. Coastal would go on to win five out of the six singles matches.

Coastal will be back in action Tuesday and Friday as they hit the road for a pair of conference matches at Campbell and Gardner-Webb. The Chants will take on Campbell Tuesday at 2pm and Gardner-Webb on Friday also at 2pm.

Dorm Room Mac 'n' Cheese in a mug

By: Josh Fatzick
Editor in Chief

What You’ll Need:
• 1/3 cup pasta
• 1/2 cup water
• 1/4 cup milk
• 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Let’s Get Started:
• Put the pasta and water in a large mug.
• Put it in the microwave on high for two minutes, then stir.
• Microwave on high again for two to four minutes.
• The water should absorb completely in the pasta. If it doesn’t, pour it out.
• Add in the milk and cheese, and put it back in the microwave for a minute.
• Take it out, stir it up, and enjoy!

Reasons You're Single

1. You want 'The One'
   - ‘The One’ does not exist. No one is perfect. Everyone had the moments when they got picked last for dodge ball or dropped a plate in Hicks. It happens. You need to get this idea of ‘The One’ out of your head. These high standards your creating are a disaster waiting to happen. There isn’t Justin Timberlake or Jessica Biel clones running around. Be more open to normal people, and they may surprise you and be just what your looking for. Or they could be a weirdo and you have to change your phone number. Don’t say I didn’t warn you.

2. Daniel Tosh
   - This is the simplest way to put it. Stop being Daniel Tosh, you’re not him. Thinking your better than everyone else, hiding behind your ‘jokes.’ They’re not funny, by the way. Don’t be rude and standoffish. Don’t be a jerk but also don’t be a twerp. Smile, hold open a door, give compliments, say please and thank you. A little kindness can go a long way.

3. Hard to Get
   - According to Dr. Berman, you shouldn’t play hard to get, you should be hard to get. If your pretending to be someone your not, you will appeal to the wrong person. Instead of pretending to be this happy, amazing, independent person, actually be it. Follow what you are passionate about. Go out there and be involved. Go to the gym. You will be a happier person.

4. Believing Gender Roles
   - We all hear it. Guys are pigs and girls are drama. Not true. Don’t generalize and believe that people will act a certain way based on gender. Not all girls spend there time watching The Bachelor over college football. Not all guys are players with huge comic book collections. This is college, still have your guard up for potential John Mayers or Kim Kardashians. If you are not sure what they want out of a relationship than make your intentions clear.

5. Young Love
   - Chill out. Your significant other may just not be born yet. Look at Mariah Carey and Nick Cannon. They have a huge age difference but it works. That person your looking for may not be alive.

THE TOP 5 MUSIC REVIEW

Pharrell Williams - G I R L

By: Hallie Bonds
Staff Writer

At 40 years old, Pharrell William’s talents in being a singer, producer, and a multi-instrumentalist definitely have not aged.

His second album G I R L was recently released on March 3rd, the album includes songs with soulful beats leaving you with a calm and happy feeling.

The first track on the album “Marilyn Monroe” automatically makes you want to dance with its upbeat tempo. As he describes a girl who is so amazing and indescribable not even the famous icon Marilyn Monroe can compare to her.

“Happy,” which is his most recognized hit from this album lands in the middle spot of the tracklist. There is no way that anyone who is listening to this song doesn’t want to smile and clap along with it. Happiness definitely seeps in your soul when you hit the play button for this song.

Pharrell ends the album G I R L with a song entitled “It Girl,” he definitely hits the high notes when singing about this “It Girl.” Making all the ladies out there feel like they might be the one. G I R L is definitely a masterpiece of musical talent and soul.
HOROSCOPES

March 24 / March 30, 2014

You will experience many new things during the year ahead. You are the ideal spokesperson to initiate improvements and reforms. Be certain, however, that any organization you choose to deal with reflects your ideals, as you will be judged on the company you keep.

ARIES | March 21/April 19
There seems to be a lot of anxiety and frustration in the air around you. Don’t get caught up in everyone else’s business. Say what needs to be said and move on.

TAURUS | April 20/May 20
Don’t expect favors today. Propel yourself to the front of the crowd and let everyone know what you want. Waiting in the background will get you nowhere.

GEMINI | May 21/June 20
Don’t give in to other people’s demands. Try to please everyone will leave you frazzled and ready to blow. Love is in the stars. Make romantic plans.

CANCER | June 21/July 22
A great opportunity for a new position should be considered. Resolve any issues that could deter you from getting ahead. Avoid confusion by addressing issues head-on.

SCORPIO | Oct 24/Nov 22
You are likely to become involved in a heated discussion. Don’t get drawn into a shouting match. By keeping your temper in check, you will make it easier to get your point across.

CAPRICORN | Dec 22/Jan 19
Refuse to let anyone draw you into an unsettling situation. Remain true to your beliefs. Let your feelings be known, and offer alternative suggestions that will allow you to walk away from things.

LEO | July 23/Aug 22
Concentrate on improving your cash flow. Don’t risk being criticized by someone because you strayed from the truth or didn’t stick to the rules. Your reputation is at stake.

VIRGO | Aug 23/Sept. 22
Try not to be overwhelmed by professional developments can work in your favor if you remain cool and in control.

LIBRA | Sept 23/Oct. 23
Share your imaginative home-improvement strategies. Your creativity and originality will shine if you put your plans into action. Live up to a promise you made, or you will be faulted.

The school week brings its share of intensive assignments and Coastal students always anticipate fun weekend activities to end the inevitable stress of a grueling class schedule. This weekend offers a variety of events that can peak anyone’s interest.

Coastal Baseball will be taking on the Charleston Southern Buccaneers on Friday, March 28 beginning at 6pm at the Pelicans Stadium in Myrtle Beach.

The 6th Annual Myrtle Beach Beerfest will be held on Saturday, March 29 beginning at 2pm at the House of Blues. The event will include samples of over 100 beers from all over the country as well as live music and entertainment on The Deck and in the Courtyard. Tickets are $35 in advance and $45 at the door. For more information, contact the Myrtle Beach Speedway at 843-236-0500.

Atlantic Stage Company presents Broadway play The Nerd on Saturday; March 29 beginning at 7:30 pm at the Myrtle Beach Education Center 206 Theater. The play centers on the hilarious dilemma of a young architect who is visited by a man he’s never met but who saved his life in Vietnam. The visitor turns out to be an incredibly hopelessly “nerd” who outstays his welcome with a vengeance. For ticket information, contact Atlantic Stage at 877-287-8587.

The 8th Annual Miata Car Show will be held at the Myrtle Beach Speedway on Friday, March 28 and Saturday, March 29 beginning at 10 am. The gathering of Mazda Miata sports car clubs and enthusiasts from all over the country will feature 80 to 100 vintage Miatas. Drivers will compete in timed runs through a twisty route marked by cones. Spectators are welcome with a small admission charge. For more information, contact the Myrtle Beach Speedway at 843-236-0500.
