Freshman being targeted for student ID number

Former Coastal Carolina students are targeting freshman and sophomores for their current student ID number to use in the HTC gym. The former students are offering seventy five dollars to use their ID number to access the gym. Many of those students are targeting on the class graduation pages on Facebook.

Associate Director of Campus Recreation, Tara Josey, said the campus recreation staff does have procedures to take if a student’s ID number does not work or is tampered with. “Our staff is trained to handle different scenarios with ID issues,” said Josey. “If they feel like someone is trying to cheat the system, they are asked to then get a supervisor.” Josey said if someone does get through into the gym, they are then put on a reset list.

When ID issues happen, they send the information through to the ID office. The ID office can then verify if someone is or is not a student. Josey said they have a list up front with the names of those who are not students. “The issue that we will then find is that we got an illegal student using someone else’s ID,” said Josey. “That freshman runs a risk of going against the code of conduct.” Josey said if a student is caught giving their ID number to someone else, they could completely forfeit their privileges of using the facility.

The life of Kevin Kane

We all know her, Amy Schumer, but do you know him? Kevin Kane, a Coastal Carolina University alumnus, has had amazing experiences and great words to live by. He moved from Pennsylvania to Myrtle Beach, SC when he was in high school. He then got an academic scholarship, giving him a full ride to Coastal.

Kane said he did not know what he wanted to do when he started at Coastal. “I was taking chemistry, calculus II, and Spanish II,” said Kane. “I was all over the place.”

Kane said studying acting at Coastal gave him a grounding experience to build on.

Constantly constructing Coastal

Over the past year, there has been a lot of construction going on around campus. From the new dorms being built to the expansion of Hucks dining hall. Around campus there always seems to be something being built or torn down.

The following building have been completed, the baseball/softball stadium, the Student Union expansion, Hicks Dining expansion, first phase of the new student campus housing, Chanticleer and Tradition, Athletic Plaza, and the installation of the teal turf on the football field.

Renovations that are currently taking place are in the Science Annex II, Singleton, and the second phase of the new student housing, the Student Union expansion, Hicks Dining expansion, first phase of the new student campus housing, Chanticleer and Tradition, Athletic Plaza, and the installation of the teal turf on the football field. Tips on managing stress

Samantha Bergold

We all face stress on a daily basis. Life is a constant balancing act between work, school, and your personal life. We have all seen the chart that says you have to pick two, between grades, sleep, or a social life. The chart fails to factor in work, family, organizations you are involved in, working out, and the ninety-nine other things we all have to do on a daily basis. Here are tips on how you can have it all without having to sacrifice a thing.

Schedule

Having a schedule of your week is important. Invest in a planner. Map out your week and your whole schedule for the semester. Knowing which week will be busier then others will help you prepare for them, instead of being surprised at the last minute. Having a net schedule is one of the best things you can do to reduce your stress level.

Be Ahead of the Game

Get stuff done in advance, it is that simple. If you have a thirty minute break before your next class, start on some homework or studying. Get up twenty minutes early everyday and try a minute break before your next class, start on some home- work or studying. Get up twenty minutes early everyday and get ahead on next weeks work. Before you know it, you will be a week ahead of the game and able to relax on the weekend.

OHIO

This is the best thing you can learn. OHIO which stands for only handle it once, is the best method to live by. Respond to an email now, rather than later. Finishing that assignment in one shot, rather then procrastinating it for another time. We all do it. We say we will finish it later, when in reality later does not happen. Finish it now, and you can nap later.

Learn to Relax

Do not try to over work yourself. Learn how much you can handle and understand when you need a break. Find an activity that lets you relax without thinking about all you need to do. Try yoga or meditation or take a nap. Sometimes all we need to do to relax is put our phone away. Getting a break from technology and reading a book is a great way to relax.

Best You Can Do

Realize that you can only do the best you can do. This is a mantra I live by. Do your best and realize that no body is perfect. We are all human and make mistakes. Nobody can accomplish everything in their life perfectly. Do not be hard on yourself for not accomplishing some things. If you did your best, that is all that matters.

If you master these tips, your daily stress level will decrease. I still do get stressed out from time to time, so do I. When I see these tips on a daily basis, I feel more relaxed and stress free.
The Science Annex II building is projected to be completed in April 2016. The projected budget for the building is thirty million dollars. The building will have forty faculty offices, eight teaching labs, four classrooms (sixty seats), two classrooms (fifty five seats), one ecology teaching lab, and six small labs for biology research.

The Beaugrand building renovation is projected to be completed in July 2016. The projected budget for the building is nine million dollars. The building will be updated with HVAC electrical systems, plumbing systems, new elevator, ADA upgrades, asbestos removal, and updated interior.

The new student renovation housing is projected to be done in June 2016. The projected budget for the building is eight-five million dollars. By adding more student housing, the University is preparing for future growth and to allow upperclassmen to have the option to live on campus.

‘‘The only time this would come in is when we put a restriction on them,’’ said Josey. ‘‘For example, the Coast- Cyclone program. If a student did not return a bicycle and we sent out multiple notices and never received the bicycle back, we would then put a hold on their account. They would have to pay us a fee or return the bike back before they could register for classes again.’’

Josey said this is the only time they would restrict a student’s account.

Shuttle app review

Kara Thomas
ASSISTANT EDITOR

Keeping track of when and where shuttle are used to be impossible. But now there is a solution for that. The shuttle tracker allows you to locate the shuttle stop and see where each shuttle is on campus. It also shows the wait times of when the next shuttle will arrive at each stop. I have been using this for four days now, and the accuracy of it is incredible.

I was at Piedmont in University Plaza and I did not want to drive. Finding a parking spot can be hectic, so the shuttle was my best bet. Finding a parking spot can be hectic. Also, sometimes it does lag a little, which makes everything a little bit off. The Shuttle tracker is a wonderful thing to use when in a rush, or if you are a student who uses the shuttle a lot.

Myrtle memories that will never fade

Hannah Wolf
REPORTER

Whether you are new to the area or just looking for something fun to do, Myrtle Beach is the place to be! As a popular tourist location, there is something for everyone along the Grand Strand.

For anyone who likes good food, and shopping, check out The Market Common. With stores like Victoria’s Secret, Bath & Body Works, and Anthropologie, any do-it-yourself shopper will feel right at home. For all you foodies out there, head over to C’bushki, California Pizza, or P.F. Chang’s and indulge in a great meal at a great price.

Test Burke, a Coastal Carolina freshman, said “The Market Common resembles a little town.” “It is a little town in Myrtle Beach where you can walk around,” said Burke. “There is a lot to do. I also enjoy shopping there, specifically in the bookstores.”

If you or your friends want a break from the beach, but still want to be in the beautiful South Carolina weather, check out Broadway at the Beach. Take a swing at some putt-putt at the Dragon’s Lair Fun Golf course. Test your limits at Broadway’s WonderWorks by being on a bed of 3,500 nails, designing, and riding a 360 degree virtual roller coaster, or competing in a game of laser tag. The vast variety of restaurants will please even the pickiest eaters.

Robert Robinson, a Coastal Carolina freshman, enjoys the atmosphere of Broadway at the Beach. “I love the beach and there were cool performers everywhere,” said Robinson. “The small shops everywhere were cool too.”

If you are looking for a stress free environment to let yourself go and have some fun then go to Broadway at the Beach.

Brookgreen Gardens is one of the most beautiful and popular attractions correlated with South Carolina.

If you are willing to make the drive to Murrells Inlet, Brookgreen will make it worth it. With sculptures and gardens to admire, any one with an artistic eye will enjoy learning the history behind the giant sculptures that have occupied these gardens for hundreds of years.

After taking in the cultural side, you can take a tour around the animal sanctuaries. You can watch the animals such as felines, ostrich, and alligators being fed while learning about how they survive in the wild compared to how they live in captivity.

Brookgreen Gardens has a restaurant within the park where you can escape the heat and have a delicious meal while overlooking the beautiful gardens before hitting the gift shop.

Tickets for children ages 4-12 are $7, adult tickets are $14, and tickets for senior citizens of 65 years or older are $9. Discounted tickets can be found online and are valid for seven consecutive days after the first use.

Between the beach, the local attractions, and the variety of restaurants on the Grand Strand, you can ensure that there is never a dull moment. No matter what your interests are, Myrtle Beach has it all.
Become ‘actively’ involved in intramurals

If you and your friends are already looking for something to do instead of the usual routine, Fall II intramural sports are right around the corner. If you and your friends are already looking for something to do instead of the usual routine, Fall II intramural sports are right around the corner. All you need to sign up is a group of friends and a decided sport. These teams have scheduled games, playoffs, and championships like any other sport, but does not require you to try out.
The intramural program on our campus was designed to offer opportunities for students to come together and take part in a sport, regardless of skill level. The Assistant Director of Campus Recreation and Intramural Sports, Jake Rosiek, said there are a few things students should know when playing intramural sports. “You should read individual sport rules, because the rules are different from when you played in high school,” said Rosiek. “Also, it is encouraged that everyone creates a roster before signing up.”

If you do not have a team, do not worry. You can still sign up and will be placed on a team in your desired sport.
Fall I sports have already begun, but there are still a few open spaces. Fall I sports consist of Flag Football, Sand Volleyball, Ping Pong, and Whiffle ball. If those do not peak your interest, Fall II registration begins September 15, and ends October 15.
The sports offered are Soccer, Indoor Volleyball, three on three Basketball, and Floor Hockey. All sports have their own set of rules, and their own requirements.
Soccer requires at least seven people to play, but your team can have up to 15 members total. Indoor Volleyball requires six to play, but your roster must max out at 13. Basketball teams need at least three people to play, and seven maximum. Floor Hockey requires five people to play, and a maximum.
There are five divisions you can sign up for. They are recreational, competitive, pro, co-ed, and Greek. Recreational is for those students who are new to the sport and want to focus on having fun. Competitive is for the moderate skill level student, who is invested in becoming a champion, and playing hard. Pro is for the student who is highly skilled. This is the most intensive division, for those who are concentrated on winning. Co-ed is similar to the competitive division, but you must play with an equal number of both males and females. Greek is the division exclusively for those in Fraternities and Sororities. For this division, you must play using your chapter’s official Greek name and with the greek members of your organization.
You can register for intramural sports on the Coastal Carolina Universities website. Participation is not free. There is a small fee required before you can take part in this opportunity.

Be a man
Football is not life, it is a game.

Falencia Crace
REPORTER

Be A Man is the phrase to live by for the Coastal Carolina University football team.

Joe Moglia, the head coach and executive director for the football team, makes a lifetime impact on his players and everyone he comes in contact with.

Moglia was the CEO of TD Ameritrade. After being in the business world for two years, Moglia started to desire something more.

Moglia left the business world and took an unpaid coaching position at the University of Nebraska, before he was named the head football coach at Coastal Carolina University in 2010.

Be A Man, also known as BAM, not only applies to the Coastal football players, but to Moglia's three daughters as well.

"The Be A Man concept has nothing to do with being a male," said Moglia. "It can be applied to females as well. It is about standing on your own two feet, treating people with dignity, respect, and taking responsibility for yourself."

Moglia's BAM philosophy is about living with the consequences of your actions. He developed the BAM philosophy when he was a high school football coach.

When he transferred to the business world he adapted the same philosophy as he moved up to a manager position. He looks to BAM to be a philosophy about leadership as well.

"With being in both the business world and the football world for many years, I believe in this with all that I know," said Moglia. "At first I thought the philosophy to be true, now I know it to be true."

Moglia starts instilling the BAM philosophy to each player and their parents at the recruiting process.

"Coastal Carolina University is one of the only football programs in the country that does not have any rules," said Moglia. "We have a standard. In that you stand on your own two feet and you take responsibility for yourself."

Moglia said he wants his players to have the type of character that causes them to be as passionate about the BAM philosophy as he is.

"There working career is going to follow their playing career," said Moglia. "Football is not life, it is a game. The emphasis for us is the life after football aspect. If we get the life aspect right, the football aspect will follow."

Moglia highlighted the three pieces in the football program that set Coastal Carolina apart from the rest.

"It is important for you to be able to sit in the stands and say I am always a fan for football. I am proud of what they represent," said Moglia. "This second piece is we have no rules, we have one standard, BAM. The final piece is we have a great college football program that prepares the players for life after football. These three pieces is what sets the program and the players a part from any other program in the country."

The mission of the program is to get a team on field that anyone connected with Coastal Carolina University is going to be proud of. For Moglia, it is all about helping and inspiring others.

"For me, it gives me the greatest satisfaction," said Moglia. "When I have the ability to help others, when I hear that my philosophy, my speedster, or leadership has touched a person is what allows me to know that I have made a difference with my BAM philosophy."

The Grumpy Monk is a restaurant that is sure to leave a smile on your face. The owner is a former Coastal Alumni who offers a 10 percent discount for Coastal students with their CIGNA card. The prices are great especially if you come during happy hour.

Despite the misplaced ending, there are great actors, raunchy jokes, and catchy lyrics. "I'm a boy from the hood, but I'm not a thug," this popular R&B song released in 1994. This is the perfect song to accompany a romantic dinner night with your date.

Staten Island forever had me rolling in the first five minutes. If a film has you smiling or laughing in the first five minutes, you know it is a good film.

This song gained its popularity after debuting on the soundtrack for the 1995 film, "Dangerous Minds." It is a hard hitting hip-hop track that expresses feelings of despair, and harshness that directly reflects how the students felt in the film. One of the most well known hip-hop songs of the 1990s and is still played on the radio today.
