Cordaro Faux News: Scariest place this season is Walmart

Halloween is just around the corner and University students are prepared for an innocent night out on the town trick-or-treating and spraying silly string at their grandmothers. Various haunted houses around the area have taken notice to rising interests for all things spooky and the Council for Scary Things created a list of the top haunted houses this season.

For the fall of 2014, several local haunted houses were nominated for the number one spot on the Council for Scary Thing’s “Top Spooky Venues” list. While the “Bill Cosby Night of Terror” and “Frights Under the Lights” have brought in almost two-thousand customers within the last week, your local Walmart has won first place for being the most frightening venue in the area.

In deciding the most fearful venue around, the Council judged the treatment of employees, the way the venue collapses local businesses, and how much the venue outsources. Walmart ranked first or last in all three categories, depending on how you look at it. “I was working at Walmart the day Sam Walton died and the entire store was cleaned out and filled with foreign products. I’d say that was pretty scary.” Says ex-worker Janet Wycliffe. Walmart’s outsourcing and cheaper goods has forced many local businesses with similar products to bow out of the capitalist competition.

“We are very proud to say that Walmart is one of the scariest places to shop and we want all out guests to feel as creeped out as possible,” says owner of a Walmart Jeff Fencer. Walmart Supercenters especially are frightening, because as Fencer says, they will tell you that certain products are organic, or healthy, or good for local business when in reality they may not be. Walmarts also like to put their customers and employees into false senses of security. Fencer proudly admits that “when one of Walmart’s employees is seriously injured, they will even pass the employee from doctor to doctor until one of the doctors says that nothing is wrong and the store is not liable.” Fencer will be receiving the Top Spooky Venue Award in early November on behalf of the entire corporation.

The other grassroots, well-intentioned, local, family-owned haunted houses should just try harder next time if they want to compete with Walmart. It’s only fair, right?

This is Dylan for Faux News, keep it classy, Coastal.
Homecoming Reflection

BY: JOSEPH FLEMMING
STAFF WRITER

OW last week was full of activities and the campus buzzed with excitement. I realized during the week that this would be my last homecoming. I began to think about being an alumnus and coming back to campus to enjoy my undergrad memories. However, two questions that I pondered on was how far has this campus developed since 1954? And, how will this campus progress in the future? One way the university gathers suggestions about how Coastal Carolina University can improve is by encouraging students to complete the Senior Exit Survey. Although I’m sure that I will have the opportunity to take this survey I would like to express my opinion via The Chanticleer. The motto on the university’s seal reads Ex Libertate Veritas, this means “From Liberty Truth”. I believe in this Latin phrase and that’s why I feel that I should tell the truth about how I feel about the 1954 Society. The 1954 Society is described as “a senior class giving initiative designed to build a tradition of philanthropy to Coastal Carolina University” (www.coastal.edu). To join this organization you must donate to Coastal Carolina University $19.54 for a period of three years, to be appreciative of the university due to the experiences gain. Though as a Senior and future alumnus I find a flaw in this idea. If I was inducted into this prestigious organization that is designed for me to reflect back on the university, its founding, and my experiences during my years I would be ignoring my conscience.

I’m not sure how many students, faculty, or staff are aware that upon opening the doors to Coastal Carolina Junior College (CCJC) that it was segregated in 1954. To some people the fact that in 1954, a university in the south being segregated isn’t controversial at all. I challenge this assumption because of the national events that took place in 1954 to shape our modern culture which we may sometimes take for granted. On page 28 of the 2014-2015 Teal Pages (the student agenda) the first Coastal Fun Facts says that CCJC opened September 20, 1954. Also, in 1954 the Supreme Court ruling of Brown v. Board of Education mandated that the doctrine of separate but equal was unconstitutional. The ruling was made on May 17, 1954 months before the newly opened CCJC. It’s important to understand the blatant disregard for federal law in founding a new segregated college after the ruling and the backwards thinking that fueled this decision. On page 40 in the book Coastal Carolina University The First 50 Years gave me a clear perspective of the deal that was accepted between The College of Charleston trustees and the members of the first board of CCJC. A passage read “The trustees, however, did have “certain reservations, and these were reported to the Board of Directors of the junior College on the evening of July 30 at a meeting at Conway High School. The first two reservations ensured that “the school would be segregated and explained that the College of Charleston would drop CCJC if segregation was threatened”. The reservations that the College of Charleston trustees made and the reservations that the Board of Directors of CCJC accepted are related to my reservations regarding the ethics of a 1954 society. I have reservations about the concept of me joining a nostalgia donor organization which is the namesake of the 1954 founding year that I or and a sizeable percentage of current students could not attend. The sizeable percentage of students that I’m referring to would be African Americans, interracial students, international students, and taking consideration of the traditional gender roles, women.

In conclusion, reflecting back on the university, its founding, and my personal experiences. The university can mature by reevaluating the name of the 1954 Society, and other initiatives. For example the First 54 is meant to target freshmen students to become involved in the university to increase retention rates but is it ironic that in 54’ some of our students would not have the opportunity to be involved. Or for another example traveling to Turbeville, SC to visit the restaurant Chat-n-Chew to see “where the historic discussion was made between Horry County Higher Education Commission and the University of South Carolina (USC) to secure a deal to make CCJC a branch of USC”(coastal.edu). I would have liked a further exploration of what was the culture like in Turbeville, SC during 1959 the year in which the meeting took place. I would have liked someone to ask whether anyone at that meeting promoted integration for CCJC as a branch of USC. In 2014, and the years that I’ve been student at Coastal Carolina University these are the things that I question, the names, the history, the songs, and the founders. I realize that no one can change history however, I also understand and remain excited by the things that we can change. Especially things that doesn’t represent the entire student body presently to progressively move into the future.
Words to say it: James David Poissant

The Coastal Carolina University “Words to Say It,” visiting writers series has been able to bring Coastal several exciting and talented writers to the community each year. Some of these authors include Natasha Trethewey, John Jeremiah Sullivan, Kyle Minor, Aisha Sabatini Sloan, and Juliana Gray. The series was started several years ago and has been a unique opportunity to introduce critically acclaimed authors to Coastal Carolina University.

On Thursday, October 23rd, “Words to Say It” hosted a fiction reading by David James Poissant. The reading took place between 7:00pm and 8:00pm in the Johnson Auditorium in the Wall Building.

David James Poissant, who goes by his nickname “Jamie,” divided the reading up between a newer story that will be published later on next month, and an older story that had been published in his debut story collection entitled “The Heaven of Animals.”

Poissant’s short stories have appeared in The Southern Review, Glimmer Train, The Atlantic, One Story, Playboy, as well as in the New Stories from the South and Best New American Voices anthologies. He has won several contests such as the Playboy College Fiction Contest and the RopeWalk Fiction Chapbook Prize, the George Garrett Fiction Award, and the Matt Clark Prize.

Poissant currently teaches in the MFA program at the University of Central Florida and is working on a novel.

The first story Poissant read entitled “Nathan,” centered around a character that always seems to have good luck on his side. Throughout the story Nathan attracts many enemies because of this good fortune and eventually finds himself in a rocky situation when the town gets together and decides to beat him up. Poissant had the audience’s attention right from his introduction, when he stated that the story was the product of a dare.

For the second half of the reading, Poissant read “What the Wolf Wants,” a short story from his debut collection. The story dealt with the narrator’s very tough realization about the death of his brother while in the presence of a thieving wolf.

The larger collection of short stories “The Heaven of Animals” has received rave reviews from critics. The New York Times calls it “A wise debut collection... Poissant’s characters are often a mess—belligerent, impulsive, smart in all the wrong ways— but he manages their lives with precision, intelligence and clarity. Beautiful stories, with a rogue touch.”

Elle Magazine stated, “The Heaven of Animals targets the tough and tender dynamics that make and break families.”

Following the reading, the audience was invited to a small reception in which they were able to interact with the author, ask him questions, purchase the book, and get it signed. Poissant’s book sold out during the reception, proving it a successful reading.

The next visiting writer to appear will be Coastal’s own Dan Albergotti on November 13th.

CCU Alumni gets time in the Shark Tank
CCU graduate and Caddy Girls founder featured on reality competition show

Tarmey and her Caddy Girls specialize in both golf and entertainment. They provide golf-related services such as score keeping and course maintenance, and they act as the personal cheerleaders for the golfers they are hired to caddy for.

“We like to keep golf fun and upbeat,” said Tarmey. “Aside from providing golf caddies at outings and tournaments, we staff promotional models, brand ambassadors and trade show models all over the country.”

When Tarmey and her Caddy Girls appeared in front of the panel on Shark Tank, they were turned down by each Shark with the exception of Kevin O’Leary. O’Leary offered Tarmey and her Caddy Girls a deal where he would give them one-hundred thousand dollars that would go towards helping Caddy Girls expand, but in return O’Leary wanted to become a fifty-fifty partner. Meaning that fifty percent of the company would belong to him. Tarmey declined the deal.

“Kevin O’Leary was not my ideal investor in the first place,” said Tarmey. “Giving up half of my company that I built from virtually nothing was too much.”

Even though the Caddy Girls left the Shark Tank empty handed, Tarmey said the exposure alone has been monumental for her company.

“I have hundreds of investors from all over the country contacting me who are interested in the company,” said Tarmey. “My bookings are through the roof and half a dozen production companies have contacted me with interest in doing a television series based on The Caddy Girls. Deal or not, this is a huge stepping stone for my company.”

Tarmey graduated from CCU back in 2008 with a Communications degree and a Theater minor.
Organization of the week - SHORE

BY: KATIE FALZONE

SHORE is one of the most beneficial clubs CCU has to offer. SHORE is connected with counseling services. Whether a student has issues with depression, relationship problems, pregnancy, and other various issues, SHORE leads students to get the correct help. Although SHORE cannot provide actual counseling, it is a great stepping stone to getting the help one needs. These clubs can be found out on Prince Lawn during events like “Love your Body Day”, and “Coming Out Day”. SHORE also helps at events like “Take Back the Night” and “Doors of Doom”. Getting involved with SHORE is a great way to meet new people, earn volunteer hours, and help out your peers who are seeking help. The topics SHORE focuses on are extremely important not only at Coastal, but also across the nation. SHORE is a great way to become aware of these topics. SHORE also looks great on grad school applications and job applications.

Shore meets Mondays at 2pm in Wall 313!

The university sent out a mass wide email of the campus safety and security report last month. The campus safety and security report was conducted from January 2011 to December 2013.

"This annual report includes statistics for the previous three years, concerning reported crimes that occurred on campus," said Thomas Mezzapelle in the email. "In certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by Coastal Carolina University; and on public property within or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus. The report also includes institutional policies concerning campus security and other relevant matters."

The report also states that "safety on the University campus is a natural source of concern for parents, students and University employees. Education, the business of Coastal Carolina University, can take place only in an environment in which each student and employee feels safe and secure. Coastal Carolina University recognizes this and employs a number of security measures to protect the members of its community. Although the area, with its small-town feel and neighborly attitude, is perceived to have a relatively low crime rate, no campus is totally isolated from crime. Consequently, crime prevention remains a high priority."

According to the 2014 Clery Report, reports do not mean that the crime occurred or that arrests or convictions were made.

The full report can be obtained by contacting the Department of Public Safety or at www.coastal.edu/media administration/publicsafety/pdf/CLERY%20%20%20brochure.pdf.

Starbucks truck finally gets rolling

CCU Starbucks Truck already a hot commodity on campus

BY: WYATT DAVIES
STAFF WRITER

After much anticipation, the Coastal Carolina Starbucks Truck is finally up and running. The truck officially opened on October 22.

The Starbucks Truck is one of only three in the nation and serves select beverages and food that someone could expect to find in a regular Starbucks shop. The truck also plays music and accepts payments in the forms of cash, credit or debit cards, and of course, CINO cards.

The Starbucks Truck can be found at different campus locations throughout the week. Students who live in the University Place Apartments can get their caffeine fix on weekdays from 7:00am to 11:00am and weeknights from 9:00pm to 1:00am. The truck can also be found in University Place on the weekends from 11:00am to 3:00pm, and at night from 7:00pm to 11:00pm. When classes are in session during the week, the truck can be found between The Edwards College of Humanities and Fine Arts and the Prince building from 12:00pm to 4:00pm. The hours of operation for the truck are subject to change.

"We wanted to ensure that everything was in order."

So how did Coastal Carolina University become fortunate enough to become one of three colleges in the nation to receive a Starbucks Truck? Coastal Carolina University's Director of Dining Services, Jeff Stone, better known around campus as, "The Food Man," says that the rapid growth of CCU was a major reason.

"With the Aramark and Starbucks partnership, they were looking for a site in the sunbelt to pilot mobile trucks," said Stone. "I was emailed about it and after conferring with the University, I put our name in the hat. We met the criteria, and being a growing University, we were chosen."

In terms of meeting certain criteria, Stone said that the Universities who were considered for or awarded a Starbucks Truck had to have a certain number of students and an on campus, brick and mortar Starbucks shop.

Many students were excited when they got their first glimpse of the truck from photos posted on Stone's Instagram, as well from its... presence in the CINO Grille parking lot in early September. The truck was originally planned to be fully operational by September 18th but the date was pushed back to over a month later.

“We wanted to ensure that everything was in order,” said Stone. “We learned a few things from the roll out of the first two trucks [at Arizona State University and James Madison University], so we decided to have those items addressed.”

During each of the two days before the official opening of the truck, two “soft openings,” were held to provide a live test run for the truck. Students also had the opportunity to receive free food and drinks from the truck during both openings. Stone said the soft openings were well received by students and beneficial to the Starbucks Truck crew members because they gave them real experience before the actual opening.

One customer in the front of the line during the October 21st soft opening was freshman Christopher Terry, who ordered a white chocolate mocha latte.

“The experience was great,” said Terry. “[The baristas] were quick, friendly, and excited. [It was] worth the time.”
Number 3 Coastal improves to 8-0

John Israel caught three passes for a total of 174 yards, while De’Angelo Henderson rushed for 100-plus yards including three rushing touchdowns to lead Coastal to a 43-22 Homecoming win in front of a record breaking crowd of 10,194 at Brooks Stadium. This win extends their Big South-leading home streak to 12 games.

Charleston Southern had a glimpse of success during their opening drive, but a sack by Calvin Hollenhorst forced the Buccaneers to punt. Coastal, facing 3rd- and 8 got out of their own territory after Ross connected with Israel for a season-long 49-yard completion. Ross then found Tyrell Blanks for 17 yards and Henderson gained 14 yards to take Chants to the Charleston Southern six-yard line. The Chanticleers gained an early lead, 7-0, two plays later after Henderson capped the drive with a three-yard touchdown.

The Buccaneers answered back quickly after taking advantage of a Coastal Carolina penalty on its ensuing drive, and CSU burst through the middle of the line for a 41-yard touchdown. The extra point was kicked wide left, maintaining The Chanticleers lead, 7-6.

Devin Brown returned the Buccaneers kickoff 33 yards to the 40-yard line. Five plays later Henderson found the end zone from 18 yards out to give the Chants a 14-6 advantage with 2:26 in the first quarter. Charleston Southern was not afraid to answer back as the Bucs converted a third down with a 19-yard touchdown pass. Once again Charleston Southern missed the extra point, giving Coastal a two-point lead, 14-12.

Defensive lines came into action in the second quarter; however, with 1:20 left after a CSU punt, Ross found Israel for a 74-yard touchdown to put The Chanticleers up 21-12. The play was the fifth longest pass play in school history.

Before the half ended, Coastal muffed a punt that CSU took advantage of. With only 21 seconds left in the first Half, Charleston Southern gained 26 yards to set up a 25-yard field goal, making the score 21-15 at the half in Coastal’s favor.

After both teams punted, Coastal turned up the heat on the offense, covering 70 yards in just 1:40. Ross put The Chants up to a 36-15 lead with an 18-yard touchdown pass. Coastal did not stop there. As the fourth quarter began, Coastal pushed the lead to 43-15 as Henderson converted a 4th-and-goal with a one-yard touchdown.

Charleston Southern added the final score to the game with just 56 seconds left on a 12-yard touchdown making the final score 43-22.

The Chants offense totaled 486 yards. The defense, led by Calvin Hollenhorst, had seven tackles, including 2.5 tackles for loss and two sacks. Quinn Backus added 10 tackles, and Pernell Williams recorded seven.

Coastal returns to the road for the sixth time this season next Saturday as it travels to North Carolina to face Gardner-Webb.

Men's Soccer falls to Clemson

BY: BRENDAN MCPHERSON
STAFF WRITER

The Chanticleers' Soccer game against Clemson was originally scheduled for October 14, but was postponed due to inclement weather. Nonetheless, the 20/21 ranked CCU soccer team still went to Clemson a week later and gave it their all against the Tigers. Historically the Tigers had got the best of the Chants, but CCU won last year and was hoping for a similar showing this year.

Clemson came out attacking from the start of the match and scored on a corner kick in the third minute of play. Shortly after the Tigers scored, CCU remained composed and came back with a goal of their own to tie the game. The rest of the first half involved offensive spurts stopped by strong defense on both sides. For both teams, the first half proved to be a test of discipline with a combined 18 fouls and three yellow cards.

CCU came into the second half looking to take the lead early on. In the 52nd minute Coastal scored, but an offside call nullified the goal. For the rest of the second half both teams got a few good looks at the net, but none of them got the lucky bounce needed to break the tie. After a skirmish in the front of the net late in the game, Clemson managed to score the go-ahead goal and won the match 2-1.

Clemson held the advantage in shots, but Coastal Carolina had the advantage in corner kicks.

The Chanticleers' next game is a home match against Winthrop University Wednesday October 29, at home at 6 pm.

THE TOP 5
2014 HALLOWEEN COSTUMES

1 A cat
Costumes can get pricey ladies, but that doesn't mean you can't dress up and join the festivities. Draw a couple of whiskers, get a pair of ears from the Dollar Tree, and get your kitty cat on this year! Not only is this costume idea cute and widely popular, but you are looking at potentially spending less than ten dollars.

2 French Maid
A classic costume choice for all of the ladies out there, this costume represents everything we love about Halloween. It is cute, potentially raunchy fun, and always a hit. This has been a popular costume choice for years and it is still going strong in 2014.

3 Elsa from Frozen
It has been almost a year since Disney's Frozen took the nation by storm and introduced us to the newest member of the Disney Princess club, Elsa. Now, ladies, this will probably be one of the more common costumes we see this Halloween. So if you see that girl from class wearing the same costume as you next Friday night, don't fret. Just let it go.

4 Freddie Kruger
Freddie Kruger from Nightmare on Elm Street began haunting the dreams of audiences everywhere in 1984 and he has still made a strong case for our fourth most popular costume for Halloween 2014. Kruger costumes can be found just about anywhere around Halloween and they are always a sure-fire way to give someone a good scare and possibly a nightmare or two.

5 Ninja Turtle
If these totally awesome turtles weren't part of your childhood then you probably have more problems than just trying to find a good Halloween costume. Just kidding, but seriously who doesn't love the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles?

Restaurant Review

Hoskins

Location: 405 Main St, North Myrtle Beach, SC

Hoskins is a family restaurant that has been located in North Myrtle Beach for sixty-six years. Hoskins moto is “we grew up on good taste.” Good food and friendly service is what you will be delighted with the moment you walk in. Hoskins offers home cooked meals for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

I went to Hoskins with my mother for dinner. She heard about Hoskins from the restaurant being a ‘locals’ favorite. There was a wait when we arrived. It was a Friday night and the restaurant was packed. The hostess got us to a table in less than 5 minutes. The whole restaurant has a family feeling from the booths to the pictures on the wall.

A server came up to take our drink orders right when we sat down. The menu has items ranging from fried chicken to oysters. The restaurant has all the food you would expect for southern home cooking. We both decided to get the grilled chicken sandwich. I got fries, while my mother got sweet potato fries. After placing our order, the food was on our table within 15 minutes. The waitress did not forget any side we requested, as well.

For a chicken sandwich and fries for under 7 dollars, you would expect it to be an average size meal. The whole chicken sandwich was as big as both my hands. The amount of food we were given for the price was unbelievable. You can easily save half the dinner for your lunch the next day. The fries were extremely crispy. The chicken was delectable and moist. Even the lettuce and tomato were extremely fresh.

We then indulged in some chocolate cream pie. It was incredible to the say least. We felt stuffed, but it was so worth it. It was truly the best meal to end your day with.

If you are missing your mommas home cooking, head to Hoskins! You may end up enjoying their home cooking more than your mommas. The restaurant offers generous portions for the price, with the best service around.
Islam is a religion that is especially misunderstood in the United States. It is ironic that this faith is considered “alien” to American culture when Islam existed in the colonies even before we established our own nation. A good percentage of the enslaved Africans that came to the New World were Muslims and Muslim leaders in the Old World were no strangers to American officials in any point in time.

Denise Spellberg wrote Thomas Jefferson’s Qur’an after being inspired by the fact that Thomas Jefferson had personal copies of the Qur’an in his home library. Jefferson even went on during his life to study and write on the cultures of the Middle East and North Africa. Spellberg argues in her book that the Founding Fathers were much closer to Islam than we are taught to believe. For instance, she describes discussions between colonial leaders to allow for religious freedom and for the citizenship of Muslims whenever one would present his or herself to the nation.

The Enlightenment-inspired idea for a government to favor no religion over another played out with the Founding Fathers who would welcome Christians, Atheists, Jews, Hindus, and Muslims alike. Spellberg writes that the Founding Fathers were of the Protestant faiths, which is almost correct. Many of them were skeptical of their own beliefs and understood that not all Americans adhered to the same dogma. Thus a nation accepting of all beliefs would be ideal.
Halloween is this week and if you and your friends are looking for some frightening yet fun activities to get your blood curdling for the season there are a variety of events planned in the area that may peak your interest.

Horoscopes

Your tendency to rush matters will lead to all sorts of unnecessary complications. Shortcuts will only get you lost. Think first and concentrate on taking one step at a time. You will reap the rewards when you reach your destination and declare victory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19)
- You are sure to do well today and will stand out at any gathering. Those around you will be drawn to your unusual, off-the-wall antics and ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 20)
- Don’t let the secrets weighing on your mind affect your productivity, or you will end up in a vulnerable position. Take a moment for some quiet, uninterrupted time to mull things over.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
- Get out and have some fun. A day trip or an interesting event will put a spring in your step. Make plans and invite a close friend along for the ride.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
- Take inventory of what you own, what you need and what you can part with. Make donations or offer to help a worthwhile cause. A garage sale will bring in extra cash.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
- Do your own thing. Trying to please everyone else is an exercise in futility. Do the best you can with what you have, and don’t get upset if someone objects.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
- Be the first to jump on board if a travel opportunity arises. The information you gain will have a positive effect on your future. A professional change is within reach.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
- Visit your local library. There is more going on in your community than you think. It’s time to be a participant and get to know people who share your interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
- You will be overwhelmed by the responsibilities given to you. There is a limited amount of time, so plan and organize carefully to avoid failing short of your goal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)
- Do something totally different. A trip to the zoo, aquarium, museum or science center will provide plenty of entertainment. A family fun day will encourage everyone to get along.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
- Your intriguing way of looking at things continues to surprise those around you. Just when someone thinks they have you figured out, you head in another direction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21)
- Try to see both sides of the story. Once you’ve had time to dissect what’s going on, you will be able to make the best decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
- Stand up for yourself. Someone may be trying to undermine your reputation and steal your thunder. Make sure everyone knows the truth about the contributions and plans that you’ve made.
