Campus searching for new Dean of Students

Ian Livingston Brooking // Editor-in-Chief

B y Fall 2019, there will be a new Dean of Students walking on the campus of Coastal Carolina University. Travis Overton has been given the position of Vice President of Executive Initiatives/Chief of Staff at CCU, and Overton gives the details of how this position came about.

“Past this summer, the University did a realignment of some areas of the institution,” said Overton. “One of the areas that were realigned are specifically areas of the institution that work on a regular basis to evaluate our community to determine ways that we might need to do things differently, better or help improve the experience of students, faculty, staff, visitors or anyone that is a part of our campus.”

The Executive Initiatives area is the area that focuses on that aspect. This area includes services and departments like Campus Ministry, the Dean of Students, University Compliance and Diversity and Inclusion.

“As a result of this realignment, I have been brought in to move out of what was the vice presidential role of Student’s Rights and Responsibilities, and then my vice president and the responsibilities shifted to become Vice President for Executive Initiatives,” said Overton. “That role has oversight of the services such as the Dean of Students, University Compliance and other parts that fall under the Executive Initiatives area.”

The Chief of Staff role that Overton will play allows Overton to assist the president with day-to-day operations for special projects for the President’s office, working on various things for the institution overall.

While the change doesn’t come as a surprise to students, the University has been talking about a realignment since the beginning of 2017, and the plans for the realignment were finalized over the summer. There will be three candidates to visit the campus of Coastal Carolina, and the candidate visited on Thursday, Jan. 18 while the second candidate will be on campus Monday, Jan. 22 and Tuesday, Jan. 23. The final candidate will be on campus Wednesday, Jan. 24 and Thursday, Jan. 25.

Overton talked about the importance of students engaging with each candidate and gave his advice to students on the change of scenery in the Dean of Students office.

“One of these candidates will be the new Dean of Students and will be engaging day in and day out with the student body of Coastal Carolina,” said Overton. “The change is betterseven for me as I have absolutely and tremendously loved being the University saying that they want this candidate. It also that candidate telling the University that they enjoyed their experience and that this would be something they would like to pursue. It’s a matching process.”

Once that part of the process is complete, background and reference checks need to be done, and the process can take two to three weeks to possibly two months. There is also the factor of the availability of the newly selected Dean of Student for an official start date. When a new Dean of Students is selected, Overton has this piece of advice for them.

“First of all, recognize the true gem and values that exist within Teal Student and understand that we have such an opportunity with our students to be able to change so much of the world by partnering with supporting our students,” said Overton. “The Dean of Students role is a critical part of that journey. The Dean of Students role has that ability to be a parent away from home for that student that may try to make a connection in some way. My advice to the incoming Dean is to know how important that role is to the journey of a student and understand that you are held to high standards because you are that sort ofAlpha woman.

Every morning, I almost feel like our organization and everyone that we do on this campus who we are and the community. But, before you can go anywhere, you need to know about its history and values.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Inc. was founded on January 15, 1908 on Gamma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Incorporated. The Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Incorporated is a women’s historically black sorority oriented with service to all mankind. The Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority was given a purpose.

Being a sorority takes time, dedication and hard work. But, before you can go anywhere, you need to know about its history and values.

If you were able to attend any of the events that we do on this campus and also the time and effort that we put into organizing these things, said Prioleau. “We want them to learn with positive thoughts about our organization.”

This week’s activities were: “How to get away with service.”

‘Skee week is a week in which we, as members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Incorporated, use to celebrate our founders by hosting events for the campus community that fall up under our targets,” said Prioleau. “The purpose is to show how we are as students and what we do.”

Being in a sorority takes time, dedication and hard work. But, before you can go anywhere, you need to know about its history and values.

Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority is the Oh so pretty ladies of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Incorporated and is Netflix inspired and something that I have always wanted to be. Because I am an Alpha woman.

Being an Alpha woman is beyond something. Being an Alpha woman is being to give something to the community. Being an Alpha woman is being to give something to the community.

Everyone returning back from winter break also means the hustle and bustle returning to the CCU Mail Services Office. But, this semester, things have been a little more chaotic in the mailroom than normal.

The system that notifies students of their package went down on January 2nd and while the IT team at Coastal Carolina University has been working on the issue, it has yet to be resolved. They are hoping to have it resolved soon but there is no projected date as to when the issue will be fixed.

The mail services are not sure what exactly caused the issue, only that it occurred during a system update that took place over winter break.

According to Holly Minnis, one of the supervisors in the mail services, the mailroom is still operating on the same schedule. Students who think they have a package should continue to wait till 2 p.m. to go and retrieve their package just like if the emails were still going out. They tell their students wait till that time so that the packages can be sorted and put away.

The students have been patient and understanding,” said Minnis. “The workers in CCU mail services were grateful for the cooperation.”

“Human trafficking is the fastest growing crime in the world and South Carolina sits right between two of the top 20 hubs for it—Atlanta, GA hosted by the Regional Administration Office on Children and Families and Horry County, GA.”

Wilson indicated that human trafficking is a $150 billion-dollar industry, second to drug trafficking, with children as a main target. “Robyn Causey, a social worker from Horry County, GA, said that the State News doesn’t report to South Carolina’s Regional Administration Office on Children and Families retrafficking, which includes details about sexual activity, prosecutions and services provided to victims.

Robyn Causey, the director of the WPL, said that “trafficking will be through the years affecting our communities. The conference began in 2011 and, according to the official website, seeks to educate, motivate and empower a new generation of women to be more vigilant about the challenges they face in their lives, their communities and the world.”

Hattie Gravely is the director of the WPL, and her responsibilities include collaborating and organizing the WPL Conference. “The conference focuses on human trafficking awareness in the state of South Carolina,” said Causey. “The conference is open to anyone who is interested in human trafficking, 12 to 14 years old, but some are much younger.”

Gravely defines the conference as “positive, powerful and inspirational.”

“The relentless determination these women have against all odds to become successful and follow their dreams has inspired me to follow my own ambitions and dreams,” said Gravely. “Together, all participants, the bonds and connections that I’ve developed with other women at the conference as well as those I hope to build upon these relationships throughout my life.”

The conference also provides a networking opportunity for students. “Because of the conference, I had the opportunity to meet my current employer and gain in-depth knowledge and experience in my field of study,” said Todd. “It provides them with both a good show and a meaningful takeaway.”

Before the performance, viewers will have the opportunity to participate in a raffle. All proceeds will go to the Rape Crisis Center of Horry and Georgetown Counties. The center provides critical intervention, emotional support and information to those who have experienced rape and sexual assault. Miller said, “It provides them with both a good show and a meaningful takeaway.”

“The performance highlights voices affected by violence in a way that every single person in the audience will be able to relate to in one way or another,” said Miller. "It provides them with both a good show and a meaningful takeaway.”

New Year’s Resolutions and How to Keep Them

Chase Newsome // Reporter

Have you ever made a New Year’s Resolution and then, without even realizing it, fell broken right in front of you? And then wondered if it was even worth the time to put forth the effort to actually make it happen? I mean, most people break them anyways, might as well not even try now. Wrong! New Year’s resolutions are important. Just because people can’t keep them, does not mean they are pointless. The problem is that people are not doing it right. People set vague and unrealistic goals and then wonder why they end up lost right in the middle of January because that goal fell to the floor. Here is a list of five steps that tell you exactly what you need to do if you actually want to succeed in conquering your New Year’s Resolutions:

1. Start doing. Stop waiting. You are constantly waiting on that goal to get here. You just want it to happen already. The more you think about it, the longer it’s going to take because instead of actually getting after it, you’re dwelling on the idea of it. The only way it’s going to happen is if you actually take the initiative to step out of your comfort zone and put in the work.

2. Write it down. A lot of times, when people come up with goals, they just think about them. They never think to write it down. When you write it, it becomes real. It’s not going to float away into some other part of your brain.

3. Hang it up. It needs to be visible to you everyday. This will give you that daily reminder that we all so desperately need.

4. Your goal has to pull you. Let’s say you told yourself that this year, you are going to lose weight. Awesome! Fine, if, when you wake up, you don’t get excited about “losing weight,” then you need to change it up. It’s important to know that will power can only get you so far. Every single day that your feet touch the floor, you should be excited about going out and getting that goal you made.

5. Pictures. Pictures. Pictures. Print out pictures of what you want. Whether it’s your dream body, a certain car, a new job, etc. Whatever it is, you need to be able to visualize it.

This year’s Triennial is showcasing work from CCU’s current Visual Arts and Graphic Design faculty. Artwork displayed includes work from faculty members, such as Jim Arendt, Brian “Cat” Taylor, Maura Kenny, and many others. Students on campus say they love seeing professor work because it gives them an opportunity to know their professor outside of class. “It’s a great chance to see faculties work in their profession and what they focus on professionally,” said art student Devann Donovan. “How often do you get a taste of seeing your instructors in their natural habitat?” Doing what they’re teaching you to do.”

The exhibition will be showcased from January 15 to February 15. The exhibition is free and open to the public. For more information on the Bryan Art Gallery visit https://www.coastal.edu/gallery/
CCU students travel to Charlotte for some NBA Action

A few weeks ago, Coastal students were sent emails that gave them the opportunity to sign up to become one of the lucky students that get to travel to Charlotte, NC to attend an NBA regular season matchup between the Charlotte Hornets and the Miami Heat.

Noelle Noble and Ketton Belin were the ones that made this trip possible. Belin was the one that thought of this outing to get students involved and have a fun journey for them to go on.

Belin talked about how Belin made this trip possible for students.

“Noelle Noble and I were the ones that made this trip possible. Belin was the one that thought of this outing to get students involved and have a fun journey for them to go on.

James Johnson scored five points to tie things up at 125. A Kelly Olynyk three-pointer with 0.2 seconds remaining did not go in. The Hornets ultimately gave the Heat the win.

Freshman Bailey Brown talked about her experience.

“It was really fun and I really enjoyed myself,” said Brown. “That was my first NBA game, so it was really cool to see how it goes down. It’s really different from how it is on TV.”

While Brown says that everything went well with the game and the trip to Charlotte, she did wish that there was more time to walk around Charlotte.

“I really did enjoy myself but I wish we did have more time to walk around Charlotte,” said Brown.

Noble says that if they have the money in the budget then they will try to make this trip possible for students.

Pierrot selected in MLS Draft by Colorado Rapids

In the summer before his senior season, Pierrot played for United Soccer League Premier Developmental League (USL PDL) club Reading United AC. In the seven games that Pierrot played in, he scored eight goals and recorded one assist. To add insult to injury, the Rapids scored the least amount of goals (31) in the Western Conference and were tied with D.C. United for 19 draws. To add insult to injury, the Rapids scored the least amount of goals (31) in the Western Conference with 26 goals. The staff will simply have to monitor pedestrian traffic flow on that side a little differently. It will also not affect the lacrosse season.

In the month of January, Williams has averaged 15 points a game, 5.2 assists per game and 7.5 rebounds per game. Williams is shooting 38 percent from the floor and 71 percent from the free throw line. A prolific defender with constant energy, Williams is a key role on both sides of the ball for the Rapids.

The Chanticleer Newspaper’s Player of the Month for January 2018 is DJ Williams, sophomore guard for the Coastal Carolina’s women’s basketball team. This past weekend, Williams had two incredible performances averaging 21.5 points per game, 6.5 assists per game and seven rebounds per game. She had a career-high 39 points in an 86-62 loss to South Alabama on Jan. 18. In the month of January, Williams has averaged 15 points a game, 5.2 assists per game and 7.5 rebounds per game. Coastal Softball excited for season to begin

The Coastal Carolina softball team looks to make postseason run as the team prepares for the 2018 season. The team went 25-22 last season and 17-16 in Sun Belt play, getting knocked out early in the Sun Belt Tournament. Kelley Green enters her ninth season as head coach of Coastal softball and is looking to build off of last season.

“We want to continue to improve and continue to build,” said Green. “We had a good first half of the season last year but, once we got into conference play, we struggled. After being in the Sun Belt Conference, you now know, we have to step up our game.”

One of the biggest struggles that the Chanticleers faced last season was winning on the road, especially in conference play. The Chanticleers went 11-11 in Sun Belt road games.

Green talked about the road struggles being fairly raw in a team at her stage and what she wants to see be improved by the team.

“I never really had that issue before until last year,” said Green. “We mainly had Sun Belt road games last season and I am hoping that going on the road to play Arizona State in that tournament will be a very tough tournament for us and gives us some experience before we hit Sun Belt play.”

Graduate Student and catcher Amanda Danerle mixed 15 games last season due to injury but is looking forward to return to the diamond in February.

“It was a bit of a letdown that I couldn’t finish it out but I am ready to go,” said Danerle. “I am excited to get back out there.”

Even though Danerle missed nearly 50 percent of the 2017 season, she managed to be fourth on the team in slugging average (.408) and third on the team in home runs (5).

After a phenomenal freshman year, catcher Kassidy Smith will be second on the team in home runs this year as the team prepares for the 2018 season.

Smith led the team in home runs with 10 and is looking to continue to be more productive this year. She is here. I think she will hit more than eleven home runs this year. I think she will have a better batting average this year, and I think that she will be even more productive this year than how she was as a freshman.”

Another returning starter for the Chanticleers is junior pitcher Ashley Guillefot.

Last season, Guillefot posted a 15-10 record while pitching 186 strikeouts, the fourth-highest total in Coastal Carolina softball history. The softball pitching squad has lost only two players from last season’s lineup, and there is a lot of depth in my perspective, I think that this team can make a run in the postseason, but that it wasn’t the main goal. Their main goal is for each of our players to go out and keep getting better as players,” said Hall.

“The hall of fame is superb. They are hard workers, very consistent, and our kids will have a huge advantage against Furman,” said Hewitt.

“We have to dominate a ball game,” said Green. “We will have a little better average this year,” said Green. “She is quick productive in our lineup, and she is going to get to every game that she is here. I think she will hit more than eleven home runs the year. I think she will have a better batting average this year, and I think that she will be even more productive this year than how she was as a freshman.”

Coastal Men's and Women's Tennis looks to build off of last season

Ian Livingston Brooking / Editor-in-Chief

After a tough road loss to Furman on Wednesday, Jan. 17, the women’s tennis team looks to regroup and prepare for their next match against UNCG-Wilmington on Feb. 1.

Assistant Head Coach Emma Hall talked about what was learned from the loss.

“Furman is going to be a very good school, so it was good to give the exposure to our younger players,” said Hall. “That’s what we had some bright spots on the day, and it certainly expressed some of our weaknesses for us to work on.”

Catherine Hewitt is entering her seventh year as the head coach of the Coastal Carolina women’s tennis team, and she said she felt that they were lost and gained some from last season’s leftovers that can step up and play their position very well.

The softball team opens up their season on Friday, Feb. 9 at 5 p.m. against Iowa State.

Powers talked about what Schneider adds to the staff as a coach and as someone who knows the returning members from last year’s team.

“Sebastian is here because he is very professional, and I really wanted him here,” said Powers. “He was very professional in the past, a player, and he has done a good job in making that transition from player to coach. He is very secretive and he commands respect from the guys, and I think the one thing I was really excited about having our staff is that he is excellent on the court and, if I need a guy to jump in on the court to help with practice, he can do that.”

“Maria meant to us last season,” said Hewitt. “You can’t measure things, the program is still in the air, you have to buy into the whole program. It was cheering for my sister. I want him here,” said Gamero. “It was Gamero. “It was Gamero.”

Men’s Basketball ends six-game skid

The Coastal Carolina men’s basketball team split the weekend series in Alabama but ended their weekend with a win, ending their six-game losing streak.

On Thursday, Jan. 18, the Chanticleers fell to South Alabama 80-57. The Chanticleers were down by eight points early, but managed to make a comeback.

Senior forward Demario Beck scored nine of Coastal’s first half points while junior Josh Coleman added six points.

The Chanticleers struggled from behind the three-point line. They were just five of 22 from three-point range. Just like past games, they struggled with turnovers and getting to live more. USA was able to get 17 points of Coastal’s 16 turnovers while Coastal forced 18 turnovers but only got 11 while Coastal forced 18 turnovers. Coastal’s 16 turnovers resulted in 17 points of Coastal off of them. Things finally turned around for the Chanticleers on Saturday, Jan. 20 as the team ended their six-game losing streak, defeating Troy 74-73. This was also the Coastal first win in 2018. The Chanticleers were down by 14 at the half but they were able to climb back in the game one possession at a time and make a game in the second half. Zac Cuthbertson was find up in the second half. He had 15 second-half points and recorded a game-high of 21 points in the end.

In the second half, the game was simply about running to scored leads, and was even tied seven times throughout the whole game. When Troy went on a run, Coastal answered back with a run. Their 14-0 run brought them back from a 59-46 deficit.

The final points for Coastal came from Arndou Bamba as he had a tip-in shot to give Coastal their final points of 74 at the 1:53 mark. From then on, it would be a defensive effort by the Chanticleers that helped them win. Bamba finished the night with six points and nine rebounds in just 17 minutes of playing time.

Jaylen Shaw finished with 13 points and was in foul trouble for majority of the game but that didn’t stop his hustle. It was his efforts that sealed the game for the Chanticleers. Getting a steal in the last two seconds of the game and keeping the lead was a tremendous effort shown by Shaw. The Chanticleers are now 8-13 overall and 2-6 in conference play.

Hawaii missile alert and a nuclear North Korea
Andrew Hovasipian // Reporter

On Saturday, Jan. 13, the people of Hawaii were going about their daily business when an alert went out for an incoming ballistic missile. The following moments were likely those of chaos, even after 53 minutes, a correction was made and a false alarm declared. The islands breathed a deep sigh of relief.

While preventative actions were taken after the unfortunate mishap, the incident takes place during a time of heightened tensions between the United States and North Korea. After countless threats of nuclear war and anti-American rhetoric from North Korea’s leadership, the average American is only too well aware of the possibility of an accidental war.

While communications unit unanimously distributed false information. When asked about the situation, Dr. Ferrero emphasized that the United States possesses the technology to effectively detect any missile that is launched by North Korea, however, these new missiles move at an extraordinary speed which makes them increasingly difficult to shoot down.

Ferrero states that in addition to the development of missile technology, North Korea also seeks to Denise deterrent nuclear devices which has been evident by their series of tests over the past few years. The problem, according to Ferrero is that the North Koreans have not (at least at this point in time) been able to successfully deploy a nuclear weapon on a ballistic missile.

In more recent news, North and South Korea have announced that they will compete in the year’s Winter Olympics under a single flag symbolizing a unified Korea. This, coupled with peace talks between the two nations, shows a warming in relations that could ease tensions worldwide.

While some may see the gesture as a diversionary tactic from the North so that it may continue its nuclear program, it is still a landmark gesture in a time of crisis. The United States possesses the technology to effectively detect any missile that is launched by North Korea, however, these new missiles move at an extraordinary speed which makes them increasingly difficult to shoot down.

January comes to a close, Donald Trump’s first year as president comes to an end. In a year marked with so many executive orders as controversies, citizens have officially experienced the first 365 days of the Trump Administration.

Although the end of the year comes a question: What did President Trump do this year, and how do Americans view the sitting president?

NPR reported on Jan. 18 that “the majority of Americans saw Trump’s first year as a failure,” while The Hill went so far as to say that “Trump’s first year in office was the year of the woman.”

NPR conducted a poll with PBS NewsHour and Marist Poll, which released data saying that 53 percent of Americans did see Trump’s first year as a failure, compared to 43 percent that did not.

Additionally, they state that 46 percent of those polled believe that Trump has fallen short of their expectations, while 15 percent said that he has exceeded them. Of that 15 percent, only 4 percent consist of Democrats.

They also report that 42 percent of those polled thought that the country had changed for the worse, 36 percent said that it changed for the better, and 21 percent said that they have not seen a change.

As for the issues, Americans polled were pretty scattered.

Forty-four percent thought that Trump had improved the economy, while only 23 percent thought that he improved foreign relations. A merely 11 percent thought that race relations improved, while 18 percent thought that women’s rights had improved, although 40 percent stated they did not see a change.

Gallup also released a poll on Jan. 14, which states that President Trump currently has a 38 percent approval rating.

Compared to recent presidents, his number is significantly lower.

January of their second year, President Obama had a 49 percent approval rating. President W. Bush had 44 percent. President Clinton was 55 and President H.W. Bush had 80 percent.

The closest number to Trump would be President Reagan, who had a 48 percent approval rating by his second year in office.

According to Gallup, Trump’s highest approval rating was his first week in office, with 45 percent. When President Trump entered the office, he began to sign numerous executive orders.

In fact, he has signed 58 executive orders since he entered office, and not all of them have made national news.

The first executive order he signed was on his first day in office, named “reinforcing the economic burden of the patient protection and Affordable Care Act pending repeal.” This executive order set the wheels in motion to repeal the Affordable Care Act.

Shortly followed were executive orders “improving border security and immigration enforcement,” which directed for a wall to be built on the Mexico-United States border, and “core principles for regulating the United States financial system,” which affected the regulation of the national economy.

On Jan. 25, 2017, the president signed the executive order “enhancing public safety in the interior of the United States,” which stripped sanctuary cities of their eligibility for federal grants.

Two days later, President Trump signed the Executive Order that enacted the Travel Ban, that was almost immediately blocked by judges around the country. The president’s initial number of U.S. states to get the travel ban passed since its original signing.

There was an executive order signed on Feb. 9 that “presenter violence against federal, state, tribal and local law enforcement officers,” as well as “enforcing federal law with respect to transnational criminal organizations and preventing international trafficking.”

On Feb. 28, 2017, the final day of Black History month, Trump signed executive order 13776, which enacted the “White House Initiative to Promote Excellence and Innovation at Historically Black Colleges and Universities.”

The most recent executive order he has signed was 13532, “supporting our veterans during their transition from uniform service to civilian life.”

President Trump has signed more executive orders than President Obama had by the time he was in presidency, having only signed 40 compared to Trump’s 58.

Economically, CNBC reported on Jan. 18 that “the Dow’s 31 percent gain during Trump’s first year is the only signed 40 compared to Trump’s 58.

President Obama had by this time in his presidency, having passed since its original signing. The bill, about 500 pages long and 72,000 words, was given to legislators without much time to read it.

Along with the Don Jr., President Trump also got hit-long awaited tax plan passed.

The bill, about 500 pages long and 72,000 words, was given to legislators without much time to read it.

When the bill passed on Dec. 20, 2017, many called it the biggest victory for the Trump Administration so far, while others feared that it was only going to protect big businesses and not the middle class.

It comes as no surprise that President Trump has been more active on social media than any other president. More specifically, President Trump utilizes Twitter more than anyone before him.

From having a “bigger, more powerful” nuclear button than North Korea to the “Fake News Media Awards,” Trump has tweeted it all as president.

As for controversies, there have not been a lack of those either.

The Trump presidency began with a controversy as the president claimed that his inauguration had the highest attendance rates ever, with former White House Press Secretary Sean Spicer bringing out photos as proof.

President Trump has not exactly been the best friend of the media, repeatedly kicking reporters out of press conferences and taunting them on social media.

Additionally, a book by Michael Wolff was recently released stating all of the “inside knowledge” of the Trump White House, even going as far as to say that no one on the Trump campaign expected to win, not even Trump himself.

Although no one can predict the future of Trump’s presidency, one can be sure that it will not be a traditional three years to come for the United States.

One year down: Is America great again?

Young and Hungry is a television show brought by Freeform(formally known as ABC Family). It features well-known actors such as Emily Oment, Jonathan Sadowski and is produced by Ashley Tisdale.

The first five seasons run currently on Netflix, and it is five seasons well spent. It follows the story of a girl named Gabby who specializes in cooking. Her cooking is so phenomenal that it lands her a job working for a wealthy man named Josh. Josh and Gabby throughout the entire series have an aspiring relationship that goes away and comes back one way or another.

It has grabbing plot lines, developing characters, normality of today’s culture, and a bucket of humor. Every episode is aimed to be relatable, but also contain jokes that can have a person laugh until they cry.

I review this show as being a show that every college student could learn something from. Gabby takes her passion for cooking and runs with it throughout the show while also having fun and finding love in the process.

This show is a stress reliever in the sense that I was laughing in practically every episode because of its relatability. I even made a list of my favorite episodes. "In the First Amendment the Founding Fathers gave the free press the protection it must have to fulfill its essential role in our democracy. The press was to serve the governed, not the governors." – Hugo Black, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court

I could not agree more with Justice Black's statement regarding the freedom of the press. This quote came from Black's concurring opinion in the 1971 court case of The New York Times v. United States that gave the press the right to publish The Pentagon Papers, classified documents regarding undisclosed information about the involvement of the United States government in the Vietnam War.

The press was created for public to be informed of the truth, no matter how good and no matter how bad. Here at Coastal Carolina, The Chanticleer has been the student voice of the campus since the paper's inception from 1963. Whether it is a Coastal marine scientist student changing the world of science or a Coastal football player being drafted into the NFL, The Chanticleer will be there to inform the thousands of students, faculty and staff that make up Coastal Carolina. In my time being at the paper, I have witnessed our staff cover everything from Student Government Association elections to a championship-winning baseball team and so much more.

As Editor-in-Chief and a student journalist, I can assure you that The Chanticleer will continue to be the student voice of Coastal Carolina University and serve the people of this extraordinary campus.
