US Airways issued an apology to the public last Monday afternoon after they tweeted what is being called an “NSFW” photo of a naked woman pleasuring herself with a toy plane in their response to a tweet posted by a dissatisfied customer.

The photo was tweeted by the airline to a customer who was complaining about the service that they received on their flight. In the same tweet that contained the photo of the naked woman, the airline wrote “We welcome feedback Elle. Even if your travel is complete, you can detail here for review and follow up.”

The airline did remove the photo of the woman, but not until an hour later after the photo had already gone viral and drew in over 500 retweets. US Airways issued their apology to the public via Twitter shortly after they removed the photo.

Looking For Love In All The Wrong Places

A New Jersey woman will probably never look for love online again after she had her car, dog, and flat-screen TV stolen by a man she had gone on a date with earlier that night. The woman said she had met her date on an online dating site. The dog was returned safely, but police are still searching for the man, the car, and the TV.

Ella Baker Day

If you asked me a year ago who Ella Baker was, I would have said she was the Civil Rights activist I pretended to know, but did not. When my friends preached about her wisdom over community marches and coffee, I’d nod in agreement, but truthfully, I never read past her Wikipedia page.

Dr. Strmic-Pawl came to Coastal this year and brought a few things with her; some wisdom, truth-bombs, passion, intelligence, about eight different eyeglasses (why so many?) and, most recently, Ella Baker Day (EBD). Dr. SP founded EBD and the campaign to make it a nationally recognized holiday. In doing so, she posed a few questions: Why is there such little recognition of women, especially women of color? Why do we glorify the contributions of a single leader, neglecting the contributions of millions?

Ella Baker not only contributed enormously as an individual to organizations such as NAACP, SCLC, and SNCC, but she mentored many of these organizations so they could be sustainable and self-perpetuating. She was a believer in participatory democracy, the idea a movement belongs to the people rather than a person, and challenged the concept of “leaders and followers” by mobilizing people to create change collectively. She was enormously influential and could have easily built a public platform on her successes, but believed too much focus on an individual belittled the struggles, victories and autonomy of the whole.

EBD 2014 included a panel discussion where panelists discussed their struggles and successes in their activist work, particularly as women of color. Charley Bovill, Vice President of PEACE, who sat on the panel said, “Hearing the wisdom and stories of the older women sitting on the panel [Bertha Fladger- Multicultural Services, Barbara Blain-Olds- City Council, and Zenobia K. Grant- Founder and Director of Frameworks: A New Generation of Storytellers] was truly inspiring. Listening to them talk about what they went through, how they pushed, and are successful African-American women is inspiring.”

Like all good things, the panel discussion had to eventually end. Some students, however, continued the conversation. Wesley Boyd and Briana Dinkins of Real Tea Radio followed up with an hour-long segment about race. Briana said, “Just hearing about Ella Baker and everything she did woke me up and made me think ‘I want to do something big. I want to make a difference.’ We decided to do the segment on race because we wanted to do something different, something real. I feel like people really need to be educated.”

Dinkins and Boyd invited their own panel, exploring topics like modern racism, skin tone stratification, white privilege, and the concept of “colorblindness.”

Following the segment, a conversation started about how to strengthen the efforts of those already “movement making” on campus. Student organizations decided to schedule a roundtable to discuss forming a network, their goals for the upcoming 2014-2015 school year, and working together to further the interest of the whole. To me, it’s obvious the movement has spread far beyond Ella Baker’s activism and I think that’s exactly what she hoped for.
Coastal’s graduating artists show off their talent

By: Samantha Riley

From April 10th to May 10th the Rebecca Randall Bryan Art Gallery will be showcasing pieces created by graduating seniors from Coastal Carolina University.

The “Art Studio Portfolios 2014” serves as the senior’s thesis exhibit in the Department of Visual Arts Studio Art and Graphic design. The exhibit includes anything from paintings and photographs to three dimensional art and life-size statues.

These exhibits are a way for the seniors to show off what is important to them as well as tackle an issue that is relevant to their life. From gender roles, nature, identity and fashion all the way down to societal restraints, the graduating seniors use their creativity and passion for what is hopefully not their last contribution to the Coastal community.

Because there are so many talented graduating seniors, the art exhibit is broken down into two separate portfolios that are displayed on two different dates.

Portfolio I will be on display from April 10th to April 21st. It will feature works by senior Studio Art students Cecile Caulk, Slade Fowler, Alecia Franca, Margaret Hancock, Elizabeth Holt, Abigail Merrell, Vanessa Remillard, Caitlin Schlueter, Brianna Stith, Pierre-Alex Tavernier, Cody Unkart, Kristen Unrue, Mary Beth Van Der Horst, Kayleigh Vanlandingham, Bianca Watson, Rose Williams, and Brandon Scott.

Portfolio II will be on display from April 28th to May 10th. It will feature works by senior Graphic Design students Justice Aaron, Jordan Baquilar, Olivia Bennett, Anthony Bryant, Erica Burkett, Tyler Buse, Christina Cruz, Corina Cudebec, Scott Cullum, Gary Harrington, Tori Jordan, Nora Kyles, Brandi Lovette, Landen Martin, Brittany Mauro, Charles Merchant, Brandon Sabb, Demonshay Scipio, and Dequan Williams.

Through these two exhibits, Coastal Carolina University seniors are able to express themselves as well as show off their hard work to the community.

The Gallery is open from 9:00am to 5:00pm Monday through Friday. The event is open to the public and free of charge.

Dining services has a lot on their plate this summer

Food-Man and company are cooking up changes for the 2014-2015 academic year

By: Kyle Jordan
Editor in Chief

In just a couple of weeks, students will be finishing up their final exams and heading home to enjoy a relaxing summer vacation.

But for Coastal Carolina's Director of Dining Services, Jeffrey Stone (aka the Food Man), and his colleagues, summer-time is the time to make preparations for the upcoming school year.

When the Fall 2014 Semester Kicks off in August, new students will arrive to Coastal Carolina with numerous dining options available to them to choose from and continuing students will return to campus and see that they have more options than they had one semester ago.

For starters, the University will be ditching that small Chick-Fil-A sandwich stand that is kept behind the cash register at CINO Grille, and they will be replacing it with the real deal.

“We are putting in a Chick-Fil-A Express,” Jeffrey Stone said. “It is going to have four registers and its own soda fountains there. So it is going to be like a full service restaurant.”

The new Chick-Fil-A restaurant will offer the top 15-20 items on Chick-Fil-A’s menu rather than all of the items. Students will be able to purchase the food from Chick-Fil-A by using their declining balance or CINO Cash.

Stone said that each of the items on the menu will be offered at their regular store prices.

“If you go to the Chick-Fil-A in Conway or the one across from Tanger, it is all the same price, and we will have that same price,” said Stone.

Stone went on to say that the Chick-Fil-A will be open either at the start of the 2014-2015 academic year, or shortly after the school year begins.

Another major change that is set to take place this fall will be the addition of more food-storage units in University Place Café.

Hicks Dining Hall has freezers and cabinets that house gluten-free pastas, plain-grilled chicken breasts, and other foods for students with allergies. University Place Café offers these dining options as well, but they are not currently in specific locations like they are in Hicks.

“We are putting in a Chick-Fil-A Express,” said Jeffrey Stone. “It will be a fully operating Starbucks with a full Starbucks menu,” said Stone. “It will look kind of similar to the food truck that we have now.”

Stone also said that Coastal Carolina University will be one out of three places in the world to have a mobile Starbucks. The mobile Starbucks’ hours of operation are currently to-be-announced, but Stone said that Dining Services is currently looking at morning and late night hours. The mobile Starbucks is currently scheduled to get rolling in the fall semester.

Stone also has some advice for new students as they prepare to make the transition to Coastal Carolina this summer.

“I think it is very important for new students to know how to use their meal plan and to know what their meal plan actually is,” said Stone. “It gets talked about a lot during orientation, but there is so much information during orientation and the first few days they are here, that I don’t think a lot of them get it.”

Stone also wants students to know that he and his staff are always available.

“Ask questions,” said Stone. “Our staff is friendly, and very helpful.”
Coastal’s fab four

By: Kyle Jordan
Editor in Chief

Here at Coastal Carolina University, the beach is your backyard, your school’s mascot is a teal rooster, and the government is your friend.

Well, maybe the government part still isn’t true.

However, the CCU Student Government always has student’s backs and they are always working hard to make sure that the voices of the CCU student body are heard by the University. And I am sure they would love to be your friend but that’s between you and them.

The four students who will make up the Student Government Association (SGA) Executive Board during the 2014-2015 academic year are Student Body President Eliana Padron, Vice President of Finance Jonathan Bruenn, Vice President of Public Relations Karly Southall, and Executive Vice President Cameron Driver.

Each of the Executive Board members were elected by the CCU student body earlier this semester and they will officially begin serving their terms in August when the new school year kicks off.

Southall, Bruenn, and Driver were elected to the SGA Executive Board after less than one full year of college. Each of them said that they consider it an honor to have received their opportunities after attending CCU for just a short time.

"Looking back, I never thought that I would have got so far so fast," said Southall, a freshman intelligence and national security major from Nitro, West Virginia. Southall also said that her involvement in student government has played a large part in her personal growth.

"When I first came here (to Coastal), I didn’t speak up very much and I would always do everything for everybody. Now I am starting to get to where I can stick up for myself and throw my views out there."

Executive Vice President Cameron Driver, said that SGA was something he planned on getting involved in sometime during his college career, but he too admitted that he never expected everything to happen as fast as it did.

"I had a plan to come into college, grab it by the neck, and take leadership," said Driver, a freshman marketing major from Augusta, South Carolina. "But I never thought I’d get so far so quick."

In his short time with SGA, Driver has played key roles in some of the recent changes that have occurred around Coastal’s campus. He proposed a piece of legislature in order to get the University to replace the benches at the shuttle stop by the Student Center, and he worked with the Swain Scholars to propose legislation that called for more pedestrian signs on campus to make walking at Coastal safer. Each of these pieces of legislation were approved and passed.

All of the Executive Board members said that one of the major reasons why they chose to run for Executive Board positions was that they wanted to serve as voices for the student body.

"I wanted to get involved in a leadership position on campus so I could take a role and help," said Vice President of Finance Jonathan Bruenn, a freshman finance major from Rye, New York.

"There were some things that I wanted to change and that I thought should be changed, so I decided to take a role in SGA. When I got involved with SGA, I learned it was a lot more than that though. It is a whole group of people who look out for the betterment of the college. Once I went to a meeting and saw that all these people were working hard to better the college and student’s lives at the college, I really wanted to be a part of that," said Bruenn.

Student Body President, Eliana Padron, said that she feels very confident about her fellow cabinet members.

"They are visionaries,” said Padron, a junior communication major with a concentration in public relations and Conway, South Carolina native.

One of the biggest items on SGA’s agenda for the upcoming academic year is the Legal Aid Initiative.

Padron said that SGA is currently discussing exactly what all this piece of legislation will involve, but she said that one of the primary purposes of the Legal Aid Initiative is to help students deal with legal issues that involve their rights.

"Students sometimes do not know what their rights are and they sometimes have problems with their landlords,” said Padron. “So this is a very important issue for SGA to take on, as well as improving the quality of student life.”

Some of the other things the Executive Board members said that they would like to see happen during their terms were the addition of more electrical outlets on campus, a bigger SGA presence on campus, and bigger budgets for student organizations.

All of the Executive Board members also encouraged new students to get involved with SGA once they arrive in August.

"SGA not only helps the entire student body, it helps yourself,” said Bruenn. “By getting involved as a senator or an executive member, you really get a respect for the campus as a whole. That will only help you during your Coastal career.”

CINO Day is coming your way Coastal Carolina! The student body choose the theme from a list of themes at club recruitment day in the beginning of the semester. The popular opinion from the students is ‘Mardi Gras’ and the event will be letting the good times role. The event will be held this Friday, April 25, from 12:00pm - 4:00pm on Prince Lawn.

“I am extremely excited about CINO Day this year. It is one of the biggest events on campus and it is a surreal experience to be apart of the planning process. Traditions Chair of CAB, Kelly Madera and the rest of the executive board have put a lot of time into coming up with new and fun activities/ideas for the Mardi Gras CINO day this year. Kelly really took the time to make sure every aspect of the event matched the theme, when it came to food, music and entertainment. I am excited to see how everything turns out and how the students like it,” said Mariah Howard, President of Coastal Activities Board.

There will be a ferris wheel, blow up slide and many more rides. Coastal Activities Board will be handing out tickets for students to access all the activities and foods. Students will need to sign a liability form and wristband to go on the rides. There will be giant stilt walkers, palm readers, and card readers to get you into the spirit of Mardi Gras. There will also be a DJ at the event.

“CINO Day is a lot of fun for Coastal student to have before we go into finals and our last weeks at Coastal. If freshman don’t come out to the event they will definitely be missing out on all the crazy fun that CINO day will bring this year,” said Kelly Madera, Events Coordinator for Coastal Activities Board.

They will be tons of food to bring you into the culture of New Orleans. They will have chicken jambalaya, chicken creole, and kings cake. They will have the regular classics of hot dogs, hamburgers, fried oreos, and funnel cake. The Rowdey Rooster will have Philly cheese steaks and frips with chili.

“CINO Day is one of the biggest traditions at Coastal and is like a stress reliever right before finals for students,” said Shane Cahill, freshman intelligence and national security studies major with pre-med emphasis.

As you entered Kimbel Library you may have found yourself feasting your eyes on delicious homemade treats. In recognition of National Library Week; Kimble library hosted their annual Edible Book Fair on April 16. Participants who entered were required to relate their baked goods to novels.

Students, faculty, staff and members from the community submitted their book themed desserts. Entries ranged from Cat in the Hat themed cupcakes, A Divergent themed cake, and a single silver Hershey’s kiss. All of these magnificent books were transformed into something delightfully edible.

The judges were our own members of Coastal Carolina University. Students, staff, and members of the community voted on these edible creations by category. Judges were handed three strips of paper as they walked in to represent the three categories. The judges voted for their favorites by writing the call number, title, and artist name(s) of the entries.

Competition was very strong especially with many of the entries in the Faculty/Staff category. The student winner of the Edible Book Fair received a Kindle Fire or a Visa gift card. For the Faculty/Staff and Community winner they received a gold trophy and a Kimbel Library gift pack.

Coastal News announced first place winners via Twitter. Ron Walker won in the faculty/staff category for his edible creation of the novel “Tom Sawyer.” Hallie Mikesell won in the student category for her edible creation of the novel “Fifty Shades of Grey.” Carol Graf won in the community category for her edible creation of “Aunt Flossie’s Hat.”

Great weekend for Coastal Baseball

By: Sierra Doherty
Staff Writer

Thursday’s game lasted 13 innings with a final score of 4-3. Presbyterian scored a single run in the third and two runs in the seventh. Coastal tied the game in the bottom of the seventh with runs scored by Kyle Jackson, batted in by Richard Carter, and Colin Hering and Connor Owings, batted in by Michael Paez. The final run came in the 13th inning when Owings singled to first base to bring home Reid Moman. Coastal’s first run of Friday’s game against Presbyterian was scored when Tyler Chadwick hit an RBI double to bring home Owings. Colin Hering and G.K. Young both hit home runs, Hering in the sixth and Young’s a two RBI in the eighth, batting in Chadwick. Austin Kerr threw his first career complete game shutout, ending in a 4-0 score. Chadwick got Saturday’s game started with an RBI double to bat in Owings in the first inning. Presbyterian took the lead in the second inning with three runs. Whitaker scored on a wild pitch and Chadwick batted in Owings in the fifth to tie the game. The Chants took the lead in the sixth when Carter scored off of Jackson’s double. Coastal extended their lead in the eighth with a home run hit by Riley Norton, a run scored by Hering on a passed ball, and a three-run home run hit by Owings to bat in Carter and Anthony Marks.

With the win on Thursday, Coach Gary Gilmore earned his 1000th career win, making him the 50th NCAA Division I coach to reach the milestone. After 13 innings, Gilmore described the game as “a lot of frustration for a few hours, but worth every bit of it.” Ironically, Gilmore’s first win in 1990 was also against Presbyterian while coaching at USC Aiken. His career record now stands at 1,002-489-2 in his 25th year as a head coach.

When asked about how the players respond to Gilmore, Owings replied, “We all love Coach Gilmore. He’s kind of one of the coaches that you know you can have a friendship with them, but you know he’s going to crack down on you when he needs to. It’s one of those relationships that as a player you love because you know you can go to him for anything you need, but he’s also going to come to you when you’re doing something wrong and you need to fix it.”

The Chants return to TicketReturn.com Field and Pelicans Ballpark to take on College of Charleston on April 22 and again May 15-17 for a series against Campbell and their last regular season home game.
Chanticleers sweep in Big South play

By: Laurel Nusbaumer
Staff Writer

The Coastal Carolina Softball team earned a 7-2 victory over Charleston Southern on Wednesday after they piled on five runs in the last two innings.

Coastal pulled ahead thanks to the efforts of four individual players in a 2-out situation. The win gives the Chants the regular season sweep over Charleston Southern and 30 wins for the third consecutive season.

The offense defined the game for the Chanticleers as both Kory Hayden and Morgan Noad each had two hits and two RBIs. Bri Chiusano added two hits and three runs scored for the Chanticleers. Coastal totaled nine hits against three different pitchers from Charleston Southern.

The Chants maintained a 2-0 lead in the first inning after consecutive two-out RBI-doubles by Amanda Daneker and Hayden. Chiusano drew a leadoff walk and was moved to second on a sacrifice play and advanced to third base on a groundout.

The Buccaneers used a pair of hits to cut the deficit in half, but the Chanticleers were able to hold Charleston Southern at 2-1 as Daneker took a relay throw from Jessie Winans to make a swipe-tag on a runner attempting to score from first.

The Buccaneers came back to tie the score at 2-2 in the third inning after Stephanie Bergman hit a leadoff homerun to right-center field. Coastal responded to Bergman's homerun by stepping up efforts on the offense and regained a solid lead with three runs on four hits in the fifth inning.

Chiusano stole second after beating a throw to first base off her hit. Kiana Quolas drew a walk and Noad hit a long single off the fence in right-center to send Chiusano home. After two more batters and a change of pitchers from Charleston Southern, Hayden drove her second double of the game down the right-field line to send in pinch-runner Katie Kalasunas. Brooke Donovan placed a two-out RBI single to center field to give the Chants a 5-2 lead.

Coastal Carolina pitcher Ashley Bagwell pitched six innings, and by the sixth inning retired nine straight batters. However, the Buccaneers were able to get off a pair of singles to land runners on first and second. Hayden put an end to the threat by picking up a grounder and turning it into a routine double play.

The Chanticleers were able to add two more runs in the bottom of the sixth inning. Maicie Hahn gave Coastal their fourth double of the game thanks to a CSU error on the right-field line. Hahn then stole third and eventually reached home on a wild pitch. Chiusano then knocked a triple out to right-center and scored on Noad's ground-rule double to left field.

Three Chanticleers extended their hitting streaks to eight, seven and six games – Daneker, Chiusano and Donovan correspondingly. Quolas came out to finish the game in the seventh inning and was able to strike out three batters to solidify the victory for the Chanticleers.

On Saturday, the Chants took on Longwood at home to wrap up regular season play.

Coastal closed out their regular season home-schedule with a bang as they totaled five homeruns in a single game. The Chants came out with an 8-2 victory over Longwood and power hitters Noad and Daneker smashed two homers each to give Coastal a three-game sweep of the series.

Noad and Daneker hit back-to-back homeruns in the game twice and Donovan crushed a homerun in a four-run third inning to fuel the Chants to victory. Since the Lancers joined the Big South Conference last season, the Chants have beaten them in six consecutive series. Noad led the Chanticleer offense by going 3 for 4 at the plate, with a double. Daneker followed with two hits and three RBIs, while Sara Rasley totaled two hits.

In both the first and second innings, Noad and Rasley got two-out doubles, but game remained still until the Chants’ barrage of homeruns occurred in the third.

The Chants smashed four consecutive homeruns against Longwood, three of them clearing the fence. Noad led off the derby by powering the ball out of the park after her first at bat was just short of doing so; this tied the game at 1-1. Power-hitter Daneker, kept the homeruns coming and sent a ball out to right-centerfield to put the Chants up by one. Hayden followed with a single that slipped past the Longwood shortstop and Donovan sent her in on a two-run shot over the right-field fence.

In the bottom of the fifth, Noad added her 12th homerun of the year by sending the ball over the right-field fence. For the second time, Daneker responded by smashing a homerun over the center-field fence. An RBI single was hit by Deseree Zaragoza sequentially followed by a pair of walks, putting the Chants ahead 7-1.

Longwood was able to threaten Coastal by loading the bases in the top of the sixth with no outs, but Quolas only allowed one run in the entire inning and limited the Lancers to only two runs on seven hits.

The Chanticleers ceased the scoring derby after Daneker’s sacrifice fly to right field.

Coastal finished the regular season at 28-7 at home, including a perfect 12-0 in the conference. The Chants will hit the road to Radford on Tuesday and Wednesday for a three game series.

What You’ll Need:
• 1 pack of chicken breasts
• 2 yellow peppers
• 2 red peppers
• 1 onion
• Marinade or seasoning of your choice
• Skewer sticks

Let’s Get Started:
Begin by cutting your vegetables into bite size pieces and placing them along with your chicken breasts into a marinade or container with seasoning. Let sit in refrigerator for a few hours.

After the food has marinaded, preheat your oven to 425 degrees. Next begin placing your meat and vegetables onto the sticks.

Once the oven is preheated, place the sticks on a baking pan. Cook for 20 minutes or until the chicken is no longer pink.

Serve with a bed of rice and a glass of lemonade. Try with shrimp or steak next time, along with different vegetables.

Enjoy!

Things to Order at CINO Grille

By: Hallie Bonds
Staff Writer

Whether you an incoming freshman or upperclassmen sometimes you will find yourself looking to get away from Hicks Dining Hall. CINO Grille is usually the best on campus alternative where meal swipes can sometimes get you a little more.

1. Beef, Chicken , Or Steak Nachos

If you are looking for a meal to fill you up this will definitely get the job done. With the tortilla’s made fresh in Chauncey’s Corner you can get your choice of meat. Then top them off with any of the toppings that you want. From toppings like delicious queso, sour cream, Pico de Gallo, lettuce and beans. This meal can be made to your liking.

2. Philly Cheesesteak Sandwich

You have a little CINO Cash to spend then use it on this; the Philly Cheesesteak Sandwich is a good pick. The steak is cooked right on the grill, with a choice of melted provolone cheese and grilled peppers. If steak isn’t your forte try a Chicken Cheesesteak instead. Side this off with a side of fries, chips, or fruit.

3. Angus Cheeseburger

You can never go wrong with a classic cheeseburger and fries. Get this burger with cheese or no cheese. All the toppings that you want, except they charge for bacon. With a side of fries, chips, fruit or if you feel like splurging try their curly and sweet potato fries.

4. Waffle Platter

Like they say breakfast is the most important meal of the day. With a waffle size of a whole plate they will fill you up and give you energy throughout the day. Served with 2 eggs made to your liking, a choice of meat. CINO breakfast is something you won’t want to miss out on.

5. The Sushi Bar & Subway

One thing that makes CINO Grille Unique is their Sushi Bar during certain hours and our very own subway. With the use of your CINO Cash you can get a great healthy alternative from these two places. The sushi is made fresh daily right in front of your eyes and Subway has all the options like a regular one outside of school. The definition of CINO Cash spent wisely.

The spring semester is winding down and many Coastal students will be sticking around the area during the busy summer tourist season. If you are planning to hang out along the Grand Strand this summer there are a variety of fun events happening in the area to prevent you and your friends from becoming bored.

The Myrtle Beach Boardwalk will be hosting Hot Summer Nights every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from June to August. There will be free concerts, fireworks and more entertainment. Food and beverages will also be available for sale by restaurants along the boardwalk. For a complete list of the Hot Summer Nights schedule visit www.myrtlebeachdowntown.com.

The Myrtle Hospitality Association presents Brews ‘N the Boulevard on Friday, June 6th from 4pm to 8pm in downtown Myrtle Beach. The craft beer event will feature over 50 of the top brewers in the country plus live music, food from local vendors and lots of fun. Presale tickets are $15 per person or two for $25. The full price on the day of the event is $25 per person.

Throttlefest 2014 returns to the House of Blues starting May 9th and running through May 17th. The cast of truTV’s hit television show Full Throttle Saloon will be taking over the venue as part of Bike Week. The event will include performances by Sunny Ledford, Jamey Johnson, Jackyl and many more artists. Ticket prices range between $17 - $68 depending on what day you attend. For more information, contact the House of Blues at 843-272-3000.

No one does 4th of July quite like Myrtle Beach. The Murrells Inlet July 4th Boat Parade will be held at the Murrells Inlet Marshwalk and Veterans Pier. The 30th annual parade will begin at 5 pm from Garden City Point.

WHAT’S THE WORD?

We asked students this week what are your plans for the summer?

Adam Cork

David Lewis
“I’m going home to Richmond, VA to work.”

Dom Saturday
“I’m going home to Ohio to umpire baseball games, and to take some online classes.”

Nicholas Murphy
“I’m working at the Cal Ripken Experience here at the beach.”
